THAT COFFEE MACHINE

"I have not yet told you about our coffee machine," wrote the young matron to her best girl friend. "We had long anticipated its purchase. Pennies had been saved for the purpose and even coffeeless breakfasts endured for the ultimate joy of its possession. The beverage tasted ambrosial when made in a friend's machine where we had visited; but our experience is a solemn warning that the ownership of one is not without trials.

"We proudly selected ours from a host of them in a department store, choosing one whose top was particularly indicative of an open and simple disposition, while at the same time its legs were sturdy. But, oh, the guile beneath that placid front!

"That coffee machine came into our lives on a Friday evening, where, in the gloom of our cellar, its many wrappings were removed and its coppery form brought joyfully to the light. We loved it at first, and I slept lightly, dreaming fond dreams of the morning cup it was to yield for our refreshment.

"I rose at 6:30 to cajole it into performing, but I found art to be long and time fleeting, and the inexorable eight o'clock train refused to wait either for my husband or my percolator. So a hasty, watery cup was administered to the former, mingled with the domestic joys that usually accompany the commuter's breakfast.

"That ordeal over, I settled down to the fondling of my new pet, dishes unwashed, beds unmade, the family neglected, the day's orders ignored. First came its bath, then certain manicurings and polishings of corners. Then came its breakfast of alcohol, of which it seemed to demand a large quantity. A friend was expected for luncheon, and her envy was to be stirred by our recent acquisition.

"At 11 o'clock I was aroused from my absorbing task to the realization that woman does not live on coffee alone, and the scramble of preparation began and continued until one o'clock. A flurried hostess greeted the friend, but my persuasive powers had caused the coffee machine to lift up its voice and merrily it sung as we sat down to the table. The yield of coffee was clear, amber, fragrant and strong, but I got not a taste of it, as there proved to be but one small cup within the percolator's depths.

Still, there was hope of better things on Sunday morning, when there would be leisure and a calm mind for the interview. I looked forward to the treat I should give my family when the day of rest arrived. But, having formerly depended on my trusty gas stove, I forgot that percolators demand food, and Saturday evening, all too late, I realized that I had no alcohol. The rest of the evening was passed in weary telephoning to all the neighbors, but the district had certainly gone dry, for no persuasion would yield a drop.

"As I was going to bed, however, I had an inspiration. Coffee we must have from that coffee machine. I knew James would never get up and go to the drug store before breakfast for alcohol alone, and I hadn't the energy to do it myself. But the happy thought came to go early to church, with alcohol as an ulterior motive in the background. This scheme worked well, except that I was cross when James woke me. But we went to church, and afterward James marched cheerfully to the drug store with his empty bottle, while I went home to get the dear but somewhat exacting percolator ready against his return.

"He came. I received him with abnormal enthusiasm, seized the bottle, filled the percolator and hopefully tried to light the wick. No results. I tried nearly a box of matches. I finally decided to look at the bottle of alcohol. What do you suppose James had brought me? A bottle of witch hazel, taken from the counter by mistake!

Then followed mad rushings to the telephone and speed on the part of the drug clerk, but we again made our coffee on the gas range, the alcohol not arriving on time.

"We plucked up courage and tried afresh at dinner, the lamp being placated with real alcohol this time. Another box of matches was sacrificed on the altar of that coffee machine! No light and no coffee. After dinner came another period of devoted attention to the machine, which threatened to absorb hope, destroy family affection and crush ambition. At eight o'clock tonight the lamp, inverted, is still being dried over the register to give the wick relief from its overdose of witch hazel.

"Good night, my dear. Think long before you buy a percolator. I go to bed with the fervent hope that I shall be stronger in the morning, braver, better able to cope with the machinery of existence. Perhaps my trials are a judgment on me for going to church in what you might call an alcoholic mood."

Conversation.

"Conversation is the universal accomplishment which all must practise, and as those who fail signally to attain it are punished by the dislike or neglect of society, so those who succeed beyond the average receive a just reward, not only in the constant pleasure they reap from it, but in the esteem which they gain from their fellows. Many men and many women owe the whole of a great success in life to this and nothing else"—Mahaffy.

Dinner of Officers and Teachers Including Home Department.

BANQUET, MUSIC AND SPEECH.

Adult Bible Class to be Increased—Devotion to the Cause—Rev. Dr. Herring and Others Speak.

The officers and teachers together with the members of the ad lt Bible class and home department of the First Presbyterian church met for a banquet and social time last night and incidentally to discuss questions appertaining to the development of the home department as well as the Bible study class. Speeches were made by Rev. Lewis C. Bond, F. O. Dunnin , H. Gates, superintendent of th Sunday school; L. A. Hummer and B. Hill. G. P. Hinman was an admirable toastmaster. Mrs. S. H. Tugwell rendered several vocal solos, to which encore were demanded and graciously given and Robert Murray sang a Gaelic song besides entertaining the gathering of 110 people with selections on the phonograph. Clifford A. Braider, accompanied Mrs. Tugwell on the piano.

Mr. Hinman in introducing Rev. Mr. Bond said that here was a man who actually filled two positions, but had the distinction of not getting any salary at all, in contra distinction to some of our city officials. Mr. Bond gave an interesting history of the work of the home department of which he is superintendent. The membership has increased from 39 to 145, of which 42 are men. Mr. Bond is also superintendent of the Italian mission, the pastor of which was expected to be on hand to tell of the work. Owing to his absence the topic was not discussed. Those who assist in that department are Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, Mrs. Fred C. Lounsbery, Mrs. William Manning, Mrs. J. Burroughs and Mrs. Howard Martin. Mr. Bond said the home department was part of the Sunday school proper and as such was a part of the church. The home department is for the study of the Scriptures and is carried on just as vigorously as in the Sunday school.

Mr. Dunning, speaking of the adult Bible class, said that there are now forty members in the class and that there was room for many more. The teachers are recruited from this class and the more members there are the better. He urged the members of the home department to join as it would be a help to them in their work.

Mr. Gates and Dr. Herring talked upon the subject of Bible study and the necessity for the training of teachers in that particular work so that their usefulness could be increased. Mr. Hill talked about "a has been," or the one who has been identified with the work for years and give some interesting experiences.

COURT PLAINFIELD PLANS FOR BANQUET AND ENTERTAINMENT

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order Foresters, at its meeting last night, decided to have a collation and entertainment on Friday night, November 11, the committee in charge being John R. Cline, chairman; Fredereick Breem, Louis Feiring, James T. McCarty and John F. Casey. Three applications for members were received and one candidate initiated. Two new members were elected.

The final report from the finance committee for the past six months was accepted and the assets of the Court were found to be about $4,000. The membership of the Court is now 490 and the members are working hard to make it 500 by January 1 next.

SUES FOR ABSOLUTE DIVORCE ON DESERTION CHARGE.

Mrs. Alice Peel, of Washington street, has applied through her counsel, Francis J. Blatz, for an absolute divorce from her husband, William Peel, who is now somewhere in Pennsylvania. The ground for the application is desertion and failure to support.

The couple were married in St. Luke's church Dublin, Ireland, many years ago, and Peel left his wife about seven years ago and she has not seen him since.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kline, of 186 Somerset street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith May Kline, to John R. Fritts, of West Fifth street.

Miss Clyde Burnet Will Speak.

Miss Clyde B. Burnet will speak at the Plainfield Rescue Mission tomorrow night, at 7:45 o'clock. There will be good music and the public is invited.

RECOVERS FOR FAILURE TO DELIVER AN ORDER

After securing a compromise verdict once and having it set aside as inadequate by the Supreme Court, George Voehl, formerly a baker in this city, recovered the entire amount with interest for which he had sued Smith & Morehouse, of Newark, on a contract for 1,000 barrels of flour. The amount claimed by Mr. Voehl was $460, being the difference in price on 400 barrels, which the selling firm failed to deliver owing to a rise in price of $1.15 per barrel. Francis J. Blatz represented Mr. Voehl at the trial before Judge Vail in the county court in Elizabeth, yesterday.

According to the evidence submitted by Mr. Voehl, he had made a contract with the flour firm for the delivery of the thousand barrels of flour at a certain price, but at the time of signing the contract no time limit was set for the delivery. The evidence showed that the firm had made deliveries in January, April and June, 1907, although they claimed that there was a time limit of ninety days. The jury gave a verdict for the full amount, with interest added, bringing the total up to $552.

TEMPLE BAPTIST WOMEN GIVE AN ENTERTAINMENT

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Temple Baptist church, a social and entertainment was held at the church, last night, the affair being largely attended by members and friends. A feature of the program was selections by the Temple Quartet, comprising W. A. Conger, organ; Dr. J. F. Berg, 'cello; Arthur Mosher, violin; Elmer E. Wheeler, flute. This program was followed:

Piano duet, Miss Verna Stewart and Miss Alice Smith; vocal solo, Mrs. Charles Quint; recitation, Miss Grace Baker; piano solo, Mrs. William Crow; vocal duet, the Misses Mattie and Christine Viebrock; selection, Temple Quartet; vocal solo, Mrs. Charles Quint; vocal solo, Miss Mattie Viebrock; piano duet, Miss Marie Viebrock and Mrs. William Crow.

During the evening there were remarks by Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor, and L. W. Randolph, superintendent of the Sunday school. A business session was held, when Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, treasurer, presented her report. This showed expeditures of $561.74 for the year, with a balance on hand of $33.95. There is $12 in the missionary fund. Mrs. A. Pierson, secretary, reported that eleven new members were added during the year. These are the officers of the society:

President, Mrs. J. W. Musson; secretary, Mrs. Albert Pierson; treasurer, Mrs. Valentine Utzinger; missionary treasurer, Mrs. Charles Griffin.

Colored Democracy.

At the rooms of the West End Democratic Club last night the Colored Democratic Club, of Union County was organized. It was instituted by Louis S. Johnson, State organizer. Thirty-two men signed the charter roll and these officers were elected: Robert H. Diggs, president; Sand Harvey, vice-president; James Harvey, recording secretary; Howard Groves, treasurer; James Cluff, sergeant-at-arms. After the installing of the officers the members enjoyed singing, dancing, speeches and refreshments. The club will meet every Wednesday night at the West End Democratic Club rooms.

Elected as Class Officers.

John D. Ferguson, of this city, has been elected historian of the senior class at Rutgers; William G. Hermann, of this city, has been elected a member of the student self-government board, and George Stanley Robins, also of this city, has been elected secretary of the sophomore class. The undergraduate enrollment this year is as follows: Seniors, 59; Juniors, 68; Sophoomres, 92; Freshmen, 120. The number of applications for admission to the freshmen class this year was greater than ever. Baron Mitsui, of Japan, a former student, visited the college this week.

Music for Patrolmen's Ball.

Owing to the retirement of Benjamin Lavere from the leadership of his orchestra the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association has concluded a contract with L. R. Anderson, a musical director, of Newark, to furnish the music for the annual ball. From the Snyder agency Billy Redmond and Billy Collins, two well known entertainers, have been secured for the same event. Badges for the committee and others are expected next week. The ticket committee reports a big sale of tickets.

HOW TO KNOW OUR BOYS

Lecture by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains at Y. M. C. A.

PROFESSION OF MOTHERHOOD.

The Task a Divine One—The Boys' Inalienable Rights—The Duties of Mothers.

Nearly one hundred mothers listened attentively to an interesting and illuminating lecture on "The Profession of Motherhood" given by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, in Y. M. C. A. hall yesterday afternon. This lecture was the first of a series of nine to be given by Mr. Mathiews to mothers of boys on the general subject "How to Know our Boys." The subject of the lecture to be given next Friday afternoon will be "How to Secure Obedience?"

Mr. Mathiews said, among other things, that the twentieth century woman's advance to a position of intellectual equality with man has not changed her sphere. She is still the housekeeper and the home-builder. But so much of new knowledge, of domestic science on the one hand and of the nature and nurture of the child on the other, is now available for her that motherhood is fairly to be termed a new profession.

The speaker said that "it is the duty of woman to emphasize children's rather than women's rights. A child's inalienable rights are three: The right to be loved, the right to patiently dealt with and the right to be understood. The humble, child-like attitude of mind qualifying, according to Huxley, for entrance to the kingdom of science, must be that of the mother toward the child if she would enter the kingdom of childhood.

Mr. Mathiews warned mothers against what Paterson Dubois has called "the sin of adultism," in dealing with children, the evil of which lies in ascribing the vices of the adult to the growing child. He quoted Goethe, in this connection, as saying that in every fault of the child is enclosed an uncorrupted germ capable of good. "This," he said, "is a statement of a fundamental educational truth. Every child is possessed of capacities which must be developed into capabilities. Just as in the public school the teacher assumes that the child is capable of intellectual development so in the home the mother must take it for granted that the child is capable of moral and religious growth. The problem of moral and religious training, he stated to be that of throwing around the child such an environment that the child will be constantly tempted to be good.

Continuing, Mr. Mathiews said that "the proper conception of motherhood is that it is a divine task appointed of God, that we learn to love, to be patient, learn self-control as we attempt to teach these virtues to our children." The object of the lectures, Mr. Mathiews stated very strikingly, is to be similar to that which inspired certain graduates of Yale to erect a tablet to a class-mate who gave his life for his country. The inscription on the tablet reads "This tablet is erected for the strengthening of hearts." That the mothers present might be heartened for their tremendous task," he declared to be the purpose of the addresses and discussions which follow.

He announced during the open discussion which followed that Miss Bowman the librarian, of the Public Library, has prepared a list of all the books in the library dealing with the subject and that these books are now available. The next lecture will be given next Friday afternoon.

Park Avenue Societies Elect.

The Junior and Intermediate societies of the Park avenue Baptist church met yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Wheaton Lowry, on Sherman avenue, and held their annual business meeting, followed by a social time. The following were elected to serve for the coming year: President, Ernestine Wilson, vice-president, Emily Van Winkle; secretary, Clara Hadley; treasurer, Irene Moy.

Judge Runyon to Open Fair.

The general committee in charge of the Hope chapel industrial fair to be given on October 26, 27 and 28, will hold a meeting Monday night to complete all arrangements. The preliminary work is moving along satisfactorily and the committee promises many surprises. Judge Runyon has consented to be present on the initial night and make the opening address.

J. A. Wilson, of Grove street, has gone to Philadelphia for a brief stay.

TO SENTENCE CHESHIRE FOR ALLEGED BURGLARY

In the county court yesterday, before Judge Atwater, Clarence Cheshire, who was arrested here in June together with George Francis and Raymond Latourette for alleged burglary, pleaded non vult to six indictments found against him and not guilty to a seventh charge. He will be sentenced on November 2.

Both Francis and Latourette pleaded not guilty to two indictments each and their cases were set down for trial on October 28. At the time of their arrest the young men were accused of breaking into several stores on West Front street, including Rowley's drug store, Miss Stephenson's art store at 251 West Front street and the Eastern Bottling Works establishment at the corner of West Second and Central avenue.

Latourette and Francis are being defended by William G. DeMeza, while V. W. Nash, Jr., looked after the interests of Cheshire.

TONE OVERTON HURT IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Tone Overton, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Overton, of the borough, a student at Rutgers College and a member of the 'varsity football team there, was slightly injured Thursday night in an automobile accident while returning to New Brunswick from this city. Mr. Overton with several other students including John Morrison, of Richfield Park; Howe Halstead, of New Brunswick, and Willis Earle Rochford, of Trenton, was riding in William Carpender's car, which he was driving.

The young men had been here and were returning to the college by the way of Mettlar's lane, New Brunswick. They were rounding a curve on which there was some new crushed stone, which caused the wheels of the auto to suddenly turn under the car.

Carpender, who is a careful driver, applied the emergency brake, but it refused to work and the car skidded and turned turtle, throwing the occupants out and pinning them beneath the auto. The boys were badly bruised and shaken up, but no bones were broken, except in the case of Carpender, whose nose was fractured. Rochford had a sprained wrist. As a result of the accident, Overton will be kept out of the football games for a time. He will be missed greatly, as he is considered one of the strongest men on the eleven.

COLORED REPUBLICANS RALLY ON MONDAY NIGHT

The colored Republicans of Plainfield and vicinity will hold a big mass meeting in Reform Hall, Monday night, when addresses will be made by prominent colored men, including former Congressman George H. White, of Mississippi; Rev. Dr. A. Mark Harris, secretary of the Baptist Union of the United States, and Rev. Dr. Charles S. Morris, son-in-law of the late Frederick Douglas.

Rev. J. T. Diggs, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, will preside, with Dr. James F. Lawson, of this city, secretary. Good music will be furnished by the Excelsior Band, and seats will be reserved for women. The committee in charge of the meeting comprises Dr. James F. Lawson, Charles Irby, William Kline, William Mayhew and E. B. Maynard. The speakers engaged are all well known and they will present the issues of the campaign in a clear and interesting manner.

Dutch Arms to Meet.

The Dutch Arms men's association, of Trinity Reformed church, has planned an attractive program for its first fall meeting on Friday evening, October 21, when a high-class musical and literary entertainment will be followed by a "Real Dutch Supper." Each member of the association is urged to attend and bring another fellow with him.

Funeral of C. S. Mehlenbeck.

The funeral service of Charles S. Mehlenbeck, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mehlenbeck, will be held at the residence of the parents, 645 East Sixth street, tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. The burial will be at Somerville.

J. A. Smith a Candidate.

J. A. Smith, of the grocery firm of J. A. Smith & Bro., of this city, is a candidate on the Democratic ticket for membership of the township committee in what is known as the River Road District, of Bound Brook, where he resides.

MRS. HONEYMAN HONORED

Elected President of the Women's Synodical Society for 25th Time.

RECEIVES GREAT OVATION.

Inspiring Sight When the Members Give Chautauqua Salute—She Makes a Helpful Address.

For the twenty-fifth time, Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, of this city, was elected president of the Women's Synodical Society of Home Missions in the Synod of New Jersey at its thirty-third annual meeting Thursday afternoon in the Second Presbyterian church, Elizabeth. The Chautauqua salute, the waving of handkerchiefs, was given her, led by Mrs. J. H. Owens, of Paterson. It was all a surprise to her and she just managed to say a few words of thanks to the delegates. It was an inspiring sight. Many sincere tributes were paid the president during the meeting. Exultant smiles sperad over the features of the women when she announced that the last thing her husband told her as she left home for this meeting was to hand in her resignation. Instead of that she accepted another nomination.

Representatives were present from every Presbyterian society in the State and the enthusiasm was marked. The next annual meeting will be held in Haddonfield. The committee on next place of meeting recommended this place and the report was accepted, viva voce, unanimously.

The speakers of the afternoon were President Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, Mrs. Delos E. Finks, editor of the Home Mission Monthly; the Rev. Edgar Whitaker Work, New York. Mrs. Honeyman, in opening her address, paid a tribute to the contributions of the Jersey City Presbyterian Society which were exceptionally generous last year. "We must make out best bow to Jersey City," she said. She declared the falling off of gifts in other societies and emphasized the necessity for regular pledge work.

In speaking on her subject "Our Opportunity" she treated "opportunity" as "an open door of privilege." Every opportunity was but a chance to do something to further the cause. She touched upon the work among the Italians and complimented the society on its increase in membership. The corresponding secretary reported an increase in membership this year of 2,500.

Mrs. Honeyman is one of the most zealous church workers in this community. She has been the most active worker at Warren chapel for years.

PLAINFIELD TRUST CO. MAKES AN ANNOUNCEMENT.

With the desire of keeping in close contact with the customers of this institution and of being within easy access of anyone having business to transact, the officers of The Plainfield Trust Company have moved their desks outside of the banking room partition where they will be glad to consult with their patrons at any time.

The new arrangement also facilitates the transaction of the Company's constantly increasing business by providing more ample accommodation for the office staff.

Mr. Saunders Lecture.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, will speak in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium, Tuesday evening, October 18, at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, on the subject: "Right and Strength in Equal Suffrage." Mr. Saunders is president of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, and is vice-president of the American Society of Mining Engineers and a member of the welfare committee of the Civic Federation of New York city. Last spring he became a member of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, under whose auspices his lecture will be given.

Will Consider "The Boy."

Mrs. James W. DeGraff, of 966 Central avenue, has issued invitations to a tea to be held at her home Wednesday afternoon, October 19, at 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. William F. Bailey, of Summit, will speak on "The Boy," and the interests of the boys of Plainfield will be presented by C. William Bingeman, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Approaching Wedding.

Invitations have been issued to the wedding of Miss Nellie Galvin, of Raritan, and Frederick F. Nolan, of this city. The ceremony will take place in St. Bernard's church, Raritan, October 19. The reception will be held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George Leibold, Raritan.

W. W. WARNOCK BUYS BUSINESS PROPERTY

A real estate deal of considerable importance in the business district was consummated yesterday when W. W. Warnock, the West Front street confectioner, purchased the building at Park and North avenues known for many years as the Taylor property. It was secured from Weolston and Buckle, who have been the owners for the past year and who recently put the structure in first class shape. The consideration in yesterday's sale has not been made known, but it is understood to be in conformity with the prevailing high price of business properties.

The building is a three-story brick structure with two stores on the ground floor. One of them is occupied at present by Moore and Scheelein, while Mr. Warnock will occupy the corner one himself some time in the future. The top floor is to be used by the Monarch Printing Company as a press and storage room while it has also leased offices on the Park avenue side of the second floor. The Democratic Club is a tenant at the present time.

Mr. Warnock has been engaged in business locally for the past fourteen years and has been at his present location since 1900. The sale of the building and the desire of the purchaser to use it himself are responsible for Mr. Warnock's contemplated removal. His present lease expires next April.

The Taylor property has changed hands four times in five years.

SPECIAL MUSICAL SERVICES AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Special music will be a feature at both services in the First Presbyterian church, tomorrow. At the morning service the quartet will render the following from Gaul's "Holy City": Tenor solo, "To the Lord Our God Belong Mercies;" quartet, "The Fining Ppt is for Silver;" "They that Sow in Tears Shall Reap in Joy;" "God so Loved the World."

The evening service will be a psalm and hymn service in which both the choir and congregation will take part. The pastor, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, will speak on the various hymns which are to be sung, and they will include "The Ninety-and-Nine;" "O, Love that Will not Let me Go;" "The Son of God Goes Forth to War;" "The Lord is My Shepherd." The pastor's theme in the morning will be "I," and in the evening, "Psalms and Hymns."

Stock Co. Gives Fine Performance.

The permanent stock company gave a fine performance of " The Lion and the Mouse" at The Plainfield theatre last night, before an audience that almost filled the popular playhouse. Miss Diehl, Harold Mead, Farrell McKnight and Miss Eleanor Woodruff divided the honors and the support left nothing to be desired. There were frequent curtain calls throughout the performance, and altogether the play was a success. It will be repeated this afternoon and evening.

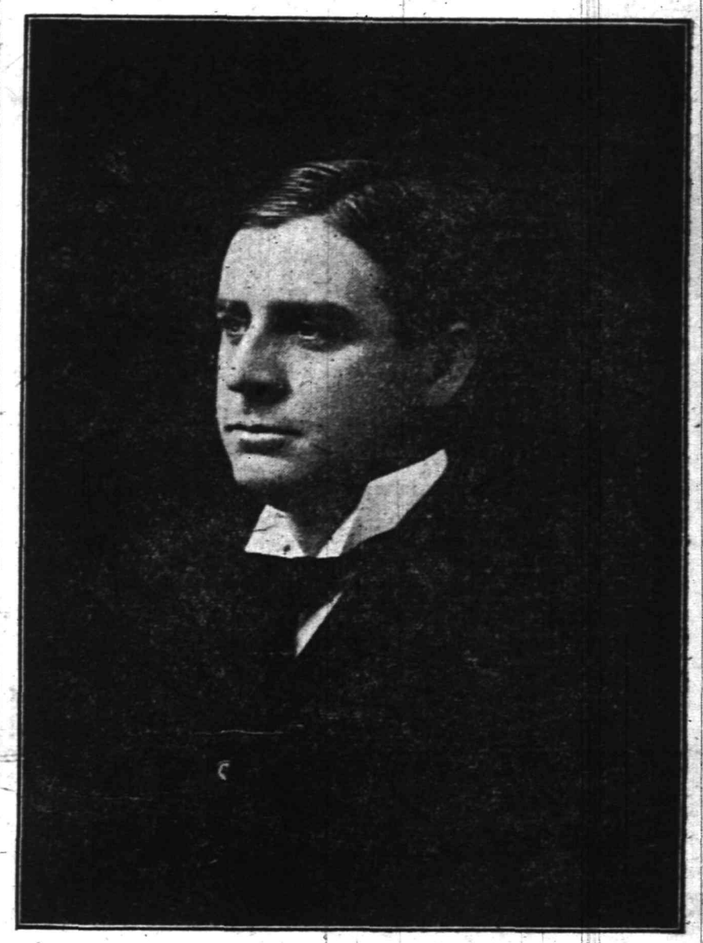
MR. LEWIS HERE TONIGHT

All Voters are Invited to Hear Republican Gubernatorial Nominee.

AT REFORM HALL RALLY.

Judge Runyon and Dr. John D. Prince Also to Speak—Craig A. Marsh to be the Chairman.

The Republican City Committee extends an invitation to every voter, irrespective of party affiliation, to hear Vivian M. Lewis, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, discuss the campaign issues at Reform hall tonight. All who are open to conviction, as well as all who have decided to vote for his opponent, Dr. Woodrow Wilson, are especially requested to listen to what the G. O. P. nominee has to say for himself and his party.



Vivian M. Lewis.

Those who attend will be disappointed if they expect to hear any personal attack on Mr. Wilson, for Mr. Lewis is waging a clean campaign and has nothing ungenerous to say as to his gifted opponent. It is not the man but the party, or rather, the Smith-Harvey-Nugent machine, that the Republican speakers are dwelling upon. It was the same old 'Jim' Smith, of Democratic rule of unpleasant memory, who accompished the nomination of Dr. Wilson, hoping through his candidacy to have a Democratic legislature that will send him, a Democrat, to Washington as a United States senator to represent a Republican State.

Dr. John D. Prince, the scholarly former speaker of the Assembly, who is now a professor of Columbia University, will speak, as will also Judge William N. Runyon, of this city, the congressional nominee. This trio of entertaining talkers will make short addresses on the issues. A brass band will furnish the music at the meeting after it parades through the streets. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh will act as chairman. No seats are reserved, and as the hall will be crowded those who go early will get the choice seats. An invitation is extended to the women.

Wrought Leather Display.

Invitations have been issued for an exhibition of hand wrought leather goods by Miss Minnie B. Serrell, of 931 Union street, for Friday, October 21, and Saturday, October 22, from 3 until 6 o'clock. Miss Serrell held her first exhibit two years ago at her home and since then she has held exhibitions in New York, Milwaukee and Chicago.

Echoes of C. E. Convention.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Musson, who attended the recent State Christian Endeavor convention, will give echoes of that convention at the Endeavor meeting of the Temple Baptist church tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Like This in Plainfield.

Scores of Plainfield people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

Robert Love 44 Duer St., Plainfield, N. J., says: "For eight or nine years I was a victim of kidney complaint. Every cold I contracted settled in my kidneys and caused my back to ache severely. Any heavy lifting of much standing gave me additional pain. In the morning upon arising, my back was very lame and this did not disappear until I exercised for some time. I doctored and used several so-called kidney cures, but it was only a waste of money. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in the newspapers, I procured a box at Randolph's Pharmacy and began their use. When I had taken about half the contents of the box my condition was greatly improved and before long the pain left me entirely. I will always stand ready to speak a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

GEORGE L. RECORD WILL WRITE WILSON

George L. Record will accept Woodrow Wilson's revised challenge, as declared in the latter's answer to Mr. Record's original proposition to debate the issues of the campaign with any New Jersey politician, and is now preparing a series of question to be submitted by letter to the Democratic candidate.

As Mr. Wilson will not return to Princeton until the end of the week, he will not be able to reply to Mr. Record's interrogations before next week.

"We want to know the position of Dr. Wilson without any equivocation," said Mr. Record. "From his speeches thus far we are unable to ascertain where he stands on the regulation of public utility corporations, or direct primaries, or any of the other important questons. We also want him to tell us just where he stands with reference to the old band of Democratic bosses that nominated him and who are now managing the campaign."

Asked if he was likely to discuss with Dr. Wilson the record of the last Democratic House of Assembly, which resulted in so many fiascos, Mr. Record said that he expected to ask some pointed questions on that subject. And so, while Dr. Wilson has declined to get on the platform in debate with the Progressive leader, there is likely to be some mighty interesting developmnts come out of it all.

MISS ELFRETH HEAD OF N. J. W. C. T. U.

With her voice hushed in the sobbing of more than 300 women, Mrs. Mary Copeland, of Union Hill, a delegate to the annual convention of the State W. C. T. U., in session in the First Presbyterian church, prayed yesterday morning that Providence would guide the convention in its choice of a president to succeed Mrs. Emma Bourne, of Newark. Mrs. Bourne has served the organization for the last nineteen years, and refused to accept the office for another term.

Following Mrs. Copeland's prayer the 328 delegates cast a secret vote for president and Miss E. H. Elfreth of Haddonfield, was elected on the first elective ballot. She received 202 votes, the balance being scattered among the following nominees: Mrs. May P. Spanks, of Bridgeton; Mrs. I. H. Demarest, of Closter; Dr. Eva M. Lake, of Arlington; Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, of Plainfield; Mrs. Eva Gebhard, of Clinton; Mrs. M. C. Campfield, Mrs. M. S. Holmes and Mrs. M. L. Johnson, all of Newark.

Just prior to the election, Mrs. Demarest presented Mrs. Bourne with a diamond ring, as a gift from the State union. As she placed the ring on Mrs. Bourne's finger she quoted that part of the marriage service that reads "Whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder," inferring, she explained, that the tie between Mrs. Bourne and the women of New Jersey was so strong that it could never be sundered.

Mrs. Bourne was also presented with a seal leather reticule and a gift of money from the women of Closter.

Mrs. Frances W. Graham, musical director of the National Union, in opening her "Musical Temperance Lecture last night, said:

"I am an optimist, singing an optimist's song—'The Coming Day.'"

Continuing, Mrs. Graham spoke of the gains of the year, and asked "Why should we not be optimists?" Her talk was interspersed with many songs, closing with "Victory."

The church was filled with delegates and their friends. The lecture was preceded by a song service, led by Dr. H. L. Gilmore.

Gains made in the cause of prohibition in the United States formed the subject of statistics read by Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis, superintendent of legislation of the National W. C. T. U., at the session yesterday afternoon. Saloons to the number of 13,000 have been closed in the last two years, Mrs. Ellis pointed out, and 41,000,000 people are living under prohibitory laws.

At the close of Mrs. Ellis' address Mrs. Bourne, the State president, spoke of Mrs. Ellis' works in Washington, where she keeps an eye on proposed legislation.

More than four hundred delegates and visitors attended the session, which was largely devoted to the reading of the reports of the various department. The committee on anti-narcotics told of great activity in the work among boys. In the interest of Christian citizenship it was reported that $1,104.48 had been spent by the union.

Large gains in the Sunday-school branch, particularly in this county, were described. Further reports had to do with evangelistic work for purity in literature and art, the Loyola Temperance Legions and the department of organization.

Mrs. Florence Graham, of Lockport, N. Y., was introduced and warmly greeted. She extended the good wishes of the New York union to the delegates.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Arrangements are completed for the second of the Bachelors' Club fall dances, which will be held Tuesday night in the hall. Many out of town guests will be present and a good time is anticipated.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.; morning preaching at 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting at 7 p. m.

Mrs. William D. Johnston and family, who have been spending the summer at their cottage at Ocean Grove, have returned home.

The weekly prayer and praise service tonight at the Methodist church will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hollingshead.

Mrs. Fred Clauson, of Front street, has returned from a visit with relatives and friends at Stelton.

Miss Eloise Goodwin, of Stanbury avenue, has returned from a visit with out of town friends.

Miss Florence Wade is making an extended visit with relatives in Pennsylvania.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

It is reported that the Piscataway township authorities have offered a reward of $50 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the miscreant who poured kerosene on the stock and fixtures of Charles S. Day's meat market. This has been augmented by an additional reward of $25 personally offered by Mr. Day. So far there is no definite clue, but a close watch is being kept on one suspect. Mr. Day was compelled to put in new fixtures before he could resume business.

The dance of the Dunellen Baseball Club in Junior Hall, last night, was well attended by the young people of Dunellen, New Market and vicinity. Squire's orchestra, of Plainfield, furnished the music. Charles McAdams was in general charge of the arrangements.

Postamster Garretson is still confined to his bed by illness, although at times through the week he has showed improvement. Mrs. Garretson was also quite ill Thursday.

Rev. Ernest R. Brown has been appointed delegate to the Presbytery meeting at Lakewood next week. Another delegate is to be appointed tomorrow.

Benjamin Cole, the young son of captain and Mrs. Cole, of Washington avenue, has gone to Philadelphia to visit his sister, Mrs. George E. Firstbrook.

The A. O. H. held a successful euchre last night. The affair was well attended.

JESUITS' WORK PRAISED BY SECRETARY DICKINSON.

According to information received at Washington Secretary of War Dickinson, who recently visited the Philippine Islands on his round-the-world trip, highly commended the work being done by the Jesuit Fathers at the Manila Observatory. He expressed his own appreciation and that of his government of the services of these men, who gave up their Spanish citizenship to serve the United States as its official weather forecasters in the Philippines. At the time of American assumption of the reins of government there the Jesuit Fathers were the only men in the islands capable of carrying on scientific weather investigations.

The seismographical observatory at Georgetown University, conducted by Jesuits in Washington, frequently makes public reports of earthquakes in various parts of the world long before the government weather bureau.

ELIZABETH POPULATION REACHES 73,409 MARK.

The census office yesterday announced the 1910 enumeration for Elizabeth, N. J., at 73,409; increase, 21,279, or 40.8 per cent.

The census in 1905 was 60,509 and in 1900, 52,130.

Airship Club Incorporated.

Airships may soon be added to Trenton's industries. Peter F. De Marco has invented an airship quite different from those now on the market. That Mr. De Marco has faith in his invention and that his friends have also was demonstrated yesterday, when the Trenton Aero and Motor Club was incorporated in the county clerk's office, with Mr. De Marco, Paul Jachetti, Samuel S. Chatten and Edward Broomhead, Jr., as trustees.

Plainfield Council, No. 294, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet Monday night and plan for the season's work.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a regular meeting last night and passed on several applications for membership.

William Stryker and Miss Flora Kirch, of this city, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. Stryker, of South Branch.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

An event that is destined to prove memorable in an unusually brilliant theatrical season, is the engagement of David Belasco's all-star cast in the delightful comedy, "Is Matrimony a Failure?" which comes to The Plainfield theatre Monday evening. The play is an adaption by Leo Ditrichstein from the German "Die Thurs ins Freie" by Blumenthal & Kadelburg. "Is Matrimony a Failure?" began its career in English at the Belasco Theatre in New York on August 24 a year ago. The play centers about a group of married folk who have begun to feel their relations humdrum and yet with a hundred little hypocricies, they hide the truth from each other and their neighbors. Then an unfortunate clause in the statute shows many of their marriages to be illegal; the husbands band together and hold out against the renewal of the matrimonial bonds, whereupon the wives also revolt against their husbands. The ultimate surrender of the male contingent is a foregone conclusion when they return home after less than a week of freedom prepared to go on as they were before the marriages were declared illegal. The wives decide to have a few days of freedom themselves and repair to the village inn, leaving their husbands to keep house alone. This course brings about the desired results as the men are creatures of habit and slaves to their wives whims without knowing it. The fun is fast and furious and the audiences are kept in one continual roar during the three acts.

WOMAN, 72, WEDS ADOPTED SON, 22.

The marriage of Mrs. Bridget Johnson, 72, to her adopted son, August Bendel, 22, yesterday, at Yorkville, Ill., has stirred the wrath of the children of the gray-haired bride. Today they retained a law firm to bring suit to have the marriage annulled.

Charging that Bendel lured their aged mother into marrying him, so that he could obtain possession of her property valued at about $5,000, John and James Healy and Mrs. Mary Meyers, children of Mrs. Johnson by a first marriage, will go into court and ask that the marriage be declared illegal. They will ask that the court appoint a guardian to look after her property.

Game Today.
St. Louis at Chicago.

It will be Plainfield vs. Bound Brook this afternoon at Crescent Oval and the game should be a fine one. This is the last contest of the season for the local team and the fans should turn out in large numbers and help make a victory for Plainfield.

"Jimmy" Montross will pitch for the locals, and opposed to him will be Ortleib, but the Plainfield fans will put their money on "Jimmy" the reliable one, every time. He will be caught by Walter Nelson, and that means a winning pair.

Bound Brook will have to "go some" to cop a victory, for Manager Dorflinger's colts are determined to cinch the game at the outset. They figure that they can reach Ortleib from the first and that means a lively start and finish.

Bound Brook will bring a large crowd of rooters to Plainfield and the local fans should turn out and give them a warm reception. The game will start at 3:15 sharp.

Falling from his wagon, and being run over, when his mule team ran away at Beverly, Remsey Deacon, of Burlington, was seriously injured.

Mrs. Walter Patrick and Mrs. George Steir, sisters, who had not seen or heard from each other for twenty years, met at the home of Mrs. Patrick, at Quinton, this week. The parents died when the children were young, and friends took them to bring up. They became separated and lost all trace of each other until after a diligent search this summer.

Mrs. Albert Shaw, plucky wife of the captain and supposed owner of the yacht Imperia, who was arrested for alleged stealing of the craft from a New York man after the vessel had grounded in the Inlet, Atlantic City, secured the release of her husband under habeas corpus proceedings there Thursday. Shaw was held under $500 bail pending requisition proceedings by the New York authorities, but later County Judge Higbee listened to the wife's plea and released the man.

BROKERS REFUSE TO ACCEPT TRENTON BONDS.

New York brokers whose attorneys last week bought $50,000 worth of Trenton's city "river-front" bonds, have refused to accept the issue, declaring that the act creating the Trenton River and Harbor Commission and providing for the sale of the bonds is unconstitutional. The attorney-general has been appealed to for a decision.

Plainfield, N. J., October 15, 1910.

AFRAID OF DENIST HE TOOK TO DRINK

John Grieselhardt, an aged Teuton farm hand from New Market, came to Plainfield yesterday morning to do some shopping and to get a tooth pulled. When it came to facing the dentist John lacked the necessary courage, and sought it in various and sundry portions of schnapps and presently began to think that he was wealthy and wanted to buy a horse.

Wending his way gingerly along North avenue, he arrived at the railroad station, where he saw William Phillips, colored, standing with his horse and wagon. There followed a conversation in which Grieselhardt thought he would buy the horse, but would let Mr. Phillips know later. Mr. Phillips had some business to attend to on the station platform and no sooner had he disappeared around the corner of the Adams Express office than the New Market farm hand mounted the seat and drove away with the rig.

In a little while he was seen driving through East Second street and stopping here and there to talk with anybody who would listen to him about his new purchase. Mr. Phillips missed his rig about that time and with an assistant and the help of the police he located his horse and wagon at the corner of Front and Somerset streets.

This morning when arraigned before Judge Runyon Griesselhardt denied absolutely that he had taken the horse. "Vy, Chudge, I couldn't did such a ting. I haf come to buy me yet some underclothes, und to see dot dentist. I vent dere but de door was glosed und den I buy me two trinks visky, but I didn't take dot horse." He said he was in receipt of a dollar a week, but when his right leg was good he received $15 per month. He promised to settle with Phillips for the time he had the rig, and the judge let him go. He also promised to swear off.

Funeral of Miss Callahan.

The funeral of Miss Alice Callahan, who died suddenly at her home on East Third street Thursday, was held in St. Mary's church this morning. The mass was said by Rev. Father Hogan in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the pall bearers being Albert Matthews, Richard Birmingham, William Ryan, John Mottley, John Finley and Daniel McCarthy.

Mrs. E. D. Moffatt, of Orchard place, who has been visiting her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Barrett, of Bayonne, has returned home.

MEDICAL MISSIONARY TELLS OF HER WORK

Dr. Rosa W. Palmborg, the medical missionary of the Seventh Day Baptist church at Lieu-oo, China, a missionary station which she established and built up, this morning gave an interesting talk on her work at the morning service in the Seventh Day Baptist church. There was a large congregation present, and all thoroughly enjoyed her story of the progress of the work.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the church, was in charge of the service, assisted by Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardner, who read the Scriptures and offered the opening prayer. This evening the Women's Society for Christian Work will give a reception to Dr. Palmborg in the parlors of the church. All members of the church and congregation are invited.

TEMPLE BAPTISTS PLAN A SERIES OF ENTERTAINMENTS

Under the auspices of the Temple Baptist church and for the benefit of the building fund, a series of four entertainments of exceptional interest is to be given at the First Baptist church. The first will be a lecture on Thursday night, November 3, by Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton, of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York. He will lecture on "Widening Horizons in American Life." Dr. Eaton has been heard here on several occasions and is well known as an entertaining and instructive speaker.

The second entertainment will be a lecture, "An Irishman in the Jungles of Africa," by Rev. Gabriel R. Maguire, of the Park Avenue Baptist church. This will be the last opportunity Plainfielders will have to hear this great lecture. It will be given on November 10. The third entertainment will be on November 17, when L. V. F. Randolph will lecture on "Ancient Carthage and Modern Tunis." The fourth entertainment will be an evening of music under the direction of Howard M. Case, the date to be announced later.

Men to Give a "Straw Ride."

The October meeting of the Men's Club of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, tomorrow, will take the form of an up-to-date "straw ride" and a campfire supper somewhere on the Watchung mountains. The men will meet at the church tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. A large electric truck will be the chief means of conveyance. C. W. Spicer and Dr. M. L. Clawson are in charge of the arrangements. The refreshments will be in charge of a committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood, of Lincoln place are the parents of twins, a boy and agirl, born to them yesterday.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will meet tomorrow night at 6:45. The topic will be "Your Amuseemnts. Do They Build Up or Tear Down?" Cornelius F. Schenck will be the leader.

The second quarterly meeting will be held at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, on West Fourth street, Rev. J. T. Diggs, pastor, tomorrow. Presiding Elder Dr. A. C. Murry will preach morning and evening. Rev. Dr. J. H White, of Westfield, will preach at the afternoon service.

The attention of the Jersey Central is called to the condition of its western board walk in its park at the Netherwood station. There are many holes in the walk boards having rotted away, and as there is not a single light in the park at night, it is dangerous for patrons of the road to pass through the park. Suggestion is made by a cummuter that a light be placed in the middle of the walk.

"After the License Protest—What?"

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, will make an address at the chapel tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, his remarks being pertinent to the recent action of the Somerset County Court in refusing to grant certain licenses in the borough. The topic of his address will be "After the License Protest, What?" The public is invited to attend.

Gave Euchre Party.

Miss Katherine Conshay, of Summit avenue, gave a euchre at her home last night, for the benefit of St. Joseph's church building fund. About forty guests occupied tables and enjoyed refreshments at the conclusion of play. The prizes were awarded Mrs. James E. Bailey, Mrs. A. E. Kenney and Mrs. W. F. Hamilton.

Change Time of Meeting.

The regular prayer meeting at the West End Tabernacle next week will be held Tuesday evening, instead of Thursday, on account of the Union County Sunday school association convention to be held at the First M. E. church that day. The Junior C. E. Society will meet Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Suit for $20,000.

Suit has been begun by George Mitchell against F. L. C. Martin for $20,000 for alleged defamation of character. The suit is an outcome of a joy ride last June in which at the time it was said Mitchell and others were implicated, and which resulted in the wrecking of the car.

Manhattan's Latest Purchase.

Joseph W. Manhattan has purchased through his attorney, Walter Hetfield, the property at the corner of East Front street and Westervelt avenue from the Fidelty Trust Company, of Newark. Mr. Manhattan will occupy the property himself.

FASHIONABLE FALL FABRICS.

Simplicity and elegance are the keynote of the new fabrics for fall wear. Chief among them are velvet and its stepsister, velveteeen. The latest variety in the former is what is known as "mouseline velvet," which is of a weight similar to chiffon velvet, but with the pile less closely sheared. These fabrics are nearly all in plain colors, such as black and navy blue, but some novelties are shown, such as changeable velvets of black woven with a color. Brocaded velvets, stamped and embossed patterns, hollow-clt cords and corduroys and an imitation of the hairline stripe on serge will also be used in the fall gowns.

Among woolen materials first place must be given to the new material know as ratine. This is a fabric with a soft, semi-rough surface, broken by knots. A wool fabric printed in cashmere patterns and having a velvety surface is also popular, though as yet unnamed.

Satin in black and navy blue is worn more than ever and is used for suits and street wraps as it has not been for years. For this purpose the new cloth-backed satin is used, being more durable and warmer than the usual variety.

Moire, taffeta and such transparent goods, as chiffon, marquisettes and gauzes are among the favorites, especially when woven with metal wpols of dull gold, silver and steel.

Beading continues in favor, beaded cotton crepe and marquisette being we'l thought of. Damasses and brocades are also seen.

Among regular suitings serges, woven from both loose and tight yarns; India cashmere in the old oriental patterns, soft camel-hair fabrics, mohairs and cotton voiles are the prmie favorite.

From all of which there is surely a wide enough choice to suit the most fastidious of women.

A Difficult Reformation.

"Didn't you tell me that if I'd quit smoking I would have several hundred dollars in a few years?"

"Yes," said the ready advisor.

"Well, I stopped five years ago and I haven't saved that money you were talking about."

"But if you had gone on smoking you might have been that much in debt."

"That's so. By the way, if I started to smoke now do you think there is anybody who will lend me that much money?"

Who Would Question Story Then?

"He tells me he caught a ten-pound trout in that lake."

"Give you any reason to believe him?"

"Gave me a tolerably good cigar."—Washington Herald.

Nothing Else.

Friend—So you dined at a way-station. What did you have for dinner?

Traveler—Twenty minutes.—Berkeley Blade.

STRING EMBROIDERY.

A clever French woman has described how she came to discover what a splendid combination string and linen would make. She was first attracted by the rough, yet even, surface of unbleached linen as an acceptable drapery for walls.

Once when trying to improve the rather dull appearance of a large surface of linen, by embroidering it with silks and cottons, she found this spoiled the sober tone of the linen in its natural state, and after trying different kinds of cottons all too thin to give any appreciable effect to the linen, she tried a ball of string.

As a result of her discovery this charming woman has given to the lovers of decorative needlework a beautiful invention full of resources, which combines art with economy.

Fish Chowder.

Take any fresh fish, clean and cut into slices about an inch thick. Place in the bottom of an iron pot six thin slices of fat salt pork and over these three thinly sliced Irish potatoes.

Next arrange a layer of fish seasoned with salt, pepper and a little minced onion and parsley. Over this should come a layer of cold boiled rice.

Next put in thin slices of bread or pilot biscuit with salt, pepper and bits of butter.

Repeat these alternative layers of pork, potatoes, fish, bread and seasoning; add two cups hot water, cover closely and simmer gently half an hour. Take off the lid, add two cups hot cream or milk and serve.

It is excellent also without milk, and some prefer it put through a puree strainer.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Mary Jane Kelly, Executrix of John Lavery, deceased, Frances L. Quackenbush and Vesta Q. Van Trump, individually and as executors of Charles E. Quackenbush, decd., Leighton C. Van Trump, Elizabeth Q. Holcombe, Charles Q. Freeman and Addison Gardner, executors of Abraham Quackenbush, decd., Elizabeth Q. Holcombe and Charles Q. Freeman, Executors of Vestiana Q. Freeman, decd., Lambert S. Quackenbush and Abraham C. Quackenbush, individually and as executors of Daniel Mc. L. Quackenbush, decd.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York is complainant and you are defendants, you are required to appear and plead, answer or demur to the complainant's bill of complaint, on or before the twelfth day of December next, or that in default thereof the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a certain mortgage given by John Lavery to the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, bearing date the twenty-second day of April in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-five, given to secure the sum of six thousand dollars on premises situate in the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, which mortgage is recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Union, on the twenty-seventh day of April in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-five in Book 125 of mortgages for said county on pages 460, &c.

And you Mary Jane Kelly are made a party defendant to said bill because as the executrix of the estate of John Lavery, deceased, you claim to have some interest or estate in and to said mortgaged premises, and you Frances L. Quackenbush and Vesta Q. Van Trump, individually and as executors of Charles E. Quackenbush, decd., claim to own the said premises in fee simple, and you Leighton C. Van Trump, Elizabeth Q. SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

George Teeple, who died from the effects of a fall from a window, was eighty-five years old, and had lived here nearly all his life. Funeral services will be this afternoon from the South Plainfield Baptist church. His remains will be taken to Perth Amboy for interment.

Harry Winter, who has been employed on a farm up the Hudson, is now a conductor on the main line trolley. In company with his wife he is visiting his parents on Maple avenue before taking up a residence at Dunellen.

Fred Guire in company with a friend will canoe from Bound Brook up the Raritan, through the canal to Carnegie lake, at Princeton, and will be gone about two weeks.

Rev. J. J. Allen, pastor, will preach at the Baptist church tomorrow. The morning theme will be "Could Paul Sin," and in the evening "The Path of Duty."

What has become of Harry Suydam is the inquiry from many subscribers of the Sunday newspapers.

Judge Smith is rapidly recovering from the effects of his fall through a hatch in the haymow.

Mrs. Walter Sisty, of Dunellen, spent the day with her mother at Lakeside farm.

Miss Rocap with a friend enjoyed a canoe ride on the lake.

Robert Manison spent the day with friends in the village.

TWO COLLEGE PRESIDENTS OPPOSED TO DR. WILSON

Vivian M. Lewis, Republican candidate for Governor, was the principal speaker at a monster mass meeting at Trenton last night, following a day's tour of Mercer county in company of the State chairman, Mr. Briggs; Representative Wood and others. He did not visit Princeton, the home of his Democratic opponent, Dr. Wilson, reserving that tour for later in the campaign.

A remarkable feature of the day's tour was that meetings at Pennington and Hightstown were presided over by Dr. J. Morgan Read and Dr. R. W. Swetland, heads of Pennington Seminary and Peddie Institute, respectively, who argued against the election of their fellow schoolmate, the head of Princeton. Dr. Swetland was especially strong against Dr. Wilson, asserting that behind the latter was "the same old Democratic band ready to seize the State government should the Princeton man be elected."

Mr. Lewis made a strong plea for party leadership as against party bossism, declaring he was in favor of party organization, but organization that stood for the best of principles for the benefit of all mankind. He aroused great enthusiasm by his references to Presidents Lincoln, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft. Continuing, the candidate reviewed the work of the Republican party in New Jersey during the last fifteen years and then expressed his views concerning the issues of this campaign. He declared in favor of corporation control, with care not to disturb legitimate business enterprises; asserting that if he was elected he would recommend the enactment of a law requiring that the objects of all corporations be made public before a charter is issued. He declared, too, in favor of direct primaries, a pure ballot, good roads, ample public school support, conservation of resources and a business-like administration of public affairs.

Fined in Police Court.

Charles O'Neil was fined $8 this morning by City Judge William N. Runyon for assault on Mrs. Sara Lapore on the evening of October 6.

OHIO CITIES GROW FAST.

Lorain Shows Gain of 80.2 Per Cent. and Hamilton of 47.5.

Population statistics were made public by the Census Bureau at Washington, D. C., yesterday for the following cities:

Hamilton, Ohio, 35,278, an increase of 11,365, or 47.5 per cent. over 23,914 in 1900.

Lorain, Ohio, 28,883, an increase of 12,855 or 80.2 per cent. over 16,028 in 1900.

Madison Wis., 25, 531, an increase of 6,367, or 33.2 per cent. over 19,164 in 1900.

Wilmington N. C., 25,748 an increase of 4,772, or 22.7 per cent. over 20,976 in 1900.

Montgomery, Ala., 38,136 an increase of 7,790, or 25.7 per cent. over 30,346 in 1900.

Austin, Texas, 29,860, an increase of 7,602, or 34.2 per cent. over 22,258 in 1900.

Bloomington, Ill., 25,768, an increase of 2,482, or 10.7 per cent. over 23,286 in 1900.

Complaint Falls Flat.

Charles O'Neil, of West Front street, who was a complainant against Richard Albendenau, of West Third street, alleging an attempted attack with a knife on last Sunday evening at the corner of Madison avenue and Third street, was unable to prove his case this morning before Judge Runyon and it was dismissed. F. J. Blatz defended Albendenau.

STATE LIBRARIANS TO MEET ON FRIDAY

The twentieth annual meeting of the New Jersey Library Association will be held in Asbury Park on Friday, October 21, in the public library building, First and Grand avenues. Miss Bowman, librarian of the Plainfield Public Library, will be present.

At the morning session at 11 o'clock the program will be as follows: Reports of officers and committees; amendment to by-laws; election of officers; "The Psychological Moment," Miss Marilla Waite Freeman, reference librarian of the Newark Public Library; "The American Publishers," Fred W. Jenkins, head of the library department of Charles Scribner's Sons.

Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock at the Hotel Marlborough.

At 2:30 in the afternoon the session will open with presentation of the question, "Co-ordination of the Educational Forces in a Community," Mrs. E. C. Grice, president of the School and Home Association of Philadelphia; "The Work of the George Junior Republic," William R. George ("Daddy").

At 4 o'clock, at the close of the afternoon session, tea will be served in the library by the women of the local organization.

Officers of the State association are: President, Hiram E. Deatz, Hunterdon County Historical Society, Flemington; first vice president, Miss Louise Morris, public library, Summit; second vice president, Miss Emily H. Mulligan, public library, Perth Amboy; treasurer, Miss Mary G. Peters, public library, Bayonne; secretary, Miss Edna B. Pratt, State library Trenton.

LITERARY

"The Life Story of J. Pierpont Morgan," which begins in the October Metropolitan, is described as a biography of the financier, rather than a theory of Wall street or an argument about the money power. The first instalment gives many hitherto unpublished facts about Mr. Morgan's ancestry and early life. Another feature of the October issue is a new serial, "Mrs. Maxon Protests," by Anthony Hope. An authorized statement of President Taft's views on conservation introduces H. J. Whigham's article on "Guarding the People's Property," an account of what the Taft administration has accomplished for conservation.

Another superb article of the State Series, entitled "Florida, Land of Enchantment," appears in the November National Magazine. An especially striking cover design of a sunset, glorious with the incomparable hues of the Floridian sea and sky, forming a magnificent background against which are silhouetted luxuriant palms, forms an alluring invitation to peruse the sixty-four pages of text by Garnault Agassiz, which present Florida and her great resources as they have never been before presented in any periodical.

COMMUTERS' LEAGUE ASKS HOW CANDIDATES STAND.

The Commuters' League of New Jersey, through its president, Howard Marshall, Thursday night addressed open letters to Woodrow Wilson and Vivian Lewis, asking the two candidates to declare themselves on the matter of a public utility bill, embodying real rate-making power, and a bill of similar purport that contains only "alleged rate-making power."

The letter calls attention to the Pierce bill of 1908, in which the railroads were given wide latitude in the matter of paying dividends on "water." Reference is also made to the Robbins bill, and the statement made that while these measures ostensibly conferred rate-making power, they in reality did nothing of the kind.

Mr. Marshall points out that the real power desired is that contained in the recent court decision affecting the Public Utility Commission conferring power to regulate rates so that dividends can be declared on an amount representing actual railroad property valuation.

Both the candidates to whom the letter is addressed have declared themselves in favor of a public utility based upon rate-making power, but the Commuters' League is desirous of knowing just how the candidates interpret the point in the letter, which refers to "alleged rate-making power and a measure giving the Public Utility Commission the power upon complaint, or upon its own motion, to fix just and reasonable rates."

Fall Kills Iron-Worker.

Elizabeth, Oct. 15.—Fatally injured by a fall of fifty feet from a new sugar refinery building now being erected in Brooklyn, William Bruns, a riveter, who boarded with his brother, Benjamin, at 307 Elizabeth avenue, this city, died Thursday in a Brooklyn hospital. He was thirty years old, single, and belonged to the Junior Order of American Mechanics of Somerville, where he resided several years. He was a member of a Presbyterian church in Bayonne, and was secretary of the Boiler Makers' Association of that city.

BIOGRAPHICAL BOOKS AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

These biographical volumes have recently been added to the Public Library collection:

Bronner, Milton—Maurice Hewlett: Being a critical review of his prose and poetry. "The biographical matter in the book is briefly and discreetly given. If here and there the present judge is a bit too kind in his verdict, it is not because he has spared the pains to weigh the evidence. His analysis of Mr. Hewlett's different books is interesting and discriminating."—N. Y. Times.

Brooks, J. G.—American citizen; the life of William Henry Baldwin, Jr. "The biography of a railroad executive which is important because it reveals the sturdy qualities of a man who turned his back on the usual questionable methods looked upon by many officials as unavoidable, and attained success in railroad administration without the loss of integrity. His whole book, indeed is a serviceable contribution to the study of an extraordinary example of efficient American citizenship."—N. Y. Times.

Franklin, Fabian—Life of Daniel Coit Gilman. "This copious biography is practically a history of education in this country, or rather, of the new school of education, for almost half a century."—Lit. D.

"Associated with the beginnings of the Sheffield scientific school, with the building up of the University of California, with the establishment of Johns Hopkins University, and with the inauguration of the work of the Carnegie institution, Daniel Coit Gilman's life was devoted to the business of furthering higher education."

Moses, Belle.—Louisa May Alcott, dreamer and worker; a story of achievement. "The author of 'Little Women' attracted her readers as much by the revelation of her own buoyant and optimistic nature, her love of freedom, and the wholesome strength of her inspiration, as by her delightful stories."—Lit. D.

"This very readable biography brings out admirably the best qualities in the life and work of Miss Alcott, and will be a source of inspiration and enjoyment to both young and old."—A. L. A. Bkl.

Reed, C. B.—First great Canadian, the story of Pierre Le Moyne, sieur d'Iberville. "A story in which are worked together for the first time the scattered incidents in the life of Le Moyne d'Iberville whose daring exploits during the epoch when France was busy establishing a footing in America stand out on the pages of late 17th century history."—Bk. R. Digest.

"Dr. Reed's book is altogether a notable contribution to the literature of early American history."—Nation.

Spargo, John.—Karl Marx; his life and work. "The first biography of Karl Marx for the preparation of which the author has spent thirteen years gathering his material in many European countries aided by the socialist's daughter and friends."—Bk. R. Digest.

"For an understanding of his life and work this book is indispensable."—Ind.

Thompson, S. P.—Life of William Thomson, baron Kelvin of Largs. "A biography guided by the wishse of Lord Kelvin which has resulted in a book with a special appeal to men in sympathy with the aims and efforts of his life, and necessarily a bit difficult in some of its passages for unscientific folk."—N. Y. Times.

"This admirable biography is a worthy memorial."—Spec.

Howells, W. D.—My Mark Twain; reminiscences and criticisms. "Their friendship extended through forty-five years, and Mr. Howells has drawn a unique picture of Mark Twain. Nothing more sympathetic and veracious will ever be written about him. All lovers of Mark Twain have been waiting for some such appreciation from Mr. Howells; for no one else can speak with quite the same authority or from the same point of view."

JERSEY ODD FELLOWS TO MEET NEXT MONTH

One of the most important annual sessions of Odd Fellowship in the history of the order in New Jersey will be held in Trenton November 16 and 17, when the Grand Lodge will meet.

The reports to be presented will show that the year just closing has been the most successful in the order's history. The number of new members is 1,520, which is considerably more than the number that has been added in any previous year. Much of the interest of the session will centre in the installation of the officers who are to be elected by the votes of the subordinate lodges during next week. Deputy Grand Master William T. Robbins, of Hamilton Square, will be the next grand master without opposition.

Charles A. Woodruff, of Newark, will succeed Mr. Robbins as deputy grand master; Joseph R. Deacon, of Bordentown, will be unanimously reelected grand treasurer. Harry S. Pine, the present grand secretary, and Frank R. Jummell, of Trenton, are candidates for the grand secretaryship.

There is a spirited contest for the grand wardenship, there being seven candidates for the office. George W. Shinn, of Burlington, present grand marshal, is in the lead. The other candidates are James H. White, Paterson; Walter S. Campbell, Newark; Amos E. Waugh, Jersey City; Arthur J. Runyon, Newark; F. H. Chorpenning, Atco; Wallace M. Kinsey, Pompton Plains. C. Fleming Stanger, of Glassboro, is a candidate to succeed himself as grand representative, and Peter W. Stagg, of Hackensack, is also a candidate for the place

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Judge Runyon is Right.

Judge William N. Runyon, the Republican candidate for Congress in the Fifth district, has shown a degree of political sagacity, courtesy and good politics that editors and platform orators throughout the State would do well to imitate.

At a recent mass meeting in Elizabeth the judge deplored and condemned the methods of some of his party associates in endeavoring to belittle Woodrow Wilson by attacks on his personal character and by unwarranted innuendo.

"The Democratic party," said Judge Runyon, "has nominated an honorable gentleman for the office of Governor, and in him the Republican party had a foeman worthy of its steel. It will need united action on the part of the Republicans to elect their candidate, and the speeches belittling Dr. Wilson's political ability will only serve to strengthen his cause by causing Republicans who know him to desert their own candidate. Such attacks on the personal character of Dr. Wilson should not be tolerated by the Republicans. The spirit of fair play should prevail, and only honorable means should be used in contesting the election."

Unfair campaigning is the resort of unfair politicians. Attempts to belittle, disparage and ridicule an able, capable and conscientious candidate are absolute proofs that his opponents fear him, and dare not meet him fairly and squarely.

Dr. Wilson has been subjected to the sort of argument that includes such appellations as "Thomas," "schoolmaster," "decoy duck," "tool of the old gang," etc., but it hasn't changed the opinions of any intelligent men who had made up their minds to vote for him. In fact, this sort of campaigning generally reacts on those who use it, as it gives the public a good idea of their spirit and an excellent yardstick for measuring their intelligence.

Judge Runyon's warning to his party is timely and true, and the fact that he has had the courage to utter it will in no way reduce his strength as a Congressional candidate in the Fifth district.—Newark Evening News.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

"Baby Mine," the new farce by Margaret Mayo, is a rage at Daly's Theatre, New York. Wm. A. Brady will shortly produce it in London. Later productions will follow in Paris and Berlin. New York managers are now refusing to accept new farces, claiming "Baby Mine" has reached the limit in that style of stage entertainment.

When William A. Brady first read "Mother," by Jules Eckert Goodman, he declared that he had one of the greatest plays he ever run across. Before he produced it at the Hackett Theatre this Fall he reiterated what he had said before. "Mother" deserves to succeed. It is a homely, but none the less effective, glorification of motherhood. It is a big play, and we shall be most grieviously disappointed if it does not become one of the classics of our stage.

Fortitude.

The man who tries a motor car to run
Must bravely shirk the crowd and never shirk
The taunts of those who have all kinds of fun
While he perspires and tries to make it work.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company. Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

Tony had intended to drop in at Alexander's in any case to have a look at the marquis of Twelfth street, who had been "discovered" by that morning's Light, but he would have come on directly after returning from a second out of town expedition if a telegram had not been forwarded to the country asking him to be Mrs. Milton's escort.

He was disappointed to find that Fanny was not going, and his spirits were dashed by the news that she disapproved of the "Loveland sensation," for which he knew himself to be largely responsible. Nevertheless, in manner he was as gay as the others when the party of eight made its merry raid upon Alexander's.

The Italian marriage feast was already in full swing. But neither the bridal party nor any of the thirty or forty other occupants of the restaurant were too deeply absorbed in their own affairs to notice the arrival of the "swells."

"Hello! I suppose we ought to feel honored," muttered Leo Cohen, who had just arrived from the west and was paying a surprise visit to the establishment of his future father-in-law. He had demanded fried oysters and coffee and had greatly enjoyed giving the order to the handsome new member of Alexander's staff.

"Get a move on, if you please," he finished, pointing his black mustache and prodding his white teeth with a gold toothpick as he stared at the man made notorious by today's newspapers. Pressing his lips tightly together, Loveland turned away to pass the order to Black Dick, the cook.

It was at this moment that Mrs. Milton's party entered the restaurant, and Mr. Cohen murmured his comment to Isidora, who at her father's suggestion was hovering about that young gentleman's table, looking her prettiest.

Tony Kidd at Mrs. Milton's request had telephoned for a table for eight, to be withdrawn as far as possible from the big front window, that dinner and diners need not be criticised by the man in the street, and as Loveland pushed back the red drapery, carrying a tray loaded with ice cream for the Italians, he looked straight into the eyes of Elinor Coolidge, Mrs. Milton and the newspaper man, Tony Kidd.

Not since early morning had he found a moment's rest. He had had no appetite and would have had little time to eat even if he had been hungry. The day's work had irritated and unnerved him up to the last notch of his endurance. No battle of his brief but lively South African experience had cost him, physically or mentally, as much as these thirteen hours of waiting on Alexander's customers, and the sudden sight of those familiar faces, smiling coolly on his shame, came upon him like a volley of bullets from a quick firing gun.

Involuntarily Val took a step back, knocked the edge of the tray against the doorpost and dropped it with a crash of breaking crockery. Plates smashed, spoons flew, and ice cream gushed among the ruins. Blinkey and the Polish waiter sprang to their colleague's assistance, not displeased, however, that he should be disgraced. Alexander scolded, the Italian bride screamed and had to be reassured by the bridegroom, Leo Cohen laughed disagreeably, Isidora jumped, and Mrs. Milton's party looked at each other from under lifted eyebrows.

VAL DROPPED IT WITH A CRASH.

In the confusion of the breakage Loveland found himself again. Pride came to his rescue—not mere hurt vanity, but a truer pride than had ever made his heart beat high.

As he bent down to pick up the broken plates he told himself that these people, who had come to plunge him still deeper in humiliating depths, were not worth a pang and should not see that they had power to inflict it.

For one short instant he detested Mrs. Milton so intensely that he half regretted his vow to spare her name at all hazards, but by the time he had picked up the last piece of broken crockery he knew that if everything were to come over again he would do as he had done.

"I take dat out of your wages," said Alexander, loudly enough to be heard by those who sat round the table near to the curtained door.

"Of course," replied Loveland, his voice steady.

"I shouldn't have thought the British aristocracy would have such clumsy ways." Leo Cohen remarked audibly to Isidora, then called jocularly across the room, "Say, waiter, any mock turtle soup left?"

"No," growled Alexander.

"Thought you might be making a specialty of it this week," went on Cohen.

"Why?"

"Oh, cute idea for an advertisement—'mock turtle served by mock marquis.'"

A titter went round the room among those who had enough English to understand the joke, and there was even a faint, suppressed sound of laughter at Mrs. Milton's table.

Loveland turned white. He had an impulse to hurl the broken dishes now collected on the tray straight at Cohen's oiled black head, and a week ago he would have done so without stopping to reflect. But he had lived longer in six days since landing in New York than in as many years before, and he was learning a lesson which no one had even tried to teach him in the past—mastery of himself.

Pale, but perfectly composed in appearance, he did not even look toward Cohen and seemed to take no more notice of the young man's impertinence than of the barking of some mongrel dog, too feeble to be kicked.

Ardently Loveland longed to get out of the room and to stay out; but, though he could have escaped by carrying the broken dishes into the kitchen, he would not deign to turn his back on the enemy. He gave the tray to Blinkey and obeyed a gesture of Alexander's which sent him to take a new order from the Italians.

"I don't believe he'll come to wait on us," whispered Mrs. Milton to Tony Kidd. "If he doesn't it will have been hardly worth the fag of coming all this way downtown. His handing us our things would have been the best fun of all."

"I think you'll get your fun," mumbled Tony, but he was not enjoying himself.

"Of course the man's a fraud and deserves all he's got," the journalist thought. "But I'll be hanged if I like seeing him take his medicine. He's a good plucked one, anyhow."

Never glancing at the eight faces, which watched his every movement with sixteen brilliant eyes, Loveland passed their table and went to tell the cook that the Italian party would have a rum omelet in place of the lost ice cream. Cohen's fried oysters were ready, the Pole having just served them, and now the second course of the dinner—begun already with blue points—was waiting for the "swells." It was soup, and Loveland had either to carry it in and serve it himself or else to show that the torture of the lash was beyond his endurance.

"They shall see that I'm not ashamed for myself or afraid of them," he resolved, returning to the restaurant with a steaming tureen and eight hot plates on a tray. Without a change of expression he laid those eight plates, one by one, in their places on the table, and then with a hand which he forced to be steady he ladled out the soup. The ladies drew back, as if uneasy lest he might seek some small revenge. But he was careful not to spill a drop.

"Oh, pa, don't send Mr. Gordon to wait on the swells again!" softly pleaded Isidora, flitting up uneasily. "They're trying to take a rise out of him. It's cruel. I"—

"Thank you, but I don't mind, Miss Alexander," said Loveland, with a grateful look, which went so straight to Isidora's heart that tears started to her eyes.

Val took away the eight soup plates and would not see the amused glances of the good looking Hungarians or Elinor Coolidge's French count. Rocheverte was not cruel at heart, but he did not like Englishmen at best, and Elinor Coolidge, having told him the story of Lord Loveland as she knew it, had said: "We girls want to punish him not only for the way he would have deceived us all if he could, but for his perfectly horrid, supercilious airs when we used to know him on board ship. So please help us by sneering and staring as much as you can without making a scene."

She had looked so handsome when she made this request that De Rocheverte had told her he would grant it with pleasure, and he was doing his best to keep his word.

They had got as far in the dinner as chicken fried with cream gravy, for which Black Dick was renowned, when the restaurant door opened and Mr. Milton walked in, accompanied by another man.

Milton sauntered over to the table and spoke to every one civilly, darting only one covert, ugly glance at his wife, when her fascinated gaze rested upon the fading bruise which discolored his square jaw.

"Read the Light this morning, Tony, and the afternoon papers copying it," he said. "Thought I'd drop in at the cockfight and see the fun. Great stunt, isn't it?" He eyed Loveland up and down as if the Englishman were a freak at a museum. "Of course the story was yours?"

For the first time Val's eyes and Tony's met, only for an instant, but there was something like reproach in Loveland's. A trapped hare might have thrown a look like that at the keeper who trapped him.

CHAPTER XVI

FIRE!

MR. MILTON turned away and was drawing out a chair for himself near one upon which a seedy, bearded stranger had placed a small leather hand bag when suddenly the whole restaurant seemed alive with dry, crackling explosions, and in the same instant the electric lamps went out. The room, a moment ago brilliantly lighted, was black as a vault save for a glimmer from the street that shone through the window. Then, as every one jumped up, overturning chairs or breaking glasses in their hurry and the shrieks of the Italian women mingled with the strange crackling sounds, there came from somewhere at the back a loud detonation, followed by a hoarse roaring like a blast furnace. Men cried out in amazed alarm, and the dark room lit up ominously with a crimson glare that turned the curtain through which it leaked the color of blood.

In rushed Black Dick and his assistant, with Blinkey, who had been busy in the kitchen, and all three shouted wildly, "Fire, fire!"

The restaurant was in a state of chaos. A long jet of flame sweeping out from the kitchen and across the narrow passage caught the curtain in the doorway, up which little serpents of fire began to crawl. Every woman was screaming now in a panic of fear whipped to horror by the red darkness and the crackling explosions which snapped and sputtered on every side. The excitable Italians chattered and struggled with one another in the dark, the new Polish waiter ran here and there like a frightened chicken that sees the ax, the two negroes were almost in convulsions, and Tony Kidd called vainly on the Hungarian brothers and De Rocheverte for help in bringing order out of confusion.

At the time of the first explosion Loveland had been quietly setting a plate of fried chicken before Tony, and as the journalist leaped from his seat the two young men were close together.

"Short circuiting; escape from a fused gas pipe!" Loveland yelled through the noise.

"Yes, that's it!" the reporter shouted back mechanically as if to a friend.

Then for a few seconds Tony was overwhelmed by a wild rush of frightened women. In the red light that streamed through the burning curtain he saw a crowd fighting to reach the window and the closed front door of the restaurant.

Upon his incredulous eyes flashed a horrid tableau of De Rocheverte throwing off Elinor Coolidge, who clung to him, crying, "Save me, save me!" As the Frenchman blindly flung her away and dashed toward the door the girl would have fallen on her knees, to be trampled underfoot by the two Hungarians, had not Loveland pushed the men violently aside and caught Elinor in his arms.

"Keep her—keep all the ladies in this corner out of the crush!" he cried to Tony. "I'm going to turn off the gas at the main." Then he gave Elinor, half fainting, to Tony Kidd, who firmly called Mrs. Milton, Miss Turner and Miss Wood by name. The sound of the two calm voices in the midst of shouts, smashing glass, falling chairs and foreign exclamations rallied the women's courage. As Tony held Elinor the three others passed near him, deserted by the foreigners of their party, and in the bloodshot blaze all saw Loveland's tall figure apparently plunge into the flame. He made a dash through the doorway, his arms thrown across his eyes to shield them from the fire, and ten seconds later the loud roaring ceased as suddenly as it had begun. The cracklings had ceased, too, for the short circuiting was over, and the stream of gas burnt itself out an instant after Loveland seized the handle of the main. But the curtain still blazed; the stairway in the passage, the door frames in the kitchen and restaurant were on fire, and the panic raged as wildly as ever among the fallen chairs and tables.

The door handle had been broken by Leo Cohen as he fiercely disputed with Milton the right to get out first, and none could now escape that way, although men battered the panels and strove to break them in. Some one had smashed a hole in the thick plate glass window big enough to create a dangerous draft, but not large enough to give a means of retreat for any of the men and women who, with cut and bleeding hands, struggled to squeeze through the jagged opening.

Members of John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, have received an invitation to attend the institution of a camp at Westfield. The date will be announced later. The new camp will start with about forty members.

COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION, OCTOBER 20

The thirtieth annual convention of the Union County Sunday school Association will be held in the First M. E. church on Thursday, October 20, with morning, afternoon and evening session. This convention will be one of the most interesting for the workers as well as those outside of the work. The morning session will be devoted to the theme of the preparaiion of the teacher and after the report on "Teacher Training," from the superintendent of this department in the county, Rev. C. C. Woodruff, of Rahway, the new general State secretary, Louis H. Koehler, will make an address on "How Every Sunday School May Have Trained Teachers." This will be Mr. Koehler's first appearance in this county since he was appointed to the State work.

The afternoon session will be devoted to the work of the intermediate department, Miss Hamlin, State superintendent of elementary work, will make an address on "The Next Step in Graduation," which will be followd with another address on "The Challnge of Adolescence," by Rev. Milton S. Littlefield, of New York. Mr. Littlefield is the author of the new course on intermediate work and will no doubt handle the subject in an interesting manner.

Mrs. W. L. Smith, of East Orange, will also make an address on "The Superintendent of the Intermediates" and at the close of this session, Mrs. A. W. Karnell, superintendent of the State Home department, will present that work.

The evening session will be devoted to "The Sunday School and World Evangelism," and after the report of Miss Harriet R. Halloway, superintendent of missionary work in the county, R. E. Diffendorfer, will make an address. He is widely known as general secretary of the Young People's Movemnt. There will will be conferences at the noon and evning hours on the different phases of the work and all workers in the county as well as friends of the Sunday school are cordially invited to attended this convention.

TRINITY COMMANDERY ATTENDS A RECEPTION

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., to the number of about twenty, went to Brooklyn last night upon invitation, and attended the reception given by Clinton Commandery, K. T., of that city, and other Masonic bodies, to Right Eminent Sir John Carlisle Louden, grand commander of the Grand Commandery of the State of New York. Clinton Commandery planned the affair for the reason that Mr. Louden is a member of that commandery.

The Sir Knights met at the Mosque of Kismet Temple, Brooklyn, there being about 600 in line, and several commanderies formed under their individual banners, marched to the residence of Mr. Louden and escorted him to the reception, where he received all the honors due him because of his exalted position.

Among those present were the past commanders of all the commanderies of the metropolitan district; also Most Excellent Grand High Priest Kline and associate officers of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter, together with the select masters of New York State and the Grand Master and associate officers and the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of the State of New York. It was one of the most auspicious Masonic gatherings in the history of New York in several years. Trinity Commandery was the only one outside of the metropolitan district that was invited to the affair.

Proctor's Big Bill.

"The Fitzgibbon McCoy Trio," in a hilarious comedy act, playing all the big vaudeville houses, will appear at Proctor's theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The trio is considered one of the best in vaudeville. "The Sexton's Dream," a beautiful act, will be on the same bill. The scene is in the belfry of Trinity church, New York and the scenic, electrical and music effects are wonderful.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Cole, of East Seventh street, have gone to Albany, N. Y., for a visit with friends.

Charles Stace, of West Fifth street, left yesterday for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will reside in the future. He will be followed by Mrs. Stace a little later.

A CASK OF GLYCERIN.

The Admiral Had to Prove That It Was Harmless.

Life in Ireland is never devoid of the humorous, and when Admiral, then Captain, John Moresby was stationed at Queenstown, in 1863, he had his full share. He narrates in "Two Admirals" that it became his duty to survey a damaged ship laden with casks of glycerin. For purpose of repair he directed a portion of the cargo to be landed and stored and thought no more about it.

What was my astonishment next day, he says, to find the whole town in a panic and to be informed that every life was in danger from the deadly compound stored under one of the principal offices of the place.

The town council assembled and sent their health officer to stop all discharge of cargo and to remove the vessel to the outer anchorage, and the people gathered at the street corners in agitated crowds to meet their doom in comfortable companionship.

I vainly contended that it could be nothing but pure glycerin.

"Pure glycerin, is it?" said the chairman. "Well, there's mighty little difference between pure glycerin and impure glycerin, and the ship must be off before we have the place blown about our ears."

All I could say was: "Well, gentlemen, if it is nitroglycerin a blow will explode it. I propose that a cask should be put in a field, and I will fire a shot at it. Will this satisfy you?"

After much deliberation this handsome offer was accepted. I shall never forget that procession nor the agonized countenances of the bearers who lifted the cask to a cart as softly padded for its reception as if it had been an invalid in the last stages of disease.

"Patsy and Jim Dempsey had great courage entirely," was the comment of the crowd as they followed at what they believed to be a safe distance.

We wended our way into the country attended by the prayers and blessings of all the old women of both sexes whom we met en route, and the gilded pinnacle was put on the terror when in lifting the cask into the field, far from all human habitation, one of the bearers stumbled and almost fell. He turned a face of wan appeal to heaven as he recovered himself.

But we got it there. I can still recall the town council crouching among the brambles of a distant hedge and watching with expectant eyes and manifest intention of instant flight.

The shot hit the cask fair and square, and amid an awful silence a few slow tears of glycerin oozed out and trickled down its side. That was all.

A MAN AGAINST A NATION.

The Most Curious European War That Was Ever Waged.

The most curious European war ever waged was that which in the sixteenth century, the period of the reformation and the renaissance, was carried on single handed for between five and six years between a bankrupt grocer of Berlin and the elector of Saxony, who was the most powerful German prince of the period. The grocer's name was Hans Kohlhase, and the immediate cause of the quarrel was the arresting of two of his horses in the elector's territory, he being a subject of the elector of Brandenburg. Failing to get redress, he adopted what was then a perfectly legal expedient and declared formal war on the realm of Saxony. The declaration was accepted in due form, and the war began.

The extraordinary part of the story is that the grocer kept the war up for nearly six years practically single handed and even went to the extremity of declaring war on his own sovereign in the meantime before he was caught. He burned farms and even villages, employed mercenaries after the fashion of the times and made himself the terror of the district. He was finally influenced to stop hostilities by Luther, and after he had taken the sacrament from his hands he was betrayed into a further act of hostility by treachery and, being captured, suffered death on the wheel after refusing an act of grace which granted him the painless and honorable death of the sword. The story is perhaps the strangest of all the romances of that romantic age.—Westminster Gazette.

For Body and Soul.

Here is a curious advertisement, republished in the Cornhill Magazine from an eighteenth century paper: "Wanted—For a family who have bad health, a sober, steady person, in the capacity of a doctor, surgeon and apothecary. He must occasionally act in the capacity of butler and dress hair and wigs. He will be required to read prayers occasionally and to preach a sermon every Sunday. The reason of this advertisement is that the family cannot any longer afford the expense of the physical tribe and wish to be at a certain expense for their bodies and souls. A good salary will be given."

Truth Will Out.

Hubby (with irritation)—Why is it that you women insist upon having the last word?

Wifey (calmly)—We don't. The only reason we get it is because we always have a dozen arguments left when you stupid men are all run out.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Difference.

A fool is unable to see his own faults. A wise man, seeing his own faults, is able to keep other people from noticing them.—Chicago Record-Herald.

HALLET AND DAVIS PIANO

RIGHT QUALITY AND PRICE

There's a feeling of satisfaction after having purchased a Hallet & Davis. First, you have secured as fine a piano as can be made. Quality of the kind that will last. Then, too, you realize that you have paid a moderate price.

The limit of the piano-buying power of money is realized in the Hallet & Davis. If you pay more than the price of a Hallet & Davis, you are wasting money. Investigate and convince yourself. Easy monthly payments place these pianos within reach of all.

Our selling plan is absolutely one price. Every piano is plainly tagged—no mystery about the price. It is this fair and right plan, combined with our experience, superior factory facilities and ample capital, that form the foundation of our enormous business, the largest in New England.

Write for catalogs of pianos or player-pianos. We have many interesting booklets showing piano construction, etc.

DEMAND AN ACCOUNTING

Warren Township's School Fund Custodian is in Serious Trouble.

ABSENT FROM MEETINGS.

Board of Education Decides to Bring Suit Against Official Who is Postmaster at Warrenville.

Acting upon the advice of H. C. Krebs, Somerset county superintendent of schools, the Board of Education of Warren township, at a meeting at Warrenville, Saturday night, took steps to secure an accounting from John D. Bornmann, township custodian of school funds. The clerk of the board was instructed to have a suit brought against Mr. Bornmann for the purpose of having a penalty of $10 a day imposed for every day after August 1 last, that he failed to present his report. This matter is now in the hands of John F. Reger, of Somerville, counsel for the board.

Mr. Bornmann, it is said, claims that he has paid several notes, one for $800 and another for $400 which do not show on his books, but if he did this, it is said to be without the authority of the board. Mr. Bornmann, it is alleged has repeatedly agreed to attend meetings of the board, but in each instance has failed to put in an appearance. He has been the custodian of school funds, as well as township collector for several years.

Bornmann is also postmaster at Warrenville and keeps a general store. The board, it is said, has been three months trying to get a settlement from Mr. Bornmann. The residents of the township are greatly excited over the affair and are now determined to have a settlement made.

WATCHUNG HUNT RIDERS FOLLOWING THE HOUNDS.

The weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club on Saturday afternoon was one of the best of the season. Twenty members and invited friends followed the houds. There were only two spills, Charles Wildey and Brown Rolston going off their mounts. Neither was injured. Three new American hounds were in the pack of twenty, and the going was fast. The American hounds make the English ones work much faster than under ordinary conditions.

Among those who followed the hounds:

C. E. S. Bellows, William Hollis, Rufus C. Finch, Charles Wildey, Hart Farlee, Brown Rolston, Miss Mabel B. Hooley, Ruppert Anderson, C. W. Holland, Louis Batjer, Louis Batjer, Jr., George Rose, L. E. Waring and Huntsman Henry Watkins.

PASTOR TELLS HISTORY OF SOME FAMOUS HYMNS.

At the First Presbyterian church last night Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring devoted his address to the history of several of the old hymns interspersing the singing of them with their history and incidental remarks as to their writers. He said that the singing of psalms was a custom of very ancient practice, in fact, he said, that music in the services of the ancient church was one of the principal devotions.

Last evening Miss De Cant, the soprano of the quartet, sang "The Ninety and Nine" with great feeling, following the history of its origin and first rendition by Moody and Sankey. The quartet chanted the twenty-third psalm and several other hymns all of which had histories of special interest.

Classis to Meet.

The meeting of the Fall Session of the Classis of Newark will be held in the North Reformed church, Newark, Wednesday morning, beginning at 10 o'clock. Trinity Reformed church will be represented by the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, Elder F. E. Smith and Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, of Marconnied chapel.

She Will Sober Up.

Thirty days in the county jail was the punishment meted out to Catharine Baker, of Newark, this morning by City Judge William N. Runyon. Mrs. Baker has been before the court many times on the same charge of intoxication.

Violated Auto Law.

Victor Hallman, of New York, was arrested in the borough Saturday night for running an auto without lights and no Jersey license number. He gave bail for appearance tomorrow.

An Italian Hurt.

Antonio Vigliotto, an Italian, fell from a Fourth street trolley car at the corner of Fourth street and Monroe avenue at 7:45 o'clock last evening and was severely cut and bruised.

MANY DINNER PARTIES AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

Two hundred attended the afternoon reception, dinner and evening dance at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday. The music was furnished by VanBaar's Old Guard Band, of New York. Mrs. H. C. Irons was the chairman of the reception committee. She was assisted by Mrs. H. R. Stockton.

Among those who gave dinner parties were Mrs. J. Hartley Mellick, Mrs. John Gray Foster, George S. Clay, H. R. Stockton, Mrs. P. H. Stewart, C. Ames Brooks, A. W. Kleinecke, Leighton Calkins, J. Paul Nolting, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr. Mrs. F. W. Yates H. H. Foster, B. H. Lachlan, Henry A. McGee, Frederick Harrington, Walter M. McGee, Miss Agnes Taylor, R. S. Gernon, J. E. Rowland, H. G. Lapsey and Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr.

BOROUGH MAN ROLLS IN MOLASSES PUDDLE

A comedy of errors that is laughable to everybody but the parties concerned followed the attempt of one of Hersh and Co.'s drivers to deliver a barrel of molasses at Voehl's bakery on Harmony street, this morning. The head of the barrel flew out as it was lifted from the wagon and the sticky contents spread all over the sidewalk. As the drover stood gazing ruefully at the sorry state of affairs, Fred Stewart, of Park place, came along with his head held high.

Stewart failed to notice the molasses carpet until he stepped into it and his feet suddenly went skyward. He rolled over several times before he finally gained his balance, looking like a human fly-trap.

Stewart wanted the driver to pay for his ruined clothing, and when the latter demurred he called on Chief Weiss to arrest him. The chief couldn't see his way clear to do it, and Stewart will fight it out in a damage suit. The cops had to sprinkle sand on the floor when he left police headquarters.

DANIEL F. RANDOLPH DIES AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Daniel F. Randolph, one of the oldest citizens of South Plainfield, died yesterday morning at 5 o'clock after a long illness. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'cock, the services being conducted by Rev. N. H. Jordan. The interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Randolph is survived by three daughters and one son. He has lived all his life in South Plainfield and has conducted successfuly a large farm. In the death of Mr. Randolph and the late George Teeple South Plainfield has lost two of its oldest and best known residents.

BELASCO'S GREAT PLAY TO BE PRODUCED TONIGHT.

David Belasco's great play, "Is Matrimony a Failure?" will be presented at The Plainfield theatre, tonight by the original New York cast. There has been a large advance sale and it is believed that the play will be greeted by a capacity audience. H. S. Sanderson, of Proctor & Sanderson, has received this letter from Wilson S. Ross, manager for the production:

"I am going to give you a good performance of "Is Matrimony a Failure?" and I want you to work it up as best you can for Monday night. it is a funny comedy and you need not be afraid to recommend it."

Lewis at Dunellen.

Vivian M. Lewis, Republican candidate for governor, Benj. F. Howell, candidate for Congress, and the three Assembly candidates, Von Minden, Schenck and Ten Broeck, will tour Middlesex county tomorrow, and, according to schedule, will arrive at the Dunellen postoffice about 3:15 o'clock, where Mr. Lewis and the other candidates will speak to the citizens of the borough.

Y. M. C. A. Women's Tea.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a tea at the home of Mrs. J. W. DeGraff, on Central avenue on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Mr. Bailey, of Summit, will speak on "Our Boys," and C. W. Bingeman, of the Y. M. C. A., will present the interests of the boys of Plainfield.

Men's Club Outing.

The Men's Club, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, enjoyed an outing yesterday afternoon and last evening at the home of Oscar Ellis on the Watchung Mountains, where they enjoyed a corn roast and a fine repast. The affair was arranged by C. W. Spicer and Dr. M. L. Clawson.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF CHARLES S. MEHLENBECK

The funeral services of Charles S. Mehlenbeck, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mehlenbeck, were held at the home of the parents, 645 East Sixth street, at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The home was crowded with young friends of the boy, including his school mates and children from Trinity Reformed Sunday-school, of which he was a member. There were many beautiful floral tributes and these surrounded the little casket.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, conducted the service, and he spoke impressively of the short life and character of the boy, of his devotion to his church and Sunday-school, and how he had expressed to him his decision that when he grew up he intended being a minister of the gospel. The minister's words were full of tenderness and sympathy as he referred to the promising life so suddenly cut off, but he added that it was well with the boy, that he had accepted Christ and had gone to be with Him. Everyone present was deeply affected by the pastor's remarks.

The remains were taken to Somerville for interment in the family plot. The bearers, all uncles of the departed, were Alfred Bacon, John Mehlenbeck, Harry Messler and Russell Perrine.

Clifford Jones, a youth living in this city, was arrested by Chief Weiss, of the borough, at noon today, technically charged with the theft of $51 belonging to former Mayor Townsend. He was locked up pending an examination this evening.

Mr. Townsend sent a suit of clothes to a cleaning and pressing shop on Somerset street this morning, and neglected to remove a wallet containing the money. He thought about it later and went to the shop where the wallet was found in the coat but minus the money. Jones was driver of the wagon that had carried the suit and he was apprehended later. The money was found on him but he claimed to have taken it only for safe-keeping, adding that he meant to return it. He failed to explain why he had removed it from the wallet or why he had not mentioned it at the shop, and his arrest followed.

WIRELESS IN OPERATION AT CITY MARKET SATURDAY.

The City Market was a busy place on Saturday from early in the morning until late at night. Besides the musical entertainment given to the public, there was an exhibition of wireless telegraphy in which messages were sent and received from various parts of the market. This wireless apparatus will be installed upon the roof of the building and bulletins issued from time to time telling the world's news.

President LaRue, of the market company, is an old-time telegraph operator and with an expert from New York he gave the visitors to the market interesting proof of the value of aerograms. The market men and the new grocery store, under the management of Mr. Crowe, had their hands full attending to the ten thousand people who thronged the market, which extends through from North avenue to East Second street.

The management promise to introduce other novelties from time to time to interest the customers.

Feast of the Tabernacles.

Special programs have been arranged at the local Jewish Synagogue, for tonight, tomorrow and Wednesday for the observation of the Feast of the Tabernacles. It is the most joyful season of the year for the Jewish people, for they will feast and make merry for several days. Booths will be erected in or near the synagogues in which fruits of the season will be placed. Rabbi Davidson, of this city, will have charge of the services here. At the homes there will be feasting and merrymaking and exchange of visits among relatives and friends.

Culverts in Bad Condition.

Residents of the West End who have occasion to pass the corner at Fourth street and Plainfield avenue, are complaining of the dangerous condition in which two of the culverts have been left. The top pieces were removed several months ago and since then it has caused many people to step into the opening. More than one one of the unwary has received severe bruises while several serious accidents have been narrowly averted.

IS RELIGION DECLINING?

Rev. A. C. Nickerson Tells of Falling off of Numbers in Religious Chuches.

PRAYER MEETING DISPARAGED.

Blackmailing of Merchants for Contributions for Church Fairs —No Place for Fairs.

In his sermon yesterday morning Rev. A. C. Nickerson made some statements relating to the Roman Catholic, Protestant and other religious denominations declaring that in many cases religious belief and manifestation are on the decline. Especially is this so, he said, with the Roman Catholics. He quoted from statistics compiled by bishops of the churches involved in searching for the truth.

He said that the Roman Catholics believed that their church was the only true church and that their religion was the only true religion, although they admitted, he said, that there were other denominations. His statistics showed that there was a loss in communicants in the Roman Catholic church.

Referring to the Protestant religion, Mr. Nickerson said that the churches were not being filled as they ought to be because of the lack of interest in religious things. Prayer meetings with their open prayers to God was something the Unitarians never believed in and that eventually, as the people grow more intelligent, the prayer meeting would cease to be held.

Mr. Nickerson declared that he did not believe in holding church fairs in the same building as served for the worship of God and decried the blackmailing of merchants for contributions to these events, saying it is not fair to them.

Surprise for Mr. Lie.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Lie were tendered a hrome-coming surprise reception by a number of their Plainfield friends on Saturday evening. Having gathered at the Ritz they went to Mr. Lie's studio. A delightful evening was spent with pictures and music and the happy reunion of old friends. Among those present were Frank Thompson, Miss Thompson, Harry Whtie, Miss White, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Laurence, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hoff, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Riley, J. P. Zerega, Mrs. Henry Wells, William Gilbert and Miss Kathleen Ryder.

Muldoon's Barn Destroyed.

Fire was discovered in Patrick Muldoon's barn on Liberty street about 2:15 o'clock this afternoon, and in response to an alarm from box No. 46 the department responded quicky. At first several houses in the vicinity of the structure were threatened, but the prompt arrival of the firemen resulted in keeping the flames away from the adjoining property. The cause for the fire is unknown.

Congregational Meeting.

A congregational meeting of Trinity Reformed church will be held Wednesday night, October 26, for the annual election of church officers. The members of consistory whose terms of office expire are as follows: Elders George E. VanEmburgh, Robert J. Clark, H. E. Gayle; Deacons A. K. Willett, William R. Kriney and William F. Oliver.

Mexico the Subject.

The Women's Home Mission Society of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock for the consideration of the "Geography of Mexico," by Mrs. Calvin Boice, and a paper to be presented by Miss Marian F. Randolph on "The Toltecs." Mrs. George Robins will conduct the devotional exercises.

New Petit Jurors.

The list of petty jurors drawn this morning at Elizabeth includes the following Plainfielders: Jacob Voehl, Jr., Herbert Holder, Garfield, Pike, Arthur Gallup, Daniel Martine, John Anton, Duncan W. Taylor Charles Keller, William Pinto and John Wyman. W. H. Hull was drawn from Fanwood.

Dr. Shoop to Speak.

The fall meeting of the Dutch Arms, men's association, of Trinity Reformed church, will be held Friday night at 8 o'clock. The Y. M. C. A. orchestra will render selections; Rev. Ora J. Shoop will speak and a genuine Dutch supper will be served.

VanDeventer Wins Tennis Match.

Ludlow VanDeventer won the boys' singles in the P. H. S. tennis tournament, Saturday afternoon, defeating John Uhler. The players were evenly matched and it took five sets before a decision was reached. The results were 5-7, 6-3, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3.

RUSSEL HARDEN WEDS MISS LUCETTA CLARK

Miss Lucetta Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio M. Clark, of Grandview avenue, and J. Russell Harden, of the borough, were married Saturday night at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church, and was witnessed by a gathering of relatives and friends. The parlor, where the bridal couple stood, was prettily decorated with white cosmos and palms, while the library was in autumnal dress.

Miss Grace Clark, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Charles Terry, of Orange, acted as best man. The wedding march was rendered by Lewis Hummer, piano, and Arthur Mosher, violin.

Miss Clark's gown was of white French chiffon over white silk, trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses. Her attendant wore embroidered batiste over white silk and carried pink carnations.

Following a reception and supper, Mr. and Mrs. Harden left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Toronto and the Thousand Islands. On returning they will reside temporarily at the home of the bride's parents. The groom is employed at the First National Bank, and both he and his bride have been prominent in the work at Grace M. E. church.

MRS. AND MISS FISK IN AUTO COLLISION

The bright moonlight and brilliant headlights of two automobiles did not prevent a collision at 10 o'clock last night in which Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, wife of the Mayor, and Miss Anna Fisk, their daughter, narrowly escaped injury. The party were on their way home from New Brunswick and had reached the bridge near the Black Horse Inn on the Cranberry turnpike when there was a crash and the two cars came to a standstill in the center of the bridge. None of the occupants were injured.

John H. Backus, a Trenton lawyer, and Emanuel New, of the same place, owner of the car which ran into Mayor Fisk's car, and two women also were considerably shaken up. The damage to New's car was a bent axle, but Mayor Fisk's car was badly smashed. William Coleman the Mayor's chauffeur, was at the wheel and because of the approach to the narrow bridge being somewhat hidden was running his car carefully.

The Mayor was not in the car. He had met a Mr. Macauley, of Philadelphia, who wanted to pass through Plainfield and as he did not know the road Mayor Fisk volunteered to show him the way. Mr. Macauley's car followed the Mayor's car about half a mile behind and came up just after the collision. When the Mayor approached the scene Mr. Backus ran up to him and recognizing Mr. Fisk said: "I have just run into a car." The Mayor replied that that car was his car, wherupon Mr. Backus amended his statement by saying that "the car ran into mine."

Mayor Fisk's car was towed into town this morning and taken to the F. L. C. Martin garage for repairs.

CLASSES AT Y. W. C. A. BEGIN SEASON TODAY.

The classes at the Young Women's Christian Association open today for the season. Miss Edith Capron, of New York, will take up the millinery class work at 4 o'clock and again at 8 o'clock this evening. Miss Isabel Scarborough who will have charge of the dressmaking classes will begin with one class at 2 o'clock and with the other at 8. The embroidery class in charge of Miss Mamie Lough will have one session beginning at 8 o'clock.

The gymnasium class, under Miss Mosher will begin work tonight at 8 o'clock The other classes for the week will be continued. The Bible classes and suppers will not begin until the first Monday in November.

Holland Gets Japan.

C. W. Holland has purchased "Japan," the well known hunter formerly owned by Charles Wildey and more recently by Harry A. Bourne, of Westfild.

Trial for Defamation.

The trial of the suit against F. L. C. Martin brought by George Mitchell for alleged defamation of character, is being held today in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth before Judge Vail. Judge William Newcorn is defending Mr. Martin and F. J. Higgins and Merritt Lane, of Jersey City, are conducting the case for Mitchell. An adjournment was taken at 1 o'clock. The trial was resumed at 2 o'clock with Mitchell on the stand. Judge William N. Runyon and Mayor Charles J. Fisk are witnesses in the case.

FRANK ROSE ON TRIAL FOR HIGHWAY ROBBERY

Frank Rose, whom Paul Wagner, an employee of the Centeral Railroad, alleges held him up and robbed him on the night of June 28 last, is on trial today before Judge Clarence L. Case at Somerville. Rose is being defended by Robert Newton Crane. The outcome of the trial will depend largely on the identification of Rose as the man who committed the crime. It is said that he has not yet been identified as the person who Wagner alleges held him up.

Another case which came up before Judge Case in the Criminal branch of the Somerset county court this morning was that of Elizabeth Kennedy, who is charged with three crimes. The motion of her attorney A. M. Beekman, to quash the three counts in the indictment because of defects, was denied by Judge Case and the woman will have to stand trial.

Scotch Plains Boys' Club.

Through the kindness of the Scotch Plains Baptist church trustees the boys of that village are to have a club and club room, having given them two rooms on the ground floor of the post-office building. Fourteen charter members were received on Saturday night. All boys between the ages of 10 and 14 years are eligible for membership. The meeting was incharge of Clarence Murphy, of this city, who is one of the 125 chosen leaders of the Ernest Thompson Seton Camp club. Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the church, also gave the members a short talk.

Republicans Complete Organization.

Members of the advisory committee, in accordance with the provision in the constitution, met in the Dix building, Elizabeth, Friday night. Chairman F. H. Smith was given power to make such appointments as desired, and the meeting was held to perfect an organization. Mayor C. J. Fisk was chosen chairman; W. H. Groves, of Elizabeth, secretary; Edward Atwater, Jr., of Elizabeth, treasurer and Peter Tillman of Rahway and W. W. Wodruff, of Elizabeth, vice-presidents. Encouraging reports were received from all parts of the county.

Gave a Surprise Party.

A surprise party was tendered to Miss Miriam Emery and George Gray at the home of the former on Friday night. The evening was spent in dancing and games. There were piano selections by the Misses Lakey, Ayers and Graves and recitations by Miss Pennington, and James Fitzgerald, Joseph Smith, Mrs George Gray, Mrs. J. Donaldson, Archie Gilbert and Percy Emery gave a dialogue, entitled "Andy's Matrimanial Difficulties," which was much enjoyed. During the evening supper was served.

Buchner—Hoffman.

Miss Rose Mary Buchner and Clarence Hoffman, both of Perth Amboy, were married Saturday evening at the home of W. E. VanCourt, Oak Tree, by Rev. J. T. Lansdale, pastor of Marconnier chapel. Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Buckner, also of Perth Amboy, were the attendants. Among the guests were Mr. Buchner, father, and Miss Clara L. Buchner, sister of the bride. The groom is employed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Perth Amboy.

Barn Struck by Lightning.

During the thunder storm, Saturday night, a barn belonging to David M. Kellogg and located on the Holly Grove Farm, at Oak Tree, was struck by lightning. A pile of straw was set on fire. The blaze was discovered by Leonard Sandford VanCourt, who promptly extinguished it before any damage resulted.

Rasores to Meet.

The Rasores will meet with Mrs. Halloway, East Seventh street, tomorrow morning. The subject will be "The Longfellow Family."

VOTERS HEAR MR. LEWIS

Candidate Promises Clean, Honest and Competent Administration.

DR. PRINCE ALSO SPOKE.

Judge Runyon Given a Great Ovation by the Big Crowd at Mass Meeting at Reform Hall.

A crowd that completely filled Reform Hall Saturday night and which included many women heard Vivian M. Lewis discuss Sate issues and declare himself upon topics which are uppermost in the minds of the voters at this time. Mr. Lewis declared that he favored the selection of Congressmen and Governor at the primaries by direct vote; put himself on record as in favor of rate making power for the Public Utilities Commission and said he would urge upon the Legislature, if elected, the necessity for a more stringent Corrupt Practices act; would make it impossible for a corporation to receive its charter until properly investigated by competent authority and finally declared that he would give a clean, honest and economical administration. Senator John D. Prince, of Paterson, and Judge William N. Runyon also spoke. The former confined himself to telling what Dr. Woodrow Wilson lacked in the way of political wisdom, while the judge confined himself to a defense of the tariff and an eulogy of President William H. Taft.

Craig A. Marsh presided and introduced the speakers, Walter Hetfield, Jr., having performed a like office for Mr. Marsh.

Mr. Marsh, as Chairman, said:

"We can all, irrespective of party, agree on one thing: We rejoice that our civilization and politics have so far progressed that for years both parties have felt compelled to nominate for office men of high character and ability. All the candidates on both sides, local, state, and national, are, in my opinion, men of high character, and have abundant ability, if elected, to undertake the duties of the offices for which they were nominated. How was this happy condition brought about? Well, in New Jersey it is well-known history. Back of fifteen years ago the Democratic Party was so strongly intrenched in power that from time to time its leaders coerced conventions into nominating corrupt men, and a democratic nomination was equivalent to an election. This, as you know, culminated in the disgrace of the state, the triumph of the race-track gamblers, the election of the notorious Tom Flynn to the Assembly and his election to the speaker's chair. A political revolution followed. The people rose in their might and swept the Democratic party from power, and placed in the Governor's chair that distinguished lawyer and statesman, John W. Griggs. The Republican party was put on trial and was proved worthy of the trust, and was continued in power; and continued to elect the same high grade of men, as witness Governors Voorhees, Murphy, Stokes, Fort, and our next Governor, Vivian M. Lewis; and, locally, witness Senator, now United States Judge Joseph W. Cross, Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, Congressman Charles N. Fowler, Mayor Alexander Gilbert, Mayor Charles J. Fisk, next Mayor Benjamin F. Coriell, and next Congressman William N. Runyon.

"Some independent Republicans have said to me: We concede that this high standard for nominees of both parties was an achievement of the Republican party; but now that that has been accomplished, why not leave us to decide who is the better of two opposing nominees regardless of party?

"To this I answer that the existence and opposition of two great parties is vitally essential to good government, and that is why we are here tonight. If this were a contest merely as to whom is the better of two good and competent men, it would be a contest unworthy of the people of the great State of New Jersey—it would be a contest little more dignified than the voting at a beauty prize contest at a county fair.

"But if you insist on putting the question on such narrow grounds as to whom is the better man of two good men, I ask, better man for what? For a college President? For a writer of books? For a lecturer on metaphysics? Why, Woodrow Wilson. But if you were about to engage in a momentous litigation involving your property, your reputation or your life, would you select Dr. Wilson, profound student of the law though he be? Would you even select a law-school President, or lecturer, however eminent? No. You would select a lawyer of wide experience in the trial of causes, a man who all his professional life has been in contact with judges and jurors and witnesses; who knows his calling, not merely from books, but from training and experience in the actual practice of his profession.

"So with the Governor; we need a man who, to the learning of books and theories, has added the wisdom that comes from actual training and experience in the affairs of state, and such a man is not Dr. Wilson, but Vivian M. Lewis.

"Again, a governor is not the whole government, any more than a general is the whole army. We must look back of the governor or the general to see what forces are behind him, who will make up his staff, his council of war, his trusted advisors.

"Well, we know who brought about Dr. Wilson's nomination, if he does not; and we know what are the dominant forces in his party. They are controlled the same as they were back of fifteen years ago—by Jim Smith, Jim Nugent, Bob Davis and the rest. The voice of the Democratic masses will not be heeded. The democratic masses by an overwhelming majority endorsed James E. Martine as their choice for United States Senator, but does any man within the sound of my voice imagine that if the next Legislature is democratic on joint ballot Mr. Martine will be elected United States Senator? Is there one of you who doubts that James Smith would continue to dominate the party and would get himself re-elected?

"But our democratic friends say: Don't you in the matter of titles to real estate, about which public records give no warning.

There Are Many Pitfalls

Some defects in title are cured by time, others grow worse.

Suppose for example, that a title depends upon a construction of law, which later decisions may overturn.

Against such a possibility no searching, however carefully done, nor opinion of counsel, however learned, will provide—the owner must take his chances. "LET THE BUYER BEWARE."

Here the GUARANTY OF TITLE comes in protecting the owner against any defects, DISCOVERABLE or UNDISCOVERABLE.

Fidelity Trust Co.

NEWARK, N. J,

guarantees titles to real estate throughout New Jersey. The rate for this service is not high—but it absolutely protects the purchaser of real estate.

Come in and talk it over.

urday night.

A well attended meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

Rev. and Mrs. Franklin K. Mathiews entertained friends from out of town at the parsonage over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Sabitino, of Park avenue, were the guests over Sunday of relatives in New York.

Miss Anna Sullivan, of the corps of teachers, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Brooklyn.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Because of a scarcity of pickers, thousands of quarts of cranberries in the bogs at Cecil are going to waste.

Palsboro Junior Mechanics Friday night decided to withdraw from the Funeral Benefit Association of New Jersey and to organize one of their own.

Slipping from a step in front of her home Friday, Miss Annie Goldberg, of 1629 Filmore street, Camden, dislocated a shoulder and was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital.

On his way home from work late Friday afternoon, Santo Ziraducci, twenty-four years old, a Waterford laborer, was struck by an automobile at Ancora and instantly killed. Coroner Cook, of Laurel Springs, gave a certificate.

Approving the final account of the estate of William H. Wagner, president of the J. B. Van Sciver Company, prior to his death in an automobile accident near Nazareth, Pa., Judge Joline in Camden Friday found that there were $83,272.84 for distribution among the children.

Borough Recorder Frank Lyons, of Vineland, held Fred and Charles Turpin for court in $500 bail each to answer a charge of stealing valuable machinery from the Clayville Brick Works, and, after converting it into scrap iron, selling it to a foundry. William Creamer, alleged to have helped load the scrap iron in a woods where it had been secreted for a time, was held in $200 bail.

PERSONAL.

Miss Anna Bush, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

Joseph A. Denny, of Fairview avenue, has returned from a visit in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Henry Binger and family, of Elizabeth, have been visiting friends at Watchung.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Tate, of New York, are registered at Truell Inn for the month.

William H. Remler, of Watchung, has returned from a visit with friends in Jersey City.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hose, of Newark, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Kutz, of Watchung.

Miss Dorothy Krewson, of Somerset street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Clifford Brokaw, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Vail, of Somerset street, have returned from a visit with friends in New York.

Miss Anna L. Case, formerly soprano soloist at the First Presbyterian church, has been spending a few days in town with friends.

Mrs. Harry Stewart and daughter, Miss Ethel Stewart, of Bayonne, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Bodin, of Watchung.

Mrs. John H. Stewart and daughter, Miss Jessie Stewart, of Springfield, Mass., who have been visiting friends here for the past two weeks, being registered at Truell Court, returned home Saturday.

The Misses Elsie and Anna Moldenke, who have been spending the summer with their parents at Watchung, have returned to Philadelphia, to take up their studies at "The Lankenau School," formerly the Mary J. Drexel.

Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung, has returned from an extended business trip through fourteen States in the interest of one of the large iron corporations. He went as far west as Minneapolis and as far south as Chattanooga, where he met Theodore Roosevelt. He is now at Uniontown, Pa., for a few days on business.

AUTOMOBILES CRASH, EXPLANATIONS MADE.

While F. J. Wetzel, of South Clinton avenue, Trenton, was driving a big touring car Saturday, he ran into a small car operated by George Van Nest near Harlingen. Van Nest was thrown into the road and his car badly damaged, while Wetzel speeded his machine toward Somerville without stopping to ascertain the extent of the damage.

A telephone message was sent to the authorities at Somerville requesting them to apprehend Wetzel. He was stopped at Main and Bridge streets, Somerville, by Prosecutor Frederick A. Pope and Policeman Joseph Hanlon. Wetzel expressed surprise, but confessed that he had smashed into Van Nest's machine while running in the same direction on the road. He stated that the reason he did not stop to find out the extent of the damages was because he was sore on Van Nest.

Wetzel was released by Prosecutor Pope after he had promised to appear when summoned before the court.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Dunellen and New Market residents will have an opportunity tomorrow to hear addresses by Vivian Lewis, Republican candidate for governor. He is to make a tour of Middlesex county by auto and will arrive in New Market, according to schedule, about 3 o'clock. From there he will proceed to Dunellen and is slated to speak in front of the postoffice at 3:50. He will be accompanied by Congressman B. F. Howell and the Assembly candidates Von Minden, Schenck and Ten Broeck, who will also make brief addresses.

The ideal weather of yesterday drew a large number of people from Dunellen, Plainfield and other places to Washington Rock. At one time there were fully 100 persons enjoying the view from the popular spot.

Friendship Circle will be entertained next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Robert L. Pierce. The G. E. club will be entertained tomorrow night by Miss Loretta Meeker, of Plainfield.

Washington Camp will give a complimentary party next Thursday night to all those who assisted in making the recent fair so great a success.

The residence of Mrs. Margaret Dealaman on Washington avenue is being repainted and decorated. J. F. G. Kinney is doing the work.

Charles E. Tinsman will shortly start on a tour of northern New Jersey as demonstrator for the Columbia Phonograph Company.

Charles Rogers, who has been indisposed for some time, has returned to his former position at the Clark T. Rogers' grain office.

J. Newton Apgar has commenced the erection of a new house for Fred Wilcox at Park and First streets.

BOYNTON "Square Pot" BOILERS

are the basis of the best hot water heating system known—the BOYNTON dealers in your town can demonstrate this to your satisfaction.

BOYNTON boilers have the same square fire pot which has so long made BOYNTON hot-air heaters famous. This fire pot gives perfect, hence economical, combustion. Being square cornered, it clears of ashes instantly. It's never necessary to fuss or bother with a "BOYNTON" fire. BOYNTON "square pot" boilers give even, easily controlled heat, from cellar to farthest radiator.

Look at the sectional cut above and see how perfectly the Boynton is arranged for quick steaming.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

This is a Fast Growing Store

The store that keeps serving the people best is the store that grows the fastest.

As proof of our best service we have only to cite the remarkable growth which we have attained during the time we have done business in Plainfield.

Our business has grown not slowly and imperceptibly—but by rapid leaps and bounds, and evidence of its growth in the shape of enlarged Departments, greater stocks and a steadily increasing patronage, are being constantly remarked by those who pay us frequent visits.

All this is the reward of conscientious service-giving—

High quality standards—

Fair prices—

Courteous assistants—

Confidence in the selection of our stocks and in looking to the satisfaction of our customers—

The constant keeping up of varieties—

Truthful advertising.

These are the factors largely responsible for our success.

No store can rise higher than the ideals of its management. Our aims and ambitions are so high, that as fast as we are gaining strength and popularity, we have no disposition to leave well enough alone.

We continue to be restless for advancement—to seek out and adopt new measures for serving our public better.

The success which we have attained shall only serve as a stimulus to our striving toward perfection.

Chicago, 4; St. Louis, 1.

DATA OF THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES.

First game—Monday, October 17, at Philadelphia.

Second game—Tuesday, October 18, at Philadelphia.

Third game—Thursday, October 20, at Chicago.

Fourth game—Friday October 21, at Chicago.

Fifth game—Saturday, October 22, at Philadelphia.

Sixth game—Sunday, October 23, at Chicago.

Seventh game (if necessary)—time and place to be decided by lot.

Series ends when one team wins four games.

In case of postponed or drawn games the dates thereafter will be changed.

If either the first or second game is postponed or drawn the teams will remain in Philadelphia until two games have been decided. The same rule will hold for the third and fourth games, which are to be played in Chicago, irrespective of postponements or ties. Except that the Sunday date in Chicago is fixed if the series lasts that long.

Wednesday, October 19, is left open for traveling. The other jumps, if any, will be made by special train.

Umpires—National League, O'Day and Rigler; American League, Connolly and Sheridan.

Financial Representatives—John A. Heydler, secretary of the National League; Robert B. McRoy, secretary of the American League.

Scorers—Francis Richter, Sporting Life; Taylor Spink, Sporting News.

Division of receipts:

Sixty per cent. of 90 per cent. of the receipts of the first four games forms the players' pool. The contestants do not share in the receipts after four games have been decided.

Forty per cent. of 90 per cent. of the receipts of the first four games and 90 per cent. of the receipts of all other games played go to the club owners, to be divided equally.

Ten per cent. of the receipts of all games played goes to the National Commission.

Sixty per cent. of the players' pool goes to the winners of the series and 40 per cent. to the losers.

Players eligible for world's series:

Smartly Tailored Suits for Women

We could mark these suits $25.00 and then know that we have the best suit in town at the price, but $22.50 gets you the suit, at about or around $25.00 when the alteration is made. Comes in the popular 30-inch models, made by tailors who do not know how to make a poor suit; fancy mixtures, cheviots, men's wear worsteds and diagonals; navy, black, brown, gray and green; skirts side pleated or with flounce effect; very stylish, all perfectly plain. Jackets of some have braid trim, while others are severely plain; Skinner satin linings.....$22.50

EXQUISITE DRESSES WORTH $10.00 TO $12.50 MORE

It was our good fortune to secure about fifty dresses at a figure allowing us to sell them at this price; but actually worth $10.00 to $12.50 more. Messalines, aeolians, chiffons, peau de cygnes, velvets, meteors, serges and others, and a great variety of colors. Dresses for any occasion and plenty of sizes, misses' and women's.....$25.00

Another splendid lot at $15.

"EQUAL TO CUSTOM MADE" TAILORED SUITS

We make a great specialty of suits at $35.00 and we challenge any custom tailor to finish a suit better, no matter what the price; to give better material is simply impossible. Made up in imported broadcloths, Scotch mixtures, serges, cheviots and worsteds; new and ultra stylish; 28 inch semi-fitted jackets; backs with two or three seams, a new back, giving a broad effect has the side seams terminating at armhole. Some have velvet collar, 30 inch models, with shawl or regulation collar and rever; faced with satin or velvet; all sizes 16 to 47; a host of colors to select from, at.....$35.00

STYLISH AUTUMN COATS

A choice lot of coats and a large proportion of them that could have gone in the $18.00 lot. Stripes, diagonals, mixtures, broadcloths, and serges. High necks, regulation collars, or a style with entirely new shaped rever; faced with satin and braid edged; black, navy, brown, gray, tan, plaid backs in gray and brown.....$13.50

HIGH-CLASS SILK PETTICOATS

Not a skirt in this lot that is not actually worth a five-dollar bill; Dresdens, Persians, plain and changeable taffetas and messalines; styles with sectional ruffles, knife pleating and tucking; in combination and plain top with Dresden flounce, every desirable color.....$3.98

EDWARD T. WINS IN STRAIGHT HEATS

The final matinee meet of the season was held by the Westfield Riding and Driving Club at Fair Acres Park track Saturday afternoon. The program included three class events, a pony show, and an effort by Colon, owned by H. G. Keenan, of Elizabeth, to break the track trotting record of 2 14¼. Colon made two attempts. His best time was 2.23.

The race between EdwardT., owned by Dr. A. S. Case, of Flemington, and Aron B., owned by A. C. Blair, of this city, in the free-for-all class, was the feature of the afternoon. Edward T. won in three straight heats. Good jockeying in the final heat caused Edward T. to nose under the wire in an exciting finish.

Ravenwood and Little Ella A. collided in final heat of the 2.20 trot and pace. They came together on the last quarter, smashing both sulkies, putting them out of the race.

The officials of the meet were J. Chamberlain, of Flemington; H. W. Evans and J. S. Irving, of Westfield, judges; Charles W. Petterly, of Somerville; J. Stout, of Flemington, and Dr. H. H. Buttler, of Westfield, timers, and W. J. Hudson, of Plainfield, starter.

The summaries:

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Courtney Foote, of the "Is Matrimony a Failure?" company, attended a dinner given by the late Marion Crawford in Rome a few years ago. During the dinner the talk turned upon Venice.

"There's a young lady," Mr. Crawford said, "whom I met one bright October morning in Sorrento. She told me that she was touring Italy with her father. She said her father had liked all the Italian cities, but especially he had liked Venice.

"'Ah, Venice, to be sure,' said I. 'I can readily understand that your father would prefer Venice, with its gondolas, and St. Mark's and Michael Angleos—'

"'Oh, no,' said the young lady; 't wasn't that But he could sit in the hotel, you know, and fish out of the window." This play will be seen at The Plainfield theatre tonight.

Will Present "The Great Divide."

"The Lion and the Mouse," was presented at The Plainfield theatre Saturday night to a capacity audience, by the permanent stock company. It was one of the best shows given by this organization and was greatly enjoyed. Today the company will appear at Perth Amboy, returning tomorrow in "The Great Divide," the great success of Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin. This production will be complete in every detail and already there is a big advance sale. The last of the week, Arnold Daly's play, "The Boys of Co. B," will be given.

know that Dr. Wilson, if elected, will oppose any improper influence with all his power? Yes, he will, with all the force of his high character and great talents. But what will that avail against the power of James Smith and his cohorts?

"Why, the contest would be as unequal as the famous contest described by Sidney Smith between Dame Partington and the Atlantic Ocean during the great storm at Sidmouth. You remember he said that the spirit of the Atlantic was aroused, and Mrs. Partington's ire was up, too; that she appeared with mop an pattens, in determined opposition to the rising storm and tide; but Mr. Smith sadly remarks that the contest was unequal—that the dear old lady was very good at a slop or a puddle, but she had no business to meddle with the Atlantic Ocean.

"Now not abating one jot or tittle from my respect for Dr. Wilson, I say that the contest before him, if elected, would be as unequal as that described by Sidney Smith.

"I take pleasure in introducing one who is no mere theorist, no novice in public life; but a statesman tried and proved, whose past record in the affairs of state is our sufficient guaranty of the record he will make during the next three years. I present the next Governor, Vivian M. Lewis."

Mr. Lewis paid a compliment to the women in the audience for their evident interest in the campaign and told them the old story about the "hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." He said, "the mother who directs correctly the morals right living of her sons is as great a power in the community as the best of the men."

Referring to Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, who was on the stage, Mr. Lewis said: "He is one of the best representatives that this or any other city ever had, and his Civil Service bill was a measure which has been the means of taking many graft offices out of politics. That measure has driven partisanship out of public offices and Mr. Ackerman serves his State unselfishly in everything he does. In our heterogeneous population it is a good thing to have a man like him at the head of the Senate.

"The concentrated efforts of individuals is what makes our good government. It is the attainment of good, patriotic citizens banded together for unselfish service which accomplishes the great ends of our civic life. We live in a great country, under a great form of government, the three branches of which work in harmonious relationship. Rome fell becauseof internal dissentions. Our army, navy and State departments are the admiration of the world and they have been perfected under Republican administrations.

"I am a Republican. I believe in the Republican party and I tell you that parties are a necessity. Party leaders are a necessity, but bossism should be put down so that it may never rise again. Party organization should survive because of its right principles and what it advocates for the whole people. The Republican party has been the spensor for all business success. It has dissipated anarchy, built the free schools and churches; and other institutions for the improvement of the people. It is a fallacy to believe that one man can carry the weight of the whole country on his shoulders. Such an achievement is impossible, but I believe that the organization of strong individuals are capable of so administering the country's affairs that they will be eminently satisfactory to the whole country.

"No country on the face of the earth has made such progress or such gigantic strides forward as has ours. Our greatest thinkers, Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, McKinley, all have taught us in living how to die. Our country gave to us that progressive intreped President, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, (tremendous applause) and last, but not least we have today one whom history will say has signed more bills than any other President who ever sat in the executive chair and if they will uphold him and give him a chance to finish as he has begun they will find that they have another hero to put in the Hall of Fame."

The speaker then referred to the country's finances, pointing out how the income for a single year (1909) was nearly sufficient to wipe out the entire bonded debt. He declared that from our mints alone we derived an income of over a million and a half of dollars annually, which is more than the entire budget of the Republic of Peru, once the richest of the possessions of Spain. Referring to the building of the Panama canal he said that at its completion the stores of Union county would be the shopping places of the women of Australia.

Continuing Mr. Lewis said: "We are now engaged in a State campaign which has stirred the State from one end to the other. We have the same common purpose—to better our condition and we use the State government with which to accomplish our purpose. And in order to do it we ask that the State government be kept abreast of the times. It is like a great corporation which meets to select its board of governors and other officers, and it is due to you people that you have a correct accounting of their stewardship. The change from the corruption of fifteen years ago to the wise and progressive administration of the Republicans has made wonderful changes for the better in our commonwealth. The peoples trust had been betrayed, the treasury depleted and corrupt laws were in vogue. Under the Republicans the State has become the fourth State in the Union and is second only to Massachusetts in its manufacturing industries. Within twenty-five years at the present rate of increase the State of New Jersey will have becom as densely populated as any of the cities of the Far East. In 1890 the total output of manufactures was in round numbers $250,000,000 and the wages amounted to $83,000,000. While in 1909 the output was $900,000,000 and the wages $662,000,000. These increases are not attributable to the Republican party alone, but to the wise laws which have been enacted and Jersey genius.

"If I am so fortunate as to be elected I propose to present to the Legislature this: That before any corporation shall receive its charter in this State the objects and standing of the corporation shall be fully investigated by competent authority in order to prevent the foisting upon the public of undesirable or fraudulent securities. Under Republican rule New Jersey has modernized its penal institutions. It has developed giving the man another chance. It has built new and practical reformatories. It has built the free public schools and millions have been exacted from corporations for the maintenance of the schools. If this system is continued New Jersey will soon be in the lead in the matter of free education. The Democratic State government never spent a cent for the county roads or State roads. Look at the magnificent roads which you have now from east to west and from north to south No State in the Union can boast of such achievement.

"Our Health, Forest and other commissions have demonstrated their efficiency wherever put to the test. Our potable water supply has been protected and will never be allowed to be taken from the State under Republican rule. The courts of New Jersey still hold their preeminence and Jersey justice is world wide. We have had no malfeasance in office; no embezzlements and no scandal. We are practicaly a State without a bonded debt and with a comfortable balance in the treasury. I believe in giving the rate making power to the Public Utilities Commission, and will recommend that course to the Legislature. I am in favor of direct primaries. They are popular with the people in the State. I think they ought to extend to the nomination of Congressmen and Governor and if a bill covering this is passed by the Legislature I will sign it. I see no harm in the distribution of ballots at the public expense. I believe they should be sent out by the election boards. I favor the most stringent Corrupt Practices Act.

"I believe that as there is so much money spent in paying the running expenses of the State, that the Governor ought to be as familiar with the outgo as any one of you men are in your private business. If elected I will give you a clean, wise and conomical administration and at the end of three years will turn the government of the State over to you unbesmirched The Republican party has been prudent and wise. Continued growth means continued increase in expenditures. There is no mare baleful obsession than the fear of disapproval for an honestly conceived act. I ask you to give the party that support and approval without which no party can survive."

Long continued applause followed the end of the speech.

Senator Prince spoke until the arrival of Judge Runyon, a few minutes later and compared Dr. Woodrow Wilson to the mechanic trained in the shop with the practical chauffeur and adroitly bringing the simile home in his reference to Dr. Wilson's intellectual ability as against practical political administration. He was applauded.

When Judge Runyon passed up the aisle he was given an ovation. He immediately got into his stride and gave a wholesome and effective review of the disputed points of the tariff and called President Taft one of the greatest men of the day. He urged those present to uphold the party and Taft and warned them not to be misled by the specious arguments of those who would detract from the glory of the party which had brought so much progress to the western world.

Among those who acted as vice-presidents at the meeting were Walter Hetfield, Jr., Judge William Newcorn, W. S. Angleman, Frank H. Smith, William G. DeMeza, J. Henry Crane, Francis J. Blatz, S. P. T. Wilbur, Martin B. Stutsman, F. L. C. Martin and others.

A JOLT FOR THE "DEEP MAN."

Of all types of masculinity, my sisters, the man who believes in and exhibits his thought and feeling is the most exasperating.

He is always very sensitive—and he tells you so on every possible occasion. He is the man who, when his wife wants to go away in the summer, says: "Oh, very well, go, my dear; it seems quite easy for you to enjoy yourself without me. But then I never expect to be considered of any importance." But he does!

He is always being slighted; and he explains to you carefully that he doesn't mind it in the least; it is just as others decide. But of course he can't help its hurting him, though he says nothing.

In fact, it is his habit to say nothing. "Still waters run deep," he murmured, in excuse of his taciturnity. And often he is very successful in impressing strangers with his philosophical quietude when he simply has nothing to say. "When ignorant, be silent," is a good proverb. It gives you the reputation of beng wise.

The "deep" man is always secretive. He loves an atmosphere of mystery; t lends so much more importance to his words and deeds. No matter how simple the move he is contemplating, be it even the using of a telephone or the buying of a hat, he surrounds it with all the ceremony of the deepest secrecy. He is the man who calls up, and when the person he wants is not at home, answers, n response to your request for his name, "Oh, never mind, I'll call again." You insist. "Tell him it's a friend," he answers in chilly dignity, and rings off.

When Zeb Acted

By Lawrence Alfred Clay

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press

"Pa—Zeb—Jimmy! Mary has gone! Her bed ain't been slept in!"

Farmer John White, Zeb Hastings, his hired man, and his son Jimmy were sitting down to breakfast when Mrs. White, who had been upstairs to see why the daughter Mary didn't come down, stood at the foot of the stairs and made the above announcement.

"What do you mean, ma?" slowly asked the husband, while Zeb turned pale and rose up, and Jimmy, the 14-year-old son, had a guilty look.

"Come right upstairs and see for yourselves. I tell you her bed ain't been slept in, and I shouldn't a bit wonder if most of her clothes was gone!"

The husband, wife and Zeb filed up the stairway and gazed at the bed, while Jimmy made a sneak for the barn. The bed was there, without a crease or a crinkle in it, and Mary's best things were missing.

"She wouldn't hang herself in the garret, would she?" asked the father.

"She wouldn't drown herself in the well, would she?" asked the white-faced wife, as she wrung her hands.

Zeb Hastings had been a farmer's hired man since he was 18. He was steady and hard-working. He had been with the Whites for three years, and for two years he had been in love with the daughter Mary. He hadn't exactly said so, but the father knew it, the mother knew it and Mary knew it. Zeb was a little slow—that's all.

"Zeb'll make Mary a good man," was the comment between husband and wife.

Mary liked Zeb. As for loving him, she didn't know. She had let things drift along without asking herself the question. She had seen little of men. No young man had come courting, and not once a fortnight had she driven into the village. She was better educated than Zeb, but she did not criticize. Hard work had given him a bit of a stoop, and his hands were big and red and his face unshaven most of the time, but she made no comparisons to his detriment.

It Was Great Acting.

But for the arrival of a summer boarder things would have continued to drift. He was a young man of good looks, wore clothes of the latest pattern and was a new being to the isolated girl. He told her of the outside world—appealed to romance, ambition and curiosity—and, after a stay of a fortnight, gave the farmer a worthless bank check for his board and disappeared.

It was a week later that Mary failed to come down to breakfast. Zeb had been jealous of the boarder and had heaved a sigh of relief at his departure.

"For the land's sake, what is it, and what are you goin' to do?" asked Mrs. White, looking at Zeb instead of her husband.

Without a word in answer, Zeb turned and walked downstairs and made his way to the barn. The granary door was shut. He opened it and got a firm hold of the collar of the hiding Jimmy and lifted him out on the barn floor and shook him three or four times, and demanded:

"Tell me where she went! You know all about it."

"She's—she's run away!" blubbered the youth.

"And, got darn you, you knew she was going and kept still about it! Go on and tell me everything or I'll shake the head off you!"

He was led into the house to sob out his story. The summer boarder was an actor-manager. In no other way could he have appealed so strongly to the girl. She had never seen a play, but she had read. She had but to be cast as Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and romance, fame and the world were hers. At first she had doubted her talents, but after committing a 50-word speech to memory and repeating it to the manager, he had pronounced her a marvel, and she had doubted no more.

Brother Jimmy had overheard enough, so that they were obliged to take him into their confidence. In fact, on the night Mary left the house he had carried her satchel for three miles on the way to the village.

When his story had been finished—and there were many other details—both father and mother looked at Zeb. Never before had they seen a paleness through his sunburn—his eyes look so steely, his jaw so hard set. They didn't ask what he was going to do; they could read it in his face. The "New York Uncle Tom's Cabin company" was to foregather that night at a village 25 miles away for rehearsal previous to taking the road. The boy Jimmie had it all down pat. If he had only been a year or two older, so he had been told, he would have been taken along to play the part of George Harris.

Zeb Hastings went upstairs and changed to his Sunday suit. When he came down he went to the barn and harnessed the old mare to the democrat wagon. He had the barnyard gate open to drive out when Mrs. White came out and asked between her sobs:

"Zeb, what you goin' to do?"

"Goin' to tip over Uncle Tom's cabin."

He drove to the village where Mary must have taken the train, put up the horse at the tavern barn and then went to the depot to wait for his train. Men who knew him for a good fellow shook hands or slapped him on the back, and, after looking at him in his Sunday suit asked if he was going away to be married. To their surprise he replied that he was. He wasn't mentioning names, but he expected to bring a wife back with him.

At two o'clock in the afternoon Zeb Hastings was landed at the depot in Schofield. He made a few inquiries, got a bite to eat and then made his way to Turner's hall. A citizen named Turner had the enterprise to turn the second story of his hardware store into a place where outraged taxpayers and other bodies might meet. Theatricals had been given there and there were bills on the walls and boards announcing that the Uncle Tom company would take its chances at an early date.

A rehearsal had been called for two o'clock and as Zeb made his way into the hall it was just beginning. He paused for a moment to locate two of the actors—Mary White and the summer boarder. Then he advanced and lifted himself upon the stage. Mary stared and turned pale and trembled. The summer boarder didn't recognize the farmer's hired man, and he advanced and demanded why the intrusion.

"I have come to act!" replied Zeb, and he proceeded to do so.

It was great acting. It never will be beaten. It brought down the manager and the house—the manager first. Zeb didn't have many speeches, but the action was superb. He seized that manager by the hair and shook him silly. Then he mopped the stage with him. Then he booted him about. The women of the cast crowded together and shrieked and screamed. They were real shrieks and screams—warranted three-ply. The gentlemen in the cast woke up after a bit and pitched into Zeb in a body. There was no make-believe in that pitch, but they were as straws in a 40-mile gale. Down went Uncle Tom, and down went Legree. The Lawyer Marks was tossed aside like a chip and George Harris received two black eyes in one-two measure.

It took Zeb Hastings just nine minutes to tip over Uncle Tom's cabin and Uncle Tom and everybody connected with it and bring about a financial wreck. When he had finished he beckoned to Mary White. She came over and took his arm, and they left the hall together. It was 11 o'clock that night when they drove up to the farmhouse. The family rushed forward with extended arms to cry:

"Oh, Mary, how could you—how could—!"

"Cut it out!" interrupted Zeb. "Mary and me was married before we left Schofield, and there's been acting 'nuff for one day!"

How Elvins Got to Congress.

When Politte Evans made his run for congress he adopted a unique and novel method of getting his name before the people. He sent out thousands of letters, on the back of which was a colored map of his district and a picture of himself. The body of the letter went like this: "Success in politics is largely a matter of industry. I am working hard to win. I want you to spend a penny for me. Then you'll be a stockholder in my boom for congress. A penny isn't much to you, but it may mean a vote for me, and one vote may elect me." Inclosed in the letter was a souvenir postcard, on which he wanted the recipient to put a one cent stamp and send to a friend couched in terms like "Jim, I wish you would vote for this young fellow," or "Bill, I want you to give this chap a lift for my sake." His method of canvass bore fruit, and Politte was elected by 207 votes to represent the Thirteenth district of Missouri in the Sixty-first congress.—Washington Herald.

Inference Easily Drawn.

A man who sells vacuum cleaners with a piandla attachment relates the following bit of a yarn every time he gets a chance:

"I guess that that near-sighted fellow that calls on sister is getting worse," said a small boy, aged twelve, possibly called Jimmie.

"That is enough from you," said the indignant sister.

"What makes you think he is getting worse?" inquired the father of the son, possibly called Jimmie.

"Because I heard sister ask him last night if he thought she was the blarney stone," replied the boy, possibly called Jimmie.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company. Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

One hand badly burned, face and hair singed, Loveland was back in a minute from his errand at the gas main. He had snatched up a huge kettle of water from the stove and dashed it on to the stairs, quenching the small flames which had begun to curl and writhe. Then, tearing down the curtain, he trampled out the fire, and as the flames died into shooting sparks and feebly puffing smoke he urged Tony to bring the ladies that way. "Upstairs—we'll get them upstairs out of the crowd!" he shouted, but instantly the whole throng would have turned to stream in that direction had not Tony Kidd kept the way clear by making an obstacle of his own broad shoulders.

He got a fierce blow or two, but held the pass until the four ladies of his party and Isidora had reached shelter with Loveland.

The women safe, Tony tore off his coat and began beating down the fiery snakes which crawled up the door frame toward the ceiling. Loveland meanwhile, having refuged the four ladies with Isidora, hurried back to stand by Tony Kidd. Three minutes later two big men in blue sent the door crashing off its hinges into the restaurant, and by the time the fire engines swept clanging and snorting into the street the flames were stifled and Alexander had found a few candles to light up the smoky darkness.

The whole drama in one act had played itself out from beginning to end in less than ten minutes, but it had come close to tragedy, as none realized more fully than the two whom it had very strangely brought together—Lord Loveland and Tony Kidd.

No one was killed or seriously injured, fortunately for Alexander the Great's popularity. Many hands and faces were cut with window glass, two or three women had bruises or sprained wrists, and the Italian bride and groom were objects for compassion.

Loveland and Tony Kidd had saved the situation. Nobody else seemed to have accomplished anything deserving praise, but when calm followed storm De Rocheverte, Milton, his friend Mason and the two Hungarians vied with one another in volubly explaining each act and failure to act. They had wanted to make a way out for the ladies; that was why they had tried to get to the door, but they had been caught and overwhelmed in the crowd. They all talked fast and eagerly, almost convincingly, but the ladies, pale and shattered, listened without answering. And when they thanked Tony Kidd for "saving them from being burned alive" they were careful neither to contradict nor assent when he assured them that it was "our brave pretender who did everything."

As for Loveland, he was no longer to be seen. Tony looked in vain for his comrade in battle.

"Funny thing," Val thought as he looked at his burned left hand and his singed coat—"funny thing! I suppose I behaved fairly decently because I had to do it and there was no other way. But I've fancied myself a lot more before this for a grand slam at bridge or a right and left shot at a couple of birds."

There was no need to prove his courage further by reappearing in the restaurant. If he went back it would look as if he were bidding for compliments from his late tormentors, and heaven knew that he wanted nothing of the sort. He wanted only to be let alone. Dick was binding up his injured hand when the sound of a voice behind his back made him turn quickly.

"See here," said Tony Kidd, "I've been looking for you, because I want to tell you something. Whatever else you may or may not be, you're a man anyhow."

As he delivered himself of this speech Tony's pleasant, clever face lost the quizzical expression it was wont to wear and looked very attractive in its earnestness.

"Thank you," answered Loveland rather stiffly. Then, melting as his blue eyes and Tony's brown ones held each other, he added, smiling, "So are you."

"If I've made things any worse for you I'm sorry," went on Tony. "It's all been in the way of business, you know."

Milton's words to the young journalist had cleared the mystery of the crowd who had glanced up from their newspapers to stare at the English waiter and gone back to their newspapers again. Tony's veiled allusion brought no surprise to Loveland, therefore, and he answered without heat. "It doesn't matter," he said quietly in a tired voice, which made good natured Tony wince.

"You're in pain, aren't you?" he asked.

"Oh, nothing to speak of," said Val. "Burned my hand and wrist a little; that's all."

"It was a narrow shave," said Tony—"by Jove, a 'shave' literally, for you've pretty well made a clearance of hair on one side of your head."

"I must look like a convict," returned Loveland, and, considering everything, it struck Tony Kidd as odd that the Englishman should make that particular remark about himself.

"You've been having a mighty hard time of it since—er—since I saw you last," the journalist observed.

"It has been an experience," said Loveland.

"I'd like to show my appreciation of the way you've acted tonight," said Tony. "Is there anything I can do for you?"

"Thank you very much, but I think there's nothing you can do," Loveland answered.

Tony knew of one thing that he could do and had already decided to do it—to turn the tide of public opinion as far as possible by a graphic description of the fire at Alexander's in tomorrow morning's Light. But, after all, that would not accomplish much if any material good. A wave of sympathy would only send more curiosity seekers to Alexander's, and Tony's keen eyes had seen through Loveland's mask of indifference how he writhed under his punishment.

"Say, you can't stay on here," the American explained impulsively. "It's a dog's life, and whatever you are, whatever you've been, you're too much of a gentleman by breeding and education to stand it. You'll have to quit, and perhaps I could think of some way out if you'—

"I'll thank you not to try and take my waiter away from me, Mr. Kidd," broke in Alexander the Great, speaking so suddenly behind the two young men that both started "like guilty things upon a fearful summons."

"This isn't the right place for him, Alexander, and you know it," retorted Tony.

"It's the place he's engaged to stay in until he leaves the country," Alexander persisted. "And I mean to hold him to his word or know the reason why. If Gordon leaves me without a week's notice I'll make him sorry for himself."

"He saved your place tonight and Lord knows how many lives," said Tony.

"Dat ain't got nothin' to do with the case," insisted Alexander.

"Don't bother, thanks," Loveland said hastily to Tony. "Things can't be worse than they've been tonight. Perhaps they'll be better. I shall try to fight it out here till I can see my way."

"Pay my way," he might have said, but he did not wish to bring up the question of money between himself and Tony Kidd.

"It's bad enough for me to have my place upset," went on Alexander, "without having my people enticed to leave me in de lurch. 'Tain't a friendly act, Mr. Kidd. I shall be days makin' up my loss, what wid t'ings busted and burnt, and I shall need all the help I can get to put the restaurant in shape again."

Tony turned impatiently from the man's grumbling. "Well, if you won't let me do anything for you, you won't," he said to Loveland. "All the same, I shan't forget, and the time may come. Now I must be off and write my story."

He put out a hand, and Val responded with his unbandaged one.

CHAPTER XVII.

A PROPOSAL OF MARRIAGE.

AFTER the restaurant was cleared and all outsiders gone Alexander remained, wandering dolefully about the room and discussing with Leo Cohen the sum he hoped to get from the company in which he was insured against fire.

The conversation ought to have been of absorbing interest to Cohen, as eventually Alexander's business would be his, provided there were no hitch in the marriage negotiations. Nevertheless, he was absentminded, for the new waiter had not yet left the premises, and—the watchful Cohen had noticed a peculiar light in Isidora's eye when her father had brusquely ordered her upstairs, "out of the way."

She had offered no objection to going and had bidden Leo good night very prettily. But before tripping away she paused for an instant in the corridor, her face turned toward the kitchen in which P. Gordon was helping Black Dick put things to rights.

Cohen noticed this turn of the head, this fluttering hesitation, standing as he did near the doorway now stripped of the red curtain. But when Isidora had vanished above Alexander dismissed Blinkey and the Pole, shutting the door which usually stood open, because of the draft from the broken window.

"Why don't you send that man Gordon away, too?" Cohen asked.

"Because I'm payin' him big money, and he's got to earn it," explained Alexander. "He can stay and help Dick tidy up, if it takes till 12 o'clock. It ain't hurtin' us. Why should you care?"

Even Cohen, who seldom erred on the side of timidity in speech, scarcely ventured to put into words the reason why he did "care."

Meantime Isidora had been busy justifying her lover's worst fears.

As she reached the top of the staircase she heard the loud slamming of the door which had been warped and blistered by the heat. Her heart gave a little jump of excitement. Already she was keyed to a highly emotional state, and in her longing for a talk with Loveland alone she was ready to run almost any risk. The unexpected shutting of the restaurant door caused her a tremor of delight. She tiptoed down again, with her heart loud as a hammer in her breast, and flitted softly into the kitchen, not daring to speak till she had quietly closed the door, also lest the sound of her voice should carry across the passage.

"Oh, Mr. Gordon," she breathed, "I'm so sorry about your poor hand! And your face is scorched too! I do wish you'd let me do something for you."

Loveland thanked her, but said that Dick had bandaged up his hand and wrist very nicely with a soothing application of lard on an old rag.

Isidora gave a little sniff of scorn for the negro's ministrations.

"A pretty bandage," she sneered—"a nasty torn bit of coarse towel! And lard ain't the right thing either. I've taken lessons in first aid. All the girls in my school did, and I ain't forgot what I learnt. Please come with me, and I'll do you up all right. Now, don't say no or you'll hurt my feelings. I feel ready to cry anyway, and I sure will if you ain't kind."

"Oh, I'll come!" he said desperately and followed Isidora into the passage.

The parlor, which also served as dining room, was appalling in its bravery of old gold plush and portraits of defunct ladies and gentlemen on a claret colored wall paper.

She made Loveland sit down in a leather armchair which smelled of the tobacco her father affected, and then, kneeling on a low footstool beside him, she began to unfasten Black Dick's clumsy bandage.

"I don't like to have you wait on me," said Loveland, who a few weeks ago took the most exaggerated petting for granted from pretty women.

"Well, I like to do it anyhow," replied the girl, with a lingering, liquid glance. "You're so brave I'm proud to be waiting on you. I never knew anybody just like you before."

Loveland thought this very probable, but merely remarked, with becoming modesty, that he had done very little.

"You were a real hero," said Isidora. "Oh, ooh!" And she breathed little cooing sighs of pity at sight of the hero's burns. "I could cry over your poor hand. It's a shame"—

"Please don't!" exclaimed Loveland, laughing. "I can't stand any more tears!"

"Did you mind when I cried?" asked Izzie.

"Awfully!" said Loveland. As he spoke he smiled down at her in a friendly way, and the kindness in the blue, black lashed eyes made the girl's heart flutter like an imprisoned bird. She had been in love with him since the first day a little, then more and more. Now her love overflowed. It was too much for her emotional nature. She could not keep it back. And why should she try to keep it back, she asked herself, since her love must be considered an honor by this unsuccessful foreign adventurer?

"I'm glad," she almost sobbed. "Oh, you're worth more to me than anything in the world. I won't cry again if you ask me not. I'll do whatever you want me to. Pa'd most kill me if he knew I was talking like this. But I don't care—I don't care for anybody but you—no one else. Oh, suppose I'd let pa make me marry Leo Cohen before I'd met you!"

Loveland was dumfounded. "My dear girl," he exclaimed, "you don't know what you are saying! You"—

"I do know," Isidora broke in. "I know you are poor and in a lot of trouble, and you might have gone to prison. But you're a gentleman, all right. You're you, and that's enough. If you care about me the same as I do about you, why, all the rest"—

"But I—I mean—I'm sure you don't really care," stammered Val, checking himself on the verge of saying something rude.

"I do care. You needn't be afraid," she assured him. "I wouldn't have said a word. I'd 'a' waited for you to speak if things had been different, but I saw how you felt by the way your eyes looked a minute ago, and I wouldn't stop for manners, because, I says to myself, he's too much of a gentleman to tell a girl he loves her when he's got nothing and she everything."

"I hope I am too much of a gentleman to"— Val began desperately, but she cut him short with one little plump, patchouli scented hand over his mouth.

"I know it. That's what I said. You don't need to tell me," she hurried on. "We'll have to run away and get married. Then pa'll forgive me. I'm all he's got. He couldn't bear me to want for anything. But it's no use asking him first. He'—

"Dear girl, I have no idea of asking him"—

"No, of course. You ain't so silly. His heart's set on my taking Leo, but I wouldn't touch him with a ten foot pole now. My hero, I'll marry you tomorrow!"

"The devil you will!" said Alexander.

They stood together at the door, he and Leo Cohen, who had persuaded the old man at last on one excuse or another to invite him upstairs.

The girl struggled up from her knees, and as Loveland bounded out of the big chair she caught his arm, nestling against him.

"You villain! Stealin' my gal's love behind my back and enticin' her to run off with you!" stuttered Alexander, purple with fury.

"I didn't"— began Val indignantly.

"What! You didn't? You want me to believe my gal asked you to marry her?"

Loveland started as if Alexander had struck him and flushed to the forehead. Involuntarily he glanced at Isidora, who looked up at him beseechingly. "Spare me!" the almond eyes implored.

Miller & Miller, the Noted "Cut-and-Fit" Artists, Will Be Here Tomorrow

Every woman knows that the chief difficulty experienced by home dressmakers is to perfectly cut and fit the suits and dresses they undertake to make. Those who have experienced this difficulty and those who wish to avoid the worry of it, whether they are clever themselves or not, will welcome the coming of Miller & Miller, the famous cut-and-fit artists, who will be with us for a brief season, beginning Monday.

Miller & Miller, when here three months ago, cut and fit a remarkable number of dresses for our patrons, exceeding by odds any former record made in any other store in the United States, attesting the popularity of both themselves and the store.

During this engagement you may select any piece of silk or dress goods in our magnificent stocks, which embrace everything that is new and worthy from foreign and home mills—everything that we retail at 79c the yard or more, and have it cut to your measure and perfectly fitted, absolutely free of charge, saving you the entire cost of cutting and fitting of both outer materials and linings for suits, dresses, coats or skirts.

Mr. Miller measures you, cuts your materials for suits, dresses, skirts, evening gowns, coats of whatever you may select from the wide range of fashion figures presented for choice, and Mrs. Miller fits the materials perfectly to your figure—everything being made ready for th final swing, which any home needle worker of average skill can complete with little or no trouble.

We urge everyone desiring to embrace this opportunity to make their selections of materials at the earliest possible moment.

Come any hour of the day. Miller and Miller are industrious folks and are at work from early morn till late at night—have to be, else they would never be able to keep up with orders.

Remember that on the occasion of their last engagement so many orders were placed that they had to stop taking them a whole week before they were thru cutting.

BOWLING.

At the meeting to organize the Fraternal Bowling Tourney held at Campbell's alleys on Friday evening, representatives were present from the Plainfield Elks, Watchung Council K. of C., Miantonomo Tribe I. O. R., and Loyal Order of Moose. A temporary organization was effected and the entrance fee placed at ten dollars per team.

Assurances of entries from Somerville Lodge of Elks and Woodmen of Westfield were received and it was decided to hold another meeting on next Friday night at which a schedule will be made up and list of prizes adopted.

With the bowling season in full swing match games are now in order. Tomorrow night at Campbell's alleys, Nash and Campbell will meet Matthews and Schaub in a match series, five out of nine games. Matthews and Schaub need no introduction to the followers of ten pins in this vicinity and an interesting contest is looked for.

PLAINFIELD DEFEATED BY BOUND BROOK NINE

The Plainfield Baseball Club was defeated by Bound Brook on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, by a score of 4 to 2, although the local team gathered eleven hits off Ortleib, while "Jimmy" Montross held the visitors to four singles.

Bound Brook did not get a hit off "Smiling Jimmy" until the seventh inning. The cause of Plainfield's defeat was four errors.

Brit. Martin, Emery, Nelson and Montross led in the stick work, each getting two hits, while Jack Martin, Carlstrom and Schott were credited with a hit apiece. The two teams will meet at Bound Brook Saturday.

The score:

MORGAN AND TALMADGE WINNERS IN SEMI-FINAL

The continuation of the play for the club championship, the second and third sixteens and defeated eights, semi-finals, was the event of interest at the Plainfield Country club on Saturday. On Saturday for the championship, C. B. Morgan and Frank C. Talmadge were the winners. The results:

Championship—C. B. Morgan beat Arthur Murphy, 4 up and 3 to play; Frank C. Talmadge beat H. R.Stockton, 3 up and 2 to play.

Second sixteen—W. T. Kaufman, 16, beat L. G. Carman 12, 1 up (26 holes); C. W. King 25, beat R. H. Cox 20, 6 up and 5 to play.

Third Sixteen—C. M. Church 23, beat P. H. Stewart 12, 3 up and 2 to play; L. H. Gates 27, beat W. A. Bours, Jr., 26, 3 up and 1 to play.

Defeated eight—first sixteen—H. D. Hibbard beat R. G Morse, 3 up and 1 to play; R. S. Rowland beat M. J. Dumont, 5 up and 4 to play.

Second sixteen—C. C. Burke, 15, beat L. R. Hopton 12, by default; H. F. Fox 18, beat E. P. Goodwin 15, 2 up.

Third sixteen—G. S. Clay 20, beat D. G. Weems 27, 7 up and 6 to play; B. F. Kraffert 20, beat J. A. Lane 15, 4 up and 2 to play.

In addition there was an 18-hole handicap, medal play, competition. These scores were returned:

L. G. Carman, 83, 12-71; S. H. Patterson, 89, 14-75; E. J. Patterson, 95, 19-76; H. L. DeForest, 96, 18-78; H. F. Fox, 98, 18-80; G. S. Clay, 102, 20-82; A. W. Kleinecke, 208, 25-83; H. J. Cochran, 114, 25-89.

In the second round of the boys' competition these net scores were returned:

Frank Warren, Jr., 90; Francis P. Day, 93; W. S. Lyon, 110; Donald King, 141.

Third Fire Cost $4,000.

Fire which is supposed to have been of incendiary origin destroyed a barn on the estate of William Bradley, near Somerville, yesterday. It is believed that Italians who have been recently discharged from the place because of indolence are responsible for the blaze, which entailed a loss of $4,000. It is also believed that Mr. Bradley is under the ban of the Back Hand society because he refused the Italians on the estate beer which they demanded during working hours. Mr. Bradley is an extensive breeder of trotting horses. The fire yesterday was the third that has occurred on the farm.

FUN THAT FAILED.

Mark Twain's Burlesque of Emerson, Longfellow and Holmes.

IT SHOCKED THE IMMORTALS.

W. D. Howells' Description of the Dismal Effect of the Humorist's Attempt to Make Game of the Dignified Literary Trio at the Boston Dinner.

In his memories of Mark Twain in Harper's W. D. Howells tells of the dinner in Boston when Mark Twain, with fatal effect, made game of Emerson, Longfellow and Holmes:

"He believed he had been particularly fortunate in his notion for the speech of that evening, and he had worked it out in joyous self reliance. It was the notion of three tramps, three deadbeats, visiting a California mining camp and imposing themselves upon the innocent miners as respectively Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and Oliver Wendell Holmes. The humor of the conception must prosper or must fail according to the mood of the hearer, but Clemens felt sure of compelling this to sympathy, and he looked forward to an unparalleled triumph.

"But there were two things that he had not taken into account. One was the species of religious veneration in which these men were held by those nearest them. They were men of extraordinary dignity, of the thing called presence for want of some clearer word, so that no one could well approach them in a personally light or trifling spirit. I do not suppose that anybody more truly valued them or more piously loved them than Clemens himself, but the intoxication of his fancy carried him beyond the bounds of that regard and emboldened him to the other thing which he had not taken into account—namely, the immense hazard of working his fancy out before their faces and expecting them to enter into the delight of it. If neither Emerson nor Longfellow nor Holmes had been there the scheme might possibly have carried, but even this is doubtful.

"I was the hapless president, fulfilling the abhorred function of calling people to their feet and making them speak. When I came to Clemens I introduced him with the cordial admiration I had for him as one of my greatest contributors and dearest friends. Here, I said, in sum, was a humorist who never left you hanging your head for having enjoyed his joke, and then the amazing mistake, the bewildering blunder, the cruel catastrophe was upon us. I believe that after the scope of the burlesque made itself clear there was no one there, including the burlesquer himself, who was not smitten with a desolating dismay. There fell a silence, weighing many tons to the square inch, which deepened from moment to moment and was broken only by the hysterical and blood curdling laughter of a single guest, whose name shall not be handed down to infamy. Nobody knew whether to look at the speaker or down at his plate. I chose my plate as the least affliction, and so I do not know how Clemens looked, except when I stole a glance at him and saw him standing solitary amid his appalled and appalling listeners, with his joke dead on his hands. From a first glance at the great three whom his jest had made its theme, I was aware of Longfellow sitting upright and regarding the humorist with an air of pensive puzzle, of Holmes busily writing on his menu with a well feigned effect of preoccupation, and of Emerson holding his elbows and listening with a sort of Jovian oblivion of this nether world in that lapse of memory which saved him in those later years from so much bother. Clemens must have dragged his joke to the climax and left it there, but I cannot say this from any sense of the fact. Of what happened afterward at the table where the immense, the wholly innocent, the truly unimagined affront was offered, I have no longer the least remembrance. I next remember being in a room of the hotel where Clemens was not to sleep, but to toss in despair and Charles Dudley Warner's saying in the gloom, 'Well, Mark! You're a funny fellow.' It was as well as anything he could have said, but Clemens seemed unable to accept the tribute.

"I stayed the night with him, and the next morning after a haggard breakfast we drove about, and he made some purchases of bric-a-brac for his house in Hartford, with a soul as far away from bric-a-brac as ever the soul of man was. He went home by an early train, and he lost no time in writing back to the three divine personalities which he had so involuntarily seemed to flout. They all wrote back to him, making it as light for him as they could. I have heard that Emerson was a good deal mystified and in his sublime forgetfulness asked, 'Who was this gentleman who appeared to think he had offered him some sort of annoyance?' But I am not sure that this is accurate. What I am sure of is that Longfellow a few days after in my study stopped before a photograph of Clemens and said, 'Ah, he is a wag!' and nothing more. Holmes told me, with deep emotion, such as a brother humorist might well feel, that he had not lost an instant in replying to Clemens' letter and assuring him that there had not been the least offense and entreating him never to think of the matter again. 'He said that he was a fool, but he was God's fool.' Holmes quoted from the letter with a true sense of the pathos and humor of the self abasement."

COLORED VOTERS MEET

Enthusiastic Gathering Hears Eloquent Oratory at Reform Hall.

REV. MR. MORRIS' SPEECH.

Mark Harris Calls Dr. Wilson a Word-Juggler—Ex-Congressman White Defines a Mugwump.

Reform Hall was crowded to the doors last night when the mass meeting of colored voters was called to order by Dr. James F. Lawson, who introduced Rev. J. T. Diggs, as chairman of the meeting. Rev. C. S. Morris, who afterwards made the principal speech of the evening, began the proceedings by offering prayer. Before starting the speeches Rev. Mr. Diggs made a short address in which he urged his fellow men to vote for Judge Runyon and to support the entire Republican ticket. Of Judge Runyon he said: "He has shown himself to be a man from every viewpoint and there are opportunities now for him to become greater and it 's up to us to push him to higher things. There is no switch in the track on which we run our train and we don't have to switch from one party to the other. Vote for Mr. Coriell for Mayor on the regular ticket." He then introduced Rev. Mr. Morris, who said in part:

"The ship at sea indicates her true course by the wake she leaves, man and bird and animal leave their imprints on the sands of time, and political parties leave their marks upon the country as indelibly impressed as either and by these marks you shall judge them. The ballot is the mightiest power you colored men wield for the protection of your rights. There is nothing left for the salvation of the race but the power to vote and in this you are being defrauded every day of your lives because of disfranchisement, not here in the north, but south of Mason and Dixon's line.

"I am always suspicious of the Virginia negro Democrat. He is right down in his heart a Republican, but he has sold his birth right for a mess of pottage and his soul is not his own. In the Southern States the schools are closed to the negro because an illiterate negro may not vote. Since Woodrow Wilson has been connected with Princeton University the doors of that institution have been closed against colored students, while Harvard, Brown, Columbia and Yale have welcomed them. The reason for this is that Dr. Wilson is a Virginia Democrat and in Virginia then enforce the Jim Crow car upon the negroes and don't let them vote. Do you want such a man as that for Governor?" Cries of no, no, never, answered the question.

"No man has any reason to lose confidence in the Republican party. Cannonism and Aldrichism are being driven out and the party is having a general house cleaning. The tariff is not to blame for the high cost of living, but the abandoned farms, the idle acres in the land, caused by the emigration from the farms, to the cities and other centers of population. It is the same all over the world."

A. Mark Harris, secretary of the United States Baptist Union, confined his remarks to Dr. Wilson calling him a word juggler. Mr. Harris got beyond his depth, though, when he tried to give an imitation of the college president's easy vocabulary. He said that Dr. Wilson was nominated by Nugent and "Bob" Davis, but that he didn't realize the kind of company he was in.

Former Congressman George H. White ,of New York, told a number of humorous stories all of which had the inevitable point, always that of being on the right side of the party which had brought such remarkable progress to the country. He asked his audience to think, to look back upon the achievements of the Republican party from the start given it by Abraham Lincoln; the greatest Republican of them all. He defined a mugwump as the child of a Democratic mother and a Republican father and said the hybrid was no good.

Mr. White said that he was afraid of Woodrow Wilson, because he knew the place he came from and what his sentiments towards the negro race are. He said: "Woodrow Wilson declared in the Academy of Music, in Philadelphia, a year ago that the crime of the age was committed when the negro was given the vote,' and I am afraid of such a man, and afraid of his sauve tongue.'

Mr. White urged the voters present to avoid Mr. Moy, and to vote for Mr. Coriell. He ended by making an impassioned appeal to the Democrats present to stand by the party that had given them their freedom and franchise.

MISS MARY CAPERTON WEDDED TO DR. BLAKE

Miss Mary Caperton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Caperton, of Charleston, West Virginia, and Dr. Eugene Blake, of New Haven, Conn., were married last night in the First Presbyterian church, of Charleston, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, including several guests from this city. The bride is a granddaughter of Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of this city, and he performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Gifford Cooley, of the borough, as matron-of-honor, and Miss Bessie Flanders, also of the borough, as bridesmaid. Following the ceremony a large reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was attended by hundreds of guests from various points in the south, as well as the north.

The bride has frequently visited in Plainfield, where she has many friends and where she has been admired. Dr. Blake is an instructor in the medical school at Yale University and is an eye specialist. The bride's father is president of the Consolidated Coal and Coke Companies, of West Virginia and the family is prominent in the religious and social life of Charleston.

TO RIGIDLY ENFORCE THE PURE FOOD LAWS

Assistant Health Officer John O'Brien, Jr., has today sent to all dealers in food stuffs a notice similar to that issued by the Board of Health on September 1, together with a letter in which he says that the law against exposing to the possible infection by flies or other means will be enforced beginning November 1.

The letter states that owing to the fact that the strict enforcement of the new law previous to this date would have worked some hardship on the dealers who were not prepared for the change action was deferred. From now on the pure food laws will be strictly enforced.

REV. DR. C. A. EATON TO DELIVER LECTURE.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, who will deliver the first lecture in a series of entertainments at the First Baptist church, on November 3, will take for his subject, "Widening Horizons in American Life." These entertainments will be given for the benefit of the building fund of the Temple Baptist church.

Dr. Eaton in his lecture will consider the great changes in our economic life, the widening of our international relationship with the foreign powers which has made this country a world power, the great racial changes and the broadening of thought from a theological standpoint.

David Bispham Coming.

Of interest to the musical people of Plainfield is the announcement that David Bispham, the famous baritone, has been booked to be heard here in a recital. He will appear here for the first time in the McIntyre Chamber Music Concert series at the Plainfield High School. Since leaving the Metropolitan Opera Company, Mr. Bispham has been engaged with all the famous orchestras in the United States as special soloist and gives his own recitals from Maine to California. The exact date of his recital will be given out later. The first McIntyre concert is fixed definitely for Thursday evening, November 10.

Going to the Mines.

E. D. Middlekauff, vice-president of the National Mining and Leasing Company, accompanied by Jasper Cadmus, of Cadmus Brothers, druggists, and N. W. Hoffman, former director of the First National Bank of Clinton, will leave this evening to inspect the mines of the National Mining and Leasing Company located in Missouri and Kansas. Mrs. N. W. Hoffman will accompany the party as far as Kenton, O., where she will visit relatives. ***

Fractured Wrist in a Fall.

Mrs. Elizabeth Samuels, of West Front street, is detained at home with a fractured wrist, the result of a fall off the back porch at her home a few days ago. Dr. G. W. Endicott was called to set the broken bone. It will be some time before Mrs. Samuels will regain the use of her arm.

Funeral of D. F. Randolph.

The funeral services of Daniel F. Randolph, who died at his home in South Plainfield, on Sunday, will be held from the late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Merchants Association Wants to Unite With Trade Board and P. P. A.

BETTER RESULTS THE IDEA.

Schwed, Schuldenfrei and Greenwood as a Committee—Campaign for Better Lights in Business Section.

At a meeting of the Merchants' Association in its rooms in the Coward building last night, preliminary steps were taken to bring about the amalgamation of the organization with the Board of Trade and the Plainfield Protective Association. The matter was broached by President William Jeffrey, of the Board of Trade, and was received with enthusiasm A committee composed of Herman Schwed, H. P. Greenwood and H. Schuldenfrei was appointed to confer with similar committees from the other bodies mentioned.

The idea as broached is to unite the three organizations into one as a chamber of commerce or on this order. It is believed that by concentrating the three a great deal more good for the city can be accomplished. Heretofore each one has been acting on independent lines. The Board of Trade and Merchants' Association are both in favor of the idea, but the position of the Protective Association has not yet been defined. This will be made known at the next meeting of the merchants.

The subject of better lights for the business district was again broached at last night's session. The matter was discussed at some length and J. V. E. Vanderhoof was appointed a committee of one to interview the two candidates for mayor as to their position on the subject, and what their intentions would be in the event of election. The merchants are still eager for better illumniation and will follow the matter up the coming winter.

The male clerks of the city were the special guests of the association last night, and they listened to an interesting address by President A. E. Force and other members. The Elks' quartet, composed of William Smith, John Todd, Harry Blimm and Elmer Cutting, rendered vocal numbers and refreshments were served at the close.

A motion was made that a committee of five be appointed to arrange a dance for all the local clerks within a short time. President Force did not announce the committee last night, but will do so later.

BOROUGH DEMOCRATS TO ATTEND A RALLY.

The North Plainfield Democratic Club has arranged to attend the Woodrow Wilson meeting at Somerville tomorrow night. A special trolley car will leave the Somerset street switch at 6:45 sharp. Between sixty and seven have already informed County. Committeeman Walter Linbarger of their intention to go, he having the arrangements in charge. A nominal charge is to be made to defray the expense.

Plan a Fine Hunt.

The Watchung Hunt Club has planned for a fine hunt on Saturday, meeting at the water tower, Netherwood. The first check will be at the Brass Kettle Inn on the Springfield road, where all members are invited by invitation of the master, Rufus C. Finch, to partake of light refreshments. In the evening, C. W. Holland will give a dinner at the club house for the members of the club.

W. A. French Here.

William A. French, brother of Elston M. French and Miss French, who has been for the past twenty years located at Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn., visited the old homestead on Somerset street last evening, leaving for New York early this morning. Mr. French has made a success of interior woddwork and decorating in the west and has built up a splendid business.

Fine Program and Dutch Supper.

At the fall meeting of the Dutch Arms, men's association, of Trinity Reformed church, Friday night, the orchestra, of which Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan is the leader, will furnish a musical program and Rev. Ora J. Shoop will give recitations. A genuine Dutch supper will be served under the direction of a committee from the association.

Awarded Heating Contract.

The contract for installation of a steam heating plant in the Knights of Columbus clubhouse has been awarded Arthur Newman, of Spooner avenue. It will be of the very latest design and complete in every detail. The work of re-constructing the building is now progressing rapidly in charge of Contractor H. H. Hoffman.

FAILS TO GET DAMAGES

G.J.Mitchell's Suit for $20,000 Against F. L. C. Martin Falls Flat.

AFTERMATH OF "JOY RIDE."

Mitchell Brought Suit for Malicious Prosecution and Slander, but Court Sustains Martin's Actions.

In the Circuit Court at Elizabeth yesterday, the case of George J. Mitchell against Frank L. C. Martin, on two counts in tort, aggregating $20,000, was settled in favor of Mr. Martin. The two counts were one for alleged malicious prosecution, $10,000, and the other for slander, $10,000. On the first count Judge Benjamin A. Vail directed the jury to give a verdict for Mr. Martin and on the other the jury returned a verdict of "no cause for action."

According to the evidence brought out at the trial Mitchell accompanied by Hugh McIvor and Walter Kettenring went to Perth Amboy in a car owned by a customer of Mr. Martin's without having the consent of Mr. Martin to take the car out. Before starting the men had several rounds of drinks at the Iroquois hotel, it was alleged, and after they had found a friend, William Voorhees, at Perth Amboy the drinking, it was alleged, was continued in several places in that town.

On the way back the car was wrecked and Mitchell was pinned under the car suffering some slight injuries. On representations of the case made to Motor Vehicle Commissioner J. B. R. Smith, the quartet were arrested and brought to Plainfield. At the trial Mitchell and Kettenring were acquitted but both chaffeurs lost their licenses. Kettenring's license was restored to him, but owing to actions of Mitchell Commissioner Smith did not return his license. Hence the action against Mr. Martin.

It was shown that Mr. Martin had acted upon the advice of Walter Hetfield, Jr., assistant prosecutor, in all the action he took against the men.

Judge William Newcorn defended the action for Mr. Martin and Meredith Lane and Frank J. Higgins, of Jersey City, appeared for Mitchell.

G. O. P. STATE CHAIRMAN CERTAIN OF A VICTORY

United States Senator Frank O. Briggs, chairman of the Republican State committee, yesterday issued a statement forecasting the election of Vivian M. Lewis, notable for its apparent doubt of the ability of the Republicans to carry the county of Mercer, and its apparent admission that the Democrats will carry Essex. The forecast is as follows:

"To begin with I believe that Atlantic county will give Lewis at least 2,000 more majority than it gave Fort. Everything in that county indicates that that figure is a conservative estimate. We believe also that Mercer county is sure to be found in the Lewis column. In 1907 the county gave Katzenbach 800, but we figure that our man will come out this year with a 1,200 lead.

"When there is no split in our party in Monmouth we always carry that county. We lost it in 1907 by 1,400. I believe this year that we will make a gain in that county of easily 2,000 votes because there is complete harmony there. That will give us Monmouth county.

"The Democrats claim Bergen county, but that is a joke. Our next big gain will be in Passaic county, where Mr. Lewis lives. We won there in 1907 by 600 votes, but we'll make a gain of at least 2,000 more there.

"Now just do a little figuring. Fort carried the State by 8,000. If we start with that and then add the 8,000 gain, we are sure to make in the counties I have mentioned, it will take a bigger loss than even the pessimists say we will meet in Essex and other North Jersey counties to wipe out our long lead."

Autoist Fined.

Victor Hallman, of New York, who was arrested in the borough, Saturday night, for running an auto without lights or Jersey license number, was fined $5 by Recorder Dolliver this morning.

William Taggart, Ja.

William Taggart, Jr., aged fourteen days, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Taggart, of Laramie road, who died October 14, was buried in Calvary cemetery, New York.

WOMEN'S LEGAL STATUS

Leighton Calkins Made Address Before Monday Afternoon Club.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE TOUCHED.

Referred to Desirability of Uniform Marriage and Divorce Laws—History of Women's Rights.

Peculiar interest attaches to the lecture given yesterday before the Monday Afternon Club at the Hartridge School Auditorium from the fact that the lecturer, Leighton Calkins, is a Plainfielder and his well known character and ability bespoke for him the sympathetic endrosement of his listeners. His subject was "The Legal Status of Woman," and the lecture was one in the series on "The Relation of Women to Economics," the subject of club study at the present time.

Mr. Calkins referred to the past and the belief of some that women had no souls, citing the Roman and Hindu systems of law in which family groups, the wife, children, slaves and property belonged to the patriarch absolutely. He told of the old time ideas of training for women confined to limits of domesticity and that her education should be relative to man and his pleasure and comfort. The old common law of England, or Canon Law, he said, gave to the husband complete legal subjection of his wife.

In the feudal system, Mr. Calkins said, woman's position was even worse. She had no right except the right to marry, and if she did not marry, her life was most monotonous.

The lecturer said the democratic idea of the family is freedom, equality and justice. He told how harsh laws had crumbled and said that in New Jersey a woman had a right to her property both real estate and personal and she has a right to her own earnings. The husband's consent is necessary in the transfer of real estate. On the other hand, he said, a man was bound to support his wife, but he has the right to determine the domicile. He said further, a married woman can bring action in a suit at law, and can give evidence, but neither husband or wife against each other. A woman's right to make a will, adopt children, with the consent of her husband, and enter into business was also discussed by the lecturer. In some States, Mr. Calkins said, a mother had no legal right over her own children.

Mr. Calkins spoke of the desirability of uniform laws for marriage and divorce and the consideration of the children in advocating or opposing divorce.

Woman's suffrage was lightly touched upon by the lecturer, who said in this matter most men sat upon the top rail of the fence, but he believed all would get the vote when one side goes over to the other. He believed in equality or rights, but not equality of function.

Mr. Calkins cited the western States, where equal suffrage had been granted and showed some of the good results accomplished, such as the better guardianship of children, juvenile courts, better protection of homes and election of better men to office.

He said further, he could not but fear the increase of the illiterate vote, unless equal suffrage could go hand in hand with restricted suffrage.

In Mr. Calkin's lecture he made a plea for the wise conduct of homes, where equality of rights was not identity of rights, but where the whole influence was uplifting, tending to the betterment of each individual in the home.

Jones Released.

Clifford Jones, the local youth arrested on a technical charge of stealing $51 from former Mayor Samuel Townsend, was released in the borough court last night. Mr. Townsend withdrew his complaint as the money had been returned intact. Recorder Dolliver gave the boy a severe rebuke before allowing him to go.

Will Rival Mary Garden.

Miss Anna L. Case, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Company forces, will give a concert at the Plainfield High School, Saturday evening, October 29, assisted by Karl Klein, noted violinist. Arthur Depew will be at the piano. The New York Commercial in speaking of Miss Case, says: "Special praise is due Miss Case for her rendition of the aria from "Mireille," by Gounod. Miss Case has appeared in secondary roles in grand opera. With her marvelous gift of song, she must soon make her appearance with the foremost. In timbre and shading, she bids fair to rival our own Mary Garden."

ESCAPED CONVICT IN CUSTODY AGAIN

"Sailor Jack" Aitken, who was sent to State Prison a year ago for twenty years by Justice James J. Bergen, following his murderous attack on James Carey, of Elizabeth, and who later escaped from the penitentiary, returned to Elizabeth last night, where he engaged in a quarrel with a woman believed to be his wife. He was arrested at Fifth street and Elizabeth avenue, in that city, after he had cut and slashed slashed the woman until it was thought she would die.

Aitkin was taken in custody by Patrolmen Searle and Reitman, two of the twenty-five new men recently appointed as policemen, after a hard struggle, and landed in the county jail. When he was committed to State Prison a year ago, he made a remark on his way to Trenton, that he would never serve the term of twenty years. A few months later he escaped, and it is alleged that the woman he attacked last night, gave him assistance in getting away from Trenton.

The State authorities have maintained a vigilant seaarch for Aitken ever since his escape and his capture last night is considered lucky, as Aitken is known in police circles as a desperate and clever criminal. He will go back to Trenton soon and his term may be lengthened as a result of his attack on the Elizabeth woman last night.

BOROUGH REPUBLICANS' NEXT THREE MEETINGS

The Republicans of North Plainfield are preparing to make a not finish in their campaign for the election of the entire Republican ticket and to that end will have some prominent speakers at their headquarters on Somerset street Thursday night, and on October 27 and the night before election. This Thursday Assemblyman W. W. Smalley, assembly candidate Mooseberger, of Somerville, and candidate for sheriff, Robert Kay, will address a mass meeting.

On Thursday night, October 27, the meeting will be held in Saengerbund Hall and will be addressed by former Governor Stokes and Congressman Wood, of the fourth district. Vivian M. Lewis, the gubernatorial candidate, will speak on election eve and will be given a reception.

MARTINE ADDRESSES BOSTON DEMOCRATS.

James E. Martine returned from Boston this morning, where on Saturday night he made an address before the Democratic Club at its headquarters in that city. There were more than five hundred people present at the meeting and the "farmer orator" was given a great ovation.

Mr. Martine says that the greate t sympathy upon the death of Julia Ward Howe is evidenced everywhere in Boston, flags being displayed at half-mast, while expressions of sympathy are heard on the part of the people. The boat upon which Mr. Martine was a passenger was delayed several hours on account of the dense fog.

Daniel White a Benedict.

Daniel J. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. James White, of West Fourth street, and a former well known resident, was married at Erie, Pa., Saturday, his bride being Miss Louise M. Fletcher, of that place. The ceremony was performed in the Erie Catholic church in the presence of a few relatives and friends. The young couple will make their home in New York. Mr. White was at one time employed by John J. Kenney and resigned to study for the priesthood, but was compelled to stop because of impaired eyesight.

Y. M. C. A. Orchestra Concert.

The 39th concert of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, under the direction of Martin A. Korff, will be given on Thursday evening, this week. A varied program has been arranged for the occasion, including some of the best of the old masters' works as well as selections from modern composers. Mrs. Edwin S. Washburn, mezzo soprano, will be the soloist, assisted by Miss Ida Randolph Smalley at the piano. A silver offering will be taken.

Odd Fellows Meeting.

A regular meeting of Court Watchung, No. 3871, I. O. O. F., will be held tonight in K. of C. hall and every member should be present as important business will come up. A committee will present the proposed new by-laws for second reading. W. T. Bingham, superintendt of Organizers of Elizabeth, will be present and make some interesting remarks.

ROSE ADJUDGED GUILTY

Convicted of Highway Robbery After All Day Trial.

CASE IS TO BE APPEALED.

Evidence Admitted to Which Counsellor Crane Took Exception—Rose Was Employed by Local Concern.

Fred Rose was convicted of highway robbery in the Somerset county court at Somerville, yesterday. He was found guilty of having held up and robbed Paul Wagner of $1.24 and four lead pencils on the night of June 28, but his counsel, Robert Newton Crane, will take the case to the Supreme Court on appeal.

The testimony of Detective Sergeant John J. Flynn, Roundsman Higgins and Mrs. Bessie Duffy, Rose's boarding mistress, all went to show that Rose was in his room on the night of the alleged hold-up half an hour before the crime was committed, but the jury after an hour and a half of deliberation brought in a verdict against the young man.

Mrs. Duffy said this morning that Rose came to her the very day he had obtained a position in the Spicer Universal Joint Co.'s plant and she took him to board. Every morning at 6 o'clock Rose went to his work and returned at 7 o'clock in the evening. On the evening of June 28 he was in the house at 8:30 and with her son passed the evening in conversation, and the two young men retired at about 9:30.

Mrs. Duffy also said that she remembered the circumstane well because Rose had been swimming on that evening in the brook near Grant avenue, and thinking the water was deep enough he dove and cut his face on the bottom. Her husband went to the drug store and bought some lotion to put on the cuts, and after the talk with her son Rose went to bed. She said she had always taken a motherly interest in the young man, and knowing his history was glad to see him making a man of himself. He was always well behaved and took pride in always dressing neatly.

Winfred Harris, office manager of the Spicer Co., testified yesterday that from the time Rose went to work with them he had not lost a day. His hours were from 6:30 in the morning to 6:30 in the evening, and he was always on his job and giving good service. The payrolls of the company were produced to confirm this testimony. Other witnesses for Rose, including Patrolman Vanderweg, testified as to Rose's habits at night. He had been closely watched because of his previous record, but absolutely nothing could be found against his recent behavior.

Aside from the testimony of Detective Doody, of the Central Railroad forces, the only evidence against Rose was that furnished by Wagner, whose identification was rather shkey. Judge Case admitted as testimony a statement made by Frank Mathews, of Roselle, after a vigorous objection by Mr. Crane, that Rose was the man who held him up on the night of April 13, although he had made no complaint to the police. Mr. Crane questioned the admissibility of this evidence, but Judge Case admitted it after deliberation. The jury was taken from the court room twice during the arguing of the contested points.

Prosecutor Fred Pope conducted the case for the State. Mr. Crane has such confidence in the innocence of Rose that he will use every means at his command to have the verdict set aside by the Supreme Court and a new trial ordered. Rose has been in jail since July 22. On that day, hearing that the police wanted to see him, he gave himself up.

A Birthday Surprise.

In order to properly celebrate the birthday of C. W. Higgins, of 196 Somerset street, friends to the number of thirty-five gave him the surprise of his life last night. As Mr. Higgins said today: "We danced and sang and played games until after midnight and everybody enjoyed the celebration." After the games refreshments were served and dancing was continued after the collation. Mr. Higgins was thirty-three years old and the surprise was engineered by Mrs. John N. Allegar and Mrs. Higgins.

WASH THAT ITCH AWAY.

It is said that there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to Eczema and other skin diseases. If you knew that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch, wouldn't you make every effort to take a trip to Europe at once? Would you not be willing to spend your last cent to find the cure?

But you need not leave home for these distant springs. Relief is right here in your own home town!

A simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients as compounded only in D. D. D. Prescription will bring instant relief to that terrible burning itch, and leave the skin as smooth and healthy as that of a child.

If you have not already tried D. D. D. get at least a 25 cent bottle today. We assure you of instant relief.

THREATEN TO SUE TO GET INSURANCE

Elizabeth, Oct. 18.—Unless they are allowed the $20 000 insurance which they claim is due them from insurance companies, the firm of B. Jacobson and Son, whose lumber yard was almost totally destroyed by fire Sunday night, will bring the matter to court.

Barnett Jacobson, president of the firm, denied last night that Jacob Jacobson, his son and a junior member of the company, endeavored to obtain from Hugh Nelson, an insurance agent, rewriting policies, as was originally stated by Mr. Nelson.

"My son went to the insurance agent fully convinced that he knew of the fire in our plant, the report of it having been spread throughout the city and a story of it published in the morning papers," said Mr. Jacobson.

As there were no men in the building at the time of the fire Mr. Jacobson believes that it is the work of incendiaries. He will make an investigation.

In reference to the insurance," said Mr. Jacobson, "I drew the statement of Mr. Nelson that our policies had run out. I was not in my office Monday, and on Tuesday I received a registered letter from the insurance agent, dated October 8, the Saturday previous, saying that from the day of date we were given five days grace, in which to renew our policies.

"We immediately communicated with Mr. Nelson and arranged to have him come to our office on the following day, Wednesday. He did not come. Thursday was one of our holidays, and although Mr. Nelson said he called, we were not at the office. On neither Friday or Saturday did he appear, although we requested him to do so.

"Sunday night the fire occurred. Afterward I upbraided my son for not having the policies renewed, not knowing the circumstances. About 7 o'clock yesterday morning, Jacob went to Mr. Nelson's office, and asked for a renewal. The agent accepted a check and in turn received a receipt.

"No sooner had the paper been placed in my son's hands than Mr. Nelson's son came into the office and asked his father if there was a fire in the Metropolitan Printing Company Sunday night.

"'Is that true, Jacobson?' inquired Mr. Nelson of my son.

"'No,' replied Jacob, 'it was 'n our building.'

"Immediately Mr. Nelson tore up the check and asked Jacob for the receipt. He refused to give it.

"It mattered nothing whether or not there was a fire in our plant, our five days' grace had not expired and we were entitled to regular payment of the premiums. The days of grace would come to an end five days after I received a letter, and as Wednesday and Sunday were holidays, only three days had passed.

"I have not communicated with Mr. Nelson since he issued his statement and I don't intend to, but if we do not get the insurance I will notify my lawyers and the matter will be taken to court."

The buildings destroyed by the fire were insured for $20,000. Mr. Nelson is the agent for three of them. The names of the companies Mr. Jacobson could not remember. The senior member of the firm charges that Mr. Nelson begged him for business and that in August he finally listened to the pleadings of the agents, and discontinuing his connections with other firms allowed his property to be insured by Mr. Nelson's companies. Mr. Jacobson said that he was overcharged from 25 to 50 cents on the hundred by Mr. Nelson.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

WESTFIELD.

The laying of the corner-stone of the new fire department headquarters was witnessed by a large audience Saturday afternoon. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. A. W. Hayes, of the Methodist church, and the stone was set in place by Mayor A. L. Alpers, who made an address. Addresses were also made by L. G. Venn, president of the Exempt Firemen's Association; C. W. Harden, of the exempts, and Joseph Clark, who was the first foreman of the first fire company organized in the town. Members of the department paraded in uniform with their apparatus. The building will be of brick and reinforced concrete, with white brick front. It will have all the latest appliances for fire department use. The building, when complete with furniture and fixtures, will cost $25,000.

Fire wardens in this part of the county are watching the mountains and fields, owing to the unusually dry condition of the ground. A fire started on the mountain at this time would be liable to cause considerable damage. A couple of fires were started Saturday by hunters who were careless in lighting pipes, but fortunately the fires were seen in time. Ash Brook swamp, to the southeast of Westfield, is so dry that hunters Saturday reported that they could walk across it anywhere dry shod. This is the first time that it was ever reported in that condition. This swamp, several thousand acres in extent, is the source of the supply for the Middlesex Water Company's reservoir in Clark township. At present the reservoir is practically dry.

Property owners have been notified by the Board of Health that if garbage is mixed with ashes, suits will be instituted against offenders under the health code.

SOMERVILLE.

Rev. M. R. Church preached a sermon on the life of Columbus Sunday evening. The monthly musical service was conducted by Donald McKenzie.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Ethel May Somers, of Springfield, Mass., and William Edgar Plumb, of this borough.

Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl, of the Second Reformd church, preached Sunday evening on the "Fifth Word of Jesus on the Cross."

Mrs. J. V. Barcalow and Mrs. G. S. Cook are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hoffman in New York City.

Mrs. Walter Durling is entertaining her mother and sister, Mrs. and Miss Lunger, of Ocean Grove.

Mrs. G. B. Sanborn, of Elkton, Md., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. A. Buckmann.

William S. Vroom is entertaining his nephew, Harold Adams, of Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van Fleet spent last week at Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. A. C. Lindsley is visiting relatives in Bernardsville.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The home of George F. Giles, on North avenue, was invaded by a burglar early Saturday morning, who was interrupted in his work before getting any booty. Miss Ethel Tinsman returned to the house from the baseball club dance about 1 o'clock in the morning in company with a Miss Barton, of Plainfield, and proceeded to the dining room to get the latter's gloves before taking a car. Miss Tinsman lighted the gas and as she did so noticed a man crouching behind a chair. She screamed for assistance and the fellow leaped through a window, taking sash and all. He succeeded in making a clean getaway. The burglar had gained entrance by the front door which had been left open for Miss Tinsman. Two suspects were arrested by Marshal Benson Saturday, but were released by Recorder Campbell after an examination.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Mohan, whose death occurred in Muhlenberg Hospital Friday, was held in St. John's church yesterday morning. The mass was said by Rev. Father Dunphy in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield, the following acting as pall bearers: John Logan, Bartley Kelly, Thomas Reynolds, Owen Mohan, Michael Boyle and Charles Dineen.

The application of Frank Linke to secure a wholesale liquor license in the borough has been withdrawn. It was to have been presented in the county court yesterday, but in view of the vigorous opposition the applicant deemed it best not to meet with a refusal. By withdrawing Mr. Linke can make another try at any time again otherwise he would have to wait a year.

Mr. and Mrs. Flynn, of Brooklyn, have been visiting Mrs. E. Muller, of New Market road.

John Schladitz, of New York, has been spending the past week with borough friends.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Captain H. B. Saunders, of Washington Valley, has returned from a stay of several months in Newfoundland, where he has been engaged in work connected with the Lloyds Marine Insurance Co., of London.

The second of the Bachelors' Club fall dances will be held tonight in the hall. The committee has completed all arrangements and the club and its friends are looking forward to an enjoyable time.

John Peters, who has been spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. John Gillotti, of Forest avenue, has returned to his home in New York.

Mrs. William Hull, of Westfield avenue, is spending two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. O. Price, at Forty Forts, Pa.

Michael A. Carrono, of Stanbury avenue has taken a position with the Potter Printing Press Company, of Plainfield.

Frederick Hetrick, formerly proprietor of the Central Hotel, but now of Orange, has been visiting friends in town.

Miss Wilhelmina Hosinger, of Park avenue, has entered the Elizabeth General Hospital as a pupil nurse.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Catholic fair promises to eclipse any entertainment given heretofore by this church. It will take place in Washington hall Nov. 12, 14 and 15. A Plainfield orchestra will furnish the music for dancing which will be an interesting feature. The proceeds will be used toward the payment of the church debt.

The case of George Zellars against the children of William Lock was settled by the payment of the claim demanded.

Thomas Linaberry and family are about to move back the third time, to the same house in about a year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Klinger will move into their former home after a two years' sojourn in the west.

Miss Elizabeth Smith has gone to Brooklyn to visit with friends for a few days.

Mrs. Oscar Thorne is visiting out of town friends.

SAYS MORMONS ARE IN ORANGE.

Having learned that Mormon missionaries are making a house-to-house canvass in Orange, Rev. John O. Sparnon, pastor of the Orange Methodist church, took occasion Sunday night to preach a special sermon in order to warn his congregation against the methods of the strangers and to expose the doctrines of the sect. Mr. Sparnon is thoroughly familiar with the Mormon creed and methods, having headed a committee in Paterson a few years ago, which forced the missionaries to leave that city in twenty-four hours.

He warned his congregation and every other resident of the community against the Mormon missionaries, and urged that the literature which they are distributing be destroyed before being read by girls and boys.

FOR TAXING TROLLEYS.

Paterson May Force P. S. C. to Get Licenses for Cars.

Paterson, Oct. 18.—The Board of Aldermen last night passed a resolution, introduced by Alderman Nicholas De Luccia, providing for an ordinance licensing all streets cars operated by the Public Service in Paterson. This ordinance, if adopted, will mean a big added revenue to the city. It is estimated that there are over 150 cars operated here, and with a tax of $25 upon each vehicle a large sum of money would go to the treasury each year.

The matter of taxing the Public Service on its rolling stock has been the subject of considerable discussion for many years.

The store that keeps serving the people best is the store that grows the fastest.

As proof of our best service we have only to cite the remarkable growth which we have attained during the time we have done business in Plainfield.

Our business has grown not slowly and imperceptibly—but by rapid leaps and bounds, and evidence of its growth in the shape of enlarged Departments, greater stocks and a steadily increasing patronage, are being constantly remarked by those who pay us frequent visits.

All this is the reward of conscientious service-giving—

High quality standards—

Fair prices—

Courteous assistants—

Confidence in the selection of our stocks and in looking to the satisfaction of our customers—

The constant keeping up of varieties—

Truthful advertising.

These are the factors largely responsible for our success.

No store can rise higher than the ideals of its management. Our aims and ambitions are so high, that as fast as we are gaining strength and popularity, we have no disposition to leave well enough alone.

We continue to be restless for advancement—to seek out and adopt new measures for serving our public better.

The success which we have attained shall only serve as a stimulus to our striving toward perfection.

GOLF.

It is expected that both Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, and Gardiner W. White, of Oakland, the interscholastic champion, will drop down to the Country Club of Atlantic City for the annual fall invitation golf tournament to be held there on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The Atlantic City competition will be one of the last in the North this season, and all who can will take part.

Qualifying in five or six sixteens has always proved popular at the course by the sea, and thanks to a happy arrangement of conditions, a contestant who starts in the qualifying round is assured three continuous days of golf.

Hereabouts an event bound to attract more than local interest is the four ball profession match arranged for tomorrow at the Fox Hills course, on Staten Island. The plan is to have Willie Anderson, of the Philadelphia Cricket Club, team up with Isaac Mackie, the Fox Hills "pro," against Alex Smith, the national and metropolitan open champion, and George Low, of Baltusrol. When Smith and Mackie met in their famous match more than a year ago both broke the course record, and it would not be surprising if one or more members of the quartet engaged for the coming contest should accomplish something out of the ordinary. There seems to be some doubt, however, as to whether Anderson will be on hand, for he was too ill to appear at Dyker Meadow last Saturday.

TWO DIE AFTER CHURCH IN ORANGE

Within a few hours after they had attended church services Sunday night two residents of Orange died. Charles Youngs Little, for many years a prominent member of the Orange Methodist church, was apparently in good health when he attended the service. During the night, however, he was taken ill at his home, 13 Park place, with acute indigestion and died at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

John H. Springstead, colored, was also in good health when he attended the evening service at the Union Baptist church. He had returned to his home, 56 Hill street, and was about to retire when he was stricken with heart disease. He died before the arrival of a physician.

Mr. Little was born in Orange county, N. Y., seventy years ago and was the youngest of fourteen children. His father fought in the War of 1813. At an early age Mr. Little went to New York and learned the paint manufacturing trade. He followed this business all his life and was at work last week. On account of his long years of faithfulness he was pensioned by a large paint manufacturing company in New York several years ago but continued to work.

Mr. Little had lived in Orange for thirty-seven years. He was formerly a member of Calvary Methodist church, East Orange, where he served for a number of years on the official board. Several years ago he transferred his membership to the Orange church, and has since been an active member there. Yesterday he attended both the morning and evening services as well as the Men's Bible class in the afternoon. Mr. Little is survived by a widow and two sons, Geo. Y. Little and Charles H. Little, both of Hanover.

Mr. Springstead was fifty-six years old and had been a resident of Orange nearly all his life. He is survived by a widow, six daughters and one son.

PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD HOLDS ANNUAL SESSION

The eighty-eighth annual session of the synod of New Jersey convened last night in the Presbyterian church at Lakewood. There are ten presbyteries in the synod and all are represented. They are the Missionary Presbyteries of Corsica, West Africa, and of Havana, Cuba, and the New Jersey Presbyteries of Elizabeth, Jersey City, Monmouth, Morris counties and Orange, Newark, New Brunswick, Newton and West Jersey. Each Presbytery is represented by at least one minister and one elder. There are 383 churches in the synod with 516 ministers, and a total membership of 81,440.

Last year the churches of the synod contributed $431,000 to benevolent societies and to self-support, $1,289,000.

The retiring moderator, the Rev. Dr. C. Randolph Kuebler, of Hackensack, preached the first sermon last night to a large audience. After the sermon the Lord's Supper was observed and immediately following the roll of the synod was called, after which the election of a moderator was held.

The Rev. William W. Knox, of New Brunswick, was unanimously chosen. Mr. Knox has been the pastor of the First Presbyterian church of New Brunswick for the last thirty years.

The Lord's Supper was administered by the Rev. Dr. Keubler, the retiring moderator, assisted by the Rev. James Scott Young, of Garfield, and the Rev. Henry T. Beatty, of Hoboken. The text for the evening was from I. Corinthians, 1:17, "For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel."

WELLMAN AND CREW RESCUED BY 'TRENT'

The New York Herald received a wireless today stating that Walter Wellman and his crew were rescued at 5 o'clock this morning by the Royal Mail Steamship "Trent." The dirigible "America" was located 100 miles off Cape Hatteras, where it had come down.

Wellman left Atlantic City in the "America" Sunday morning announcing that if conditions were favorable he would cross the Atlantic ocean. After 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, he had not been heard from although there was a wireless on his airship.

According to the Herald's wireless message, all were well when rescued today.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Martine's Coined Word.

One of the delights of the campaign is James Martine, who will move heaven and earth if a Democratic Legislature shall not send him to the United States Senate. Mr. Martine with a great outburst introduced Mr. Wilson to an audience one night as "one with the muniments of Lincoln." Nobody has ascertained yet just what he meant. It is too different to have been meant for lineaments, and no one dares ask the orator. Mr. Martine it was who spoke from an auto at Plainfield. He has been nominated for Sheriff Congress, Assembly and most things, and he enumerated them. "I have sought your suffrage many times," he cried at last. "I have been your candidate and have been defeated God knows how many times, but you cannot crush a truth nor annihilate a principle!"—New York Sun.

When Burton & Burton, the contracting firm that was the contract for building the new Greenwood Avenue M. E. church, learned that the structure was to be the thirteenth Methodist church building to be erected in Trenton, and that there were thirteen members of its official board, they were doubly loath to commence work on the church on the thirteenth of the month. That was the day set for the work to start but the contractors notified the board that they would postpone operations for a day. But the official board, by a unanimous vote of thirteen, said "no" and the work was started on the thirteenth.

Their Poverty.

He—What makes you think your new neighbors are so awfully poor?

She—When we want to borrow anything they never have it.

MRS. JULIA WARD HOWE, AUTHOR OF "THE BATTLE HYMN OF THE REPUBLIC," AND AMERICA'S MOST FAMOUS WOMAN, DIES IN HER NINETY-SECOND YEAR

Julia Ward Howe, writer, poet, author of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and one of the foremost leaders in all movements that stood for the advancement and betterment of women, died at her home at Middletown, R. I. yesterday at the advanced age of 92 years, as told in this paper yesterday. Death was due to heart failure, resulting from advanced age and a severe cold recently contracted.

Julia Ward Howe was born in New York city May 27, 1819. Her parents were Samuel and Julia Rush (Cutler) Ward. She was educated in private schools, and in 1843 married Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe, an eminent philanthropist. With him she conducted the Boston Commonwealth (anti-slavery) prior to the Civil War, and was closely identified with the abolition movement. After the slavery problem was settled she became active in the cause of woman's suffrage, prison reform and peace. She was also a Unitarian preacher, lecturer and writer. Her "Battle Hymn of the Republic" is known wherever the American flag flies. She was also the author of numerous memoirs, essays and other literary productions. For many years she made her home in Boston summering at Newport.

Mrs. Howe was the mother of Juplia Romana Anagnos, who died in 1886; Henry Marion Howe, Florence Howe Hall, who formerly resided here, Laura Richards and Maude Howe Elliott.

Julia Ward Howe was an admirer of "Clementine," Trenton's famous poet, who, like Mrs. Howe, charmed the literary loving world during the Civil War with her poetry.

Shortly after "Clementine," who was Mrs. Clementine Howarth, died a few years ago, among her papers were a number of letters from Julia Ward Howe, all of which praised Clementine for her poetry, chief among which was the poem which made her famous, entitled "It Was But a Little Faded Flower."

In these papers were also found letters from Grover Cleveland and Richard Watson Gilder, both of whom have also passed away.

Proctor's Classy Bill.

The Fitzgibbon McCoy Trio at Proctor's theatre, this week, is in a class by itself, and made a big hit last night. "The Sexton's Dream" is a beautiful stage picture, the effects being unusual. The Mahoney Brothers are a pair of classy eccentric comedians, while Harry Holman is an exceptionally good comedian that pleases.

Miss Annie Pritchard, of New York, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith, of South Second street, after returning from Portland Oregon, where she spent the summer.

DEMOCRATS TO HEAR SOME CAMPAIGN TALK

The Democrats of the city will hold a mass meeting at Reform Hall tomorrow night, when men prominent in national, State and local affairs will speak on the campaign issues. James E. Martine, who is a candidate for the United States Senatorial berth, will preside at the meeting and will have something pertinent to say about the political contest.

The speakers of the evening will be Judge Charles F. Moore, of Virginia; Former Congressman W. E. Leake, of Jersey City; Assembly Nominee Calvin E. Brodhead, of this city; TenEyck R. Beardsley, of Fanwood, and J. O. Stevens, of this city. Each address will be short and to the point, clearly setting forth the issues of the campaign. Women are invited and seats will be reserved for them at the hall.

P. H. S. NOTES.

The boys' doubles in the P. H. S. tennis tournament were won by Ludlow Vandeventer and John Uhler, who defeated Frank Clark and Edson Woodhull in a final match at Strong's court on Monday afternoon. The results were 6-2, 6-2, 6-0.

The pupils who can play any instrument and are interested in forming an orchestra will meet Wednesday afternoon.

At a class meeting today the seniors decided to have a straw ride this Friday to Metuchen and have a masquerade party on Friday next week at the High School.

Muldoon Barn Destroyed.

The barn belonging to Patrick Muldoon and located on Liberty street, which caught fire yesterday afternoon, was practically destroyed. The loss is placed at about $200, partially covered by insurance. Elias N. Nadee, who rented the barn, suffered a loss of $50 on produce stored in the place.

PASTOR SAYS HIS WARD IS THIRSTY

Englewood, Oct. 18.—This city is stirred up over an open letter written by the Rev. H. C. Robbins, of St. Paul's church, in which he severely criticises the action of the City Council in allowing the reopening of Mager's saloon after refusing to grant the house a license last April. In his letter Mr. Robbins states concerning the last session of the Council:

"The Third Ward is getting thirsty; election time is near; would it not be a pleasant surprise to housekeepers to open a place of conviviality and refreshment in their midst?' A license was allowed to expire last April. Why not reconsider the decision then arrived at? The member for the Second Ward so moves. The motion is passed—a motion not to grant a license, but to reconsider.

"With fraternal interest in the thirst of the Third Ward which ought to make them very grateful, the member for the Fourth Ward moves to grant the license?—No. To appoint a hearing, as the city ordinance requires? Not even that. A hearing is the last thing wanted. The absent member for the Third Ward might get back, and pleasant surprise in store for him would all be spoiled.

"Moreover, there is the awkward possibility that the city ordinance on licenses will be found, if read, to state a definite and limited time for such hearings, rendering the whole surprise party illegal and impossible. No—he only moves to diminish the license fee for the license that has not yet been granted and! the Council, with, shall we call it a girlish ignorance of legal procedure, solemnly puts and carries the impossible motion.

"The question now arises, was the Council acting within their rights when they reconsidered the matter? One of the foremost business men in town and at one time on the Council stated they were not. He claims that to reconsider a license, as in this case, the matter should have been done at the meeting following its refusal. It will be remembered this was done at the time the Palisade House was closed. At the meeting in question that Mr. Robbins 'stated' reads like a page from 'Alice in Wonderland.'

"Dr. Currie, the councilman who was foremost in refusing to grant the license and also refused to show complaints received by him, and at which time he had a wordy war with Councilman Conklin, was the one to make the motion to reconsider the matter. This was done, but those present did not hear any motion to grant the license, if such was done, but did hear one by Conklin in relation to the license fee Mager should pay. Everyone is awaiting the next Council meeting, Tuesday night, with interest."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The Plainfield permanent stock company returns to The Plainfield theatre today, and will present that powerful Western drama, "The Great Divide," from the pen of Wm. Vaughn Moody. This play is considered one of the greatest successes of recent years and will be remembered as the one in which Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin starred. The leading parts in the production here will be taken by Miss Ilka Diehl and Harold Mead, and they will be ably supported by the other members of the company, including Miss Eleanor Woodruff, Miss Gloria Gallup, Miss Ada Allen, Farrell McKnight, John A. Robb, Henry Sharp and others. Under the direction of Harry Sedley, the new stage director, rehearsals have been in progress for several days, and the company is prepared to give a fine interpretation of the play. Great care will be exercised in producing "The Great Divide," much attention being given to every little detail. This play will also be given tomorrow afternoon and evening, and the last three days of the week "The Boys of Co. B", Arnold Daly's success, will be offered.

LIGHTING CONTRACT ROW.

Councilman Casey, of Westfield, Makes Charges.

Westfield, Oct. 18.—There was a lively session of Council last night when Councilman Casey said that the city was being sandbagged on its lighting contract. He said that current was being furnished the city at less than 1 cent the rate charged residents.

Mayor Alpers asked Mr. Casey if he knew this to be true why he did not bring it up when the lighting committee met. The renewal of the lighting contract was referred to the city attorney.

Garwood to Sue Central.

Garwood, Oct. 18.—Council at a special meeting last night instructed Borough Attorney J. A. Kiernan, of Elizabeth, to institute proceedings in the Supreme Court to prevent the Central Railroad from going ahead with its plans to erect a bridge over its tracks at the Center street crossing. The railroad wants to erect a foot and signal bridge, but the residents demand an underground crossing.

Plainfield in .... The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

May 1, 1873.—Property around New Market has begun to "look up" since the certain fact that a line of railroad is to shortly run through that ancient village.

Mysterious Disappearance—Three weeks ago Thursday, two young ladies belonging to respectable families at Bound Brook, suddenly disappeared from that village. They were traced in the direction of Philadelphia, and then all trace of them was lost, although detectives have been diligently searching for them ever since.

There are now 550 convicts in the State prison, about 400 of whom are employed daily in the workshops. The new keeper Mr. Charles Wilson, will not, its understood, make any material changes in the staff of prison subordinates.

We understand that the "National Game" is to be represented by a Plainfield "nine" the coming season. We do not speak from official knowledge, but have had broad hints to that effect. Well, why not? We certainly have the "bone, sinew and muscle," and as past experience has proven—respectability and intelligence. Organize at once.

On Thursday afternoon last the driven fire well, corner of Second and Place streets, was subjected to another test by No. 1 steamer. The trial proved even more satisfactory than the former one. Two streams were thrown through 7-8 nozzles and one length of hose a distance of over 150 feet. The amount of water pressure obtained was 150 pounds to 90 pounds of steam.

A number of young men of this city and North Plainfield have organized themselves into a club, styling the same the "Union and Somerset Club." They propose to enjoy themselves the coming summer by picnics and social gatherings.

April 24, 1873.—Last week over 2,000 members of the order of United American Mechanics, in regalia, and with banners draped in mourning, followed to the grave the remains of Ezra E. Day, of Industry Council, No. 50 of Jersey City.

Infanticide.—Early on Saturday morning last, as Mr. Michael Herring was walking through Madison avenue, he discovered the remains of a new-born colored child in the yard adjoining Perrine & Doan's carpenter shop. Notifying Chief Gillies, the remains were taken to the station house, where Dr. Gillette viewed the same, and pronounced the cause of death to have been by strangulation. A piece of twine was found twisted around the neck of the infant.

Robbery.—On Saturday evening last, while the family of Mr. Peter Ross, residing on Madison avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets, were absent from their home, some one entered the building through a window, and carried off about $25 worth of silverware. Mr. Ross returned home about 9 o'clock and found the window open. In all probability his early arrival home prevented the burglars from carrying off any other plunder.

Decided improvements have been made in the arrangements of the boxes in the Postoffice. More room has been gained both for the public and clerks by the change. There are now over 1,000 boxes, nearly all of which are taken. The general delivery counter is hereafter to be located on the side of the office instead of as heretofore, at the front, which will be a decided advantage and accommodation to those who now pay for boxes and have to wait until a person ahead of them has had a handful or so of letters run over to see whether there is "anything for me."

Uncle Lyman Spencer started for the West last week, where he proposes to have a good time ni hunting the coming season.

MAYOR VETOES ORDINANCES.

Refuses to Sign Measure Regulating Dance Halls.

Elizabeth, Oct. 18.—Mayor Victor Mravlag returned to Council without his signature last night the ordinance passed a week ago to regulate dance halls. The Mayor said that such an ordinance if passed should be entitled: "An Ordinance to License Immorality." He further stated that dance halls should be suppressed, not regulated.

The ordinance granting the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company the right to lay conduits in fifty streets passed third reading.

WEST HOBOKEN GROWS.

West Hoboken, Oct. 18.—Population of West Hoboken was given out in Washington yesterday as 35,403. In 1900 the population was 23,094, and in 1905 it was 29,082.

This is an increase of 17 per cent. and a fraction over the figures of 1900.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company Copyright, 1909, by the McClure Company

"No, I don't want you to believe that," he said. And how hugely he would have laughed had he been told a few weeks ago that he would let himself be misunderstood and shamed for the sake of a girl like Isidora! But now he did not feel it strange that he should make this sacrifice for her. And, curiously enough, it seemed to be Lesley Dearmer's voice, Lesley Dearmer's eyes, which, haunting him always, bade him spare this common little woman at any cost.

"TAKE DAT FOR YOUR IMPUDENCE!"

"You are a sneak!" said Alexander. "Ain't you ashamed of yourself?"

"No," answered Loveland.

"Shows what you are, den. You're a tief. You try to steal my daughter because you t'ink you get her money!"

"Oh, pa, he loves me! It's me he wants!" wailed Isidora, weeping, yet not daring to defend her lover at the expense of womanly self respect.

"You're a little fool, Izzie, or you wouldn't believe any such a t'ing," Alexander scolded her, somewhat softened by her tears. "A feller like dat—a fraud, a liar"—

"If you were a younger man you wouldn't dare to say that," Loveland cut him short. "It's you who are lying."

"What! You call me a liar? You—you cheat, you convict!" sputtered Alexander. "Take dat for your impudence!" And, rushing at Loveland like an angry bull, he struck him with both podgy fists.

Isidora screamed and seized her father's arms, crying out that he was wicked, cruel, ungrateful to the man who had saved his house from burning.

"Don't be afraid—I'm not going to strike back," Loveland reassured her. "He knows that."

"Yes, he knows dat because he knows youse a coward," Alexander sneered, wheezing asthmatically. "You just git."

"That's exactly what I'm anxious to do," said Loveland. "Goodby, Miss Alexander."

"Oh, you ain't leaving me forever!" cried the girl. "Pa, don't send him away like this. He—he ain't to blame." She hesitated, stammering. Then a wild longing to keep her lover at all hazards overcame fear and scruples. "It was me who"—

"Don't," said Loveland. "You can do no good. I shan't forget your kindness. We won't see each other again, but you must forget tonight and marry some man who can make you happy. Goodby once more." And, pushing past Cohen, who hovered near the door, he sent the commercial traveler sprawling as he walked out of the room.

Black Dick, who had been told to guard the broken window of the restaurant in the master's absence, had heard all or most of the disturbance from the foot of the stairs, and he ran after Loveland to suggest the wisdom of getting money from Alexander.

"He am a mighty wicked ole man," whispered the negro. "You done a lot fur him, an' now he kick you out o' de house widout wages."

"I shall never get a penny from the old beast. It's useless to try," said Loveland heavily, seeing a vision of homeward bound ships sailing away without him on board. "Goodby, Dick. I wish I had something to give you to remember me by, but I haven't."

"Lawd, why I'm a rich man wid money in de bank," protested Dick. "Do you t'ink because I got a black face I take suffin' off'n you? No; on de odder hand, I lend you what you like, sah, and you pay me back when you like. You've tret me like a gemman."

Loveland thanked him, curiously touched, and as he refused the loan he found himself, somewhat to his own surprise, shaking hands warmly with the colored cook.

Bill Willing sat reading in the coldest corner of the writing room in the Bat hotel. Somehow when he had not denuded himself of his last nickel and could afford to pay for a corner anywhere it was always the coldest corner, because he blithely sacrificed his chances of the warmer ones to others. "Say, just look at this, my boy!" he exclaimed, his eye sparkling with excitement, as he pointed to a paragraph which he had marked with red ink from a bottle on the table.

"Wanted" was the [illegible] word which headed the paragraph, and that was what Val had expected; but as he read on he grew puzzled. "Wanted—For repertory work, juvenile leading man; must be [illegible] good looking; age over thirty; gentlemanly manners and appearance; slim figure; fashionable wardrobe on and off stage; no boozers or loafers need apply. Write at once, inclosing photo and stating experience, age, weight and lowest salary, to Jack Jacobus, managing star tour for Lillie de Lisle, the Little Human Flower, Modunk, O."

"Great Scott, ain't it the grandest ever?" Bill demanded, with a beaming smile. "My little gal, Lillie de Lisle! It's her; it's her! There can't be two Lillie de Lisles. Praise be! I've heard of her again! And she's way up top. She's a star."

"Oh, the girl you used to be in love with at the theater?" asked Loveland.

"Used to be? Was, am and will be till I end my days. Gee, every week whenever there was a spare dime I've always bought this paper to see if I could run across her name and know where she was or what she's doin'. And here she is a star on a tour of her own, doin' business as a 'little human flower.' Great, ain't it?"

"Why don't you write and say you'd like to have this engagement?"

"Me? Oh, Jiminy, am I a good looker—am I under thirty, with a fashionable wardrobe on and off? Huh, mine's mostly off." Bill laughed and then sighed. "The good Lord didn't make me for no juvenile lead."

"But if she still likes you she'd stretch a point in your favor," Loveland suggested.

"Jacobus wouldn't. He was the property man I told you about that got me the sack on account of Lillie."

"By Jove!" exclaimed Val. "I say, you don't suppose he's married her since?"

"Can't have, at least not unless his wife's gone off the hooks," said Bill. "I heard of him not a year ago from one of the boys who used to supe with me. Said Jacobus had married an actress named Thorn Moon, a big dark woman in the heavy line. By jinks, I wish they was advertising for a scene painter instead of juvenile lead. Wouldn't I just whiz out to Modunk like a shot! Say, Gordon, you wouldn't like the job, would you? Great idea! Why, you're made for it. And you could give 'the little human flower' old Bill's never failin' love."

"I couldn't get them to take me, I'm afraid," said Loveland. "I'm not an actor."

"Pooh!" said Bill. "Ain't you ever played as an amateur?"

"Yes, once or twice. They roped me in," said Loveland, recalling a brilliant scene in the country house of a duchess.

"Well, then, there you are with your experience. And as for the wardrobe—my goodness, lad, what do you want more than those swell tweeds of yours and the dress suit you've got? Maybe you'll do better at Alexander's now you're a kind of star yourself"—

"A fallen star," laughed Loveland. "Look at me and see the marks I got sliding down the sky."

Then for the first time Bill noticed that his friend's hair was singed and his face reddened on one side, his white shirt covered with black spots and his left hand partly in, partly out of, a clumsily made bandage.

"Moses, but you have been through the wars!" exclaimed Bill. And he listened with growing excitement to Loveland's version of the fire.

"He chucked me," said Loveland.

"Je-rusalem! Why, in the name of all that's decent?"

"It was in the name of everything indecent—villain, cheat, liar, coward'—that he did it. According to him, I was all those and ought to be in prison. He thought I'd been making love to his daughter."

"Gee! And had you?"

"No. It was a misunderstanding. But I couldn't explain. And the long and short of it is that I crawled in the dust for a few wretched dollars, which it seems I've got to lose after all. I don't know how I'm to touch any more unless I do as you say and get this place with your friend, 'the human flower.'"

"You'll go?" asked Bill, brightening.

"Rather, if they'll have me. But I haven't even a photograph"—

"Come out with me," said Bill, seizing him by his sound arm. "I know a place where they do you a tintype by flashlight for 10 cents and finish while you wait. I'll stand the racket. You can turn your good side to the machine. By the time the answer comes your hair'll have grown out and you'll be lookin' A1. Hurrah! Three cheers for Lillie de Lisle, 'the little human flower,' and her new juvenile lead!"

CHAPTER XVIII.

SHOW FOLKS.

"MO-DUNK!" shouted a brakeman, slamming the door of the day coach in which Loveland had traveled since some vaguely remembered hour in the night when he had changed trains.

He had dozed, sitting on the hard red seat, his head leaning wearily against the window frame, and he started up at the yell which for an instant seemed part of his dream.

But, then, everything lately had been a dream—his weird experiences in New York, the absence of replies from his mother and the London bank in answer to his cabled appeals, the coming of the telegram from Jack Jacobus, accepting the very modest terms named at Bill's suggestion; his start from the magnificent Grand Central station in New York, where the new "juvenile lead" had found his ticket awaiting him. And now, as he bundled half dazed out of the local train he had boarded some hours ago, the dream suddenly grew more bewildering that ever.

What a contrast was this little country "depot" with the splendors of the Grand Central in New York!

Through an open door of the passengers' waiting room Loveland caught a glimpse of a squat stove rising like a fat bodied gray dwarf from a big box of sawdust, and a man who had been warming his hands came out of the room as the train stopped. He was fifty, perhaps, and tall, with a swaggering walk, which caused the shabby fur lined coat he wore to swing like the skirt of a woman's dress as he moved forward. He had on patent leather boots, cracked with old age and caked with new mud.

Every line of the fantastic figure, every article of clothing bespoke the fifth rate, seedy actor who has parted in his time with most things except his self conceit.

The idlers on the bench stared at him, then at the newcomer, and regarded with lazy curiosity the meeting between the two, for this gentleman in the tall silk hat and fur overcoat was Mr. Jack Jacobus, come to claim Mr. P. Gordon, the new member of his company.

One quick glance and the glass gray eyes had taken in each detail of Loveland's appearance from the smartly made traveling cap, which still kept its shape, down to the neat brown boots. He approved all, it was evident, except the battered gladstone bag which Bill Willing had bought extraordinarily cheap at a pawnbroker's sale as a gift for his friend Gordon. This Loveland carried in his hand, and he saw the actor-manager's gaze rest sardonically upon it. Mr. Jacobus inquired if he had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Perceval Gordon. Then when answered in the affirmative he delivered himself of a few polite words of greeting.

"Glad you got here all right. Don't know what we should have done if you hadn't turned up. Our juvenile lead came down with typhoid at our last week's stand, and we've been faking our best ever since. Got the checks handy for your big baggage?"

Loveland had to explain that he had no big baggage and under the changing, freezing eyes of Jacobus felt as insignificant as a crushed worm.

"WHAT, NO WARDROBE?"

"What, no wardrobe?" demanded the manager. His tone of friendly condescension to a new member of his company altered to one of bullying suspicion.

"My wardrobe is here," said Loveland, holding out Bill's present.

"Sorry I forgot to bring a magnifying glass," sneered Jacobus. "But, see here, I call this false pretenses. How are you going to play a new part every night of the week, some of 'em costoom ones, all out of a grip no bigger than your pocket? You ought to have told me what you didn't have—if it wouldn't have taken you too long."

Loveland wished that he had no heavier burden to carry than his bag, but he kept the thought to himself and trudged off with the arbiter of his destiny. The loungers, too far away to overhear the conversation, guessed that it was not altogether of a friendly nature and transferred their quids of tobacco to their cheeks in order to discuss the situation with a new if fleeting animation. As he passed them to descend the platform steps to the muddy country road Loveland caught the words "show folks."

"Show folks!" Yes, he was one of the show folks.

Loveland pricked all over as if with a million stabs of tiny pins, but Jacobus only laughed and said that it was a good advertisement.

He questioned Loveland sharply concerning his theatrical experience, seeming to incline toward distrust since the incident of the traveling bag. Very soon he found out, in all its nakedness, the truth which had been veiled in the letter dictated by Bill—that Mr. Perceval Gordon's experience had all been as an amateur and not very extensive at that. However, as Bill had prophesied, he did not appear to think it mattered much, though he sniffed and "hum'd" a little by way of curbing the new man's self esteem. "You've got a good stage presence and voice," said he, "though I don't know what the folks here will think of that English accent of yours. Pity you can't talk United States."

THE FORUM.

Ellis Replies to Prince.

Plainfield, Oct. 18, '10.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Dear Sir: In view of the awkward attempt of Prof. Prince at the Republican mass meeting in Reform Hall Saturday night to define Woodrow Wilson's position on the tariff, would it be asking too much of you to quote, in simple justice to the Democratic candidate for Governor, from the address which he delivered here a year ago the several paragraphs defining unmistakably his position on that important subject? Before quoting, the paragraphs, let me say that the Plainfield Democratic Club has printed that address and his speech of acceptance at Trenton of the nomination in pamphlet form for free distribution. These two documents constitute a platform on which Democrats and Progressive Republicans can consistently unite to promote their common objects. For they are not far apart and Woodrow Wilson is fast bringing them together.

I am sure the general public, as well as myself, will appreciate your placing Dr. Wilson in the right position by quoting the paragraphs referred to. They are as follows:

"The original principle of protective tariffs in this country was that laid down by the great statesman who may be said to have originated it. I mean Alexander Hamilton. His argument for protective tariffs turned at every point upon this single object, the calling out of all the resources and energies of the nation, and their protection against foreign competition so long as they should be unable to bear competition. He thought always of the general development and never of the particular interests of those who were engaged for their own profit in furthering it. The principle upon which the Aldrich tariff is based is a radically different one, as sharply contrasted with the principle of Hamilton as private interest is contrasted with public benefit. The object of that tariff, and of those which immediately preceded it, is not the benefit of the country at large and the careful stimulation of its many and various industries, but the benefit of those engaged in the protected industries, the incompetent along with the competent. It is a means of insuring profits to certain bodies of manufacturers on the plea that what they are doing adds to the wealth and trade of the nation, but without any regard to the question whether they are adding to the wealth and trade of the nation in the way which is most wholesome and most suited to the common benefit.

"Again and again there have been instances in previous revisions of the tariff in which when certain duties were lowered the manufacturers directly affected found themselves face to face with certain loss, but turned loss into profit by a reconsideration of their whoe business, the institution of negected economies, the installation of improved machinery, and the careful stimulation of all their business processes. Recent tariff legislation seeks at every point to relieve them of such necessities of vigilance and improvement, seeks to protect those who have not put their business at its best against foreigners who have. The whole system is a system of favors, by which not the country at large is profited, but certain perfectly distinguishable beneficiaries of the government and the party which grants the favors. The demoralization of the whole thing, its corrupting effect upon our politics, its enfeebling effect upon our industries, its sinister effect upon our political principles is now evident to every man who allows himself to think without obscuring his view by private considerations of self-interest. A day of reckoning upon this matter is at hand, and it will be an unjust reckoning, a mere reaction, unless we determine and insist upon the true principle of correction.

"What shall that principle be? Nothing ese than the principle upon which the whole system was originally founded, namely, a studious attention to the general and public benefits to be conferred by it. It is indisputable that a large majority of our industries have been so developed and perfected as to render them quite independent of governmental assistance, if the gifted men who have developed and now control them will but devote their attention to economy and efficiency. By common consent we rule the markets of the world in respect of the chief industries of which we are so proud, and the further subsidizing of the industries concerned by taxing of the people at large has become not only unnecessary, but iniquitous, and is manifestly inconsistent with the common good. There are other industries which have been artificially fostered and which apparently do not spring out of natural conditions and capacities of America; which can be maintained, it is said, only by a constant aid or subsidy from the government. Of these the people must ask themselves the question: Do we wish to maintain them? Can we afford to pay for things not naturally or advantageously produced in America when we could get them as well and much cheaper by importation? Shall we saddle ourselves forever with this systematic charity? There are other industries not yet fully developed, to which protection can honestly and consistently be extended until such time as they shall seem ready for independence. There are resources not yet exploited whose exploitation may take time and may need the covert of tariffs. What we need, in brief, is knowledge of the actual facts in respect to each industry and the honesty to act upon those facts when we have ascertained them.

"But how shall we act upon them? Certainly not by rapid and radical changes in our present tariffs, but by such a prolonged and steady change as will bring about an adaptation of the fiscal policy of the government to the real needs and circumstances of our manufacturing and laboring classes, with a view ultimately to get upon this basis: the taxation for the support of the government of those things for which it will be a real hardship to pay high prices; if taxes upon these do not suffice, the taxation of those things which it will least burden the people to pay for things not absolute necessaries, things which they can do without without suffering or privation and throughout the whole process an honest seeking for the things which will yield the most revenue with the least burden to the people.

It is necessary under our dual system of government that the Federal government should depend upon taxes of this sort for the most part for its support, and that almost all direct taxes should be left to the States for their maintenance and development. And it seems perfectly consistent and legitimate principle to allow the element of incidental protection to come in wherever it may be brought in without being a mere gratuitous subsidy and without cramping and embarrassing the life of ordinary purchasers. There could be no injustice in a policy such as I have outlined, if it were undertaken by a responsible party and adhered to with courage and consistency. The industries of the country could easily adjust themselves if proper time were allowed for the process."

Approaching Wedding.

Miss Katherine Garretson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Garretson, of West Fourth street, and Albert Giddis, of Dunellen, will be married tomorrow evening at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

HOLY CROSS VS. DUNELLEN.

The Holy Cross seconds and Dunellen seconds football teams played an exciting game at Dunellen Saturday afternoon. The score was 0 to 0. At the end of the second quarter the Holy Cross made many good gaine toward their goal, but the quarter was over before the goal was reached. Ricketts was the star of the game for Holy Cross, while Weber played a good game at quarter. For Dunellen Martin and Logan did fast work.

The lineup:

Holy Cross—Jenkins, c; Huston, rg; Downs, lg; Mills-Harrigan, lt; Rosenson, rt; Wilson, le; Thorne-Mills, re; Weber, qb; Gage, lhb; Carty, fb; Ricketts, rhb.

Dunellen—Kratzel, c; Dealman, rg; Fitzman, lg; Gallagher lt; Knox, rt; Smith, le; Mohan, re; Martin, qb; Benson, lhb; Balby, fb; Logan, rhb.

LEWIS TOURS MIDDLESEX

Speaks to Crowds at New Market, Dunellen and South Plainfield.

TELLS WHERE HE STANDS.

Favors Improvement in Automobile and Public Utilities Laws—To Fulfill His Pledges.

In an automobile tour of Middlesex county yesterday afternoon, Vivian M. Lewis, Republican candidate for governor, stopped at Dunellen, New Market, South Plainfield and other suburban towns. At each one he was greeted by a large crowd that received his addresses with evidences of sincere enthusiasm.

The gubernatorial candidate spoke to the largest gathering of the afternoon at Dunellen, where fully 500 people had congregated in front of the postoffice. He spoke for fully half an hour and was frequently interrupted by applause. The meeting was opened by County Committeeman W. S. Frederick, a personal friend of Mr. Lewis, who introduced Mayor William Sandford. The latter spoke for ten minutes and then presented the candidate.

Mr. Lewis prefaced his remarks with praise for Woodrow Wilson who he asserted to be a capable man as far as intelligence and learning is concerned, but not the kind that makes a successful governor. He told the citizens that in the event of his election he would absolutely hold to the promises he has made and give the people the best legislation in his power. He declared himself in favor of changes to the employers' liability act and urged improvements to the rate question in the Public Utilities act. Mr. Lewis also referred to the automobile law and stated that he is in favor of a reconstruction that will be fair and impartial to owners and non-owners alike. He avoided figures and statistics but presented his views on everything in a way that appealed to his listeners.

Mr. Lewis was accompanied by Congressman B. F. Howell and the Middlesex Assembly candidates, Messrs. Von Minden, Schenck and Ten Broeck, but none of them spoke owing to limited time. The party proceeded to Perth Amboy, where a big rally was held last night.

Wilson S. Frederick, who introduced Mr. Lewis to the Dunellen voters individually, is a boyhood friend of the candidate. They were born within three miles of each other in Passaic county only a month apart.

FRANK J. SHATTLE, SR., DIES ON BIRTHDAY

Frank J. Shattle, Sr., one of the oldest employees of the Potter Printing Press Works and a well-known machinist, died at his boarding house 202 Spooner avenue last night from chronic Bright's disease. Mr. Shattle had just completed his seventieth year, his birthday occuring yesterday. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Frank, Jr., and Elmer E. Shattle.

Mr. Shattle was born in Wittenberg, Germany, and came to this country when a young man of twenty. He was an accomplished machinist which trade he followed all his life. He was in the employ of the Potter concern for thirty-nine years, having come to Plainfield with that company when it moved here from Norwich, Conn. He was highly esteemed by the firm for whom he worked so long and was looked up to as a good model to follow by his younger fellow workers, with whom he was a favorite.

Notice of the funeral will be given tomorrow.

Surprise for Miss Martin.

A surprise party was given to Miss Dorothy Martin, of Duer street, Monday night, the affair being aranged by Miss Madeline Blair. The evening was spent playing games and having a god social time, after which refreshments were served. Those present were the Misses Rose Andrews, Charlotte Wadams, Lucy Douglass, Mabel Douglass, Marion Blair and Madeline Blair and Harold Woolston, Clarence Higgins, Walter Smith, Ronald Schenck, Walter Thomas and Arthur Martin.

Rev. John S. Zelie will give an account of his summer's experiences among the cathedrals and churches of England and Wales at the midweek meeting which takes place tonight at 8 o'clock in the Crescent avenue Presbyterian church Sunday school room.

HUMANE SOCIETIES MEET

Washington, D. C. Scene of Interesting International Convention.

MANY FOREIGN DELEGATES.

Representatives From Persia, Japan, China and Other Foreign Countries Discuss Animal Problems.

Mrs. S. G. Van Hoesen, of Fanwood, special agent of the local S. P. C. A. who attendd the recent convention of the American International Humane Society at Washington, D. C., has returned home and given out some interesting data of the convention, which had representatives from nearly every country in Europe and Asia as well as delgates from the various states. Two receptions and a banquet marked the entertainment provided by the Washington association.

Ali Kuli Kahn, Charge d'Affaires, of the Persian Legation, gave a talk on the work the society is doing in his country. He said that through the children the parents of that country are being made to see that animals are deserving of humane treatment Masyiro Honda, the Japanese delegate, said that as civilization has come into their country it brought with it some of the practices of the westerners who introduced it, but that their religion teaches the Japanese to be kind to animals. Judge Li Fang Ah Loo, of the Supreme court of China, at Peking, said that kindness is replacing cruelty in China with humans as well as dumb animals. Especially is this true with foot binding of the firls.

Joseph N. Francolini, the Italian representative, stated that in his country it required the evidence of but one witness to convict of cruelty but that in other crimes this one witness business was a handicap. E. G. Fairholme, an English delegate, said that the society in London has a system as nearly perfect as the police system. They have telegraph and telephone outfits of equal efficiency and are consequently enabled to great work. Of the sixteen animal ambulances in the city of London one was the gift of Alfred Vanderbilt.

MISS GALVIN WEDS FREDERICK F. NOLAN

Miss Nellie Galvin, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Galvin, of Raritan, and Frederick F. Nolan, of this city, were married at 3 o'clock this afternoon in St. Bernard's church, Raritan, in the presence of a large numebr of relatives and friends. Father Zimmer, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride was attended by Miss Margaret Mc Williams, formerly of Raritan, but now of Plainfield, as bridesmaid, and Fred J. Harding, also of this city was the best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George A. Liebold, in Raritan. After the wedding trip the couple will reside in this city.

The bride is well-known here, where she has visited frequently, and many friends from this city attended the wedding. The groom is a popular ball player, being a member of the Bound Brook club. He formerly played with the New Brunswick and Plainfield clubs. The members of the Bound Brook club presented Mr. Nolan with a handsome parlor table, and many other costly gifts were received by the couple.

Mr. Nolan is in the employ of the New Jersey Central, having charge of the signals on the line in the Plainfield district. He formerly was employed by the Levering &Garrigues Iron and Steel Company.

DOMESTIC TROUBLES THE CAUSE OF FIGHT.

Martin Duffy, of East Second street, was arraigned on a charge of intoxication and fighting this morning, the fracas having occurred in Westcott's saloon shortly before 11 o'clock last night. Mayor Fisk, who presided in the city court this morning in the absence of Judge William N. Runyon, suspended sentence because of mitigating circumstances. Duffy was represented by William G. DeMeza.

A charge of non-support which has also been lodged against Duffy by his wife, was postponed for a hearing on November 10. The scrap of last night was the outcome of Duffy's domestic troubles in which one Charles Haggarty, of Newark, is alleged to be implicated.

Miss Helen O'Keefe, of West Sixth street, is entertaining friends from New York.

RECORD QUIZZES WILSON

Eighteen Questions are Put to Democratic Nominee to Answer.

ARE CONTAINED IN A LETTER.

Writer Says He Doesn't Believe in "Boss" System and Asks for a Solution of Problem.

With the publication yesterday of a letter written to Dr. Woodrow Wilson by George L. Record began the epistolary debate which is to be participated in by the Republican candidate for Representative from the Ninth Congressional district and the democratic gubernatorial nominee. When Mr. Record accepted the challenge of Dr. Wilson to debate, the Princeton educator said that he believed that it would be found that he and Mr. Record were agreed substantially on the issues now before the voters and that they probably differed only in details.

To bring out the truth of error of Dr. Wilson's surmise, Mr. Record in his letter sets forth the cardinal principles of the progressive Republicans in such a way that Dr. Wilson may answer "yes" or "no" to each of them. Where Mr. Record desires something more than a categorical answer he says so. An illustration of the latter kind of question is that of the "boss system." Mr. Record undertakes to describe what he understands by the term and aske Dr. Wilson if he believes it should be abolished and, if so, how he means to abolish it.

"The trolley company in Jersey City obtained from our public officers extremely valuable franchises in our streets," says Mr. Record. "The value of these franchises may be seen by comparing Jersey City with Toronto. Jersey City gets for these privileges not exceeding $60,000 a year; Toronto a much smaller city, gets some $600,000 a year. Robert Davis, one of your principal backers in the State Convention, was then, as now, the democratic boss of Hudson county, influential with officials and powerful in controlling democratic nominations for office. Subsequently the son of Davis and another of his political followers, Representative Kinkead, turn up as the owners of the very valuable privilege of the advertising in the street cars, not only of Jersey City but of all North Jersey, a privilege said to net these gentlemen the tidy sum of $40,000 a year. Neither Davis nor Kinkead knew anything about this business, nor did they get it by offering the highest bid. That it was a political and not a business arrangement is shown by the fact that when Everett Colby ran for Senator in Essex county Kinhead refused to receive his advertisement at any price. When this is done openly is it not fair to assume that more is done secretly?

"I call this the boss system. I do not hesitate to call it the most dangerous condition in the public life of our State and nation today—an evil that has destroyed representative government, for the time being at least, and in its place set up a government privilege. I say that while this system manifests itself more plainly in the party that is in the majority, in reality the minority organization is always secretly in the game. This system, and this alone, accounts for the Republican 'Board of Guardians,' under whose leadership bills aimed at corporation privilege are in power, and the Democratic 'Overlords,' under whose leadership exactly thes ame thing occurs when the Democrats are in power.

"In order that your position on this vital question may be made clear, I ask the following questions:

"Do you admit that the boss system exists as I have described it? If so, how do you propse to abolish it?

"In referring to the 'Board of Guardians' do you mean such Republican leaders as Baird, Murphy, Kean, and Stokes? Wherein do the relations to the special interests of such leaders differ from the relations of the same interests of such democratic leaders as Smith, Nugent and Davis?

"I join you in condemning the republican 'Board of Guardians.' I have been fighting them for years, and shall continue to fight them. Will you join me in demouncing the democratic 'Overlords' as parties to the same political system? If not, why not?

"You say the Democratic party has been reorganized and the Republican party has not. Can a political party be reorganized without changing either its leaders or its old leaders changing their point of view, and their political character? Will you claim that either of these events has has taken place in the Democratic party? If yes, upon what do you base your conclusion?"

In all eighteen questions are asked by Mr. Record, and he has intimated

TORTURED SQUIRREL; FINED FIVE DOLLARS

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," said Mayor C. J. Fisk to Charles Nichols, of West Fourth street, this morning in the city court. "A great big man like you torturing a squirrel. It's a fine example to set your children. It makes me disgusted. I'll fine you five dollars, but you ought to be locked up."

The Mayor's ire was roused when George O. Stevens told him this morning of the attempt that Nichols had made to capture a squirrel last Sunday afternoon by stoning the little animal. He even went so far as to pull some of the hair from the squirrel's tail.

According to Mr. Stevens' story he saw a crowd on West Fourth street composed of men and boys nearly all of whom were throwing stones into a tree. He inquired what was up and learned that the crowd was stoning a squirrel. He protested twice, but no attention was paid to him. He telephoned police headquarters and returned to the scene, but the stone throwing had stopped. He was subject to some saucy talk from Nichols and then determined to push the case which he did with the above result. His action was warmly commended by Rev. Charles S. Kemble.

MRS. LILLARD BRIDE OF LOUIS H. JACOBI JR.

Mrs. Theo White Lillard, daughter of Mrs. Clara White, formerly of Elmira, N. Y., but now of Plainfield, was married at 8 o'clock last night to Louis Harold Jacobi, Jr., also of this city. The ceremony was performed in the apartments of the bride in the Stirling building on Park avenue, Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of the Uniterian church, officiating. Only the imediate relatives and a few friends of the bride and groom were present. There were no attendants.

The bride is talented as a violinist, being a pupil of several well-known teachers and she is now a teacher of violin and violin soloist, which she will continue here. She recently removed from Elmira, where she lived for many years. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, of North Plainfield.

The groom is associated with the Hallet & Davis Piano Company, of this city, and is also a talented musician, being bass soloist at the Church of the Holy Cross. The couple will reside in the Stirling building

Among those who witnessed the ceremony were Mrs. Clara White, mother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. White, of Scranton, Pa.; Mrs. James Towart, of Montour Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. John T. Davidson, of Elmira, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Miller and Miss Hope Irene Miller, of the borough, and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Ochs, of this city. Mrs. Ochs was a schoolmate of the bride.

MISS MARY F. THOMPSON WEDS W. H. M'NEIL

Miss Mary Forbes Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Thompson, of Rockview avenue, the borough, and Laurence Harvey Mc Neill, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mc Neill, of Mobile, Alabama, were married at noon yesterday at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of the immediate relatives and a few friends. Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church, performed the ceremony. The bride was gowned in white and she carried a bouquet of white chrysantheums. Frank Thompson, brother of the bride, was best man.

A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony and the couple left for a short trip. They will return on Saturday, when a large reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents, two hundred invitations having been issued for the affair.

The bride has been a resident of the borough for several years. She is a graduate of the Teachers' College in New York, and last year she was engaged as a teacher at Rye Seminary, Rye, N. Y.

The groom is engaged as an architect by the Board of Education of Mobile, where he and his family are well and favorably known. He is a brother of Mrs. Mary Senellosa, the novelist, whose writing under the none de plume of "Sidney McCall," are well-known throughout this country. After an extended wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. McNeill will make their home in Mobile.

FOR 'VOTES FOR WOMEN'

Wm. L. Saunders Makes Able Address Advocating Equal Suffrage.

PRESENTS STRONG ARGUMENT.

Former Mayor Answers the Objections of Those Who Oppose Equal Franchise Rights—His Telling Points.

That interest is increasing in the Equal Suffrage movement in this city was manifest last night when upward of a hundred women and several of the sterner sex gathered in Y. M. C. A. hall to hear a lecture on "Right and Strength in Equal Suffrage" given under the auspices of the Plainfield and North Plainfield Equal Suffrage League by former Mayor William L. Saunders. Mr. Saunders spoke for about two hours and held the attention of his audience throughout.

Mr. Saunders reviewed the work that has been done in recent years by members of the leagues in various parts of the world, laying particular stress upon the admirable results obtained in four of the western states. Before touching his subject, the speaker paid a tribute to the late Mrs. Julia Ward Howe in which he said: "One can ill afford to speak on the subject which has brought us here tonight without first paying tribute to that grand mother and teacher who but yesterday was called to her last resting place. Julia Ward Howe was great among women; a true patriot; a friend of the oppressed; an earnest suffragist. At the age of eighty-four she addressed the legislature of Massachusetts as follows: 'We shall not obtain suffrage simply because we want it, nor shall we fail to do so because others don't want it. We shall get it because it is riers so evidently a relic of absolute right that we should have it. Civilization will sweep away these barriers so evidently a relic of absolute barbarism.'

"As we pay the tribute of our admiration and our tears to this prophetical soul, let us say, 'Calm on the bosom of thy God, Fair spirit, rest thee now.'"

Among other things Mr. Saunders said: "To vote is simply to express one's opinion. A ballot is the instrument used. Speaking generally the only real qualification governing its use is intelligence, for without intelligence one's opinion on any subject is worthless. A class in Sunday school will vote upon the question of making the teacher a present, the members of a board of directors vote upon resolutions; stockholders of companies vote upon questions relating to the business. The practice of voting is carried on wherever people having common interests are desirous of recording the opinion of a majority. Limitations are placed upon voters, as for instance in a club, failure to pay dues disqualifies; stockholders vote according to their holdings but except in matters of government, who ever heard of disqualification because of gender?

"If we accept that great democratic principle that all just powers of government are derived from the consent of the governed and if we agree with our revolutionary fathers that taxation without representation is tyranny, then it follows that the political disfranchisement because of sex is wrong.

"It is a striking impeachment of our laws when we realize that this male, a creature but little removed from the animal, might emigrate to America, live in the United States for five years, and then cast his vote for a representative who might levy a tax upon Mrs. Harriman, Mrs. Sage and Miss Gbuld! That the only difference between the mental faculties of the sexes is one of education, civilization and environment is generally admitted by thinking people. As someone has said, 'We sit down at the breakfast table as human beings not as men and women.' Intelligence is not a matter of sex. Education and privilege to wor kare now extended equally to men and women.

"Even admitting the right to vote depends on one's capacity to defend the laws, we must recognize the changed conditions governing defense. Fighting is no longer a matter of physical force, but of resource. Money is mightier than the sword. War is now conducted on mechanical, not physical lines. It is now more a matter of machinery than men. Can it be disputed that women have the power to supply the machinery of war? One might name four women in the United States who have wealth enough to pay all the expenses of a great war.

"If no men were allowed to vote except those who are able and willing to do millitary and police duty, women might consistently be debarred for that reason. But so long as the old, the infirm, the halt, the lame and the blind are freely admitted to the ballot box, some better reason

MRS. HUGO MAUL DEAD

Wife of Watchung Hotel Keeper Succumbs Suddenly at Roselle.

HEART DISEASE THE CAUSE.

While Waiting for Trolley to Plainfield, She is Stricken and Passes Away Shortly Afterwards.

Mrs. Hugo Maul, wife of the proprietor of the Washingtonville hotel at Watchung, died suddenly, last evening, as she was waiting for a trolley car in Roselle to return to this city. Death came before she could tell who she was and as there was nothing about her clothing to reveal identification the body remained unclaimed in Pratt's morgue until noon today. Her relatives had been searching for her all morning and a son-in-law, Walter DeVerre, of Roselle Park, at whose home she had been yesterday, called to see if the unknown woman was she. He identified the body immediately and word was sent to her relatives at Watchung.

Mrs. Maul left home yesterday in response to word that Mrs. DeVerre was ill and it caused her to become somewhat excited. She spent the day at her daughter's home, leaving there last evening to return to Watchung. The car was just approaching as she collapsed and fell. She was carried to the porch of U. W. Smith's house at First avenue and Chestnut street, where she died as Dr. Strickland arrived in response to a hurry call. The physician pronounced heart failure as the cause.

Mrs. Maul was about sixty-three years old and was widely known in this vicinty. The family lived on West Seventh street before taking possession of the hotel at Watchung a few years ago. Beside Mrs. DeVerre she leaves another daughter, Mrs. Augusta Fugman, of Warrenville, and two sons, Otto Maul, of New York, and Hugo Maul, Jr., of Watchung.

FELL OFF A LADDER AND FRACTURED ANKLE

Theodore LaRue, of 610 New street, who is employed by John H. Cose, the slater fell off a ladder while working on U. B. Crane's one-story building on East Front street at 11 o'clock this morning, and fractured his left leg at the ankle. Dr. Albert Pittis, whose office is close by, was summoned and had Mr. LaRue removed to the hospital in the police patrol. An X-ray examination was made at the hospital, when the break at the ankle was disclosed. Mr. LaRue will be detained for several weeks.

Mr. LaRue, at the time of the accident, was engaged in repairing the tar roof on Mr. Crane's building. He was ascending the ladder with a bucket of tar, when the ladder titlted, causing Mr. LaRue to lose his balance and fall to the ground. The ladder did not go over, neither did any of the hot tar fall on Mr. LaRue fortunately.

MISS PAULINE SMITH WEDS ARTHUR R. LOIZEAUX.

Last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, of Craig place, Miss Pauline Anna Smith, became the bride of Arthur Rushmore Loizeaux, of New York, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the couple. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Duerschner, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church.

Afetr the ceremony, a supper was served and the couple started on their wedding trip to Niagara Falls. The groom is in the publishing business with his father in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Loizeaux will reside in Brooklyn. The wedding march and other music was rendered by George Smith, brother of the bride.

ORGANIZED CLASS NO. 24, OF TRINITY, HOLDS MEETING.

Organized class No. 24, of Trinity Reformed Sunday school, held its quarterly meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Harry Davidson, Laramie road. Twenty-two members and friends of the class were present who, after the business meeting was over, enjoyed a social time and refreshments.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer showed the class to be in a flourishing condition both financially and in numbers and interest.

Miss Eliza Rangsdale and J. Wesley Garner, colored, of this city, were married Saturday night at Westfield, by Rev. P. W. Ross, pastor of the colored Baptist church of that place.

G. O. P. MUNICIPAL RALLY

Fisk and Coriell to Speak at Mass Meeting Monday Night.

TO DISCUSS THE LOCAL ISSUES.

Demonstration to be Held Under the Direction of the City Committee to be a Big Affair.

What is planned as the biggest mass meeting in the campaign here will be held in Reform Hall on Monday night, when the speakers will confine themselves to a presentation of the issues of the municipal election. A rousing ovation is being arranged for the Republican mayoralty nominee, former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, who it is expected will be the chief speaker of the evening.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk has consented to address the voters. His remarks will be devoted to a review of the present Republican administration of affairs. It is his aim to clear up any misunderstandings that may be in the minds of some of the taxpayers as to the handling of the many problems which have confronted his administration. The alleged 'double salary' talk indulged in by Mr. Coriell's opponent will be satisfactorily explained by his honor as will also the work accomplished in the equalization of taxes, as well as the efforts for a solution of the water and sewage disposal problems.

If possible, Judge William N. Runyon, who is touring Morris, Union and Warren counties, will say a few words at the meeting which will be held under the auspices of the City Republican Committee. Chairman Walter L. Hetfield will announce the list of speakers and vice presidents within a few days.

MEXICO IS DISCUSSED BY MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Two interesting papers were presented at the meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room. Mrs. Calvin Boice gave the first paper on "The Geography of Mexico." She said that though geographically near and having been in commercial relations with the rest of the world for over 350 years, there is probably less known about Mexico today than of almost any other country claiming to be civilized. Marvellously picturesque, she said, it had been called a tropical Venice, a semi-barbarous Spain and a new Holy Land. The climate, mines, volcanos and physical aspects were treated by Mrs. Boice who summarized the country as one with extreme of heat and cold, poverty and riches, filth and clealiness, education and gross ignorance.

A second paper on "The Toltecs," prepared by Miss Marion F. Randolph was read by Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph. The paper was an interesting history of this Mexican people who are supposed to have preceded the Aztecs, and from whom the latter people have inherited many civilized customs and arts common among them. According to tradition, Miss Randolph said the Toltecs had their capital at Tollen in the midst of a very fertile region, the town itself a natural citadel built on the highway of travel. While this people have entirely disappeared their name is a synonym for artificer, so skillful were they in the prosecution of useful arts. Miss Randolph quoted from the historian, Edward John Payne, who said: "To the Toltecs among the early people of the new world, the first place, no less indisputably belongs, than to the Greeks of the old."

Mrs. Ruben Knox, from recent observations made while touring through Mexico, spoke of the great need of the Gospel, the Mexican people though nominally Christians, being as much heathens as the tribes of Africa.

The papers were preceeded by a devotional service led by Mrs. George A. Robins.

Hedge Damaged by Fire.

A long, high hedge on what is known as the Stillman property at Grant and Sherman avenues, caught fire at 8.30 last night and threatened serious damage. An alarm was turned in from box 79 and the arrival of the city department checked the flames. About twenty feet of the hedge was destroyed.

On the Safe Side

The reent case of an insolvent, whose death disclosed his unlawful dissipation of four different estates of which he was Trustee or Executor, leaving the heirs of three of them about eight cents for every dollar due them, illustrates once more the great desirability of naming a competent Trust Company as Executor.

The Trust Company protects the estate which is placed in its hands, not only against dishonesty, but against what is much more frequent and often quite as costly—incapacity and inexperience.

The individual executor YOU name will probably be honest, BUT are you sure he will have capacity and experience to administer your affairs WHEN THE TIME COMES TO DO SO?

Fidelity Trust Co.

NEWARK, N. J.,

through its Trust Department has the organization which enables it to assume all such responsibilities with safety, proficiency and economy.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

May's Landing has set a motor speed limit of ten miles on its streets.

The South Jersey Schoolmasters' Association will meet at Vineland Saturday, October 29.

Albert Engle, who escaped from the Bordentown lockup, was recaptured at Trenton, where he was found abed at his father's home.

The steam barge Maggie Champion, loaded with solica sand for Bethlehem, Pa., listed and turned turtle in Maurice River.

Nothing having been heard from John Parody, who disappeared from Paulsboro two months ago, his friends fear he has met with foul play.

Notwithstanding that he is eighty years old, Levi Bolton, of Berlin, is spending this week in husking corn on the farm of William Bishop.

Falling from the roof of a shed Monday, Harry Etteson, twenty-nine years old, a carpenter, of Audubon, badly injured his right leg and was attended at Cooper Hospital, in Camden.

Charged with attempting to rob the ticket office at the Vincentown railroad station about 10:30 o'clock Sunday night, Abner Rogers of that place, was captured inside the building by residents summoned, and is now in jail.

Hubert G. Lesher, aged twenty-two years, of Phillipsburg, a brakeman on the Lehigh and Hudson Railroad, dropped dead at Warwick, N. Y., yesterday from heart disease, superinduced by over-exertion in running to catch his train.

The Wildwood Yacht Club has sent Governor Fort and Senator Hand a proposition that all motorboats be compelled to pay $1 State license, to be applied to the maintenance of inland waterways throughout New Jersey.

The boiler in the August Koch bakery at Mantua blew up Sunday night just as churchgoers were on their way home and there was a panic for a few minutes. The escaping steam ruined the bread, pies and cakes which had ben made up ready for the oven.

Rev. John F. Nicholas, pastor of Haddon Heights First Presbyterian church, began a series of sermons on Sunday evening that will take his congregation consecutively through the entire Bible, requiring more than two years. The opening sermon was on "The Creation," and the next sermon will be on "The Fall."

Failing to secure a divorce in the San Francisco courts, Philip Bierman made an effort to return to his wife's home, 635 Carman street, Camden, Monday, when he is alleged to have struck her in the head with a bottle during a quarrel. He was committed to jail by Recorder Stackhouse on a charge of assault and battery.

William Reilly created a sensation in Atlantic City Sunday night in Magistrate Jagmetty's court, when he offered to have himself locked in a jail cell over night to relieve the fear of John Spitzen, who believed that Reilly intended to do him bodily harm. Spitzen and Reilly shook hands to cement their friendship when Reilly left his cell Monday.

Mystery surrounding the finding of a suitcase on the Camden side of the Newton Creek was cleared Monday, when Mrs. Fannie Hough, of Gloucester, told the Camden police that the case belonged to one of her former boarders, who dropped it when he was being pursued by Mrs. Hough's daughter with a five weeks' board bill.

Hastily entering the home of Mrs. John Stewart, 1638 South Seventh street, Camden, Monday night, Antonia Direcca, thirty-seven years old, made an effort to assault the woman, and when she screamed for help he threatened to cut the throat of an infant in a cradle. Mrs. Mary Hammell, a neighbor, happened along at the time and he disappeared. Word was sent to the police department and he was arrested in a short time. He acted like a maniac in a cell last night.

Residents of Red Lion, who failed to appear in court to give testimony, after going to the trouble of making out and filing a remonstrance against the granting of a renewal of hotel license to Douglas T. Abrams, of Red Lion, lost their case Monday because of the absence of proof of their charges and Abrams got his renewal. Judge Horner made it plain that charges made in remonstrance must be proven in open court, and the mere filing of a paper containing objection is valueless.

Potato Chips.

Wash the potatoes clean, pare and slice with a potato slicer very thin, throw into cold water long enough to take out some of the starch, then wipe dry and drop into boiling lard a few pieces at a time. Be sure and keep the lard boiling. As soon as the potatoes are of a clear golden brown skim them out, drain in a colander or sieve and serve hot.

Mrs. Clifford A. Braider, of Putnam avenue, who has been detained at home by illness for the past two months, continues to improve slowly.

Miss Jennie Wilson, of Newark, who has been spending several days here with friends, has returned home.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The second of the series of dances arranged by the aBchelors' Club was held in Excelsior hall last night. The affair like its predecessors was a most enjoyable one and was attended by many young people from here as well as Plainfield and Westfield. Suhr's orchestra furnished music and the two step and waltz was enjoyed until the 1:30 a. m. car.

The weekly prayer meeting tonight at the Baptist church will be in charge of Capt. H. B. Saunders, who has just returned from a trip of several months along the New Foundland coast. Mr. Saunders will tell of his trip and the religious work among the people he has been in contact with in the north.

Miss Elsie Shott, daughter of Rev. G. M. Shott, formerly pastor of the Baptist church here, but now pastor of the Mannington, West Virginia, Baptist church, has been visiting Miss Addie Johnston, of Westfield avenue.

Miss Harrison, who has been spending the summer with Mrs. H. B. Saunders, of Washington Valley, has returned to her home in England.

The pupils of the public school are being drilled regularly in the fire drills, both by the use of fire escapes and hall.

Supervising Principal S. Dana Townsend, of the public schools, has been entertaining his mother from Orange.

Harry Flannery, of Westfield avenue, has left for Jacksonville, Fla., where he will spend the winter.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A young man about twenty-three years old was arrested by Marshal Benson yesterday morning, for loitering about the borough in a suspicious manner. He gave his name as Arthur Boyle and said he came from Flemington, but he couldn't tell a thing about the place. He was sentenced to thirty days in jail and was taken to New Brunswick by C. W. Blaine yesterday afternoon.

The wedding of Albert Giddes, of Dunellen, and Miss Katherine Garretson, of Plainfield, will take place at the home of the bride's parents on West Fourth street tonight. Following a wedding trip, the young couple will reside in a home which Mr. Giddes has erected on Lincoln avenue.

Arthur Craig has removed from the Brakeley building to a residence at West Front stret and De Kalb avenue, Plainfield.

A delegation of voters from Dunellen and New Market will journey to Somerville tonight to hear Woodrow Wilson speak.

Jacob Fern, of Whittier avenue, has been detained at home the past week by illness.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Temple Baptist church will hold a business meeting tomorrow afternoon.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet Friday night for Bible study.

George H. Chapman will lead the prayer meeting at the First Baptist church, this evening, in the absence of the pastor, Dr. Chambliss.

Rev. J. W. Harris, of this city, will address the Lawson W. C. T. U. at the Calvary Baptist church, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Boys' Battalion of the First Baptist church will meet at the church Friday night for drill, under the direction of Instructor Metlock.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, will return from the South this week in time to occupy his pulpit on Sunday.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church will meet Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to take up the fall and winter work.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson pastor of the First M. E. church, will have charge of the mid-week prayer service at Vincent chapel, this evening, and the meeting will be preparatory to the approaching evangelistic services.

Pretty Bunco Game.

Stopping Walter Perkins, fourteen years old, of 214 Friends avenue, Camden, at the Federal street ferry, Monday, a fairly well dressed stranger said: "Will you get a package of tickets for down Broadway if I give you 50 cents?" The boy replied in the affirmative, and was told by the stranger that he would have to have security, as the tickets were worth considerable money. "All I have is my pay envelope with $4 in it," said young Perkins, and he left it for security. The boy was unable to find the Broadway address, and when he returned to the ferry the stranger had disappeared.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Mary Jane Kelly, Executrix of John Lavery, deceased, Frances L. Quackenbush and Vesta Q. Van Trump, individually and as executors of Charles E. Quackenbush, decd., Leighton C. Van Trump, Elizabeth Q. Holcombe, Charles Q. Freeman and Addison Gardner, executors of Abraham Quackenbush, decd., Elizabeth Q. Holcombe and Charles Q. Freeman, Executors of Vestiana Q. Freeman, decd., Lambert S. Quackenbush and Abraham C. Quackenbush, individually and as executors of Daniel Mc. L. Quackenbush, decd.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York is complainant and you are defendants, you are required to appear and plead, answer or demur to the complainant's bill of complaint, on or before the twelfth day of December next, or that in default thereof the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a certain mortgage given by John Lavery to the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, bearing date the twenty-second day of April in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-five, given to secure the sum of six thousand dollars on premises situate in the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, which mortgage is recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Union, on the twenty-seventh day of April in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-five in Book 125 of mortgages for said county on pages 460, &c.

And you Mary Jane Kelly are made a party defendant to said bill because as the executrix of the estate of John Lavery, deceased, you claim to have some interest or estate in and to said mortgaged premises, and you Frances L. Quackenbush and Vesta Q. Van Trump, individually and as executors of Charles E. Quackenbush, decd., claim to own the said premises in fee simple, and you Leighton C. Van Trump, Elizabeth Q. Holcombe, Charles Q. Freeman and Addison Gardner, executors of Abraham Quackenbush, decd., Elizabeth Q. Holcombe and Charles Q. Freeman, Executors of Vestiana Q. Freeman, decd., Lambert S. Quackenbush and Abraham C. Quackenbush, individually and as executors of Daniel Mc. L. Quackenbush, decd., claim to be entitled to some lien, charge or estate in and to said mortgaged premises because it is claimed that the funds with which the said premises were purchased were furnished by the said Vestiana Q. Freeman, Abraham Quackenbush and Daniel Mc L. Quackenbush, deceased, or some part thereof.

COBB AND LAJOIE GOT AUTOMOBILES YESTERDAY.

Just before the second game of the world's series at Shibe Park yesterday, Ty Cobb and Napoleon Lajoie were presented with the automobiles which they won in the major league batting contest this year. Hugh Chalmers the donor of the big prizes, made the presentation in person. Mr. Chalmers originally offered one car to the champion batter of the big leagues, but when the race between Cobb and Lajoie ended with only a difference of .008 of one per cent. in favor of the Tiger batter, the donor requested the National Commission to accept automobiles for both of these great batsmen.

At a meeting of the commission Monday it was decided that Cobb and Lajoie deserved the honor of a public presentation in the presence of the world's series fans.

The cars they received are duplicates in every particular. Ty Cobb is already in attendance at the world's series reporting the games for several newspapers.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jones, of Trenton, have returned home after a visit with friends in this city.

Louis Kopp, of Liberty street, attended the golden wedding of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Block, of New York, Sunday.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

This is a Fast Growing Store

The store that keeps serving the people best is the store that grows the fastest.

As proof of our best service we have only to cite the remarkable growth which we have attained during the time we have done business in Plainfield.

Our business has grown not slowly and imperceptibly—but by rapid leaps and bounds, and evidence of its growth in the shape of enlarged Departments, greater stocks and a steadily increasing patronage, are being constantly remarked by those who pay us frequent visits.

All this is the reward of conscientious service-giving—

High quality standards—

Fair prices—

Courteous assistants—

Confidence in the selection of our stocks and in looking to the satisfaction of our customers—

The constant keeping up of varieties—

Truthful advertising.

These are the factors largely responsible for our success.

No store can rise higher than the ideals of its management. Our aims and ambitions are so high, that as fast as we are gaining strength and popularity, we have no disposition to leave well enough alone.

We continue to be restless for advancement—to seek out and adopt new measures for serving our public better.

The success which we have attained shall only serve as a stimulus to our striving toward perfection.

ECHOS FROM TIE GAME AT AM. LEAGUE PARK

Josh Devore, who once graced a Newark unifrom, carried off the honor for sensational work in the field. The little fellow held down the sun field for the Giants and saved the day for the Polo Grounders by making a great catch that he turned into a double play. In addition Devore banged out the hit that scored the tying run.

The play came in the sixth inning. Wolter had tripled and scored on a wild pitch. After Hemphill died Chase slammed one to Devlin that the third baseman was lucky to knock down, but the Yankee manager reached first. Knight then stopped one of Crandall's shoots with his arm. Cree slammed one to deep right that Devore misjudged and then caught with one hand. Chase and Knight were on their way to the plate and Devore's return to Merkle beat Knight to the bag.

Manager Hal Chase and Russ Ford pulled off a neat play in the fifth inning that robbed the Giants of a tally. With runners on second and third and two down, Larry Doyle drove another hard grounder through the infield. Chase got after the ball and tossed it to Ford at first an instant ahead of the runner. The catch of Ford's was a clever bit of work.

The play was very close and some of the Giants' rooters were of the opinion that Umpire Klem had given the National Leaguers a little the worst of the deal. The players started to give Klem an argument, but he waved them aside.

A bit of inside baseball on the part of Jimmy Austin, third baseman of the Yankees, saved his club from defeat at the hands of the Giants. The contest was marked with sensational plays from start to finish and will go down in history as one of the greatest struggles ever seen in Manhattan, but Austin's play was not of the sensational order. It was an old trick that worked. When the little third sacker backed near the third bag and forced Shafer to make the outside turn in trying to score from second the move saved his club from deefat.

The play came in the ninth inning. The Yanks were a run to the good. Runners were on second and third with two men down. Manager McGraw put Shafer on second to run for Meyers while Merkle was on third, having made a great steal of the cushion. Devore banged a hit to Cree and both runners started for the plate. Merkle scored easily, but Austin covered third and compelled Shafer to make a wide turn allowing Cree to get the ball to the plate an instant ahead of the runner.

Arthur Devlin, who played third base for the Newarks under Manager Walter Burnham and who now guards the far corner of the diamond for the Giants, made a great catch and an error at almost the same instant. The misplay cost a run.

After the Yanks managed to get a man over the plate in the eighth and another tally needed to tie the score Hemphill got around to third on a fielder's choice and an error by Meyers. Chase put up a foel that was apparently going to fall in the crowd near third base, but Devlin pulled down the sphere with his bare hand. In trying for a double play he heaved wild to Bridwell and Hemphill tallied.

A single by Knight and a double by Cree followed giving the Yankees a lead of one run.

THE ONE SO MANY PEOPLE ARE WAITING FOR

Our friends have been asking us day after day when we were going to have another of those truly great sales of ostrich feathers—not the kind that are advertised every other week or so by some stores, but a real sale, made up of feathers of the dependable sort, at prices far below what you usually have to pay.

So here is just such a sale—a sale that will make the town talk and will make the feathers fly:

Black Ostrich Tips—Three in a bunch; rich, brilliant stock, much used now for bonnet and toque trimming—
90c grades at 57c a bunch.
$1.25 grades at 75c a bunch.
$1.50 grade at $1.05 a bunch.
$1.75 grades, $1.19 a bunch.
$3.25 grades, $2.35 a bunch.

Handsome, Extra Long broad French Plumes; brilliant jet black and pure snow white—

Here Is That Ostrich Feather Sale

News as Surprising as a Wireless from Wellman in this Indian Summer Season.

"Hello! hello! is that you, Mr. ——?" shouted an anxious importer to our white goods buyer. "Come down right away. We have one of the biggest things in white goods that we have ever turned up, and because you are one of our best patrons we want you to share it."

Our buyer went, and was astonished to find prodigious quantities of the finer qualities of the very best makes of white cotton fabrics piled high in the importer's place, and offered at a price so unseemly as to be unbelievable. Think of it!

Pretty Persian Lawns
Fine French Lawns
Mercerized Batiste

At 12½c a Yard

Finest Lingerie Cloth
Dainty India Linon
Superb New Flaxon

Such qualities of goods and such widths—most of them are 45 inches wide—at one shilling a yard, is certainly the most astonishing offer of white goods ever made by this or any other house in America.

One could easily believe that New York shoppers, could they know of this offer, would readily cross the river to get a share of these beautiful pure white fabrics at this absurdly little price. People will surely come from all the towns round about Newark and carry away loads of these goods.

Many thousand yards were bought for this sale, and if we do not do the biggest business in white fabrics the house has ever known we will be greatly disappointed, but no more so than those will be who fail to get some for their own use.

Our Knit Underwear

We do not wish to appear boastful when we say that we do not believe there is another store in the country of the size of ours that sells more women's and children's knit undergarments. There are reasons for this, however. First: We have larger stocks than the average store. Second: We aim to handle only the best and most reliable makes. Third: We sell on a very close margin of profit. This is opening week in our knit underwear section, and we are going to make it worth your while to visit this popular department.

TIGERS AGAIN RECEIVE A BIG SHAKEUP

The Princeton football team is now radically changed from what it was on Saturday, and it is expected that the changes will add greatly to the team's power and efficiency.

The most important shift is that of Captain Eddie Hart from fullback to tackle and Head Coach Roper said last night that it would be permanent as far as he could say at that time. Hart used to play the line position at Exeter, and it was there that he earned his reputation as a player. There is little doubt that Hart will be able to make a hole through the best-man that he is likely to meet this season, and the Tigers have other backs who will readily enough get through after the big captain clears the way.

The change is no reflection on Hart or his back-field play, but it simply means that the other linesmen have been found wanting on offensive play. Princeton had plenty of chances to score a touchdown on Lafayette Saturday, but the line wouldn't make a hole for the backs.

It would surprise no one, however, if Hart played fullback on the defense. The line can take care of itself on the defense, and Hart's secondary defensive play has been wonderful.

With the other men, Bissell has gone to the scrubs, though he still has a chance to beat out McCormick, Macgregor or the other candidates for the position. White will probably continue to play end, with Coleman or Dunlap opposite him.

There is plenty of good material to choose a successor to Hart from. Sawyer is a fast, aggressive man and would be a fitting mate for Pendleton and Sparks behind the line. He is a good deal like Pendleton in his play, being light and elusive of tacklers, while Hart might be shifted to fullback for the heavy line plunging that has been done by Hart in the past.

Monday's practice was devoted to devising some play, not of the old-style straight football that won't gain an inch within the twenty-yard line for a team that is evenly opposed, but either by a trick or an open play. Roper got up an outside tackle play that looks fairly good and a delayed pass that might work once in a game, but not very much more. The rest of the time was devoted to signal drill. Pendleton, Sparks and McLean were some of the varsity men who laid off.

GOLF.

Left-handed p'ayers will be given a try-out in the annual tournament specially arranged for them at the Midlothian Country Club, at Chicago, to take place on Saturday. The tournament is open to any left-handed player who is a member of any of the clubs associated with the United States Golf Association or the Western Golf Association. So far as is known, this event is the only one of the kind in the country. There are about sixteen members of the Midlothian club who are "southpaws," and the idea originally came from these players. Last year players attended from New York, Pennsylvania and even as far as Texas.

The program calls for a full day's play, thirty-six holes, although special prizes are offered for those who can play only in the afternoon. The player making the lowest gross score for the thirty-six holes will be awarded a gold medal, while a secondary medal is offered for the low net score on handicap for the thirty-six holes. A substantial prize will be awarded to the choice gross score for eighteen holes of the thirty-six. A suitable medal will be awarded to the player making the low net handicap score for the eighteen holes in the afternoon. Only one prize may be taken by any one player.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Great Divide," which was given at The Plainfield theatre yesterday by the permanent stock company, scored a great hit, the different members of the company excelling in their different roles. Miss Ilka Diehl and Harold Mead in the leading roles left nothing to be desired in the clever way in which they interpreted their parts, while the whole cast was exceptionally good. The play deals with western life and portrays a powerful story which cannot fail to please. This play will be presented this afternoon and evening and should attract large audiences. For Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons and evenings, the company will offer that clever three-act comedy, "The Boys of Company B," in which Arnold Daly was so successful.

MISS FRANCIS MORRIS DIES OF HEART TROUBLE.

Miss Frances Ruth Morris, aged eighteen years, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Morris, died last night at the home of her uncle, John S. Forster, on Forster place, following a long illness. She had always been in delicate health. About six months ago she suffered an attack of rheumatism and this together with heart trouble caused death.

Miss Morris was born in this city and always lived here. She was baptized at the Church of the Heavenly Rest when she was two months old and she was a faithful attendant at the services and the Sunday school. Besides an uncle, Miss Morris is survived by one brother, John William Morris, of Forster place.

The funeral service will be held from the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be in charge of the rector, Rev. C. H. Mallery.

Social at Warren Chapel.

Rev. and Mrs. J. O. McKelvey will be "at home" at Warren chapel, Thursday night, from 8 to 10, for the purpose of meeting the members of the chapel, especially the new ones and a cordial invitation is extended to all interested in chapel work. This will be the first of similar affairs to be held once a month throughout the winter. During the evening refreshments will be served.

Court Watchung Meets.

W. T. Bingaman of Elizabeth, superintendent of organizers, visited Court Watchung, No. 3871, Independent Order Foresters, last night, and gave the members an interesting talk on the growth of the order. There was a large attendance. It was expected that the amendments to the by-laws would be taken up, but it was decided to postpone action until the next meeting.

SACHETS FOR THE WINTER WARDROBE.

Perfuming clothes and cupboards was carried to perfection by our great grandmothers. Yet they used only the little simple fresh flowers grown and gathered by themselves. These were carefully dried and laid between the linen in the great press or else sewn into dainty sachets and hung among the dresses in the wardrobe or laid away in the great oak chests.

The fragrance still lingers in the old chests and presses, though the hands that strewed the lavender and what not have been laid at rest over a hundred years. Of course, they gathered the flowers themselves. Lavender should be gathered just after the flowers have opened. Or it may be bought. One should half fill the bags, tie up the tops with ribbons and place among the linen, etc.

The following makes a nice filling for sachets: Take equal quantities of lavender flowers, dried rosemary, pounded oris root, dried rose petals (tea or the old-fashioned cabbage roses are the most sweetly scented), a few leaves of scented verbena, if they can be procured, if not, some leaves of the so-called blue geranium. Crush all together into a coarse powder and fill the bags.

This mixture gives a delicate perfume, very refreshing and lasting. Essential oils are strong and soon evaporate, but the flowers retain their scent for months.

For scenting wardrobes the dried flowers and leaves should be strewn between two thicknesses of wadding, lightly quilted and slipped into a mulin cover. This can be either fastened to the back of the cupboard and wardrobe with drawing pins or else tied in place with tapes.

Tiny scented sachets may be sewn into skirts of dresses. These, however, should be made of wadding on which is the wearer's favorite sachet powder. The wadding may then be inclosed in silken bags to match the coloring of the dress.

More elabbrate sachets may be procured at a store.

Grape Wine.

Take twenty pounds of grapes, free from stems, wash them thoroughly, pour six quarts of water over them. Let them stand for three days, stirring them twice each day. Put them into a bag and let them hang all night and drain. Add eight pounds of sugar to the juice; set it in a cask; bottle before the winds of March. Eighty pounds of grapes will make ten gallons of wine.

Worried.

"George, dear," sobbed the bride who had been reading the Cavalieri case, "I don't believe you really love me."

"Why not darling?" asked the groom sympathetically.

"We've been married nearly three months now and you haven't even signed a nickel over to me."—Detroit Free Press.

WINDOWS AND FRESH AIR.

Windows were made to be opened, and should never be entirely closed, except for good and sufficient reason. The present rule of actual practice is precisely the reverse of this, and not one window in ten is ever constantly open, if two-third of the family can prevent it.

So abject is our dread of fresh air that some of the worst ventilated rooms to be found anywhere are in farmhouses. As some cynic has remarked: "The air in the country is always good, because the farmers keep all the bad air shut up in their bedrooms."

Always open the window at the top (never at the bottom except as a supplement), for by so doing you let out the foul air as well as let in the fresh, which is almost equally important.

Foul air, coming warm from your lungs, is lighter and rises toward the ceiling. No amount of cold air let in on the floor of a roof will bring this risen foul air down again, nor drive it out, unless there be some opening near the top of the room.

What often happens when you open a window from the bottom is that you let in a flood of cold air about your feet and legs, which naturally can not breathe much of it.

AN OLD PRAYER.

Among the documents and manuscrips taken by the Pelliot Mission of France from a cave in Shinese Turkestan, where they had lain during ten centuries, is a curious manuscript recorded by the French Academy of Sciences, says Harper's Weekly. The manuscript is in one of the oldest known Hebrew texts. It is a prayer formed of passages taken from the Psalms and from the Prophets, written in beautiful square Hebrew, with a very rudimentary system of vocalization.

Evidently the manuscript was carried on the person of the man who owned it. Hebrew scholars believe that the document dates from the eighth or ninth century of the Christian era, and that it belonged to a pius Jewish merchant of Arabia.

No such paper was known in Arabia in either the eighth or ninth century; therefore it is supposed that the manuscript was transcribed for its owner when he was in China, where such paper was to be found.

Worth Knowing.

Mirrors should be washed with cold water, using a chamois leather and soft cloth. They polish more brightly if washing blue is added to the water or, better still, if a little wood ash is tied up in muslin and allowed to dissolve through. The use of a paste of whiting is not to be commended. It certainly produces a good polish, but it is liable to be gritty and produce unsightly scratches on the surface of the glass, and all too frequently it forms an unsightly margin where it works its way under the frame. An old silk handkerchief makes an excellent polisher.

THE KITE: A FABLE.

The wind blew strong; the kite soared high.
"I'm something great," said he.
"I'm higher than the weather vane,
I'm higher than a tree.
If only they would let me go
I'd float up like a cloud.
My nature scorns the earth below"—
The kite was very proud.
It tossed its head, it swung its tail,
It swerved across the blue.
The wind was blowing half a gale,
And growing stronger, too.

Snap! went the string. With sudden veer
The kite began to fall.
"I'm falling! Hold me up! O dear!"
A swallow heard it call.
But driven by the wind it went,
Until it came to pass
That tumbled, dizzy, breathless, spent,
It lay upon the grass.

In humbled mood it look around.
"When next I fly," said he,
"If they will only hold me down,
"That's good enough for me."
—W. E. Mother

THE GIRL WITH THE CRUSH HABIT.

This is the season when girls are given to acquiring crushes, therefore a word or two about these infatuations may be helpful.

Oddly enough, the object of the crush is least often a man, particularly with girls still in school. Sometimes it is a teacher, or one of the older girls or, perhaps, a girl the same age but of wider social knowledge.

Whoever the object, the results are the same. Open adoration that shows itself in gifts of flowers and candy, in notes tucked into books, in admiring gaze, often in endless fagging in time that should be given to lessons.

Most girls go through this crush period, but they will be less silly in it if they realize that they are often making of themselves laughing stocks and worse.

These crushes often make a teacher unpopular with her other pupils. They accuse her of partiality, at least favor shown to her admirer, and grow generally resentful and unmanageable.

The most dangerous crush is that of the other sex. It is most often a matinee hero who is the idol, and a girl has need of much common sense if she be not led into silliness of note writing, flower sending and hanging around stage entrances in hope of seeing the charmer.

If girls could but know how such attentions disgust the better class of men on the stage and how the others laugh and boast about their conquests, they would fight hard this special form of the crush habit.

Sometimes the hero is a friend of an older sister or aunt. Then again the girl must be careful not to let herself get pushing forward or silly in her intatuation. If the man thinks of her at all it is as a nice little girl who is going to make a fine woman some day. He will not think that if she shows her crush upon him, but will be bored and disgusted.

It is all right to admire some people more than others; none of us fail to have favorites; the thing is not to let our admiration run away with our judgment. The girl who admires beyond reason, in other words, is subject to crushes, generally pays the penalty of her crushes in disappointed or betrayed affection.

THE HUMOROUS SIDE OF CENSUS-TAKING.

That the divorce question met with considerable trouble in other sections of the country as well as in the East is evident from several other stories that reached the ears of the metropolitan census-takers, writes G. J. Nathan in Harper's Weekly. There was a woman in Omaha, Neb., for instance, who flatly refused to commit herself one way or another on the question, and who only complied with the enumerator's request when threatened with arrest. Then, to the surprise of the census man, she said she had not only never been divorced, but never married. Her rebellion against the question consequently puzzled the census man greatly until he learned that the woman, who had come to town only recently, had been posing in the community as a divorcee with a large alimony income for the evident purpose of obtaining credit on a considerable scale from the local merchants.

A second story had to do with a woman of St. Louis, who was actually taken to the police station before she was made to realize the necessity of complying with the census rules. "What's the trouble?" acked the sergenat. "She won't tell whether or not she has been divorced," came the complaint. "You must answer all the questions," was the command. "Well ,then," said the woman, "I was divorced a year ago, but as my husband and I are thinking of making up again soon I don't see why I have to be labeled as a divorcee. I hate the sound of it."

The third story comes from Toledo, O., where a woman told the census man that if he failed to chronicle the fact that she had been allowed the custody of the children and that her husband was a brute she would see to it that he "lost his job."

Excuse for Poor Horse.

"That horse of yours looks terribly run down."

"Yep," replied Uncle Si Simlin.

"Why do you keep him?"

"Well, it's a kind of comfort to have him around. As long as I've got him I feel that there ain't much danger of my bein' cheated in a hoss trade.—Washington Star.

Why Cuss Words Please.

"Have you ever noticed how a bum actor can get laughter and applause by using a cuss word?"

"Oh, yes. What's the reason?"

"I've found out, I think. The audience has been wanting to swear, but is too polite."—Toledo Blade.

SOME GOOD NEWS FROM THE YOUTH'S COMPANION.

We have had to make The Youth's Companion larger to get in all the good things that Companion readers ought to have. The added amount would make four hundred pages of standard magazine size and print; but we have kept the price just the same—$1.75 for the fifty-two weeks of 1911, and all the issues for the rest of this year free from the time you send in your subscription.

We would like to tell you what is in store for Companion readers next year. We cannot do it here, though; there is not room. But send us your address on a postal card, and we will send you the beautiful Prospectus of The Companion for 1911, announcing many new features, together with sample copies of the paper.

We think you will agree, when you have read them, that there is no other paper that gives quite so much of such a high quality as The Companion.

The new subscriber receives a gift of The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, reproducing in thirteen colors and gold a beautiful water-color garden scene. The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley street, Boston, Mass.

HOW TO RELINE A COAT.

Many women, otherwise clever with the needle, think it difficult to line a coat. It is in reality very simple. Rip out one-half of the jacket lining for a pattern, cut a complete lining by this, leaving the other half attached to the jacket for a guide. Sew the lining together, leaving the underarm seams open. Now baste in one-half, fitting it smoothly along the fronts and bottom of the jacket, then rip out the other half of the old lining and baste in the same way.

The new lining all around bottom, neck and fronts. Any fullness will go into the armholes and under-arm seams, which should be sewed last of all. Cut the sleeves from the old lining and attach at the top and bottom, finishing the armhole first. Be sure to have the lining larger than the sleeves so as to allow plenty of room at the elbow.

Tough.

It's tough to lose on copper stocks,
To buy gold bricks bad.
To bet your coin upon a horse
That loses makes you sad;
To have a sneak thief grab your roll
Is tough, there is no doubt of it,
But, boys, it's tougher to have coin
And be bobchanlered out of it.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Miss Maude Smith spent several days with friends in Plainfield.

Mrs. Thorn has been entertaining out of town friends.

Men's Club Plans.

The executive committee of the Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church met last night and enjoyed a talk by H. W. Herrman, who offered many suggestions for greater usefulness of the club, along new lines of work. No action was taken, but it was decided to hold a meeting of the entire club on Monday night, when Mr. Herrman will again address the men. Plans for the winter will then be adopted.

G. L. RECORD OPENS THE WILSON "QUIZ"

The first record of George L. Record to Woodrow Wilson, designed to elicit the views of the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, has been sent to Mr. Wilson and was released to the newspapers at noon yesterday. It is lengthy and asks categorical replies to twelve questions, dealing with policies and principles in the abstract. The candidate is asked if he believes in or favors rate-making powers for the Public Utilities Commission, the physical valuation of railroads, the use of the physical valuation of railroads as a basis for rates, and similar issues.

There are six additional questions asking for statements concerning Mr. Wilson's attitude toward individuals who, Mr. Record asserts, exercise undue control in the Democratic party, the boss system, Smith, Nugent and Davis in the Democratic organization, as compared with Baird Murphy, Kean and Stokes in the Republican; the Democratic "over-lords" whom Mr. Record declares identical in purpose with the Republican Board of Guardians. He asks when, where and how the Democratic party has been purged and reorganized. He asks if there is any organized movement in the Democratic party similar to the "Progressive movement" in the Republican party, and then wishes to know if the Democratic nominee will agree to call publicly upon the Republican and Democratic candidates for the Legislature to pledge themselves in writing prior to election in favor of such of the previously mentioned reforms as Mr. Wilson may personally favor. "If not, why not?" closes this question.

STATE TO INVESTIGATE WATER DIVERSION STORY

Rumors of a diversion of New Jersey water into Pennsylvania that have reached the State Water Supply Commission prompted that body to include the region about the Delaware Water Gap in its itinerary of watershed inspection on which it started Monday. The commissioners, are accompanied by their engineer, Morris R. Sherrerd.

The rumors are that the village of Shawnee, Pa., is about to be supplied with water from Sunfish Pond, in the mountains of Sussex county, back of the Gap. The assertion has been made that pipes to carry out this project have already been ordered.

When the alleged plans for this diversion of water were made known to the commissioners, just before starting on their trip, they expressed doubt that any one would attempt to put through such a scheme in face of the laws that prohibit such an act. When shown a Philadelphia dispatch, however, in which it was definitely stated that such a course was contemplated, the State officials decided that something should be done at once.

According to the Philadelphia report the water of Sunfish Pond, which is in Buckwood Park, the private game preserve of Charles C. Worthington, will be piped to Shawnee, the line dipping beneath the Delaware River at a point but a few miles above the Water Gap. The pond is 1,378 feet above tide water and several hundred feet above Shawnee. This would mean a gravity flow that would be a most economical source of water supply for the Pennsylvania town.

"I think there must be some mistake about this," declared Commissioner Harry R. Humphreys. "I know Mr. Worthington personally. He is building a golf links in connection with his Buckwod estate. The links, I suppose, were on the New Jersey side of the river. The Philadelphia dispatch points out that the links are on the Pennsylvania side, and it would seem from that that the water was also to be used in connection with the golf course. Mr. Worthington undoubtedly intends to use this pond for supplying his links, but I think they are on this side of the river. This is probably what has given rise to the other story."

GIRL WANDERER SAYS SHE'S FROM NEWARK.

A young woman, who said she was Mary Dorman, twenty-two years old, was picked up late Monday night by a policeman wandering about the streets in Elizabeth and was locked up for safe keeping. She said that she came from Newark, where she had been living.

The prisoner also told the police that, with some other girls, she had been caught in a raid made by the Newark police on a Chinese den in that city, which they had been frequenting, and that they had all been committed to jail for thirty days. She is still being held at police headquarters, and will probably be committed to the county jail for vagrancy.

Fort Asked to Speak.

On the personal invitation of David Baird, Governor Fort has arranged to deliver a political speech in behalf of the candidacy of Vivian M. Lewis at a Republican mass meeting to be held in Camden on October 28.

Here is a Satisfactory Kitchen Range

One that bakes fast or slow as you want it. You can always control the "Newport" and temper the oven to the baking.

Thus the "Newport" makes home cooking uniformly successful. If you'd like a cool, pleasant kitchen and a clean range, see

The NEWPORT Range

Its castings are smooth—nickel parts well finished—dampers handy—fire box capacious—water back large and effective and ash pit convenient. The "Newport" is built with both double and single ovens—either style is superior to any competing range.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 23, 1910.

Topic.—The chances we miss.—Gal. vi, 1-18. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The sixth chapter of Galatians is one of the most practical, for its size, in all the New Testament. It contains certain commandments, each one of which we should take every opportunity to perform, but which, alas, we so often neglect or fail in our efforts because of the blundering methods we use. Let us study these ten verses and then recall how many times we have had chances to perform the injunctions and have missed them. The great deeds of life we are anxious to perform, but the ones that come almost every day, yet mean so much in the average life, we are indifferent to them and neglect many an opportunity to do good and to bring happiness into the lives of others.

Let us look at some of these injunctions and see if this is not so and then decide never again to miss such opportunities.

1. The restoration of those overtaken by a fault. How many commit faults who might be readily restored if we used the apostle's method and considered his basis for such an action! He says "restore such a one in the spirit of meekness." Many go daily astray. We may be indifferent to it or may use the wrong method in our attempts to restore them. Instead of meekness we used harshness and condemnation. We blame them for what they have done, and a child knows that such treatment produces only the opposite effect. Every man denies the right of another to condemn him and to treat him harshly. In this he is correct. God and state alone possess such prerogatives. On the other hand, a difference in tone of voice and language might accomplish great good—a great chance, yet missed, and real harm done.

The reason Paul gives for using meekness instead of harshness is unanswerable. "Considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted," and, being tempted, fall, and, falling, need restoration. Who is invulnerable? Who is perfect? The man who inordinately condemns another on one day for his fault may commit a worse one under strong temptation the next day. Will he then want to be lashed and treated with harshness? No, but he will be. God and man both treat men in judgment as they have treated others. Thus he by harsh treatment has forfeited his right to find mercy in the day of his need. "Chickens come home to roost" is an old adage, but seldom fails to come to pass.

2. Burden bearing. "Bear ye one another's burdens." Oh, the burdens of life! How many are carried by the multitudes of mankind! How many chances we have to help others here, and how often we miss them! Some think only of their own burdens and dislike to hear of others' woes, not knowing that helping others causes us to forget our own burdens and that if we fail to accept such opportunities we miss the chance to "fulfill the law of Christ."

3. Communicating unto teachers—religious teachers, especially the ministry, which is consecrated only to this work (verse 6). Many people do not believe in paying a minister who does not belong to their particular religious sect. They attend and belong to churches where the minister is paid and other expenses exist. But they contribute nothing. They take what they can get and pay nothing. They are very willing for others to pay the bills, but for them the gospel is free, preaching is free, coal and light are free. But in thinking and acting so they miss chances of happiness and blessing. The church sponge must shrink up readily when thinking the subject over sometimes. Moreover, he misses the chance of obtaining a rich divine blessing, for God has promised rich blessings for those who bring their tithes into the storehouse. No man ever loses a penny by liberally supporting the church of God. The loss comes in his failure to do so.

Other injunctions may be considered from the same standpoint: (1) The reaping of what we sow; (2) reward for not "being weary in well doing;" (3) doing good as we have opportunity "to all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith."

It may well be noted that in missing chances to do good we at the same time miss opportunities to get good—a matter of serious consideration. The man who withholds mercy forfeits it from others. This principle holds good in all the practical affairs of life and should inspire us to miss no chance to help another more unfortunate for the day than we.

One of the best ways of advertising the Christian Endeavor prayer meeting is that used by Mr. McClelland's society in St. Louis. It is a long and very convenient bookmark printed neatly on cardboard in blue and red, and it contains the prayer meeting topics for a month, with the leaders' names, the whole headed by the following earnest invitation: to you.

This is a

The Christian Endeavor society of the Washington and Compton Avenue Presbyterian church will hold special meetings during the month of —— each Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. There will be good singing, earnest personal testimonies and a glad, good time. Won't you come?

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company. Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

"You ought to have told me I had to play a new part every night," said Loveland. And the young man and the middle-aged one, looking each other straight in the eyes, conceived for one another an intense dislike. "I was given to understand by a person of experience that I should have enough to get on with until I could buy something if necessary."

"Well, that depends on how soon you buy," returned Jacobus less bitterly. "You knew very well that you'd have me on the leg once you got out here at this here little place with your ticket paid. Our show ain't made of money, especially the past two weeks. Heavens! What a frost! We've been living on our gleanings from last month, when we were going like smoke, and counting on the new juvenile lead to help work up better business. That's why I'm so sore at your cheek, Mr. Gordon, shooting yourself out west with what you stand up in. But as you are here we must make the best of a bad business. The girls may like you even with whiskers on your shirt cuffs, and I suppose among us we'll rig you up somehow out of our theater trunks. That's what you were laying for, eh?"

"Look here! If you're going to insult me much more I shall turn round and go back if I have to walk," said Loveland, cold, hungry, tired and miserable, but with just spirit enough left in him to be furious.

Jacobus saw that he had gone too far if the juvenile lead were not to slip through his fingers. He did not want that to happen, though he already had an uneasy jealousy of P. Gordon.

"Pshaw!" he exclaimed, laughing. "Don't you know a joke from an insult in your part of the country? It give me a start to see you land without a wardrobe, and I have a right to be mad. But I've just said we'd make the best of it and help you out all we can. What can we do more?"

The actor-manager watched his new acquisition furtively and at last interrupted himself in describing with some acerbity the absent members of the company to remark suddenly, "You look like a soldier."

"I am a soldier," Loveland replied before he stopped to think.

"Oh!" said Jacobus, regarding him keenly. "English army, of course?"

"Yes," answered Val shortly, regretting his frankness.

"H'm! What were you—sergeant?"

Loveland could have broken out into savage laughter. He, a lieutenant in the Grenadier guards, asked by this seedy theatrical man if it were a sergeant!

"No, I wasn't a sergeant," he replied.

"H'm! See here, I hope you didn't leave the army—er—on short notice, eh? You know what I mean."

"Do you mean am I a deserter? Well, set your mind at rest," said Loveland, swallowing his wrath. "I'm not a deserter, and I shan't bring disgrace upon your company."

"All right, all right. I'll take your word for it. But, say, the more I look at you the more I have a kind of sneaking idea I've seen your picture lately. Did you get your photo stuck in any of the theatrical papers since you landed?"

"No," Loveland replied, but flushed again, instantly guessing where and in what connection Jacobus must have seen his portrait, a sketch or some snapshot perhaps. Evidently the man did not yet associate him with anything in particular, but the connection between the new juvenile lead and a certain Englishman made notorious by one or two New York papers might at any instant link itself in Mr. Jacobus' head. This Loveland was far from desiring, not that he thought his value to the management would be decreased by the discovery, rather the contrary, judging by his experience with Alexander, but because he could not bear to repeat that experience.

Jack Jacobus was himself, it seemed, leading man for Miss Lillie de Lisle, "the little human flower"—"heavy lead," he called it, but to the heavy lead apparently belonged all the really good parts in the company's repertory. Their productions struck Loveland as being wonderfully good for a strolling troupe, playing week by week in extremely small towns, but Jacobus laughed when he remarked that it must be expensive to obtain the rights of such popular pieces as Sidney Cremer's, for instance, and to put them on the stage properly.

"Properly!" he echoed, grinning. "Well, that depends. We carry six men, counting me and you, and there ain't many pieces we put on except Sidney Cremer's comedies, where there is less than a dozen or fifteen male characters, sometimes more. We all double, sometimes each one of us—even me, the leading man, because I ain't proud. Same with the women. We carry four of them, counting Lillie herself, and they earn their money. You see, we must fall [illegible] melodramas and comedies [illegible] we shouldn't [illegible] choose plays with few characters to please lazy actors. As for the rights to produce—why, we don't trouble ourselves about them any more than we do about the pasts of our juvenile leading gentlemen. What we want we take. It ain't so very risky, though once in awhile the police do shove their noses in where nobody wants them, and I confess I'm a bit scared about Sidney Cremer's new piece, which we're just putting up. Say, you're looking kind of sick. I hope you ain't one of the Puritans, are you? Don't they have shows of our sort in your country?"

Loveland said he really didn't know, but as he hastened to add he was not a Puritan and anyhow Mr. Jacobus' business was his own that gentleman did not feel called upon to translate into words the thoughts his eyes had begun to express.

Mr. Perceval Gordon, it appeared, was expected to play seven parts at the least during the season and must be "letter perfect" in the first one by that very night. It was, however, but a small role—that of an old man who conveniently expired at the end of the first act in great agony. A melodrama called "The Dead Hand" had been chosen for the closing night of the engagement at Modunk because the part of the juvenile lead wasn't too long or difficult to "get up in," with one rehearsal, which they would have after noon, and indeed the "dead hand" was to be that of Mr. Gordon himself. He would appear as a ghost near the end of the last act and wave the said hand behind a gauze with strong limelight turned upon it; also, incidentally, at a ball he would be asked to "walk on" as a young gentleman of fashion. Could he waltz? Good! Then he should have Mrs. Jacobus for his partner, as she liked a decent dancer in that scene, where she had experienced considerable trouble with awkward brutes who stepped on her "party dress." Mrs. Jacobus, known professionally as Miss Thora Moon, was, her husband went on to state, Miss de Lisle's leading lady, who played adventuresses, villainesses and important parts of that ilk to "the human flower's" soubrettes and ingenues.

"My wife had some money when I married her," he mentioned with an introspective look, accompanied by a faint sigh. Thus Loveland was enabled to guess how it was that Mr. Jacobus might have been induced to forget his early penchant for Miss de Lisle. Bill's "little gal."

"I THOUGHT YOU SAID THIS WAS MY ROOM!" EXCLAIMED LOVELAND, STARTLED.

Jacobus stopped in Main street in front of an ugly new building constructed of wood and brick. There was a kind of veranda, above which appeared a large signboard with the words "Smith's Hotel" in green and gold letters.

"Here we are," said Jacobus, sighing as he looked at his mud incrusted patent leathers. "The whole crowd's here. I'll show you to your room, and by the time you've had a wash, if you want to, dinner 'll be ready. I guess you'll be ready for it too."

There was a narrow, uncarpeted passage, with an uncarpeted and still narrower stairway leading steeply up to regions above; also there was a strong—nay, overdeveloped—smell of dinner which could be all too easily divided into its component parts—corned beef and cabbage, with perhaps a bodyguard of onions.

"One more flight for you," explained Jacobus. "They ain't got too much accommodation here, and Miss de Lisle, me and my wife and the other ladies are on this floor, gentlemen above. Here you are," and with a light knock, which was a notification, not a request, he flung the door open.

On a narrow bed visible from the threshold a young man, hardly more than a boy, was stretched reading something that looked like manuscript. He glanced round, but did not move on seeing Mr. Jacobus and a stranger.

"I thought you said this was my room!" exclaimed Loveland, startled.

"So it is, and there's your roommate. Didn't know whether you'd be in. Ed, I can introduce you to each other right now. Mr. Ed Binney, our property man, prompter and second villain—Mr. Perceval Gordon of England, our new juvenile. Now you know each other, and I guess, Eddy, you can put Mr. Gordon up to all he needs to know."

This was worse than the Bat hotel, where each man who earned 25 cents could have his own cubicle. But now Loveland was not paying his own way. The "management" was to do that and feed him too. As he had but a quarter in the world, thrust upon him as a loan or gift by generous Bill, Loveland was not in a position to be critical. Here he was, and here he would have to stay till he heard from home or something "turned up."

As for hearing from home, he had begun almost to despair, for his two cables had remained unanswered now these many dreary days. Still, after an interval of more waiting for a telegram from his mother he had written to her and to Betty Harborough, ashamed to take outsiders into the deepest secrets of his humiliating adventures. But at best it would be a fortnight before Bill Willing could forward to some address yet to be given a letter from across the sea.

Ed Binney looked as though he might have pleasant qualities if approached in the right way. So with amazing self restraint Loveland refrained even from the mild insult of a disgusted glance. He said in his nice voice that he hoped Mr. Binney would not mind his coming, as he really could not help himself, whereupon Mr. Binney grinned, showing teeth white as a girl's, and replied that if it were not Mr. Gordon it would be some one else, who might be worse, as it struck Mr. Binney that Mr. Gordon would at least be fond of washing himself.

To this Mr. Gordon responded that there were few things he liked better, but it seemed as if there wouldn't be much opportunity at Smith's hotel. You had to do it in sections with a washbowl, said Mr. Binney, but never mind—you got there just the same if you were in earnest. Then they both laughed, and Binney exclaimed with evident relief that he was jolly glad Gordon wasn't the sort of boy who put on airs.

Then he bounced off his tremulous cot. He showed his roommate "the ropes"—in other words, which "bureau drawers" were at the newcomer's disposition, where he had better keep his toothbrush and so on. He confided to Loveland the fact that he himself had not been long in the company, but had come from a better one, which he would now regret if the "one night" stands had not been too much for his strength. "If your lungs are always playing you tricks you have to put up with barnstormers, for at least they give you week stands, and most of the hotels throw in fires free," he explained. "I can see that you've stepped down in the world a bit, too, so we ought to have a fellow feeling for each other."

While Loveland made himself presentable for the early dinner Ed Binney went on to sketch the members of the "crowd," though in a manner very different from the manager's sarcastic descriptive efforts. He said that Jacobus was a tyrant and a bully, but that he could act; that every one except Miss Moon was afraid of "J. J." and she wouldn't be afraid of an Indian chief on the warpath; that Miss de Lisle didn't dare say her soul was her own or that black was black if old Jack remarked that it wasn't; that Jacobus had done a very good thing for himself in getting hold of Lillie as a star, although she had no money, for she was a peach, a live wire, just the sort of little gal to be a "go" at towns like this. "Folks are wild about her. She's as pretty and as dainty as they make 'em, a whole haystack above what they generally see in these barns," went on Ed. "But she needs managing, and, gee, Jack and his wife do manage her. But the old girl's jealous. I don't know how long the show will last, for if she says stop Jack stops, you bet. He's as scared of her as everybody else is of him. She runs the shebang and there's two of her sons by her first husband in it. They can't act and they can't look; but, by gum, they're good to their mother."

Into the midst of his discourse crashed a ferocious dinner bell, and in sheer self defense they rushed down stairs in the hope of stopping the clamor by their presence.

A NEW $10 COUNTERFEIT U. S. NOTE DISCOVERED.

The Treasury Department was advised Monday of a fresh counterfeit discovered in circulation at Buffalo, N. Y. The secret service describes the spurious issue as follows:

"New counterfeit ten dollar United States note, series of 1901, check letter B, J. W. Lyons, Register of the Treasury; Charles H. Treat Treasurer of the United States. Portraits of Lewis and Clark.

"This counterfeit was printed from very poorly executed zinc etched plates on fair quality paper, with a few ink lines to indicate the silk fiber of the genuine. The seal and denominational characters are exceptionally poor. The number of the note, which is A3726778, is printed in blue ink in the upper right end and in black ink in the lower left end of the note. The note is so poor that it should not deceive the ordinarily careful handler of money."

Jellied Chicken.

For jellied chicken have on hand three pounds of chicken that has been boiled and cut from the bone in strips. Mix a quart of rich chicken stock that has been boiled down and cleared with a teaspoonful each of lemon juice, chopped parsley, a dash of celery salt and a quarter teaspoonful each of salt and paprika. At the last stir in a teaspoonful of granulated gelatine that has been dissolved. When the jelly begins to thicken add the chicken and turn it into a mold. To have the chicken scattered evenly through the jelly stand the dish containing the jelly in a pan of ice and turn in the jelly layer by layer, covering each with chicken as soon as it begins to thicken.

must be found for excluding women than that they do not fight.

"Preachers are horrified at the thought of admitting women to vote when they cannot fight, thought not one in twenty of their own number is fit for military duty. Of the editors who denounce woman suffrage, only about one in four could shoulder arms. Again, it must be remembered that some woman risks her life whenever a soldier is born into the world. Mrs. Z. G. Wallace, of Indiana, from whom Gen. Lew Wallace drew the portrait of his mother in 'Ben Hur,' asked 'If women do not fight, they give to the State all its soldiers.' This ought in all fairness to be taken as an offset for the military service that women do not render. As Lady Henry Somerset says, she who bears soldiers does not need to bear arms.'"

"The old foolish talk about the home and the cradle has now pretty well rocked itself to sleep among the archives of the kindergarten. This is a great practical question. It concerns the well being of home, city, State and nation. I have endeavored to show that equal suffrage is right and just, let us now see if it will add strength to our institutions. Fortunately we may deal with this question as a condition and not merely a theory. We may therefore argue from history rather than from prophesy. Equal suffrage has been tried for forty years.

"One great advantage of equal suffrage is the introduction of a class with leisure. Of all busy men, the wealthy man of affairs is the busiest. But his wife and daughters have leisure in superabundance. By such women as these and by the wives and daughters of thousands of business and professional men, the time necessary for the proper study of political and social questions can be easily given; and the opportunity of useful work often proves extremely acceptable.

"For the consideration of all problems women have one great advantage, in that they do not by predisposition attach the same importance to precedent and form. Even the ablest men are inclined to bow down and worship before the altar of red tape, and this routine tendency in the case of the average male often produces the most deplorable results. A striking concrete illustration of the inherent difference between the sexes in this regard is afforded by the advent of Florence Nightingale in the Crimean War. The wounded were perishing for stores which could not be issued without an official order and Miss Nightingale had the doors of the store house broken open and the stores distributed.

"The strongest argument for equal suffrage is the greatly increased power that it gives to 'family vote' over that of a comparatively irresponsible and floating population."

Mr. Saunders quoted from the governors and mayors of four states Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and Colorado, showing the distinct advantage to those communities where the vote is given to women. The political intrigue has been removed or nearly so and corruption at the polls eliminated.

Continuing Mr. Saunders said: "One of the arguments against woman suffrage was that it would create discord in the family. Colorado has never heard of a case of family discord that was even alleged to have originated in woman suffrage. The members of a family are inclined to stand together upon political questions, much as they are on religious questions; but this fact broadens the family interest in public affairs. While woman suffrage increases the number of votes, it gives us increased breadth of public interest in social welfare. Their right to vote has not made them less dutiful as mothers and wives. If any woman in Colrado is bold and brazen she is not so on account of woman suffrage.

"It is contended that women do not wish to vote. The women in Colorado vote solidly when there is anything in a campaign that appeals to their interest; and in all elections their vote is large. Among them, of course, there are some bad women, just as among men there are some bad men, but I apprehend that nobody has any scheme by which the suffrage can be restricted so as to exclude persons who are evil minded. There is not a city in the world where the vote of evil women could be of enough consequence to be worthy of serious consideration. Do not mislead yourself into thinking that you dislike woman suffrage because you would not like to see your wife going to the polls, amid surroundings so disgusting to a refined woman. That is moonshine, for under woman suffrage, as we have seen in Colorado, the voting booths are placed in most respectable quarters, largely in private houses, with surroundings that offer no opportunity for criticism.

"One of the main reasons for our bad political condition is because of too great party adhesion. Men wear the collar of a party and have a foolish notion that party loyalty is a virtue. This spirit invades municipal elections which have really nothing to do with national politics. Does anyone doubt that the whip of party adhesion enabled Quay, Platt and Croker to control, to the shame of our free institutions, city, and State governments for almost a generation?

"One cure for the ills of bossism is to enlarge the independent vote. It is this vote which holds the balance of power. It elected Cleveland to the presidency, Harmon to the governorship and Low to the mayoralty. Is it not reasonable to expect that women are less apt to wear the stamp of party than men? They may not be as wise or as practical, but they are more moral and are likely to be less inclined to sacrifice principles to party. I once overheard the following conversation in a New York cafe, an older to a younger man: 'Vote the Democratic ticket, never mind who is on it, vote the ticket. Always vote the Democratic ticket. The party is responsible for the men on it, vote the ticket.'"

In conclusion Mr. Saunders quoted Dr. Lyman Abbott from his book "Spirit of Democracy," in which the venerable doctor says: "The builders of this nation are not the men at Washington, but the fathers, mothers, teachers." "Let them build from youth up, so that a wholesome and effetcive influence for good may be indellibly impressed upon those who are to govern this nation."

In introducing Mr. Saunders Mrs. Champlain Riley, president of the league, said: "Last year criticism was made of the league for holding their meetings too privately. It was said that there were many who were interested in equal suffrage, though not committed to it, who felt some embarrassment in attending meetings held in private houses. We have profited by this criticism and are going to held four evening meetings in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium during the winter. Everyon interested is invited to attend. Ther will also be four meetings held in private houses and to these the same invitation is extended."

COMPARE THE PARTIES

G. O. P. Speakers Contrast Republican and Democratic Administrations.

"GANG" BACK OF WILSON.

Democratic Gubernatorial Nominee an "Intellectual Aristocrat" and Not a Friend of Labor.

Republicans of the greater Elizabeth section of Linden last night heard speeches in the North End Republican headquarters by Alfred N. Barber, of Trenton, secretary of the board of public utility, and others including Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth; Lloyd Thompson, of Westfield; and Peter H. Meisel, of Springfield, candidates for the Assembly.

Mr. Schwartz claimed the Republican party had made good in its conduct of State affairs the past fifteen years, and contrasted its record with that of the Democrats who previously managed affairs badly. He read a list of the various pledges made in party platforms that had been carried out, and claimed that no State had passed more progressive laws than New Jersey.

Lloyd Thompson referred, too, to the iniquitous laws passed by the Democrats when they had a majority in the legislature. He said the party was under the management of the same old leader. No new ones had developed except those of the Jim Smith, Jim Nugent and Bob Davis ilk. When the Democratis got control of the lower house in 1907, he said all they did was to block progressive legislation. Now the party is using the president of Princeton University for a mask. Katzenbach may have been all wool and a yard wide, but a candidate was wanted who was brocade and velvet. Dr. Wilson, said Mr. Thompson, is a distinguished educator and theorist, but he is an intellectual aristocrat and is trying now to explain every attack made against labor when he did not think of being a candidate for office. Mr. Thompson declared he had seen no evidence of bossism in the legislature and described some features of his legislature experience.

Peter H. Meisel, the new candidate for the Assembly, spoke next. He told of his work for the people as a member of the Board of Freeholders, and promised to try to leave a good record if the people elected him to the legislature.

Mr. Barber referred briefly to the Italians present and the causes which induced them to leave the land of their birth to come to a new country where language and customs are so different. "They come," he said, "where they and their children may have better opportunities. Wages are greater here." Taking up the Scotch stocking episode Mr. Barber said Dr. Wilson's imported clothing might wear a little longer, but he preferred a policy that built up industries in America to one that let us patronize the foreign. He likened Dr. Wilson to the blue jay a hunter fired at and found only a frog. "We're shooting the feathers off the blue jay," he declared. The manner of Dr. Wilson's nomination was described, especial emphasis being laid on the fact that the delegates from Mercer county and from Princeton even, at the Democratic convention were for some other candidate. "The man wanted for governor," said Mr. Barber, "need not be the man of most education. Seward was the better educated candidate for president in 1860, but the plain man of the people, Abraham Lincoln, was the man on whom the country leaned at the time of direct need.

Then Mr. Barber took up State expenditures under Republican control and denied that there had been extravagance. In 1893 there was no reformatory at Rahway, no tuberculosis sanitorium, no home for epileptics. All these institutions said Mr. Barber, cost money. The party's course in this respect was defended eloquently and at length and support was urged for the Republican ticket.

Peter Lindsay, candidate for township committeeman, spoke briefly, referring to his defeat for member of the school board, and promised, if elected, to work for the best interests of his constitutents.

George Everetts, member of the Township Committee, spoke at greater length and showed in detail why many things needed and demanded in greater Elizabeth ha been delayed. "In the main, however," he said, "the people are getting what they asked for." He deplored the existence of an independent township ticket, and thought good Republicans, after the primaries, should go by the candidates nominated.

BOROUGH DEMOCRATS AT SOMERVILLE MEETING

Members of the North Plainfield Democratic club and other borough voters to the number of sixty journeyed by special trolley to Somerville, last night, to attend the Democratic mass meeting at which Woodrow Wilson was the main speaker. The car was a little late in getting away from Somerset street and the boroughites found a crowded hall on their arrival. They were made welcome by the committee in charge and given the best seats possible under the circumstances. The return trip was commenced at 11:30 and Plainfield was reached about 1 o'clock.

The meeting was held in the armory building and it is estimated that 1,500 people were in attendance. It is said to be the largest affair of the kind ever held in the town. Richard V. Lindabury was the presiding officer and gave the introductory address.

SYNOD PLACES A BAN ON SUNDAY NEWSPAPERS

The eighty-eighth annual session of the Presbyterian Synod of New Jersey brought its deliberations to a close at Lakewood yesterday afternoon. The first order of business yesterday was the appointment of a vice-moderator. The Rev. George F. Green, of Cranford, was named. Rev. Fisher Howe Booth, of Tenafly; Rev. C. P. Butler, of Lakewood, and Rev. Dr. Stanley White, of Orange, were elected trustees.

Rev. W. W. Casselberry, of Collingswood, formerly of Dunellen, read a report on systematic benevolence, showing the total amount of money given by all churches of New Jersey to all causes was $1,720,813.79, which was about $3,000 less than last year. The gifts per capita showed New Jersey ranking third, with $4.38. Systematic giving was recommended as the best to obtain results.

Rev. Dr. John Dixon, of New York, secretary of the Board of Home Missions, said 50,000,000 people in the United States were outside the Christian church. New responsibilities were costing the board $345,000 yearly for work in Cuba and Porto Rico. The Bureau of Church and Labor costs $20,000 a year. The Synod listened to the reading of the narrative of the state of religion by Rev. Nelson B. Chester, of Caldwell.

Rev. Dr. Galloway, of Paterson, for his committee presented seven recommendations on Sabbath observance. The third was a reiteration of the usual deliverance on the Sunday newspaper, if possible, more drastic than previous attempts. It runs:

"That the publishing, buying and selling of the Sunday newspaper, being a violation of Sabbath laws, is hereby condemned, and all members of our church are requested to refuse purchasing or reading the Sunday newspaper, which is so detrimental to the proper observance of the Sabbath and the religious life of the people."

Another recommendation hits Sunday recreations as follows:

"That all Sunday excursions, secular entertainments, games, sports and worldly pleasures are disapproved and out of harmony with divine law."

Other recommendations had reference to "The Lord's Day Alliance" and the observance of a Sunday in the year in the interest of the Sabbath observance movement.

Will Hold Revival Meetings.

Beginning on Sunday, the first of the three weeks' evangelistic services will be held under the auspices of the local Methodist churches. Rev. M. V. Williams, pastor of a Methodist church at Athens, Pa., will conduct the meetings here, which will open at the Monroe Avenue church and continue for one week. The second week the meetings will be held at Grace M. E. church and the third week at the First M. E. church. Mr. Williams will be assisted by the local Methodist pastors.

Y. W. C. A. Classes.

All the classes which have been started this week at the Young Women's Christian Association have filled well and great interest has been shown by those who are studying. The gymnasium class which was to have begun last night has been postponed until this evening at 8 o'clock.

Observed His Birthday.

Twenty-five friends of Irvon B. Seevers, of Belvidere avenue, tendered him a party at his home, Tuesday night, in honor of his birthday. Music and other features were enjoyed and supper was served in conclusion. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Seevers.

MISS GARRETSON WEDS

She Marries Albert C. Giddes at Home of Her Parents Here.

REV. MR. BROEK OFFICIATES.

Miss Mary G. Auten Maid of Honor —Miss Margret McIntyre Bridesmaid—W. W. Giddes, Best Man.

Miss Katherine F. Garretson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah F. Garretson, of 108 West Fourth street, and Albert C. Giddes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel C. Giddes, of Dunellen, were married at 7 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, performed the ceremony, in the presence of friends from Philadelphia, Allentown, Pa., Port Richmond, S. I., Newark, Irvington, Bound Brook, Somerville Dunellen and this city.

The bride was attended by Miss Mary G. Auten, of Somerville, cousin of the bride, as maid-of-honor, and little Miss Margaret Frances MacIntyre, of this city, niece of the bride, was flower girl. The best man was William W. Giddes, of Dunellen, a brother of the groom, and the ushers were Elmer E. Gayle and Henry Giddes.

The bride's gown was of white chiffon messaline, and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies-of-the-valley, while the maid-of-honor wore a gown of white China silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The flower girl's dress was of white Swiss and she carried a basket of lilies-of-the-valley and ferns.

The wedding march was played by Prof. Andrew Carpenter, who also rendered a program of classical and popular selections both before and after the ceremony and during the reception.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom received the congratulations of the guests and a wedding supper was served by DeMolli & Co., the West Front street caterer. Later in the evening the couple left for a ten day's honeymoon at St. Augustine, Florida, and upon their return will reside at Dunellen, where the groom has provided a furnished home for his bride and himself.

The bride received a large collection of gifts comprising cut-glass, furniture, silver, etc. For five years she held a responsible clerical position with the New Jersey Central at the New York offices of the company. She is a member of Trinity Reformed church and has been active in the work there. The bride's father has held the position of baggagemaster at the North avenue Station of the New Jersey Central for a great many years.

The groom, who is well-known here, is chief clerk in the freight traffic department of the New Jersey Central, with offices in New York. He has been a resident of Dunellen for many years.

PROF. HERR'S BUSINESS COLLEGE FLOURISHING.

The attendance at the Plainfield Business College and School of English this year is far in excess of any year since Professor Herr assumed control of the institution. The young people come from towns along the line of the Central Railroad, from Cranford to Glen Gardner, and from all through the surrounding country. Hunterdon, Morris, Somerset, Middlesex and Union counties are represented and this city and the borough contribute many pupils.

The attention of the community has been drawn to the work of Prof. Herr's school in many ways. The real educational side of the work has ever predominated. In June of this year, the public graduation exercises of the school, held in The Plainfield theatre, tended to give the people of Plainfield, particularly a clearer conception of the high standard of commercial education which is the ideal of the institution and the better understanding of this work has resulted in a larger patronage from this immediate vicinity.

MINING ENGINEERS TO INSPECT CANAL

More than 100 members of the American Institute of Mining Engineers will leave New York tomorrow morning on the steamship Prinz August Wilhelm to hold a meeting at the Canal Zone. In the party will be former Mayor William L. Saunders, vice-president of the association, and half a dozen other Jerseymen of note.

A stop will be made at Havana, Cuba, where the Spanish game of Jai-Alai will be witnessed and where the historic sights including Morro castle will be visited. Another stop will be made at Kingston, Jamaica, where various entertainments will take place. An opportunity will also be given the members to visit Port Limon and San Jose, Costa Rica. Arriving at Colon, the members will go by train to Gatum Dam, where the locks and dam will be inspected. Excursions will be taken to the locks and dams at Pedro Miguel and Miraflores, the Pacific entrance of the canal and over the Panama railroad.

Mayor Saunders says the party will return to New York on November 15.

REV. MR. GOODRICH TELLS OF CENTENNTIAL MEETING

At the midweek meeting in the Congregational church last evening Rev. C. L. Goodrich told some interesting facts concerning the recent centennial celebration of the Congregationalists at Boston.

It was one of the most memorable gatherings in the history of Congregationalism. The National Council met in Boston October 10 to 21 last. Business of importance looking toward advance steps in the denomination came before the council and special interest attached to the meetings of the Board of Foreign Missions. It was announced that $2,215,000 had been raised for this purpose by the Congregationalists during the centenary. The convention marked the celebration of the council's centennial.

It was announced that the contributions of the various congregations had amounted to over $989,000 during the past year and special centenary gifts for endowments for educational institutions amounting to $1,200,000 had been made.

Greetings had been received from fifty other missionary societies and from churches in non-Christian countries, including one from President Harada, of the Doshisha University, Tokio, Japan. A cultured Japanese was one of the most eloquent speakers at the convention.

The sessions were marked by a note of optimism and the sense of the possibility and urgency of immediate advance to even larger results. More than five thousand people attended the conference. Two special trains carried a host of people to Andover and Bradford to attend the exercises of the dedication of a tablet at Andover, where the first missionaries of the board were students, and at Bradford, where they were commissioned. Six young men and women received their commissions on that day. Rev. and Mrs. Charles L. Goodrich attended this convention.

JUNIOR BOYS' CLUB OF HOPE CHAPEL ELECT OFFICERS.

Officers were elected and plans for the winter discussed at a meeting of the Junior Boys' Club at Hope chapel, last night. Charles G. August, leader of the club, was in the chair and directed the business of the meeting, giving the boys an interesting talk along the line of greater usefluness. These officers were elected:

President, Arthur Walls; vice-president, Charles Rice; treasurer, Henry Anderson; secretary, Harry Shirley; captain of basketball team, Arthur Walls. The first basketball game will be played Wednesday night, November 2, and the club will give a banquet November 16, when several prominent men will address the boys.

Colored Progressives Elect.

These officers were elected by the Independent Progressive Club, colored, Tuesday night: president, Jos. Mitchell; first vice-president, Rev. J. W. Bailey, second vice-president, Rev. Eugene Johnson; secretary, William Brown; assistant secretary, Eugene C. Johnson; corresponding secretary, Frank Selby; treasurer, Arthur Venable; sergeant-at-arms, James H Hill; leader, Charles Shelton.

DISCUSS BOY PROBLEM

Y. M. C. A. Women's Auxiliary Hears Some Instructive Addresses.

AT MRS. DE GRAFF'S HOME.

Mrs. W. F. Bailey and C. W. Bingaman Talk—More Members Added to the Rolls of the Society.

Mrs. James W. DeGraff, of Central avenue, yesterday afternoon threw open her house for the Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. to hold a conference, the purpose being to stimulate interest in the organization, especially with reference to the boys' department. The attendance was large and as a result of the gathering many new names were added to the Auxiliary members.

Mrs. W. F. Bailey, of Summit, president of the Auxiliary in that city, gave an absorbing address on "The Boy." She is thoroughly conversant with the subject, being a mother and having been engaged in boys' work for the past ten years. An interesting speaker, her remarks made a deep impression.

Mrs. Bailey was followed by C. W. Bingaman, secretary of boys' work at the local Y. M. C. A. He presented his views on the subject of boys from the standpoint of one who has been closely connected with them for the past two years. He declared that in dealing with the boys in Plainfield there are five classes to consider, the grammar school boy, the high school boy, the poor boy, the working boy and the boy from wealthy homes. The personality of each, their likes and dislikes have to be given every consideration in order to bring out the best that is in them. The places known as boys' rooms or departments, Mr. Bingaman said, should not be a lounging place, but one wherein they could engage in healthy competition or diversion, one that the poor boy could love and the rich boy respect. He declared Plainfield to be a boys' city as there are about 3,000 between the ages of ten and eighteen and they are here all day while their fathers and big brothers are away on business.

Continuing Mr. Bingaman said that the departmental work depended largely on the accommodations provided for the boys and that it is too often neglected. Fine association buildings are erected, but as a rule the boys are given the rooms on the top floor that can be used for no other purpose. They are reached from side entrances and mean a big climb up or down. On the other hand, the pool rooms, the cheap theatres and the various catch-penny devices that entice boys are located on ground floors, brilliantly lighted up, attractively decorated and otherwise made inviting.

Mr. Bingaman asserted that the Plainfield building is far better in some respects than many others, but what is really neded is a separate building. The younger members use the same entrances and to some extent the same rooms as the men, a custom that does not meet the approval of the latter. In conclusion the speaker dwelt on the influences that uplift and an appeal for a better understanding of the boy and his composite nature.

Tea was served following the talks.

CHRISTIAN AND MISSIONARY ALLIANCE TO MEET.

There will be two meetings of the Christian and Missionary Alliance tomorrow in the German church at the corner of Duer street and Craig place, North Plainfield.

At 3.30 in the afternoon, Rev. Thomas Francis, of Jersey City, will give a Bible talk on the Book of Romans and in the evening at 7.45, Mrs. Jeandey, of Cranford, will make an address. All are cordially invited.

Trinity Juniors Get the Banner.

Announcement is made that the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, was awarded the State banner at the recent State convention of the society, for the highest contribution to benevolences, the amount being over $100. A singular coincidence is that last year the Junior society of the Clinton Avenue Reformed church, Newark, of which Rev. Albertus T. Broek, is pastor, received the banner for similar reasons. The latter is a brother of Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity church.

Salvation Army Meeting.

There will be two special meetings at the Salvation Army local corps, this evening Major Frank Lyon, the New Jersey divisional officer will conduct the service and on Saturday evening, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire will deliver an address. A cordial invitation is extended to all to come and hear these speakers.

JUDGE W. N. RUNYON TO OPEN THE FAIR

The William N. Runyon Bible Class Association of Hope Chauel, last night discussed plans for the fair, October 26, 27 and 28. The fair will include a Chinese laundry, a novelty booth, where a Chinaman will dispose Chinese tickets and wares. The entertainment in the gymnasium will be under the direction of Harry Kartscher. Thomas M. Muir will present a humorous sketch. President Evans announces that the founder and leader of the class, Judge Runyon would formally open the industrial fair on Wednesday night.

Encouraging reports were received at the meeting of the Men's Club of Hope chapel, Tuesday night. They were presented by Thomas Hendry, chairman of the Club's boths for industrial fair. The committee working with Mr. Hendry comprises Geo. Leighs, Frank Rimmer, Walter Firstbrook, J. Frank Lindsley, James Penney, Donald McInnes and Harry Keen.

DR. VANCE WITHDRAWS; REV. MR. BROEK HONORED

The Rev. Dr. James L. Vance, pastor of the North Reformed church, made his last official report to the meeting of the Newark classis of the Reformed church, which was held in his church in Newark yesterday.

Dr. Vance was chairman of the church extension committee and he asked that his resignation be accepted as he is leaving the city on November 1. After it had been accepted he named the Rev. John Y. Broek, of this city, as his successor, which was acquiesced in. He also asked that the Rev. Henry M. Mellen, of Christ church, Newark, be made the successor of the Rev. S. N. Hutchinson who has gone to Maryland to officiate there.

The classis took up the retirement of the Rev. William Stewart, of the Reformed church at Franklin. Dr. Vance, after telling of the good work that the Rev. Mr. Stewart had done, offered a resolution commending his work. He will be made pastor emeritus because of advanced age.

The classis went on record as being in favor of the general synod meeting in the fall instead of the spring, as now. The Rev. F. D. Pulan, pastor of Hyde Park, presided at the meeting. The next regular meeting will be held at the West Church.

There will be a special meeting of the classis held at the Montclair church, November 21 when there will probably be an ordination.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF FRANK J. SHATTLE, SR.

The funeral of Frank J. Shattle, who died on Tuesday, will be held from the residence of his son, Frank J. Shattle, Jr., 721 West Fourth street, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and the Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, will officiate. Those desiring to view the remains can do so this evening from 7 to 10 o'clock at the home of Frank Shattle, Jr.

The members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., are invited to attend the service in a body. In the selection of pall-bearers, the three oldest employes of Potter's Press Works, Fred Sears, Joseph Bird and James Patterson, and the three oldest members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., J. B. Higgins, Thomas Osment and Peter Stram, will serve. Mr. Shattle was employed by the Potter's Press Works for thirty-nine years, coming here with them from Rhode Island in 1879.

Kings Daughters Entertainment.

An entertainment of much interest will be given under the auspices of Cheerful Workers circle of the King's Daughters in the High School auditorium on the evening of November 3. The entertainment will consist of tableaux vivants, depicting scenes in the early history of New Jersey, followed by several pictures showing Shakespearean characters. Tickets may be obtained at Armstrong's drug store. The circle hopes for a large attendance.

George W. Searles in Town.

George W. Searles, of Westfield, Mass., formerly a reporter on the Courier-News, spent last night and today with friends here. He had been in Philadelphia, witnessing the world's championship ball games between the Athletics and Chicago. Mr. Searles is employed as a reporter for a Westfield newspaper, recently Gov. Draper appointed him clerk of the District court at Westfield, a position paying $1,200 a year.

URGE TEACHER TRAINING

Advocated by L. P. Kohler at Union Co. Sunday School Assn. Convention.

MISS A. B. HAMLIN'S ADIVCE.

Elementary Superintendent Speaks on "Intermediate Bible Education—Committees Are Appointed.

The thirtieth annual convention of the Union County Sunday-school Association was opened in the First M. E. church this morning at 10:15 with devotional exercises led by Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church. Thomas B. Lindsay, of Rahway, president of the Union, called the convention to order. Other officers present were Philo W. Schofield, 3d vice-president, of Elizabeth, George H. Gabler, secretary-treasurer, of Westfield; Rev. S. G. Snowden, recording secretary, Elizabeth; Mrs. Almer W. Karnell, superintendent of home department; Miss Sue A. Valentine, superintendent of elementary department, Elizabeth; Rev. C. C. Woodruff, superintendent teacher training department, Rahway, and Miss Henriette R. Halloway, superintendent of missionary teaching, Plainfield.

Miss Alice B. Hamlin,
State Supt. Primary Department.

Delegates from all the Sunday-schools connected with the union were present, as were several visitors from other associations.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, welcomed the delegates in behalf of all the churches of the city. Dr. Anderson said that the work of the Sunday-school should be confined to the education along Biblical lines and the effort at conversion of the young.

Rev. S. G. Snowden in his report of the executive committee activity said that Miss Henriette Halloway had been persuaded to accept the position of superintendent of missionary training. J. F. Johnston, of Westfield, has resigned as superintendent of organized adult class department and the vacancy is yet to be filled. The committee suggested the election of a superintendent for the intermediate department, and one for temperance teaching.

George A. Hall spoke for a few moments on books for special reading, especially for teacher training.

General State Secretary Louis H. Koehler in an address on "How Every Sunday School May Have Trained Teachers," declared that a training class was absolutely necessary in order to insure success in telling of God's word so that it may be assimilated in minds of all—young and old. The greatest thought is the conservation of our human resources and the greatest object is life. "With simply powder in your gun," he said, "your execution is nil, but with the lead you can hit the mark. The bullet represents the trained teacher, it accomplishes something. Some one must be found who will see the force of this argument and who will have a vision of

My Corns Don't Hurt A Bit

Tired, Aching, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet, Corns, Callouses and Bunions, TIZ Cures Right Off.

Say good-bye to your corns the very first time you use T I Z. You will never know you have a corn, bunion or callous, or sweaty, tired, swollen, aching feet any more. It's just wonderful the way the pain vanishes. Rub the corn—hammer it with your fist if you wish—no more pain after T I Z than if there had never been a blemish on your feet. Doesn't that sound good to you? Doesn't it? Then read this.

"The corns on either of my toes were as large as the tablets you make to cure them. To-day there is no sign of corns on either foot and no soreness. It's an up-to-date Godsend.—Sam. A. Hoover, Progress, N. C.

Just use T I Z. It's not like anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. T I Z cleans them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. T I Z is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago Ill

SOME REPUBLICANS WHO WILL STUMP FOR LEWIS

The speakers bureau in connection with the Republican State committee is now thoroughly organized. At one time the campaign managers contemplated asking former president Roosevelt to come over into New Jersey and deliver at least one speech before election day. This idea was abandoned and then it was decided to attempt to secure Senator Root for one or two New Jersey speeches. Now, however the State committee intends to run its campaign without the aid of any great national personage. One of the speakers from another State who has already been dated for some meetings in New Jersey is Congressman Landis, of Indiana.

Former Governor John W. Griggs, on October 26, will speak at Burlington, and the following night at Woodbury. It is expected that he will also make several other speeches on dates yet to be fixed.

Former Governor Edward E. Stokes will also go on the stump during the last two weeks of the campaign.

Edward D. Duffield, of South Orange, who was formerly assistant attorney-general and is now counsel for the Prudential Insurance Company, will make a speech or two in Essex county. He is president of the Princeton Alumni Association of the Oranges. Mr. Duffield's father was a professor in Princeton and his brother, Rev. Howard, C. Duffield, of New York City, is one of the graduates. Edward D. Duffield said today he had been asked by the county committee of Essex to make a few speeches in behalf of Lewis, and had consented to do so.

"While I like Dr. Wilson," he said yesterday, "I do not allow college matters to mix up with politics."

Quite a number of requests have come to the State committee for the services of former Assemblyman W. P. Martin, of Newark, as a campaign speaker. Although Mr. Martin is quoted as assuring his friends that he is for Mr. Lewis for Governor, his name has not yet been listed among those available for campaign speaking.

In addition to those mentioned, the following have volunteered their services as speakers in behalf of the Republican ticket:

Pierre Garven, prosecutor of pleas of Hudson county; James McCarthy, assistant prosecutor of Hudson county; Alfred Barber, of Trenton, secretary of the Public Utility Commission; William Crossley, of Trenton, prosecutor of Mercer county; Assemblyman Thomas F. McCram, of Paterson, former Senator Thomas J. Hillery, of Boonton, a public utility commissioner; Senator John D. Prince, of Passiac county; former Assemblyman Frank B. Jess, of Camden, president of the State Board for the Equalization of Taxes; Judge Huston, of Sussex county; Frederick R. Lehlbach, of Newark; Judge Higbee, of Atlantic; former Senator Bloomfield Minch, of Cumberland; former Senator John Boyd Avis, of Gloucester; former Banking and Insurance Commissioner David O. Watkins, of Woodbury; Colonel Fuller, of Bayonne; Senator William J. Bradley, of Camden; Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, of Somerville; Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of Union, and former Assemblyman Austen Colgate, of Orange.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Herring will give a reception at the First Presbyterian church, Thursday evening, October 27, for the members of the church and congregation.

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church will meet Monday night and there will be an address by H. W. Herrman. Plans for the winter work will be decided.

Miss Helen Armstrong will lead the Junior Mission Band society meeting at the First Baptist church, tomorrow afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. The topic will be "Jesus Christ in the New Testament."

Under the direction of Organist Russell, the choir of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will give a service of special music on Sunday night. It is planned to hold a similar service once a month during the winter.

Plainfielders' Great Bowling.

Plainfield's pair of aspirants for the bowling championship in this State, covered themselves with glory on Johnny Campbell's alleys Tuesday night, demonstrating their skill in sensational bowling. The local pair defeated Schaub and Matthews, of Somerville, in every match but one. Nash got in the spotlight by his high and consistent rolling, having an average of 192, while Johnny Campbell put up an average of 196. Tonight Mattis and Kennedy will roll a series of games against Waldron and Opdyke for the championship of the clerks' association.

H. C. Runyon, of the Jackson building, has entirely recovered from a recent operation performed at the hospital.

MISS CHAMBERS BRIDE OF JAMES D. YOUNG.

One of the most fashionable weddings ever held in Roselle borough took place Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Chambers, in Fourth avenue, east, when their daughter, Miss Gladys Lorrine Chambers, was married to James Donaldson Young, of Denver, Col. More than three hundred guests were invited, among them being Mayor Charles W. MacQuoid, borough officials and the officials of the Central Railroad Company. The bride's father is superintendent of motor power of the Central Railroad Company and vice-president of the Roselle First National Bank. The house was handsomely decorated, the color scheme being yellow and white. Rev. C. C. Woodruff, formerly pastor of the Roselle Park First M. E. church, now pastor of the Rahway church, officiated.

The bridesmaids were Miss Florence Young, a sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Bertha Hager, a friend of the bride. Miss Mabel Chambers was the maid of honor. The ribbon bearers were Master James Chambers, a brother of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Woodruff, a niece of the groom. Miss Helen Chambers was flower girl. The bride's gown was white satin. Presents received by the couple were costly and numerous

AUTOISTS COME TO GRIEF.

While speeding down Westfield avenue, Elizabeth, early yesterday morning an automobile, in which were three men and one woman, swerved off the road and plunged into a trolley pole at Magie street. The front part of the vehicle was damaged and its occupants thrown out. All were more or less bruised, but the woman appeared to be the most serious injured.

Patrolman Kennedy went to the assistance of the wrecked travelers. The woman was picked up unconscious and carried into Mr. Somerville's house close by and Dr. Kelly was summoned. She shortly afterward revived and was able to resume her trip in the auto, which was bound for Newark. They declined to give their names to the policeman.

PEARY CLAIM DISPUTED BY GERMAN SCIENTIST.

Professor Andreas Galle, the famous German astronomer, of Potsdam, yesterday issued a sensational statement in which he declared that Commander Peary did not reach the North Pole.

Professor Galle declares that none of Peary's methods for reckoning his position in the Far North were reliable and that even had Peary reached the axis of the earth he would not have known it.

"What did you see in Europe that was most interesting?"

"Some Americans who wished they had stayed at home."

WELLMAN TRIP EARLY NEXT YEAR IS PLANNED.

The failure of the Wellman party to "make good" on their proposed trip to Europe by airship has by no means disheartened the promoters of the enterprise. Yesterday plans were made for a renewal of the attempt. Wellman, Vaniman and the other members, despite their narrow escape, are eager for another try whereby they may take advantage of the mistakes of the initial expedition. They will have all the money they need to construct a new dirigible, bigger and more powerful than the ill-fated one that was abandoned early Tuesday off Cape Hatteras.

Joseph Salus, head of the party that originally financed Wellman has received many offers of financial assistance. The result is that today Salus has a representative in New York to meet the party on its arrival with the offer of all the money needed and a request that they come to Atlantic City as soon as possible for a conference regarding plans.

"I received a telegram by wireless from Vaniman yesterday," said Salus, "in which he told me that if they had the thing to do over again they would win out. This, of course, means that their experience with the head winds and air currents and more especially with that darned equilibrator would enable them to avoid the mistakes of the present voyage that ended so disastrously. Vaniman is one of the cleverest engineers I have ever met and he planned the equilibrator without having any opportunity to try it out.

"I am convinced that if a few trial trips had been made, as originally proposed, it would have been found that the scheme was crude and needed improvement, and that improvement would have been effected by Vaniman in a hurry. But as there were no lives lost and we have plenty of money available for a new trial I don't see why we should not go ahead and plan another trip for early next year."

HOLY CROSS GRIDIRON PLAYERS ARE READY.

The Holy Cross football team will open its season on Saturday, October 22, with Plainfield High School on Crescent Oval The borough boys will put a strong team on the gridiron this year and have arranged games with all the strongest teams in the State, among them Pingry School, Princeton Preps, Highland A. C., of Jersey City, and others.

Manager Ira Vail declares that the rumors about town that there are ringers on the Holy Cross team that their team is good enough to get along without practicing such deception. Following is the lineup for the game on Saturday: Ends, F. Wehrte, P. Vail, F. Schweifel, J. Sinclair and W. Ruttledge; tackles, S. Knight, J. Canfield, P. Haberle, J. Wilson and James Manning; guards, R. Harrigan, A. Blazier, J. Wilson; center, J. Lindsay; half backs, Jerry Manning, C. Smith, B. Miller, S. Knight and J. Canfield; quarter backs, R. Vail and V. Tillotson.

News and Notes

GOLF.

At the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, there will be the final round for the club championship and the second and third sixteens and the defeated eights, and the results should attract considerable interest. For the championship the play will be between C. B. Morgan and Frank C. Talmadge, two of the best players of the club.

William T. Kaufman and C. W. King, survivors of the second sixteen, will meet in the final play, and C. M. Church and L. H. Gates, survivors of the third sixteen, will also meet.

H. D. Hibbard and R. S. Rowland, survivors of the defeated eight, first sixteen will meet in the finals; C. C. Burke and H. F. Fox, survivors of the second sixteen, defeated eights, and G. S. Clay and B. F. Kraffert, survivors of the third sixteen, will also meet in the finals.

Another event at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, will be the third round in the boys' competition.

At a recent meeting of the Forest Hill Field Club it was voted to increase the annual dues to $40 a year. This will give the organization extra funds to expend on the contemplated improvements, such as piping the course and developing additional ground for new holes. The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

President, Thomas Allsopp; vice-president, Herbert W. Taylor; treasurer, Robert Kuebler; secretary, W. H. Dale; financial secretary, E. W. Pierson. A. G. Heller, T. J. Lintott, W. W. Lyons, A. H. Gussman and H. B. Salmon will, with the officers named, constitute the board of governors.

YEAR'S AUTO RECEIPTS AGGREGATED $323,850

J. B. R. Smith, state motor vehicle commissioner, yesterday issued a statement showing that the receipts of his department for the year ending October 1 were $323 880.35, and the expenses of handling the business by all of the agencies throughout the state and in other states did not total quite $40,000.

From December, last year, to October, this year, 27,374 registrations were issued, 3,176 motor cycle licenses, 12,912 tourists' licenses, and 2,517 transfers of licenses.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The attraction at The Plainfield theatre, today and the rest of the week will be Arnold Daly's great success, "The Boys of Company B." This is a military comedy in three acts and is extremely funny throughout. It will be staged under the careful direction of Harry Sedley, and should prove one of the best productions of the season. Harold Mead will take the part of Tony Allan, captain of Co. B, while Miss Ilka Diehl will assume the role of Eileen McLane, the major's daughter. The other parts will be taken in a capable manner by the members of the company. Miss Eleanor Woodruff, who is now a favorite with the patrons of the house; Miss Gloria Gallup and Miss Ada Allen, who are also popular with the audiences, as well as Farrel McKnight, John A. Robb and Walter Wodal, all have excellent opportunities and are sure to give a fine performance. The cast for this production will be enlarged. The presentation of "The Great Divide," yesterday afternoon and evening, was undoubtedly one of the best achievements of the company and every member scored heavily. It gave unmistakable evidence of the ability of the cast to do the highest class work.

HERE AND THERE.

Israel D. TenEyck, one of the oldest residents of this city, while looking through some old papers yesterday found a copy of the fish and game laws for 1881-82; also containing the list of officers for the New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society, several of whom were Plainfielders, and who will be remembered by many residents. The board of Directors comprised James S. Vosseller, Martin W. Schenck, Issac Brokaw, William L. Force, J. W. King, Roderick Robertson, Edward P. Thorn, William B. Dunn, Israel D. TenEyck. These were the following officers: president, James S. Vosseller; secretary, William L. Force; treasurer, William E. Jones; vice-presidents, Fred Volckman, New York; William B. Rankin, Jersey City; William H. Sterling, Plainfield, James R. English, Elizabeth; counsel, William B. Maxson.

FRIEND OF LABOR?

Union labor has not forgotten the denunciation uttered against it by Woodrow Wilson as recently as June 13, 1909. At that time he said:

"You know what the usual standard of the employe is in our day. It is to give as little as he may for his wages. Labor is standardized by the trades unions and this is the standard to which it is made to conform.

"No one is suffered to do more than the average workman can do; in some trades and handicrafts no one is suffered to do more than the least skillful of his fellows can do within the hours allotted to a day's labor, and on one may work out of hours at all or volunteer anything beyond the minimum. I need not point out how economically disastrous such a regulation of labor is. It is so unprofitable to the employer that in some trades it will presently not be worth while to attempt anything at all. He had better stop altogether than operate at an inevitable and invariable loss. The labor of America is rapidly becoming unprofitable under its present regulation by those who have determined to reduce it to a minimum. Our economic supremacy may be lost because the country grows more and more full of unprofitable servants."

Such a statement was not a suddenly formed opinion in the Democratic nominee's mind. More than five years ago, on Feb. 26, 1905, he said in the course of an address: "Labor unions reward the shiftless and incompetent at the expense of the able and industrious." Judging the man by the expression of his convictions, is it not inconsistent for Dr. Wilson to pose as the friend of the union workingman?

PROMINENT DEMOCRATS TO ADDRESS MASS MEETING.

Everybody, including women, is invited to attend the Democratic mass meeting to be held at Reform Hall, tonight at 8 o'clock. James E. Martine, candidate for United States Senator, to succeed John Kean, will preside.

The speakers will be Judge Charles F. Moore, of New York and Virginia; Former Congressman E. W. Leake, of Jersey City; Calvin E. Brodhead, local candidate for the Assembly; TenEyck Beardsley, of Fanwood; and J. O. Stevens, of this city. Speeches will not be over fifteen minutes each, and an entertaining and instructive evening is assured all who attend.

Council Meeting Tonight.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting tonight to take up some matters left over from the last regular session of that body.

LITERARY

One of the most interesting of the many trips into the wilderness made by Ernest Thompson Seton, was a canoe journey of six hundred miles into the practically unknown country of the great Arctic prairies. In the November Scribner he describes his first hunting in "The Land of the Buffalo." It was the prospect of experiencing today some of the romance and glamour of the old Wild West days that attracted him to a country where buffalo may still be found. The first of Sir Arthur Conon Doyle's group of romantic historiacl episodes "Through the Mists," appears in the November number. It gives a highly imaginative and true impression of the religious conditions existing in the fourth century, and of "The Coming of the Huns," a wonderful and terrifying invading host of warriors, "out of the unknown East."

Politics and pants may seem to lack any special literary kinship, but you'll have a fresh point of view when you read the November Everybody's, just out. Emerson Hough discusses the latter in an excruciatingly funny article in which he calls on Congress to take up this subject of universal importance instead of trifling with the petty questions that cumber the deliberations of House and Senate. Frederic C. Howe, in "Choose Your Congressman," goes after the same Congress, by way of one of the most practical, useful political articles published for a long time. He shows voters how they can help clean up Congress this fall, why they should do it, and how we shall all be profited thereby when it is done.

FEDERAL AUTO LICENSES.

A test case in connection with the licensing of automobiles by individual States is now in progress in Maryland, and will undoubtedly be followed with the greatest interest by every man who owns a car. The action was brought by a Washington man to determine the validity of the law which compels a non-resident automobilist to take out a Maryland license. This gentleman was arrested in Maryland recently because he was operating a machine without having observed the formality of securing one of the licenses issued by that State. It is believed that the National Automobile Association is lending him its supoprt, and that the case will be carried to the Supreme Court of the United States.

This paper lately commented on the agreement reached by a number of European countries whereby an automobilist who is properly licensed in his own state may tour through other countries which are parties to the agreement without being compelled to arm himself with a license of the particular country which he may be visiting. This arrangement has greatly simplified the matter of European automobilists, and it is this much-desired end in regard to this country that is being sought in the present proceedings. At present a tourist driving his own car who wishes to visit a number of States scarcely knows "where he is at." The laws of each state are different, and the requirements are so at variance sometimes that a man who really wishes to observe the regulations is often puzzled in finding out when he is proceeding regularly and when he is not.—Philadelphia Inquirier.

MADEIRA EMBROIDERY.

Madeira embroidery, which has become so fashionable in handkerchiefs, low collars, jabots, lingerie and table and bureau sets, as well as in allover embroidered gowns and skirts and jacket suits, is all made in the Madeira Islands, off the western shore of Africa, opposite Morocco. Funchal, the only town of any size, is the port of exportation.

The native workers who produce the exquisite embroidery are paid from 10 cents to 75 cents a day for their labor, the former wage being much nearer the average. Men, women and children work together, sitting on the grass outside their thatch-roofed huts. Thread, material and modern patterns are all supplied to the local houses near Funchal by French and German designers, those two countries being the market for the world of this Madeira work.

SOLILOQUIES OF A BENEDICT.

It stayed in the closet.
It lurked in the wardrobe.
Nobody cared to wear it first.
To sport it or not to sport it, that was the question.

There's no longer any question about this conquering hem.

The deep hem of satin is the most prevalent, matching the shade of the sheer upper drapery.

The upper drapery is as a rule mounted over some soft silk in a lighter shade.

Literal Interpretation.

"Im glad they're going to take the pork barrel out of Congress," said Mrs. Bliggins, who had just returned from the ladies' class in current events.

"Indeed?" said her husband.

"Yes; members of Congress may not be able to economize on their lunches so easily, and they'll give more thought to the cost of living."—Washington Evening Star.

The Air Bath Cure.

The air and sun bath is said to be a preventative of colds. A sunny room is selected, and after the bath a sheet and blanket are wrapped about the person, who then lies down in the sun. After a time the blanket is removed, and then the sheet, and, lying in the sun for twenty minutes, the head only protected, the body is hardened to such an extent that colds are not easily contracted.

the reasons for trained teachers. We must know why we teach and get close to those we teach.

"In some of our Sunday schools the trained teachers are learning such things as child emotion, racial differences and temperaments which brings to the child the religious inheritance to which it is entitled. The truth can be so given to the child that it will be the great guide through its life, and the knowledge of how to accomplish this end can come only through training. If one could have the real vision of what may be accomplished along this line every school would have a teacher training class. Be in dead earnest. Get some one to start the enthusiasm and the thing is done.

"Have a definite arrangement in mind and follow it up. Have the matter so clear in your mind that other people can understand the matter when you explain it. A trained teacher can accomplish double the work and in half the time, thus making a fourfold gain. It is as necessary for you to learn these things as it is for your pastor to keep in touch with the things that are going on about him, and he does this through attending the meetings of pastors. Your teachers ought to hold a meeting every week and do practical work in the Sunday school and the church."

The open conference began at 11:15 to discuss the topic suggested by Mr. Koehler.

M. A. McGrath and Rev. Dr. Anderson form the welfare committee of the First M. E. church.

The following committees were announced by President Thomas B. Lindsay: Nominations, George H. Gabler, Roselle; R. P. Greaves, Elizabeth; A. V. Searing, Jr., Plainfield; A. J. Furber, Rahway, and H. J. Austin, Union. Enrollment: Wellington Moorehouse, Westfield, and A. V. Searing, Jr., Plainfield. Resolutions: Rev. C. C. Wood, Roselle; Rev. Edwin Shaw, Plainfield; Rev. R. Newton Salter, Union, and Guy A. Gordon, Roselle; Auditing: Geo. G. Teller, Cranford, and Arthur M. Crane, Roselle. Delegates to State convention: Rev. S. G. Snowden, Elizabeth, and F. M. Mershon, Rahway. To select next convention place, Rev. S. F. Davis and Elias D. Smith, Elizabeth.

Before the close of the morning session Mr. Koehler demonstrated to the two hundred delegates the necessity of organizing teacher training classes. He said that it would be a splendid thing to have in every Sunday school and urged the establishment of them even if it took a year to do it. He declared that it would be useless to have what are known as normal pupils in the classes unless the teachers were competent to teach and competent teachers could only be obtained through correct training.

Rev. John Y. Broek said that he was heartily in sympathy with the ideas of Mr. Koehler, but it was his opinion it was the teachers' first duty to know the reasons why they are teaching and why they believe what they teach for, unless they have this fundamental principle firmly grasped they could not impress their pupils.

An adjournment was taken shortly after 12 o'clock for luncheon which was served in the basement of the church by the women of the Methodist congregation.

Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, opened the afternoon session with a short devotional service. Reports were read by the secretary-treasurer, G. H. Gabler, and the elementary department by Miss S. A. Valentine, of Elizabeth. Miss Alice B. Hamlin's address on "The Next Step in Gradation" followed. Miss Hamlin said in part:

"Referring to my topic I want to say at the outset that the step has already been taken—intermediate work among children from 13 to 17 years old. This was demonstrated at Asbury Park this summer when the Methodist Sunday schools came together for the purpose of discussing Sunday school work. It is also shown by the great interest that has been aroused all over the State and by the way the graded lessons have been and are being taken up.

"So much has this movement spread among the Sunday schools of the State that the publishers of the graded lessons have had to get out a second edition of their books. In every school where the graded lessons have been introduced the interest in them have caused better attendance and a deeper sense of duty to the school and church.

"I have found that in attempting to get an intermediate class established the greatest difficulty to be overcome is to get the pupils. In many cases the children from 13 to 17 years old jump from the junior to the Bible classes or out of the school and it is to get these interested that we must work and work hard.

"In order to do this effectively I have suggested the building of a retaining wall which should be built like this: First there must be a place for the class to meet. This I will call the keystone of the wall. Next to that the selection of teachers—men for the boys and women for the girls. Last, I would like to see the class graded. Those of 13 years together, those of 14 together and so on. It would make it simpler for the teacher and would create a decidedly greater interest in the pupils themselves."

In the auditorium of the church Miss Hamlin had on exhibition thirty-two forms on each of which was literature devoted to the work of Sunday schools. Eighteen of the forms were devoted to graded work and the others to the general county and State literature. They formed an interesting theme of conversation and discussion.

Other addresses were made by Rev. Milton S. Littlefield and Mrs. W. L. Smith, of East Orange, and J. L. Alexander, of Elizabeth. The evening session will begin promptly at 7:30 with devotional exercises, led by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church.

SLAYER WHO CUT WIFE BACK IN STATE PRISON.

Two deputies from the New Jersey State Prison at Trenton, went to Elizabeth Tuesday afternoon and took back to that institution John Aiken, alias John Allen, the convict who escaped nearly a year ago and who was captured at Elizabethport last Monday night. Aiken was serving a sentence of twenty years for the killing of James J. Corey, Jr., of Elizabeth, a young man whom he stabbed to death in a street quarrel. The prisoner's capture was due, according to the police, to an attempt he made to murder his wife Monday night. The police had no knowledge until then of his being in Elizabeth. The police say he slashed the woman in ten places on her body and face with a razor. At the Elizabeth General Hospital it was said this morning that she would in all probability recover, but will be disfigured for life. A reward of $100 was offered by the officials of the State prison for the capture of the fugitive and this will now be claimed by Patrolmen Searles and Reitman, of the Elizabeth Police Department, who arrested him.

Gave an Autumn Party.

Miss Ruth Martin, of Craig place, gave an autumn party to twenty of her friends, Tuesday night. The parlor and dining room were attractively decorated for the occasion. An informal program of music and recitations was enjoyed. Those present were the Misses Bessie Smith, Grace Townley, Edna Green, Edna Smith, Jennie Sears, Loretta Feller, Emma Mantz, Irene Wadsworth, Dorothy Lee, Emily Pleydell, Helen Ryno, Mildred Smith and Walter Smith, Raymond Becker, Roy Stewart, Russel Lee, Clarence Smith, Warren Townley, Russel Sears and Clifford Causebrook.

Dog Warden's Trouble.

At a hearing in the police court, at Rahway, Tuesday night, Dog Warden Tyndall accused Professor Chaillet and G. A. Brashausen with assaulting him in an endeavor to make him release Professor Chaillet's dog. Miss Martha Chaillet is accused of choking the warden. The dog was landed in the pound. Both sides bring more witnesses at a hearing tonight.

PLAINFIELD VS. BOUND BROOK IN FINAL GAME OF SEASON.

The Plainfield Baseball Club and Bound Brook team will play the last game of the season at Bound Brook, Saturday afternoon. Manager Dorflinger has not announced the name of the twirler, but he will probably be "Jimmy" Montross. He held Bound Brook last aSturday to a few scattering hits and was entitled to a victory. It is believed that he can face the same team this week and win. Otherwise the local lineup will be the same as usual.

Bound Brook will present its regular lineup with Ortlieb and Bruggy in the points. The only change will be a new fielder in place of Fred Nolan, who is off on his wedding trip. The team will miss his batting and superb fielding. The contest will be called at 3:15 and the Plainfield boys wil be accompanied by a big crowd of rooters to cheer the team on to victory.

MRS. L. R. HOWARD RESIGNS AS TREASURER OF HOPE SOCIETY.

Mrs. L. R. Howard, who for the past eight years has been the efficient treasurer of the Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel, resigned yesterday. Mrs. Howard's resignation was accepted with deep regret. To show some slight appreciation of Mrs. Howard's continuous work, the society presented her with a handsome sterling silver toilet set. The surprise was complete and Mrs. Howard made a happy response. The Women's Missionary Society was also present as invited guests. Ice cream and cake were served.

The Ladies' Aid Society elected Mrs. Charles Hughes to succeed Mrs. Howard. The society has arranged to serve suppers on the three nights of the industrial fair, October 26, 27 and 28, and will in other ways assist in making the affair a success.

NEW BOOKS BY PLAINFIELDERS ARE ON SALE AT LOCAL SHOPS.

Another book on sale at the local shops is "Around the Emerald Isle," from the pen of Rev. William C. O'Donnell, formerly pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, but now pastor of a Methodist church in Newark.

Would Be Lewis' Secretary.

In the event of the election of Vivian M. Lewis as Governor it is not improbable that he will name Assemblyman Edward M. Moore, of Passaic, as his private secretary. Mr. Moore is not seeking election to the House and is understood to entertain a lively ambition for the private secretaryship. He is a lawyer and Mr. Moore is spending much of the present campaign touring the State with Mr. Lewis. The Governor's secretary receives a salary of $4,000 per annum.

PRANKS OF CUPID.

Celebrated Men Who Married Their Domestic Servants.

Many celebrated men have married their domestic servants. Sir Henry Parkes, premier of New South Wales, is an example. One night when dining at a friend's house he was struck by the appearance of a servant girl who waited upon the table and persuaded his host to allow her to enter his employ. This she did and for a short time held the position of cook in Sir Henry's household. Then he made her Lady Parkes.

But more illustrious than this is the case of Peter the Great. One day he was dining at the house of Prince Menshikoff. He noticed one of the servant maids particularly, and, though she was not handsome, she caught his fancy. Her name, the prince told the czar, was Martha. She had been a servant in the house of a Lutheran minister of Marienburg, and when that city was captured by the troops of Russia she had been taken prisoner by General Bauer, who had passed her over to the prince, whose servant she was. The count politely made a present of her to the czar, who eventually married her.

William Cobbett, the great writer, when he was only twenty-one years of age, one morning chanced to see a buxom servant girl busily engaged in washing the family linen. The girl was pretty, so Cobbett spoke to her, learned her name and the same evening called upon her parents and said he would like to marry their daughter. The parents of the girl informed the young man that they had no objections to him as their son-in-law, but that he would have to wait until their daughter was of a marriageable age. Five years later Cobbett, true to his early love, married her.

A WEIRD INCIDENT.

Chopin's Funeral March Was Inspired by a Skeleton.

Late one summer's afternoon, said Ziem, Chopin and I sat talking in my studio. In one corner of the room stood a piano and in another the complete skeleton of a man with a large white cloth thrown, ghostlike, about it. I noticed that now and again Chopin's gaze would wander, and from my knowledge of the man I knew that his thoughts were far away from me and his surroundings. More than that, I knew that he was composing.

Presently he rose from his seat without a word, walked over to the skeleton and removed the cloth. He then carried it to the piano and, seating himself, took the hideous object upon his knees—a strange picture of life and death.

Then, drawing the white cloth round himself and the skeleton, he laid the latter's fingers over his own and began to play. There was no hesitation in the slow, measured flow of sound which he and the skeleton conjured up. As the music swelled in a louder strain I closed my eyes, for there was something weird in that picture of man and skeleton seated at the piano, with the shadows of evening deepening around them and the ever swelling and ever softening music filling the air with mystery. And I knew I was listening to a composition which would live forever.

The music ceased, and when I looked up the piano chair was empty, and on the floor lay Chopin's unconscious form, and beside him, smashed all to pieces, was the skeleton I prized so much. The great composer had swooned, but his march was found.

An Empire Sold at Auction.

The Roman empire was once sold to the highest bidder. On the death of Pertinax in 193 the Praetorian guards put up the empire for sale by auction, and after an animated competition between Sulpician and Julian it was knocked down to the latter for 6,250 drachmas. The Romans held auctions of various kinds, the proceedings being much the same in all cases. The auctio sub hasta, which was a sale of plunder, was held under a spear stuck in the ground. The magister auctionis, or auctioneer, was chosen from among the argentarii, or money changers, and his assistants were the cashiers.

Those Little Dishes.

Tommy ate his first meal at a country hotel when he was nine years old, and the experience was an event. He was especially interested in the collection of small, thick dishes containing side orders scattered about his place. When he went home he gave a graphic description of the meal.

"And what do you think, mamma," he concluded, "we ate most of the things out of birds' bathtubs."—Woman's Home Companion.

Clearing Houses.

The function of a clearing house is to enable bankers to exchange drafts, bills and securities, thereby saving much labor and trouble and at the same time curtailing the amount of floating cash that would otherwise be required. By means of the transfer system made possible by the clearing house transactions to the amount of millions are settled easily and expeditiously.

Speech and Writing.

"Many people talk much more agreeably than they write," said the literary person.

"Yes," replied Mr. Owington. "My tailor does that."—Exchange.

An Example.

"The evil that men do lives after them." Even when the amateur cornet player dies he leaves the fatal instrument behind.—London Tit-Bits.

CAPITAL PENALTY

Some Curious Methods of Executing Criminals.

MOROCCO USES THE LASH.

Flogging to Death Is Still In Vogue Among the Moors—Strangulation Is Employed In Austria, and Spain Clings to the Garrote.

There are many curious methods of inflicting capital punishment in the various countries of the old world, some of them tinged with the cruelty of the dark ages.

Morocco is perhaps the most mediaeval country in existence. Flogging to death is still in vogue. It is not so very long ago that Mulai Hafid had the Shereef Kittain executed in this horrible fashion.

The ameer of Afghanistan has peculiar methods of making the punishment fit the crime. A baker, for selling short weight, was roasted in his own oven, and a man who had started a scare that the Russians were advancing on Kabul was placed on a stool fastened on top of a tall pole and kept there on sentry go till he died of sleeplessness and exhaustion.

Political crimes are not uncommon in Persia and the revolutionists, when caught, are dealt with summarily. Four conspirators who were recently caught in the act of throwing a bomb in the crowded bazar at Teheran were hanged and quartered in the same fashion that prevailed in England up to the seventeenth century. The remains of the wretched men were hung at the city gates as a horrible warning.

An Austrian officer convicted of poisoning his superior officers in the attempt to win promotion was sentenced to be strangled.

Austria is the only country which employs this particular method of execution, but Spain's garrote is very similar. The original method of garroting was, in fact, nothing but strangling. The criminal was seated on a chair fixed to a post, a loop of rope was placed encircling his neck and the post, and by means of a stick or cudgel (Spanish "garrote") inserted between the post and the condemned man's neck the cord was tightened until strangulation ensued.

The modern garrote consists of a brass collar containing a sharp pointed screw. The executioner turns the screw, and its point penetrates the spinal marrow, causing instant death.

Every civilized country does its best nowadays to make the dreadful task of execution as rapid and painless as possible. Hanging as at present performed is a very different matter from what it used to be in England.

Till nearly the end of the eighteenth century the condemned man was made to stand in a cart with a rope around his neck, and the cart was then driven away from under him. In 1783 parliament abolished this practice as being too barbarous, and a platform was substituted for the cart. In 1874 this method was improved by proportioning the length of the drop to the weight of the body.

The state of New York inaugurated the electric chair many years ago, but its only advantage over hanging is that the man who switches on the current is out of sight of the death chamber and so escapes the grewsome title of public executioner.

Formerly all criminals in England died by the ax, and undoubtedly the ax in the hands of a skillful headsman was as merciful an instrument of death as any which exist today. In Prussia decapitation by the ax is still the recognized method of execution, but the rest of Germany follows the example of France and uses the guillotine.

Execution had almost become obsolete in France until public sentiment was so aroused by the ever increasing number of brutal murders that in January, 1909, "the widow," as the French term the instrument, was dragged out of its retirement and four miscreants were publicly executed at Bethune, in the north of France.

The guillotine was invented by a doctor named Guillotin more than a century ago, but it is not true that the inventor fell a victim to his own device. He died quietly in his bed. The guillotine consists of two upright posts grooved on the inside. An immensely heavy and sharp steel blade is fixed to slide in these grooves, and the executioner has nothing to do but pull a rope, when the blade drops and decapitates the victim instantly.

There are a few countries where capital punishment has been abolished, notably Switzerland. In Italy also there have been no executions for civil offenses for many years past.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The First Gentleman.

Who was the first "gentleman?" The Prince of Darkness has been pronounced one, but only mortals can fairly count. According to John Bull's rime, there was no gentleman when Adam delved and Eve span. The first of them soon arrived, however, for, according to Dame Juliana Berners, writing upon coat armor in 1486, "Cain became a churl from the curse of God and Seth a gentleman through his father's and mother's blessing." That is to say, Seth was the first man who could boast of "family." Cain having been cast out of the pale, while Abel presumably perished too young.—London Chronicle.

The apparel oft proclaims the man—to be what he is not.

CHAPTER XIX.

BILL'S STAR.

VAL could have laughed aloud as he imagined the old self of a few weeks since—the young and popular officer in the guards self—obeying the beckoning finger of such a man as Jacobus. But he walked toward it like a lamb and was introduced to actors and Mrs. Jacobus (Miss Moon) and Miss de Lisle.

Miss Moon's first sweeping glance at the newcomer was one of self conscious, important condescension; but, seeing that he was an extremely handsome, well dressed young man, with an air and an appearance widely different from the tenth rate actors of her acquaintance, past and present, her face and manner changed.

She was a big woman of forty-two or three, with the splendid ruin of what had been a fine figure. Beside Miss Moon, Bill's "little gal" looked like a tiny fishing boat bobbing under the lee of a large schooner, but she was a pretty creature whose curly hair was naturally almost as golden as it glittered; gray-blue eyes which ought to have been mischievous and merry, but were anxious; a clear, rather freckled white skin and the piquant nose and innocent smile of a child.

These ladies were not dressed as tidily as their best friends might have wished, but Loveland had grown used to Isidora and did not pick flaws lightly. They were both very cordial to him somewhat—it would have seemed—to Mr. Jacobus' contemptuous annoyance, and then, at Miss Moon's suggestion, Ed Binney introduced Mr. Gordon across and down the length of the table to all the other actors and actresses.

The latter were two in number besides Miss de Lisle and Mrs. Jacobus. Miss Ruby St. Claire, whose mission was to act small parts and play the piano, was of the startled fawn order of young female, evidently not long out of amateurhood, and Mrs. Winter, who had passed the age when it was necessary to preserve her maiden name for programs. She was a reserved and suspicious looking woman, who watched her husband with short sidelong glances of anxiety either for his conduct or his health. As for him he was a thin, dejected, gray little man who suffered apparently from a broken heart or a shattered digestion.

The remaining male members of the company were Mrs. Jacobus' two sons, Tom and Bob Eccles. They were between twenty and twenty-five, and like their mother, though one was fat, with the lazy smile of a Buddha, and the other, who through a cast in his eye just missed being handsome, inclined to be truculent.

Loveland had intended to take a chair next his roommate, but Miss Moon made a place for him between herself and Buddha—smiling Bob. As everybody except Jack Jacobus and the Winters talked and joked continually, it was surprising how fast they ate. Nearly every one drank large cupfuls of milky coffee with their dinner, and twenty minutes after beginning the meal all had finished with the exception of Loveland, who was not accustomed to giving his food such short shrift. He rose with the others, however, and a few moments later the company was straggling in a procession to the theater.

But, after all, it was not a theater, and even courtesy gave it no more high sounding name than "hall." It stood at the end of Main street, its brick front wall plastered with wonderful colored posters representing the most sensational scenes in "the human flower's" repertory. To reach the stage it was necessary to mount a long, mud caked staircase and to pass through the auditorium. As for dressing rooms, they did not exist, for it had been a second thought of some light minded town council to turn the hall into a place where theatrical representations might lawfully be produced, but a space on either side of the stage had been curtained off with sheets, shawls and squares of canvas, ingeniously coaxed to hold together. These screens reached unevenly from twenty-four to twelve inches of the floor, and at worst an actor in dressing himself could be seen no higher than the knees unless, perhaps, a too bright light behind the partition might reveal his whole person en silhouette.

Loveland was anxious to talk with the star about her old friend—if not love—Bill Willing, and he had hoped on starting to walk by her side. But Miss Moon, seeing his desire, had instantly frustrated it by calling him and beginning to talk of the part he was about to rehearse. As old Dave Dreadnought he was supposed to curse her with menaces, and he felt that it would not be difficult to do so realistically even in the character of Loveland, but he contrived to listen intelligently, fondly, to the story of her marriage at the early age of [illegible] "I'm not quite sixteen years old [illegible] my eldest son, who is over twenty now," she said and did not look pleased when the juvenile lead found no more tactful comment than an absentminded "Is it possible?"

On the stage he received the short manuscript part of Dave Dreadnought and was allowed to glance it over while the scene of his "dying curse" was being set. He was too inexperienced to remember what in gay, amateur days he had learned of stage directions, and Jacobus was inclined to be sarcastic at his expense, but both Miss Moon and Miss de Lisle, as well as Ed Binney, befriended him. He was called upon also to rehearse the ball scene, where he "walked on" as a young man of fashion and had the privilege of dancing with Miss Moon before dwindling, in the last act, to a mere dead hand. All the "business" had to be repeated again and again until at last he was confident and the stage manager almost hopeful.

At 6 o'clock a meal, which called itself supper, was ready, and, having bolted a cold edition of dinner, eked out with tinned peaches and cups of tea, actors and actresses marched forth in a body to begin the evening's work.

The curtain did not rise until half past 7. But this was Saturday night, and the town was eager for its entertainment. At least a score of persons were seated in the dismal auditorium, munching apples and candy and cracking peanuts, when "the human flower" and her company filed in.

A few little boys on the cheap benches at the back whistled, clapped their hands, stamped on the floor and made "catcalls" as a greeting to the players. But those saluted took no notice and scurried by like hunted things. Miss St. Clare hastened to her seat at the piano, near which an elderly quadroon had already begun to tune a fiddle, and melancholy Mr. Winter remained at the door to help the ticket seller until it should be time for him to "make up" as the heroine's millionaire parent.

The gentlemen of the company (Loveland had already learned that they never spoke of each other as mere "men") dressed behind one partition, the ladies behind another, and the crowding could scarcely have been worse in the "black hole" of Calcutta. Nevertheless every one was more or less good natured. Costumes of a sort and odds and ends of grease paints were offered to Loveland, who, to his own surprise, was shaking and perspiring oddly with stage fright.

"WHAT ROT!"

"What rot!" he roughly scolded himself. "As if an audience in a tenth rate village mattered! What do I care whether or not I know my part or what they think of me?"

But the queer fact remained that he did care, and his heart thumped faster than it had thumped when he was roused one dark night to fight his first battle. He wanted to act well; he wanted to please Lillie de Lisle and to satisfy Ed Binney, who was wishing him luck; he wanted to make a good impression on the pretty bright eyed country girls who had stared at him with interest as he passed through the auditorium.

There were not nearly enough local stage hands employed in the theater, and acting was not the only work the actors had to do. They helped place the scenery and change the settings. They flew about like distracted demons, half dressed, with suspenders flying, turning a burglar's den into a millionaire's dining room, and between the bewildering alterations of scene there was no rest for the sole of any one's foot.

How they ever got themselves out of one costume into another in time, how they ever remembered which of their many doublings came first, which last, Loveland could not conceive; but, standing in the wings waiting for his own dreaded turn, he was filled with an increasing respect for the barnstormers, male and female. They could act, too, most of them, which seemed to him the strangest part of all, for he had not expected to find the satellites of Bill's little star twinkling with the light of talent. As for his own performance, he realized before it had begun that such histronic efforts as had won him applause when an amateur in London would not be good enough to gain him admiration as a professional in Modunk. It was another thing when, as a handsome young soldier, Lord Loveland had swaggered easily about the stage, pleased with himself and pleasing every one else, because every one had come with the intention of being pleased.

Here in remote little Modunk the audience was evidently far more critical, and if it didn't like what it saw it said so audibly with a voice from the cheap seats or at least indulged in a prolonged fit of bored coughing. If Loveland could have gone on "as himself," as Jacobus had said, he might have captured the fancy of the girls, but as old Dave Dreadnought in a wild wig and moth eaten beard lent by Pa Winter the new addition to the company could conquer the audience only by sheer force of acting.

Fortunately for Loveland, he was not obliged to walk on to the stage in answer to a cue or it seemed to him that he could not have moved. It was bad enough to be "discovered" in the act of being murdered, and as the moment came when he would have to make his first speech his blood was beating like a drum in his temples. His throat felt dry, and when his cue to speak was given by Jacobus with meaning emphasis he could only swallow and glare. Not a word of the carefully rehearsed part could he remember, and, involuntarily looking out in front, a thing Ed Binney had warned him not to do, it seemed as if the rows of faces down below the yellow footlights were leaping up at him like a wave.

Just as Jacobus bent over him, frantically glaring, ready to prompt and swear at the same time, Loveland's frozen hesitation melted into words and gestures, the right words, the right gestures. Jacobus sighed a great sigh of thanksgiving, and Val delivered his curse with a transport of zeal. He was half frightened at his own explosiveness, but the audience enjoyed it, and when the curtain went down upon his death there was a round of applause.

Though dead as Dave, it was his business to rise again in the third act as a young man of fashion—a youthful butterfly from an ancient chrysalis—and, drunk with the sweet draft of triumph, he made the change gayly, as happy for the moment as if he were playing before an audience of kings and queens.

He had dressed and was lurking in the wings again, watching with some interest the arrest of the leading man for his (Loveland's) murder on false evidence snakily given by Ed Binney, when Miss de Lisle flitted noiselessly up, very insufficiently disguised as a boy.

"I suppose you do remember that you're a young English Lord?" she whispered anxiously.

Loveland started and stared. Had she found him out?

"In your next scene," she explained.

"Oh," said Loveland, relieved. "Am I—er—a lord?"

"Yes. Didn't Jacobus tell you? But perhaps he thought it didn't matter."

"It doesn't seem to," retorted Val, smiling faintly at his own hidden meaning.

"You're supposed to be the son of the Duke of Highgate. Pa Winter's the duke, you know. Of course, though, you haven't seen the whole play yet, only your own scenes, so you can't keep track of everything. You have only to walk on, or, rather, waltz on with Miss Moon, you know. And when she goes off and I come on in girl's clothes again you must say, 'The next is mine, I believe,' with an English drawl. But the part's down on the program as 'Lord William Vane.'"

"By Jove! I know Willy Vane. He's in the Black Wa"— began Loveland, but he bit his lip and broke off abruptly.

"The human flower" laughed. "I don't suppose your friend's a lord, though."

Loveland did not reply as the choice lay between a fib and an affirmative.

"You ought to know how lords behave more than any of us," went on the girl, "as you're an Englishman. I suppose you've seen some?"

"Yes, a few," said Val cautiously.

"Were they very haughty?"

"Not all of them."

"Well, as you've seen them you'll know just how to act, and you look real swell. Perhaps you'd rather watch Jack Jacobus' big scene than talk to me. I have to go, anyhow, in about four minutes."

"I'd rather talk to you than watch if you'll let me because I have a message for you from an old friend of yours that I've been wanting to tell you all day," Loveland began hastily, not to waste one of the four minutes. "I wonder if you remember him—Bill Willing?"

"Bill Willing—a friend of yours?" The girl spoke sharply in her surprise.

"Then you haven't forgotten him."

"Forgotten him? I never will to my dying day."

Her voice quivered a little, for, like most actresses of her type, her emotions were as easily played upon as harp strings.

"Those are almost the words he used about you," said Loveland, interested in Lillie's part of the broken love melody as he had been in Bill's, "only his were stronger."

"What were they—exactly?"

"Shall I tell you really?"

"Yes; quick, quick!"

"He said he always had loved you and always would love you till his dying day."

"Oh!" Lillie de Lisle gulped down a small sob. "I thought he'd forgotten all about me long, long ago. He never wrote."

"No; he told me he didn't dare, or something like that, but he couldn't resist sending a message by me."

"If you knew what it is to me to hear from him again! How in the world did you meet him?"

But that was a long story, and before Loveland could begin to sketch it "the human flower" heard her cue. With professional instinct she darted out of the entrance on to the stage and took up her part as if she had thought of nothing else since she laid it down.

It was not until the end of the third act that there was the smallest chance to continue the talk so suddenly broken short. Loveland had to change back again into the beard, wig and blood stained clothes of murdered Dave Dreadnought in order to appear as a ghost and wave his dead hand under the remorseful villain's nose, but this act of retribution was reserved for the end of the play; therefore, encouraged by Lillie, Val stood half concealed in the shadow of some disused scenery talking of Bill to Bill's star.

He told her of Bill's dog, Shakespeare, the tiny creature "who made up a bit for the lost 'little gal.'" He told her how Bill generally contrived to put aside a dime each week to buy a stage paper, solely in the hope of finding news of her. He described Bill's delight at hearing that she had become a "star," with her own company, and explained how it was by Bill's wish and advice that he had written to ask for his present engagement.

"If only it was my company, really," sighed the poor little star, "wouldn't I just send for Bill to come out? But I haven't got any more say than the property man, and 'J. J.' used to hate Bill, because—because he was jealous. You see, that was before Jacobus married. Oh, since you're a friend of Bill's and he told you he cared about me I can talk to you as if I'd known you forever. If Bill had asked me to marry him I would in a minute. But he never did. I wasn't sure he ever really cared till what you said tonight. He was the best man I ever knew."

"I'm not sure he isn't the best I ever knew, too," said Loveland.

"I'd have sooner begged with him than be a queen with a crown on my head if he wasn't the king!" sighed Miss de Lisle. "Don't you feel that way, too, about love?"

"Yes," Loveland answered. "I didn't always, but then I used not to understand."

"It's too late now," Bill's star went on. "We shall never see each other again."

The words echoed in Loveland's head: "Too late now. We shall never see each other again."

"The human flower's" thoughts were far away with Bill Willing. But at least she knew where he was and was sure that he loved her, while Val did not even know the name of the place near Louisville where Lesley Dearmer lived, and he was sure that she did not love him. Yes, he was sure of that, though perhaps there was a time, he told himself, when he might have made her care.

Instead of trying to win her when he had the chance he had asked her advice about the best way of making love to other girls. Oh, he deserved all he had got, he thought with sudden fury—all—even to being a waiter at Alexander's and a leading juvenile under the management of "J. J."

CHAPTER XX.

A MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

"GORDON, come to our room directly after dinner. I want to talk to you," said Miss Moon. "Not a word to any one, mind."

She spoke in a low voice, with an air of mystery, stopping Loveland on the stairs and then passing with a significant look and a finger on her lips as a door shut sharply somewhere above.

It was only a week that day since he had joined the company, but the longest week of his life, save one. Already the time when he had not been a barnstorming country actor seemed distant. He was "old man" or "dear boy," with all the men except Jacobus, and "Gordon" with the actresses.

If Lesley Dearmer were an actress and it were her company instead of Lillie de Lisle's, he said to himself, how happy he could be in spite of all hardships. Always she seemed near, always she was in his thoughts, but perhaps this was partly because some one had mentioned incidentally that Ashville, where the company was playing now, lay only about thirty miles from Louisville.

Somewhere near Louisville she lived, and if he were Lord Loveland, with money in his pocket, even a little money, instead of being just a strolling actor named Gordon, with two suits of clothes to his back, he would have tried his hardest to find her. How she must have laughed at his fallen pride and the wildly farcical things such merry humorists as Tony Kidd had doubtless put into the papers! He had become a mere figure of fun for America and therefore for Lesley Dearmer, who had never been a respecter of persons, and the fear that "the human flower's" company might play at Louisville had been hot in his mind until Ed Binney reassured him. Louisville was not for the "likes of them." Soon they would be out of Kentucky, and he had written to Bill Willing, asking him to send on any mail to Bonnerstown, Mo. Now Miss Moon's mysterious summons gave him an uneasy moment.

He had supposed that his acting was satisfactory and had worked hard over the learning and rehearsing of his parts, seldom getting to sleep before 5 in the morning, then dropping off with a manuscript in his hand as well as in his head. But what if Miss Moon meant to break the news that "J. J." thought he could not act well enough and that he must expect his discharge?

Immediately after the meal he went upstairs and knocked at the door of Mr. and Mrs. Jacobus' room. The stage manager and his wife were both there, Jacobus smoking in sulky silence, which he broke only with a grunt by way of greeting for the "juvenile lead." But Miss Moon made up in cordiality for her husband's coldness.

"HE SAYS YOU'LL BLAB IT."

"Mr. Jacobus is cross with me," she announced coquetishly, "about you."

"About me?" Loveland repeated, puzzled and vaguely uncomfortable.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

E. E. Parvin will lead the prayer meeting in Hope chapel, tonight. The services next Sunday, morning and evening, will be in charge of Kenneth Miller.

Rev. E. R. Brown, of Dunellen, will speak at the Plainfield Rescue Mission meeting, tonight at 8 o'clock and tomorrow night, Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, of this city, will make an address. There will be special music and the public is invited.

Rev. Dr. Frederick W. Hagar, assistant pastor to Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton, at the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, was in charge of the mid-week prayer-meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night. His remarks were very helpful. Rev. Gabriel R. Maguire, pastor also had a part in the service.

RAY BUSH PACKER CELEBRATES SIXTH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Ray Bush Packer, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Packer, of 1018 West Front street, entertained a number of his playmates yesterday afternoon in honor of the sixth anniversary of his birthday. The children had a jolly time playing games. Vera Flynn and Julia Flynn, daughters of Detective-Sergeant and Mrs. John Flynn, won the first and booby prizes. Refreshments were served during the afternoon and each guest received a favor. Master Packer received a number of beautiful birthday gifts.

Those present were Marion Kister, Bernice Kister, Helen Babcock, Florence Goodenough, Emile Goodenough, Grace Flynn, Vera Flynn, Mary Flynn, Julia Flynn, Mellie Clark, Mrs. A. E. Force, Mrs. F. F. Kister and Brucie Force, Edward Flynn, Ray Bush Packer, Howard Williams, Clifford Williams, James Phillips.

P. H. S. NOTES.

A "special work day" has been planned for the pupils of the P. H. S. that fall below in any special subject. The day chosen is the second Friday in each month and that entire day will be devoted to the object.

Miss Clara Newman and John Uhler won the mixed doubles, tennis finals, yesterday afternoon, by defeating Miss Day and Edson Woodhull, 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.

The play "The Thief in the House," which is to be given as the second part of the P. H. S. minstrel show, will be presented by the following boys: Nelson Ramsey, Roy Titsworth, Sidney Karr, Sewell Ulrich, B. Berse and Burnett Doane.

A science club will be formed at P. H. S. today and it will be of special interest to the pupils in chemistry and physics. All pupils interested in scientific subjects may join.

Rev. M. V. Williams Will Preach.

Rev. M. V. Williams, of Athens, Pa., who is to conduct a three weeks' revival in Plainfield, will preach in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, Sunday morning. In the evening the three Methodist churches will all rally at Monroe Avenue church and begin the series of special meetings, with an enthusiastic union service, which will probably crowd the West End church to its utmost capacity.

BOROUGH REPUBLICANS WILL HOLD A BIG RALLY TONIGHT.

The borough Republicans have completed arrangements for a big mass meeting to be held at their headquarters, 82 Somerset street, tonight at 8 o'clock. Former Mayor Charles Place will preside and the speakers will include Assemblyman W. W. Smalley, Herman Moosebrugger, candidate for Assembly; Robert Kay, candidate for sheriff, and others.

State and local issues will be discussed in an intelligent manner and every voter is invited, as well as the women, for whom seats will be reserved.

Delegates to Boys' Conference.

Collins H. Case, Frank Dunning, George H. Leighs, Schuyler Line, Raymond Manley, James McNamee, C. Walter Scribner and C. William Bingeman will represent the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. at the State conference for boys to be held at Madison, October 21-23, inclusive. The program is an especially strong one, including addresses by prominent religious workers in all parts of the country.

P. J. FitzGibbon Stricken.

P. J. FitzGibbon, senior member of the firm of FitzGibbon and Crisp, the Trenton carriage and wagon manufacturers, was stricken with apoplexy Monday and is in a serious condition. His firm built the Plainfield patrol wagon and several pieces of apparatus in the fire department. Mr. FitzGibbon is an intimate friend of Chief T. O. Doane and word of his condition was received by the latter yesterday.

Union Missionary Meeting.

The first Union meeting of the Women's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the East Association of New Jersey will be held on Friday, Oct. 21, at the Bergen Baptist church, corner of Madison and Clinton avenues, Jersey City. The morning session will be at 10:30 and the afternoon session at 1:45. There will be interesting exercises and addresses. This is a basket luncheon.

P. H. S. Tennis Championship.

The P. H. S. tennis tournament was completed yesterday, when Miss Neuman and Miss Gates defeated Miss Butler and Miss Phillips for the championship by a score of 6-4, 5-7, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4. The prizes for the winners of the boys and girls' singles will be silver cups and for the doubles and mixed doubles, bronze medals.

"How to Secure Obedience."

"How to Secure Obedience" will be the subject of the second talk which Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains, will deliver to the mothers of Plainfield, at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. This lecture as well as all others in the series will be free and all mothers of boys are cordially invited.

H. K. Carroll Gives Address.

In commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Sanford Street Methodist church, East Orange, a week's services have been devoted to the celebration of the silver anniversary of the founding of the parish. Last night H. K. Carroll, of this city ,took part, giving an address on "A Tour of South America."

Mrs. Maguire Will Speak.

Among the speakers at the union meeting of the Woman's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the East Association of New Jersey to be held tomorrow at the Bergen Baptist church, Jersey City, Mrs. G. R. Maguire, of this city, will be one of the speakers at the afternoon session.

Proctor's New Bill.

Jack E. Magee & Co., will present a "big time" sketch, "The Strike Breaker," at Proctor's theatre, today and the rest of the week. White's comedy mules; Robert Chasame & Co., in a hagical act and Farley & Prescott, singers and dancers complete the bill.

Both Accuser and Judge.

Judge Atwater in the Common Pleas court yesterday set aside the conviction of Michael Amadeo, who was sentenced by Justice of the Peace Parker, of Berkeley Heights, to ninety days' imprisonment for disorderly conduct. The squire acted as accuser and judge. J. Henry Crane was counsel for Amadeo.

AMBASSADORS.

They Enjoy Some Curious Privileges at European Courts.

In the popular mind the American mind at least—there is very little difference between an ambassador and a minister, but the former is entitled to very many privileges abroad that are denied to a mere envoy.

For instance, one curious privilege of an ambassador is that he, and he alone, when dismissed, may turn his back to the sovereign to whose court he is accredited. The mode of procedure, generally speaking, is as follows:

When the audience is at an end the ambassador waits to be dismissed by the sovereign. When dismissed the ambassador bows, retires three paces, bows again, retires three paces, bows a third time, turns on his heels and walks to the folding doors. But when the reigning sovereign is a woman, still politer methods obtain. To turn his back would be discourteous; to walk backward would be to resign a privilege; therefore the ambassador retires sideways like a crab. He keeps one eye on the sovereign and with the other he endeavors to find the door. By this unique means he contrives to evince all politeness to the sovereign and at the same time retain one of his privileges.

Another privilege of ambassadors is the right of being ushered into the royal presence through folding doors, both of which must be flung wide for him. No one save an ambassador can claim this privilege, the most any non-ambassadorial individual can expect is that one of the doors shall be opened to him.

One privilege appertaining to the ambassador, one capable of causing great inconvenience to the ruler, is the right of demanding admission to the sovereign at any hour of day or night. This was one of the reasons why Abdul Hamid, when sultan of Turkey, opposed the raising of our mission at Constantinople to an embassy. It was decidedly inconvenient at times to see the American representative at all.

To the European the most important feature of the ambassador's makeup is his sword. There the blade of the sword is a rapier blade with the point blunted. It has been facetiously observed abroad that the use the sword is put to in addition to its trick of tripping up its wearer is usually the harmless one of poking fires. One diplomatist was said to file his bills on his sword when it was not otherwise engaged, and for a long while it was a standing witticism of the corps diplomatique in Europe that the Russian ambassadors used their swords to file broken treaties, a circumstance that was held to account for the inordinate length of their weapons.—Harper's Weekly.

Emmet's Presence of Mind.

A story is told of Robert Emmet which proves his secretive power and resolution. He was fond of studying chemistry, and one night late, after the family had gone to bed, he swallowed a large quantity of corrosive sublimate in mistake for some acid cooling powder. He immediately discovered his mistake and knew that death must shortly ensue unless he instantly swallowed the only antidote, chalk. Timid men would have torn at the bell, roused all the family and sent for a stomach pump. Emmet called no one, made no noise, but, stealing down stairs and unlocking the front door, went into the stable, scraped some chalk which he knew to be there and took sufficient doses of it to neutralise the poison.

Queen Elizabeth's Amulet.

Queen Elizabeth during her last illness wore around her neck a charm made of gold which had been bequeathed to her by an old woman in Wales, who declared that so long as the queen wore it she would never be ill. The amulet, as was generally the case, proved of no avail, and Elizabeth, notwithstanding her faith in the charm, not only sickened, but died. During the plague in London people wore amulets to keep off the dread destroyer. Amulets of arsenic were worn near the heart. Quills of quicksilver were hung around the neck and also the powder of toads.

No Swelling at All.

"I see not one ripple on the water. All is calmness," said the little German lady, looking out dreamily over the quiet sea. "I haf crossed the ocean when it was calm like this all the way over."

"Do you mean that there was no swell even in midocean?" asked her companion, who had never crossed at all.

"No, no swelling at all," was the reply.—New York Press.

Wherein They Differ.

Jack—Widows are wiser than maids in one respect at least. Tom—What's the answer? Jack—They never let a good chance go by, thinking that a better one will come their way.—Chicago News.

In Mitigation.

Judge—Hoss thief, you're found guilty by th' jury. Have y' anything to say as to why I shouldn't soak y' th' limit? Prisoner—Well, judge, it wasn't your hoss I stole.—Cleveland Leader.

Well Qualified.

"Why do you apply for a position as boss of this gang? Have you ever had any experience?"

"Bossed my son after he grew up."—Buffalo Express.

UNION S. S. ASS'N ELECTS

County Organization Selects Thomas B. Lindsay as its President.

R. E. DIFFENDORFER SPEAKS.

Next Annual Convention to Be Held at Atlantic City—Superintendents Are Appointed.

The concluding session of the Union County Sunday school convention came to a close last night with the benediction pronounced by Rev. S. G. Snowden, of Elizabeth. Devotional exercises were led by Rev. Dr. Goodell, pastor of the Roselle Baptist church; reports of committees were read and an address delivered by R. E. Diffendorfer, of New York. The choir of the First Methodist church, where the convention was held, sang an anthem. In the afternoon the various conferences of the different departments took up the time until supper was announced at 6 o'clock. The luncheon and supper were furnished by the women of the various Sunday schools in the city.

Mr. Diffendorfer's address was an allegorical word picture of the possibilities in militant missionary work and held the interest of the large gathering throughout. He said that the present attitude of the church towards missionary work was a problem which would have to be solved through the application of the spirit of patriotism which predominates every nook and cranny of this great country. He instanced the great change which has come over a certain church in Baltimore, where there has been created an atmosphere of great desire for missionary work through the simple process of watching the immigrants arriving at that port

Taking China as a possible field of conquest he showed how quickly the men of the United States would flock to the standard of the flag in event of a war with that country, but drew a picture of what is happening whenever the call to arms for the Christian warfare is made. The response does not equal the demand. The causes of patriotism were shown on the blackboard as an object lesson. They were shown to be: First, the public schools; then successively the salute to the flag, patriotic songs ,observance of holidays, pictures of national heroes, great events, the lure of pictures, stories of heroes, patriotic programs, commemorative objects, visits of public officials and soldiers, and finally the encouragement in the home. All these contribute to the making of patriots. This energy turned into missionary work would conquer any nation now outside the pale of the knowledge of God.

State Secretary L. H. Koehler announced the State convention of the Sunday School Association for November 15 to 17 at Atlantic City. Resolutions were adopted covering the work of the schools throughout the county and approving the splendid progress being made. The use of the graded system of teaching was commended; Bible class organization recommended and the thanks of the convention extended to the women of the Plainfield Sunday schools for the splendid entertainment given at luncheon and dinner.

Resolutions of sympathy for Rev. Andrew Henry and his wife, who are both ill and unable to actively engage in the work, were read as was also the resolution thanking Mrs. A. W. Karnell, of Union, for her faithful services in managing the Home department. Mrs. Karnell resigned and her place will be filled by John H. Manning, of Plainfield.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Thomas B. Lindsay, of Rahway; first vice-president, Rev. John Y. Broek, of Plainfield; second vice-president, Rev. C. E. Goodall, of Roselle; third vice-president, O. A. Glazebrook, of Elizabeth; corresponding secretary, George H. Gabler, of Westfield; recording secretary, Rev. S. G. Snowden, of Elizabeth.

The superintendents for the various departments are: Home, John H. Manning; elementary, Sue A. Valentine, Elizabeth; adult Bible class, James F. Johnston, Westfield; teacher training, Rev. C. C. Woodruff, Rahway; evangelistic work, J. V. Ellison, Elizabeth; missionary teaching (new), Henriette Halloway, Plainfield; intermediate, Miss Beulah H. Day, Elizabeth. Sixty-one delegates were named to attend the convention at Atlantic City in November. The convention for Union county will be held next year at St. James' M. E. church, Elizabeth. Rev. S. G. Snowden, of Elizabeth, was appointed a member of the nominating committee at the State convention.

The enrollment committee announced that 339 delegates and visitors were present at the sessions yesterday and last night. Among these

MISS FRANCES MUNDY JOHN C. ABBOTT'S BRIDE

Miss Frances Adelia Mundy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mundy, of Park avenue, and John C. Abbott, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott, of West Front street, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Gardner, of New Market, Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, of this city, former pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church, performing the ceremony.

Those present to witness the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott, parents of the groom; Mr. Mundy, brother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mundy, parents of the bride. After the ceremony the couple left on a trip and upon their return will reside on Carlton avenue, where the groom has erected a fine new home, which is completely furnished.

Mr. Abbott has resided in this city many years and has been engaged in the contracting business with his father under the firm name of John Abbott & Son.

MOOSE LODGE HOLDS AN ENJOYABLE SMOKER

Plainfield lodge, No. 310, Loyal Order of Moose, held an enjoyable smoker and entertainment in its rooms in Knights of Columbus hall, last night. Dictator Joseph Harrington was in charge and under his able management the jollification ball was kept rolling all evening.

The ruling was made that everyone present had to contribute to the program and the serious efforts of some of the less talented made all the more fun for the rest. Some of the best numbers were given by Jas. Conroy, John Vardon, John Green, Charles Holstein and Thomas Parsons. Refreshments in abundance were distributed during the evening.

The committee of arrangements for the affair comprised Joseph Harrington, Thomas Parsons and James McCarthy.

TWO BROTHERS WALKING ACROSS THE CONTINENT

Two brothers, Ernest and Harry Lee, of Charlotte, N. C., passed through this city this morning about 9:30 o'clock on their way to San Antonio, Texas. The young men are walking the distance which is approximately 2,500 miles. They expect to finish the long jaunt in about four months.

They told an interesting story this morning when they presented their book at police headquarters to get it vised by the chief. They have been on the road for a month and look healthy as they say they are. Their total capital when they reached here was one cent, having spent some of their coppers on paying their own and a young woman's way across the ferry at an early hour. They are paying their way by painting signs for anyone who wants that work done and refuse all offers of charity. On their arrival at the Texas city they will go into business. Their reason for taking the trip on foot is that they want to see the country.

Their walk will take them through this State Pennsylvania, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas and Louisiana. They may vary this route if the weather does not become too cold, in that event they will pass through Ohio and Illinois, stopping at Chicago for a day or two. The two young men left Jersey City this morning before daybreak and arrived here at 9 o'clock.

JOY RIDER MUST PAY FOR DAMAGES TO AUTOMOBILE

In the District court before Judge William Newcorn, yesterday morning H. W. Stover, of West Sixth street, recovered a judgment for $117.80 against William Banks, colored, for damages to the former's automobile sustained in a joy ride alleged to have been conducted by Banks on April 26, of this year. Francis J. Blatz appeared for Mr. Stover and there was no defense.

At the time of the occurrence Judge William N. Runyon put Banks under $500 bonds to await the action of the grand jury. It was said that Banks took out Mr. Stover's car while under the influence of liquor and in the ride which followed the machine was badly damaged.

Will Consider "Morality and Health."

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield will hold its next meting, Monday afternoon, November 14, when the subject will be "Morality and Health," to be discussed by a member of the Public Health Education Committee.

EXTEND THREE STREETS

No One Objectsing City Fathers Order the Improvements to be Made.

BOTCH OF ROUTINE BUSINESS.

Sidewalks Must be Laid in Thirty Days or City Will Do Work at Property Owners' Expense.

The rules were suspended during the adjourned meetng of the Common Council last night by request of Mr. Gloak, to grant public hearings on the ordinances to open and lay out a portion of Denmark road; Lyman place from West Third street to Astor place, and Astor place from Clinton avenue to Hunter avenue. No one appeared to speak for or against the proposed improvements and later these ordinances were adopted on third and final readings without a dissenting vote.

Regarding the proposed opening and extension of Kensington avenue, Mr. Gloak explained that it had been impossible to get notices for a public hearing to all of the affected property owners in time for this meeting, and acting upon the advice of Corporation Counsel Marsh the resolution fixing last night as the time for treating with property owners was reconsidered and rescinded and will be taken up at some future meeting.

Returning to the regular order of business, the clerk read a communication from the Board of Trade containing the sugges ed improvements in the fire department, as previously published in The Daily Press. The communication was filed.

The Blaisdell Machine Company, of New York, the lowest bidder for the installation of the pumping station in connection with the sewer extension, asked that its bid might be allowed to stand, even though it appeared to be irregular as to form. The company explained that it made its bid according to a printed form usually followed. At the request of the members, Street Commissioner Gavett explained that Corporation Counsel Marsh had advised that the bid was irregular and could not be considered.

Mr. Gloak then made a motion, which was passed, that the checks of all bidders, except those of Joseph D. O'Rourke & Co., and Blackhall & Baldwin Co., which were the lowest bidders for installing the pumping station, be returned. The street committee will consider these two lowest bids and report at the next regular meeting.

Resolutions offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted, authorized the clerk to issue the customary notices to property owners who have failed to lay sidewalks and in case they do not heed these notices within thirty days the city will do the work and charge the cost to the property owners.

Just before the meeting adjourned Mr. Mygatt discovered that the clock was missing. He then moved that the committee on laws and ordinances be instructed to find the timepiece. President Toles, in replying to Mr. Mygatt, humorously remarked: "There is no tick here."

The Public Service Corporation, electric department, reported the installation of three new lights as recently ordered.

LINEN SHOWER SURPRISE FOR MISS MINNIE HAHN.

Miss Minnie Hahn, of East Second street, was tendered a surprise linen shower last night, the affair being arranged by and held at the home of Miss Kennena Hansen, also of East Second street. Miss Hahn, whose engagement to Alfred W. Dunavan, was announced recently, was completely surprised, not having the slightest intimation of the affair.

A novel and artistic idea was adopted for the shower. A miniature dirigible airship was constructed from two ordinary peach baskets, the open ends meeting in the centre, giving the cigar-shaped dirigible the shape of those used by Walter Wellman and Santos Dumont. This was covered by green and white crepe paper. Suspended from this was a basket containing a steering wheel in charge of "Cupid." This was complete with propellers and rudder. The cargo comprised beautiful linen, which, at the proper time, was presented to Miss Hahn.

Supper was then served in the dining-room, which was attractively decorated in green and white. Covers were laid for sixteen. Among the guests were Miss Frances Angerbauer and Miss Estelle Neu, of Jersey City. Miss Hann and Mr. Dunavan received the congratulations of all present and the whole affair was a delightful one.

JR. O. U. A. M. CONVENTION

State Session of Order to be Held in Trenton Next Wednesday.

DELEGATES FROM PLAINFIELD.

Increase in Membership in New Jersey Over 4,000, Making Total Membership 56,000.

There is a great deal of interest among local members of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics concerning the State convention which will be held in Trenton next Wednesday. It will be the forty-first annual session and several questions of importance will be discussed. Plainfield's four councils, Somerset, Benevolent, Plainfield and Franklin, will all be represented.

Great interest is centred in the next State councillor. There are six candidates for this one position. The Rev. George Harker, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Holly Beach; Dr. E. L. Hand, of New Egypt, and Frank Muta, of Bridgeton, are the favorites. Most of the candidates for positions at this session are from South Jersey.

One of the important changes at this session will be in the number of State officers. The junior State past councillor will be dropped and a warden and conductor will be added.

Although the business meetings will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building in Trenton, the headquarters of the convention will be at the Trenton House.

Reports at this convention will show an increase in membership of over 4,000, making the total membership 56,000 approximately. There has been a gain of 500 in Elizabeth alone during the past year.

Tuesday the nineteenth session of the Funeral Benefit Association will be held in Trenton and will be attended by 250 delegates.

Y. M. C. A. ORCHESTRA GIVES A FINE CONCERT

An unusually fine program of music attracted a large audience to Y. M. C. A. hall last night. The occasion was the thirty-ninth concert of the orchestra of which Martin A. Korff is leader. A series of encores rewarded the musicians from the beginning to the end of the concert. Apparently the people are music hungry after the long summer season and they showed their appreciation of the good things provided by Mr. Korff by frequent and hearty applause.

Of the fifteen numbers given Eilenberg's German Patrol, an old favorite, was perhaps the best rendered of the orchestral work, while the soloists, D. Lawson, trombone, J. Emery, cornet, and Mr. Naylor's French horn playing were ahead of anything yet done by them. Mrs. E. S. Washburn, mezzo soprano, sang acceptably twice. A silver collection was taken.

Program—March, "Kaiser Frederick," Friedmann; overture, "Queen of the Nile," Alleter; Barcarolle, from "Tales of Hoffmann," Offenbach; solo, mezzo soprano, "Faust, Le Parlate D'Amor," (Siebel), Gounod, Mrs. Edwin S. Washburn, Ida Randolph Smalley at the piano; Cantilena, D. Lawson, trombone, and orchestra. "Calm as the Night," Bohm; intermezzo, "Dance of the Harlequins," Losey; romantic song, J. Emery, cornet and orchestra, "Evening Star," Wagner; German Patrol, (characteristic), Guardmount, Eilenberg.

Part Two—Aria from "Xerxes," Largo, Handel; dance, Hungarian, No. 2, Brahms; solo, French Horn, Mr. Naylor, "In the Morning," Seb. Mayr; solo, mezzo soprano, "Sing On," Denza, Mrs. Washburn; dance, Mexican, "Paquita," Robyn; valse de concert, "Queen of Roses," A. Weidt; military march, "The Masterstroke," Bodewalt-Lampe.

Corner Stone Has Arrived.

The corner stone for the St. Joseph's new church in the borough, which came from Ireland, has arrived in Plainfield and is now at Bartle's stone yard being trimmed and put in shape. It is the gift of Father Miller's mother to the church, and will be laid with imposing ceremonies on Thanksgiving Day.

Maryland Suppers Are Popular.

Maryland suppers are now being served at the Plainfield Country Club, by Superintendent John Hilton and they are proving to be as popular as ever. Arrangements have been made for several dinner parties to be given at the clubhouse, tomorrow night, following the day's play on the links.

RICHES FOR Y. M. C. A.

One Million Dollars to Help the Asociation in Foreign Lands.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE.

Announcement Made at Meeting Addressed by President Taft in Washington, D. C.

At the international conference of the Young Men's Christian Association held in the East room of the White house in Washington yesterday, contributions amounting to $1,000,000, for the wide-world expansion of Y. M. C. A. work were announced from J. D. Rockefeller, John Wanamaker, Cleveland P. Dodge, S. W. Woodward and others. Mr. Rockefeller contributed $540,000 on condition that a like amount be subscribed. An immediate start was made to get a like amount from those present and nearly the whole amount was subscribed. Mr. Wanamaker offered to erect another building in China in addition to the five other foreign association buildngs given by him.

Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, of East Front street, was among the delegates from Plainfield. President Taft who addressed the gathering, said in part:

"The Young Men's Christian Association has demonstrated its usefulness throughout the United States, and we know what we are talking about when we speak of it as an instrument for the elevation of any community in which it is established Those of us who have looked into it know its practical value. In these days of an innate desire for improvements, voiced in eloquence and in stirring periods, the danger that we encounter is in having that feeling go off in smoke because we do not get down to details and practical methods of doing things.

"We are a rich nation, and upon us, because we are a rich nation, is the responsibility of using those riches not only for home, missions but for the encouragement of people of all nations. I do not think that money contributed to foreign Young Men's Christian Associations is going to take away any money that would be contributed to home missions. The truth is I have found that the same sources usually furnish money to both causes. In going into a community where you wish to further a good cause you take up a list of the names and there are always a dozen names that head the list, and if you look further down you generally find some new convert to the view that they ought to contribute their money generously.

Among other gifts recorded were: Cleveland P. H. Dodge, of New York, who pledged funds for two buildings in the Levant; S. W. Woodward, of Washington, $35,000 for a building at Kobe, Japan; James Stokes and an unknown donor, $100,000 for a building at Moscow; John Penman, of, Paris, Ont., $50,000 for a building at Hankow, China; John W. Ross for the Montreal Y. M. C. A., $40,000 for a building at Canton, China; Dupont Clarke, jr., funds for a building at Bangalore, China, and citizens of Buffalo, $35,000 for buildings at Tokyo.

MANY FRIENDS ATTEND THE FUNERAL OF MISS MORRIS.

The funeral service of Miss Frances Ruth Morris, aged 18 years, niece of J. B. Forster, of Forster place, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Church of the Heavenly Rest. There was a large attendance of friends, including many young people, who was associated with Miss Morris in the church work. Rev. C. H. Mallery, rector, and Rev. Charles Townsend, Jr., of Bordentown, former rector, were in charge of the service, during which two hymns were sung, "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "There is a Blessed Home."

There were many beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends, including several from the church societies. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers were John Hallard, Claude Borden, Samuel Kriney, Charles Ludgate, David Sutton and Alfred Becker.

Booklet on Plainfield.

James J. Finnerty, physical culture instructor, has gotten out a neat and handy pamphlet, "Plainfield, the City Beautiful." It contains an abundance of information about the community as well as a complete directory of business houses, professional men and tradesmen. It is well illustrated

—P. K. Dilts and family, of 174 Duer street, will remove November 1 to 95 Jackson avenue, and J. W. K. Clark and family, of 142 Duer street, will occupy the residence at 174 Duer street, after November 1.

TENNIS CHAMPION IS SUING FOR A DIVORCE

Alleging that his wife, Mrs. Maysie Bruce Cragin, deserted him without just cause a little more than two years ago, William B. Cragin, of Truell Hall, one time national indoor tennis champion, has applied to the Court of Chancery, through Day & Day, of which T. M. Day is a member, for a divorce.

The petition states that Mr. and Mrs. Cragin were married November 20, 1901, in the Rutgers Presbyterian church, Seventy-third street and Broadway, Manhattan, by Rev. Dr. Halsey. They lived together until October 12, 1908, since which time Mrs. Cragin has been making her home with her uncle, James McDonald, a wealthy banker, who lives at 27 West Seventy-fourth street, Manhattan, and who has a summer home at Ewing, this State.

Mr. and Mrs. Cragin have one child, Marguerite, born February 22, 1907. This child the mother has with her. Papers in the divorce suit were served on Mrs Cragin at Ewing.

J. J. CARROLL TO SPEAK AT REPUBLICAN RALLY

All the municipal candidates of the party will be on the platform at the Republican rally to be held at Reform hall on Monday night at 8 o'clock. Mayor Charles J. Fisk will act as chairman and will also make some remarks concerning the party's administration of the city's affairs.

John J. Carroll, a Jersey Central railroad lawyer, who resides here, will make the chief address. The other speakers will include B. Frank Coriell, mayoralty nominee, and Robert H. McCready. It is planned to confine the discussion purely to the local issues.

Friends of John E. Dunn, the Republican candidate for Council in the Fourth ward, are counting on many Democrats voting for him. This is due to the fact that he is an exceptionally good choice for the office and is one who will reflect credit on himself and his constituents.

AWARD CITY NATIONAL MUNICIPAL BOND ISSUE

There was a special and adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, the first one being held first for the purpose of granting a public hearing on the proposed ordinance to extend the sanitary sewer system and to receive bids for the $30,000 street improvement bonds. No one appeared to speak for or against the proposed sewer extension and then bids were asked for the street bonds. None had been received by the clerk and a recess of five minutes was taken to confer on the matter.

When the members resumed the business of the special session, a bid was received from the City National Bank, in which that institution offered to take the bonds for par and interest. A certified check accompanied the bid. Councilman Mygatt moved that the bid be accepted, the motion being passed and later, in accordance with a resolution by the same member, a sum not to exceed $85 was appropriated to cover the expense of printing $30,000 worth of street improvement bonds. That concluded the business of the special meeting.

MR. AND MRS. McKELVEY GIVE CHARMING "AT HOME."

The first of a series of "at homes" arranged by Rev. and Mrs. Joseph O. McKelvey was given by them in Warren chapel last night. The place is to have one every month for the purpose of making the new members of the congregation better acquainted with the others. Last night's attendance was quite large and a most enjoyable time was had.

Mr. and Mrs. McKelvey are to be assisted on each occasion by a committee of six members from the Missionary and Aid Societies, and Mrs. John Higgins was chairman of last night's delegation. They served light refreshments during the evening.

Covering World's Series.

Archibald Hacquer, the former local newspaperman, is covering the world's championship baseball series between the Athletics and Cubs for the Philadelphia Bulletin. He is now in Chicago and the Bulletin's sporting page shows he is on the job. RALLY OF BORO'S G. O. P.

Assemblyman Smalley's Argument Shatters Democratic Campaign Talk.

RIDICULES THEIR CLAIMS.

Hermann Moosebrugger, Robert Kay and Charles P. Sebring Also Address the Voters.

The North Plainfield Republican Club held another rally and smoker in its rooms last night, and from point of attendance and enthusiasm it was the best yet conducted. Former Mayor Charles Place presided and preceded Assemblyman W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook; Herman Moosebrugger, of Somerville, candidate for Assembly; Robert Kay, of Liberty Corner, candidate for sheriff, and Charles P. Sebring, who opposed Kay at the primaries, in addressing the gathering. The speakers were frequently interrupted by applause.

The meeting was called to order by Alex Milne, who interoduced Mr. Place. The latter prefaced his remarks by asserting that there is a feeling of apathy in the Republican ranks, not only in Plainfield and North Plainfield, but throughout the country. He expressed regret at hearing of such a state of affairs and urged the voters to show their strength before election day as well as on it. He declared the Rpublican ticket in the borough to be one of the best ever put up and expressed pleasure at having the honor to introduce some of the candidates.

Mr. Smalley was the first speaker and gave a plain, wholesome talk on Republican government in New Jersey as he was familiar with it through his membership in the Assembly. The cry of extravagance and waste as made by the Democrats, he said, is almist farcical. He acknowledged they were right in saying the expenditures had increased from two million dollars in 1895, when the Democrats were in power, to five million this year with the Republicans handling the money, but he showed why and where the appropriations went. There was no Rahway reformatory in 1895, he said, no Glen Gardner tuberculosis sanitorium, no State epliptic home at Skillmans and many other institutions that the growth of the State has made imperative. In addition he asserted that the appropriation for State roads in 1895 was but $120,000 while this year $400,000 was voted for the purpose of which $30,000 alone went to Somerset county.

Mr. Smalley paid a warm tribute to Woodrow Wilson as a man and a scholar, but declared that he knew nothing about practical government, in fact, had admitted that he had failed to vote at any election in three or four years. He has been in the president's chair at Princeton for seventeen years, he said, and knows all about the affairs of State in theory, but it takes a man of experience to handle the gubernatorial reins. There are many appointments to be made this year and it is imperative that the selections rest with someone who knows how the various departments should be conducted. The speaker said in conclusion that Vivian Lewis has been in the Assembly and from his association with State work is fully competent and should be the man to succeed Governor Fort.

Mr. Smalley was followed by the Assembly candidate Hermann Moosebrugger, who said the nomination had come to him unsought and that he had to make many sacrifices in order to accept. He asserted that he was pledged to no man or party and that in the event of his election he would do what he believed to be right for the best interests of the people.

"Everybody who knows me," he said, "knows I am an honest man and when I say a thing I mean it. I started to work as poor boy when I was thirteen years old, and I have built up what is probably the largest plumbing business in Somerset county. I couldn't do that if I wasn't a man of my word, and anyway, everybody knows that a plumber who can keep his reputation must be all right.

Robert Kay, the candidate for sheriff was the next speaker. He also pledged himself to allow no dictation if he was elected to the office and would be especially careful in the selection of juries, a matter of vital importance.

Charles P. Sebring, when called upon for a speech, thanked the voters for their loyal support and asked that it be continued for Mr. Kay and the entire Republican ticket. He also expressed the hope that they might also vote for Assemblyman Smalley as a senatorial candidate in the near future, a remark that evoked prolonged applause.

At the close of the meeting, Mr. Moosebrugger entertained the audience for ten minutes with humorous recitations and dialect stories.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The clever work of the permanent stock company which is presenting high class plays at The Plainfield theatre is attracting favorable attention from patrons which throng the playhouse every day. In presenting two bills a week, the company is achieving something heretofore unknown in the theatrical world, and the success attained is remarkable. Last night "The Boys of Company B," a merry military comedy in three acts, was enjoyed by a large audience. The charm and grace of Miss Diehl, as well as that of Miss Eleanor Woodruff, Miss Gallup and Miss Ada Allen, called forth frequent applause, while the fine work of Harold Mead, John A. Robb, Farrell McKnight, Walter Wodall and other members of the cast, resulted in a fine interpretation of the play. While the story of the play has to do with military life, there is a delicate love story that wins the admiration of the audience from the start. "The Boys of Company B" will be seen today and tomorrow and judging by the advance sale it will be greeted by large audiences. Preparations are about complete for the afternoon reception on Wednesday, October 26, when the company will receive the patrons of the house on the stage.

Edward Snover is spending a week touring northern New Jersey.

WESTFIELD.

James G. Guttridge, of Netherwood, reported at Westfield Wednesday that he has not as yet received any word from his son, Robert L. Guttridge, who left his home in Westfield three weeks ago. Mr. Guttridge says that he does not think that the young man has met with any accident or foul play but that he wanted a change and went away without telling where he was going He expects to hear from him before long.

Albert Carlson was knocked down by an automobile driven by Dr. J. H. Corbin at Westfield avenue and Spring street Wednesday afternoon and badly injured. Carlson was riding a bicycle out of Spring street and Dr. Corbin was going along Westfield avenue under the bridge. Both were going too fast to stop as they rounded the abutment of the bridge. The bicycle was totally demolished. Dr. Corbin attended Carlson.

MISS CASE CAPTIVATES AUDIENCE AT UTICA.

Miss Anna L. Case, who will give a concert at the Plainfield High School auditorium, Saturday night, October 29, has signed with the Metropolitan Opera Company for the coming season. Referring to her apperance in Utica, N. Y., on May 19, last, The Daily Press of that city, says:

"Of Miss Case, too much can scarcely be said. She is a beautiful woman and the audience was captivated by her pesonality the moment she appeared on the stage. But with the first note of her lovely voice her hearers were aware that they were listening to a singer of rare ability, and they were held almost spellbound. Her voice is a clear, strong soprano, brilliant and dramatic, yet every note is bird-like in its sweetness. The technical powers are unusual, but the qualities which impress one are its range and expression."

HITCHCOCK TO CURB FRANKING PRIVILEGE.

Washington, Oct. 1.—If the plans of Postmaster-General Hitchcock are carried into effect the abuse of the franking privilege for government mail may be curtailed. Mr. Hitchcock intends to advocate the substitution of special official stamps and stamped envelopes for the various forms of penalty envelopes now in use in the departments and by members of Congress. The unrestricted manner in which the franking privilege is now being used has laid it open to serious abuses, according to the Postmaster-General. While it has been impossible without a better control of franking to determine the exact expense to the government of this practice, officials say it foots up to millions of dollars a year.

Mr. Hitchcock believes that many abuses of the franking system could be prevented and a marked economy effected by supplying through the agencies of the postal service special official envelopes and stamps for the free mail of the government, all such enevlopes to be issued on requisition and such records to be kept of all official stamp supplies as will enable the department to maintain a proper account covering the entire volume of the free government mail.

With its Half-Million Stock of the World's Best Goods to Select From and the Fact That We Give, With All Purchases

S. & H. GREEN TRADING STAMPS

Is every reason why you should buy at SNYDER'S, Newark.

Our stocks embrace everything that is stylish and new in dry goods, millinery, wearing apparel and shoes, as well as the most worthy merchandise in carpets, rugs, lace curtains, china and housefurnishings. And what's more, we are in a position through lesser expense, to quote much lower prices than New York stores, that are compelled to pay high rents and naturally seek larger profits.

We give double stamps before noon and single stamps afternoons, as a means to give some return for the money you spend here; New York and New Jersey stamps are good in the same book; and when you consider the many beautiful and useful needs that can be secured for S. & H. Green Trading Stamps, and the fact that the highest grade goods on the market can be found at the Snyder store, at moderate cost, you will readily see the advisability of doing your shopping at the W. V. Snyder Co., Newark. It's but a short distance away when you have the same grand choice as any New York store.

Money always refunded without quibble or delay.

Visit here Saturday or any other day next week; you will be more than repaid for your visit.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Rev. John W. Lissinden, rector of the First Baptist church, of Millville, who was seriously ill with neuralgia of the heart, is improving.

Miss Elizabeth Weller, of Paulsboro, was severely burned Wednesday when, in attempting to light a gas burner, her shirtwaist caught fire.

Bishop Scarborough will officiate at the laying of the corner-stone of the new Episcopal church, at Paulsboro, on the afternoon of Oct. 29.

Thrown from his carriage by a shying horse, William J. Terrill was badly injured, near his home on the Oxmead road, near Burlington, Tuesday evening.

Rev. Thomas Lynch, of New Haven, Conn., has been named to succeed Rev. Father Michael J. McGuirk as curate at St. Nicholas' Roman Catholic church, Passaic.

When fire Wednesday afternoon destroyed the large barn of Samuel Sheppard, in East Millville, the seven-year-old son of City Marshal Charles Biggs, rushing in, loosened two horses and saved them. The origin of the fire is unknown.

River pirates are accused of stealing more than $100 worth of copper pipes from an open boat moored in the river at the foot of Jersey avenue, Jersey City. The boat belonged to William Flagg, of 98 West Forty-fourth street, Bayonne.

Housewives in Atlantic City are to be given an opportunity to study the latest developments in domestic science at special night classes to be inaugurated in Atlantic City schools next week. Experts in cooking and housewifery have been engaged as instructors, and more than a score of young matrons already have enrolled as pupils.

Turning out of the way of a carriage belonging to Dr. C. T. Branch, at Broadway and Clinton street, Camden, late Wednesday afternoon, the police automobile knocked down Mrs. Catherine Price, forty-seven years old, of 610 South Fourth street, and Mrs. Mary Hughes, fifty years old, of 1024 Line street. Both were only slightly hurt. Catherine Dembo, three years old, who was in charge of her twelve-year-old sister Jennie, was hurled from her go-cart but escaped injury. In a statement to the police, Dr. Branch said the accident was unavoidable.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. LYDIA D. RUNYON.

Funeral services of Mrs. Lydia Dodd Runyon, mother of former City Auditor F. Crane Runyon, of Newark, and a great aunt of City Judge W. N. Runyon, of this city, who died in her ninety-fifth year at her summer home in Millington, Monday, will be held in Newark this afternoon.

The obsequies will take place at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Stephen H. Plum, 52 Park place, Newark. Rev. Dr. Charles H. Dodd, of Baltimore, a nephew of Mrs. Runyon, and former pastor of Peddie Memorial Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Villers, the present pastor, will officiate. The interment will be in Rosedale Cemetery.

Mrs. Runyon died of appendicitis. She had been ill but three days. The end came Monday afternoon, after messages had been sent summoning the various members of the family. With Mrs. Runyon when she died were Mrs. Plum and another daughter, Miss Luranah Runyon, of Newark. Another daughter is Mrs. William J. Watson, of Chicago. Other children of Mrs. Runyon were Enos Runyon, who at his death was a member of the County Board of Elections, and Mrs. George B. Corlish, who was killed in a railroad wreck in Colorado several years ago.

Mrs. Runyon was the daughter of Lewis and Elizabeth Baldwin Dodd, who were among the earliest settlers in Orange. She enjoyed good health despite her age until a week ago. About two years ago while at her summer home, Mrs. Runyon was bitten by a dog, and for several weeks she was taken back and forth to Manhattan for treatment.

The old Dodd homestead, which still stands in Grove street, East Orange, was where Mrs. Runyon was born. Since 1886, at which time, her husband, George Coryell Runyon died, she had made her winter home with her unmarried daughter in Newark.

The Hippodrome.

At the New York Hippodrome, prosperity continues and record crowds enjoy the twice daily performances of the three spectacles "The International Cup," "The Ballet of Niagara" and "The Earthquake." Among the big scenic features of this year's show, may be mentioned the Yacht Race, in which two full rigged vessels are seen in an exciting contest for the International Cup; a realistic shipwreck and rescue in midocean; the flight of an aeroplane; the great Niagara Falls scene which forms a poetic background for the dazzling Indian ballet; the Earthquake scene, the tidal wave and the finale with its wonderful flying ballet and splendid water effects, for which the big Hippodrome tank is utilized, is more than unusually brilliant. Twelve big circus features are included in the first part of the great show with Marceline and Slivers as chief fun makers.

were 24 pastors, 49 Sunday school superintendents, 43 department superintendents, 140 teachers and 44 students.

In the afternoon Rev. Milton S. Littlefield spoke on the "Day of Adolescence," or the "old man period" of the boy. He declared that the age of decision for boys was between 13 and 16 years and if the boy during those years failed to declare himself on the side of Jesus Christ his chances for so doing grew beautifully less as he grew older. "It is the age of revolt and disobedience," said Mr. Littlefield. "At this age we ought to adjust ourselves, but many of us don't. The boy's nature is the same everywhere. He must feel that wonderful sense of independence until he is brought face to face with facts of life. The difference between self-hood and self-ism are but the marks of learning. He must make his aim for team work instead of individualism, but he'll never do it so long as you treat him as a 'kid.' Do not even question the right of democracy to rule in your schools; autocracy has existed too long already."

The secretary-treasurer reported $66.88 in the treasury and an appeal for $150 more was made for the prosecution of the work and purchase of books for the graded classes.

J. L. Alexander, of New York, made an appeal for the intermediate boy. He said: "The best way to get that boy interested in the Sunday school was to take live characters from the Bible and make them heroes. The boy at the age of fifteen is a hero worshipper and that is the reason why he must have the proper incentive to be where the heroes can be produced and pictured before him in all their glory. The Bible is full of such characters, but One stands out among them all, of whose life there are enough stories of heroism to satisfy the most exacting. I refer to the Master, Jesus Christ."

Mrs. A. W. Karnell, the retiring superintendent of the Home department, made a plea for the encouragement of the children by the parents in the home. She said that there were 250 members in the home department whose work was telling in the increased membership in the churches.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, M. E. McGrath and the women who provided the delegates with many comforts during the day.

TWO ENTERTAINMENTS IN HOLY CROSS PARISH

"Coffee and Music," is the modest announcement made for a musicale to be held at the residence of F. B. Ball, 31 Myrtle avenue, tomorrow night. The affair is under the direction of Mrs. Frank Bayne Ball, the hostess, and Mrs. George A. Warner, wife of the rector of Holy Cross church. Mrs. Ball, who is well known in musical circles in Plainfield, has thrown open her home for this affair that music-loving people may enjoy the program and to further swell the piano fund of the parish church.

Among the artists will be Miss Bertha Waldron, contralto; Frank B. A. Linton, tenor, and Samuel Meyers, pianist, and Frank B. Ball, baritone, all of Philadelphia, except Mr. Ball, husband of the hostess.

This will be the opening event of many activities which the women of Holy Cross church will be engaged in this winter. Already three enthusiastic meetings have been held preliminary to the actual work of holding a bazaar or sale on Wednesday afternoon and evening, November 16. Meetings are held every Tuesday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock in the parish house, adjoining the church. Twenty-five women were present at the last meeting and they expect to have forty at the next meeting. The policy inaugurated at previous utilities' sale and suggested by a local merchant will be strictly enforced. No one will be held up for a contribution or donations and articles sold will be for the same price that identical articles bring in department stores.

Heads of committee, who select their own workers, have been appointed as follows:

Utilities, Mrs. F. W. Creesy; candy, Miss Laura Long; flowers, Mrs. G. A. Warner and Mrs. Coddington; fancy work, Mrs. C. E. G. Larsen and Mrs. Frederick Harrington; lunch, Mrs. J. O. Stevens and Mrs. Samuel Townsend; lemonade, etc., Miss Ida Davis and Miss Ruth Burt; decorations, Mrs. H. P. Henriques and Mrs. Charles Barlow, assisted by Mrs. F. O. Ball, Mrs. Francis DuBois, Mrs. Alson M. Abbott; children's amusements, Mrs. Oliver Voorhees and Miss Miriam Carman.

STONE SQUARE LODGE TO GIVE FULL DRESS RECEPTION.

Stone Square Lodge, No. 38, F. & A. M., will give a full dress reception in Saengerbund Hall Thursday night, November 24, and efforts are now being made to eclipse all previous exhibitions of the lodge. Prof. Vanderveer's full orchestra, of Elizabeth, will furnish music. The officers of the lodge are as follows: Worshipful Master, Charles Shelton; senior warden, Dr. Jefferson C. Anderson; junior warden, George Toomey; secretary, William R. Connett; treasurer, William H. Jones. These committees will be in charge:

Arrangement—William H. Jones, chairman; James Walker, James C. Connett, Charles C. Irby, Eugene Johnson, W. R. Connett, A. S. Venable. Reception—Wm. J. Douglas, A. W. Brown, Charles Shelton. Refreshment—S. H. Smith, chairman; Solen Maben, W. Carter, Charles Hurling, Charles White, G. Toomey, Eugene Coles. The lodge has extended an invitation to its sister lodges to be present. Charles R. Thompson, Dr. J. C. Anderson and T. B. D. Dyett will serve as floor committee.

DEMOCRATIC SPEAKERS INDULGE IN TARIFF TALK

About 200 Democrats listened last night in Reform Hall to the sentiments expressed by some spellbinders on the questions of the day. James E. Martine, candidate for the United States Senate, presided. Judge Charles F. Moore, of New York and Virginia; former Congressman E. W. Leake, of Jersey City; Calvin E. Brodhead, local candidate for the Assembly, and others spoke.

Mr. Leake was the first speaker and got everybody interested right off the reel by jumping into the high cost of living. He declared that problem to be the greatest issue of the campaign and laid the blame for it on the tariff. He said there was a deal of unrest throughout the country. "The tariff," he declared, "is responsible for the situation. There are about 2,000 items in the Payne-Aldrich bill, 1,000 of which have been revised downward and the other 1,000 have stayed where they were.

Seven hundred of the revised rates caused a decrease in revenue of $6,000,000 whil the other 300 made an increase of $13,000,000 and among those reduced were sausage casings.' Several other articles which do not enter on the menus of anybody such as plate glass, sea moss and bricks were included in the speaker's reduced list.

The borax trust came in for a scathing rebuke. Mr. Leake said that this business formerly was a small industry and confined to England, but after the discovery of the great mine of borax in Death Valley, and when the imported product was selling at 3½ cents a pound, the discoverers of the mine in this country sold out to an English syndicate and now borax costs 8½ cents a pound.

Judge Moore told briefly some of the facts which had probably escaped the notice of the voters hereabouts and amused the crowd.

"Our physician tells us that we are now convalescent from the awful beatings we have received for the past four decades, and that our mind is clearing, but we don't want to stand pat on this deal. We want to make the other fellows come to a show down; then we'll see who has the better hand. I have suggested throwing away the old pack and and starting a new deal. The cards won't be marked then and bluffs won't go. The progressive is a man who wants to better his hand, but the best way is to call for a new deck and throw all the rest in the discard.

"If the Republican party is responsible for all the good that has come to the country in its upward march it is also just as much responsible for all the ills that we have suffered. The richness of the land and the genius of our people have brought the prosperity. Figures don't count as to our richness, but who's got the money, does. The cost of the license to remain on earth has become so high that even the Republicans are screaming for help."

Mr. Brodhead put himself on record as favoring a reciprocal automobile law in order to correct the existing inter-state ill feeling. He suggested the repeal of the present law or an amendment which would effect the same purpose.

SOMERSET TEACHERS TO HOLD MEETING HERE.

The Somerset County Teachers' Association will hold the first meeting of the present season in the Somerset school tomorrow commencing at 10:30 a. m. It will continue until 1 o'clock when lunch will be served.

The committee in charge has made arrangements to entertain sixty guests. Business relative to the association will be transacted and a number of addresses on school work given. Among the speakers announced are W. A. Ackerman, superintendent of the Somerville schools, and J. C. Enright, of Freehold, superintendent of the Monmouth county schools.

THIS AUTOMOBILE DRIVER WAS SURELY A MEAN MAN.

While crossing the street driving his dump cart at the corner of Franklin place and Seventh street last evening at 6 o'clock Thomas Brennan, of 756 Webster place, was struck by an automobile and thrown from the cart sustaining cuts and bruises about the body and face. The horse ran away, uninjured.

As usual the automobile made off without the driver giving his name or number, nor did the occupants attempt to find out the amount of damage done nor offer assistance to their victim. Brennan did not have time to note the number.

EXPECT SALE OF 300,000 XMAS STAMPS IN ORANGE.

Plans have already been made by committees of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of the Oranges for the sale of the Christmas seals. The general committee in charge, of which Mrs. Frank Vanderpool, of 175 Park avenue, Orange, is chairman, has arranged to have the Oranges divided into thirty districts. In each district the league will have a representative and wherever possible there will be a sub-committee to interest the residents of a district in the campaign against consumption. By this system it is anticipated that the Oranges will be more thoroughly canvassed than in former years.

An order for 300,000 stamps has already been placed, and the members of the league are encouraged because the National Red Cross Society will not require such a large revenue this year. Heretofore the national body, which furnishes the stamps, has charged thirty-five per cent. of the receipts, but this year only eighteen per cent. will have to be paid. In accordance with the regulations of the Red Cross Society the sale of stamps will be from Monday, November 28 to New Year's Day.

P. H. S. NOTES.

In accordance with the proclamation of Governor Fort that all the cities of the State join with Jersey City in celebrating the founding of Bergen and that time be given in the public schools for that purpose, papers were prepared and read by the following pupils after the reading of the proclamation at the high school this morning: "An Outline of the Political History of New Jersey," Miss Susan Bennett; "The History of Education of New Jersey," Miss Sarah Howe; "The History of Bergen," Sidney Karr.

At the meeting of the Science Club Wednesday, it was decided that several pupils prepare special subjects and speak at the next meeting. These officers were elected: President, Charles Shuck; vice-president, Walter Droll; secretary and treasurer, B. Harris.

The senior class of the P. H. S. has planned to hold a Hallowe'en party in the gymnasium on Friday evening preceding that occasion, and committees have been selected to carry out the details of the affair.

Republicans to Meet in Elizabeth.

Under the auspices of the Auxiliary Committee of the Union County Republican committee, a meeting will be held in the Dix building, Elizabeth, tonight, and a large delegation of Plainfielders will attend. The committee is waging a vigorous campaign in the county. Fred B. Lehlbach, assistant prosecutor of Essex county, will address the meeting tonight.

Will Entertain N. P. H. S. Girls.

The North Plainfield High School Club, of the Y. W. C. A., will entertain all of the girls of the borough school at the association rooms tonight. The affair will be in charge of the officers of the club, comprising Miss Nettie Steiner, president; Miss Majorie Acker, vice-president; Miss Lois Diman, secretary, and Miss Ethel Colton, assistant.

Mrs. G. R. Maguire Will Speak.

Mrs Gabriel R. Maguire, wife of the pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, together with a large delegation of women from that church, are attending the Women's Foreign Missionary meeting in the Bergen Baptist church, Jersey City, today. Mrs. Maguire will address the meeting on the subject, "What is That in Thine Hand?"

Theo. Ball Suing P. S. C.

The damage suit of Theodore Ball, of Westfield, against the Public Service Corporation, which was begun before Judge Vail in the Union County court, yesterday, is still on today. Judge Vail expressed the wish this morning that the case would be concluded tonight. Craig A. Marsh represents the plaintiff and A. A. Clark the company.

Will Hold a Barn Dance.

The barn dance to be held at Debele's hall, Monday night November 7, for the benefit of St. Joseph's church, will be in charge of Mrs. Kate Sutton and Mrs. Vincent Carroll, who are now planning the details.

—John W. Bailey has been elected first vice-prdesident and Eugene Johnson, second vice-president of the Independent Progressive Culb. The organization is planning to hold a mass meeting soon, and arrangements are also being made to secure club rooms in Front street.

PERSONAL.

Irwin Cooley, formerly of this city, has been ill at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Cooley, of Westervelt avenue, with malarial fever.

Mrs. Ella Genung and son Roy, of Madison, Morris county, spent yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Williams, of Westervelt avenue.

Mrs. William Schorb, of East Front street, underwent an operation at Muhlenberg hospital, Wednesday. It was very successful and she is now recovering.

John Claarsen, driver of No. 3 hose wagon, is enjoying his annual vacation. With Mrs. Claassen he will leave tonight for East Rutherford to spend a week.

G. O. P. Headquarters Transferred.

The Republican city executive committee has transferred its headquarters from the City National Bank building to the top floor of the Frost building on Park avenue, where in the future all business pertaining to the work of the committee and the Republican party in general will be transacted and all information can be obtained there. Arrangements have been made to receive election returns there on election night.

Rev. Dr. Eaton to Lecture.

There is more than usual interest being shown in the forthcoming lecture by Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton, at the First Baptist church, Thursday night, November 3. The lecture will be the first of a series of four entertainments for the benefit of the Temple Baptist church building fund. Dr. Eaton will talk on a subject of the greatest importance to every citizen and will doubtless be heard by a large audience.

White Mules at Proctor's.

White's comedy mules are the big attraction at Proctor's theatre this week. Several in the audience tried to ride the mules, last night, and they convulsed everyone with laughter. One colored man succeeded in his efforts. Jack E. Magee & Co., in "The Strike Breaker," made a hit, as did also Robert Chesame & Co., the famous Russian illusionists and Farley & Prescott, a good song and dance team.

TRICKY ART DEALERS.

Astute Parisian Scheme For Booming a "New Master."

For the booming of a new artist an astute dealer is necesary. He catches his artist as young as possible, preferably as an exhibitor of crazy canvases at the autumn salon of the independents' exhibition, and commissions him to paint 100 pictures a year.

One by one, occasionally in twos and threes, at judicious intervals the dealer sends the pictures to the Hotel Drouot for sale by public auction. There he has confederates, who raise the price at each sale, and he buys them in himself.

After a few months the young artist's canvases have a certain market value, and the next step is taken to turn their painter into a modern master. The critics are attacked. One of them is asked to look at some daub, and when he cries out with horror the dealer says:

"What? You don't like it? Take it home with you as a favor to me, live with it six months and then"—

In due course an art amateur calls upon the critic and cannot contain his admiration for the new artist's picture.

"What a masterpiece! The most modern thing in art I have seen for a long time!" he exclaims.

Doubt begins to invade the critic's mind, and when one or two more enthusiastic amateurs have visited him he is worked up to writing a column of panegyric on the new master. The amateurs are, of course, sent by the dealer.

One or two articles and the boom is in full swing. Wealthy and simple minded collectors, remembering how other painters have been decried in their early days and how their works later have commanded fancy prices, rush in.

The new master makes about 10 per cent of the profit and the dealer the other 90 per cent. The new master is at the mercy of the dealer. If he grumbles the dealer floods the auction rooms with a hundred or so of his masterpieces and orders his agents not to bid, the result being that the canvases sell at rubbish prices, and the boom is burst.—Gil Blas.

LONDON THEATERS.

They Charge From a Penny to Sixpence For a Bill of the Play.

At the London theaters when the young woman shows you to a seat she asks if you wish a program. If you do you pay sixpence in the orchestra or dress circle for a program handsomely printed on fine paper. The price ranges down through "thripence" and "tuppence" as the galleries ascend to a penny in the cockloft. The quality of paper and the general artistic merit of the program decline with the price, but exactly the same information is conveyed for a penny as for sixpence. The fastidious theater goer might prefer to pay a dime for a neat and simple program rather than to have a bulky bunch of advertisements gratis, as in New York, but these London programs, although not so thick as those of New York, are not devoid of advertisements. This gives the purchaser the feeling that he is being worked at both ends. A lady reminds me, however, that a program in a New York theater costs her 10 cents, as the smeary printing rubs off on her white gloves, the cleaning of which costs a dime.

The quality of the performance at the better London theaters certainly averages no higher than that at similar theaters in New York. The music halls are the resort of the great middle class. These are great auditoriums with tier on tier of galleries, the seating capacity ranging perhaps from 3,000 to 5,000.—London Letter in New York Sun.

The Roman Tribune.

The tribunes in ancient Rome represented the people in much the same way that the house of commons does in England and the house of representatives in this country. For a long time the patricians or aristocrats of Rome had everything their own way. But when the plebeians (or, as we would say, the "plain people") got their tribune the reckless tyranny of the patricians ceased. The tribune had great power. He could veto almost any act and nullify almost any law passed by the Romans. Liberty among the Romans dates from the time they first secured their tribunes.—New York American.

Friendship's Tribute.

Gladys—Did you see what the society column of the Daily Bread said about Nin Gillard the other morning? "She moves with ease and grace in our most exclusive circles." Maybelle—Yes, I read it. It's dead certain that the editor who wrote that had never seen her on roller skates.—Chicago Tribune.

Against His Convictions.

"Have some of this Welsh rabbit, Bjonson?" asked Bjones as he stirred the golden concoction in the chafing dish.

"No, thanks, Bjonesey," returned Bjonson, patting his stomach tenderly. "I am unalterably opposed to all corporation taxes."—Harper's Weekly.

Off Again.

"I met your husband in town. He was very much elated"—

"The villain! He told me he would never take another drop."—Houston Post.

He who would do a great thing well must first have done the simplest thing perfectly.—Cady.

ON Monday morning at 8 o'clock we will open two new Player-Piano clubs, comprising 12 members each. During the past month so many people expressed their disappointment in not being able to join in the previous clubs, that we have decided to open another series.

This will no doubt be the last opportunity in which the people of Plainfield and vicinity can participate in this great co-operative profit-sharing plan. READ CAREFULLY the following which will explain in detail how you can SAVE $155 on a Player-Piano.

GUMMING STAMPS.

Officials of the bureau of engraving and printing at Washington aver that one of the most delicate operations connected with the manufacture of our postage stamps is the gumming thereof.

A writer in Harper's Weekly states that when the sheets have been printed they are passed under a roller, from which they receive a thin coating of gum, and then gradually over coils of steam pipes until they are dried. Much care is exercised to get the layer uniform on every part of the surface.

The gum in the little vats, from which it drops to the roller, is maintained at an eventemperature and thickness. Tests are frequently made of the warmth and humidity of the workroom.

But even with the perfection of mechanical exactness, some allowance must always be made for the season of the year. For summer sale a slightly harder gum is used, because of the trouble occasioned by the sticking together of stamps. In winter precaution against the cracking of the gummed surface through contraction is necessary. A third grade of the material for other seasons is known as "intermediate."

To Mend China.

An excellent cement for broken china is made as follows: Beat lime into fine powder, sift it through fine muslin. On the edges of the broken china put some white of egg, then dust some powdered lime quickly on the same and press the broken pieces quickly together.

Through the Pantry Window

By Claudine Sisson

On a certain chill October afternoon, which was brightened only by a flare of crimson leaves on all the maples and the ever-present tangles of aster and golden rod along the bushy banks, Elsie turned her horse in at a rickety picket gate and dismounted before the porch of a tiny, shabby, neglected house.

Tears came to Elsie's eyes, as she thought of the dead woman who had animated it with her kindly presence. She felt that she would like to go in and look about and try in imagination to refurnish the abandoned rooms and to people them with the gentle figures that had once frequented them.

The thin old horse, a freckled gray from the livery stable in town, was pulling at the reins in an effort to get his nose to the grass. Elsie sought for some place to make him secure and remembered the little barn. If the door was not nailed up she could put him in there.

The door was not nailed up. It slid open easily and she led the horse in and tied him to the stall which had held only cobwebs and hay and dust for a long time. A little had remained in one corner. She carried it to the horse, who received it as eagerly as if it had been the freshest of fodder. Then she went to the house.

Elsie Turned Her Horse In at a Rickety Gate.

It was locked securely. She went about trying the shutters. At last she found one partly off the hinges—blown off by a high wind, no doubt. She swung it clear and put her hand to the window underneath. To her surprise, it raised as she pushed upon it. She seemed to hear a familiar voice saying in her ear:

"The ketch on that pantry window needs fixing bad, but I can't seem to do it. But, la! what difference does it make? There ain't no burglar coming in here for the little trash I've got. If one did come in he'd be glad enough to get out again, after I'd given it to him good and lively with that old pair of brass tongs I keep handy for the purpose."

Aunt Hope's dear voice! Aunt Hope's own remembered words! And this was the pantry window. Elsie looked in. The tiny place was neat, the cupboard doors shut; an old iron spider hung against the wall. It looked perfectly natural and right, quite as if aunt Hope had just stepped out. Clarissa Mains, the heiress, had left some things as they should be.

The window sill was only knee high from the ground, and Elsie climbed over it easily. She let down the window behind her. The floor gave back an empty sound beneath her feet as she walked across it to the kitchen. The kitchen, too, was quite unchanged. There stood the old-fashioned stove from which she had eaten so many of aunt Hope's good dinners. In the dining room the chairs and the table still stood in their places upon the painted floor. But the dishes were gone from the shelves where aunt Hope had kept them. Clarissa Mains had appreciated the fact that such old blue ware was valuable.

After the dining room came the parlor, the room that in aunt Hope's lifetime Elsie had always loved best. It was a good sized room in the front of the house. She lifted a window and turned the slats of the closed shutters. The yellow afternoon light came in across the bare floor. Innumerable motes danced in its rays. Upon the walls a few old pictures still hung, and the wall paper showed fresh spaces upon its faded surface where others had been.

Elsie sat down upon one of the appealing chairs and clasped her hands in their riding gauntlets about her knee. There was a chill of firelessness and stale air in the room, but she did not feel it. She was thinking of the last time she had been in this room. There had been flowers in the room and many people. In the midst lay aunt Hope, always hitherto so gracious and genial, so quick to respond to the love of her friends and neighbors. Her hands were crossed upon a flower; her lips smiled a new little smile of understanding of men's ways and of God's. Above the hushed sound of tears rose a dignified voice: "I am the resurrection and the life."

How vividly she remembered it all! She had sat here and he had sat there with aunt Hope between. And though they both looked at aunt Hope tearfully they would not look at each other. How pale he had been! And, perhaps, she, too, had been just as pale under her veil. Well, it was over. Of what use was it to regret? Yet Elsie knew how anxiously aunt Hope had longed for them to be friends again, how strongly she had advised their making up their foolish quarrel.

"You are both young and high tempered," she had pleaded again and again, "but there'll come a time when you'll be old and remorseful unless you make up now. Why, you are made for each other, Elsie. You'll never be happy with anyone else, nor will David. He's a splendid young fellow. Don't I know? Wasn't I with his mother the night he was born, and haven't I watched him grow up from baby to man? And haven't I watched you grow up, too? And I love you both. I've tried to have you care for each other because I felt that was as it should be. And now you've let that little trollop of a Doris Kennedy come between you! Oh, I know what folks say about me—that I am a meddling of matchmaker—"

"Peacemaker, aunt Hope," Elsie had laughed, tremulously.

"Well, then, peacemaker. I hope I am. Blessed—you know what the Bible says. But I ain't sure of that unless you'll let me make peace between you and David!"

"Some day," Elsie had half promised. That was a year ago. Then they had met at aunt Hope's funeral and had not spoken. Afterward David had gone back to the city to his work and Elsie had gone hers in the little country town. As far as she knew now, her romance was ended. There was no aunt Hope to advise and gently smooth away the difficulty. But, oh, the sweetness and the bitterness of it lingered with her like mingled myrrh and honey. She had loved David—she loved him still—and must go on loving him as long as she lived. But she had the Bennett temper. He had it, too, far back somewhere, a couple of generations ago, a certain marriage had made them kin. She would not give up. Neither would he. And it was all because she had not liked his city cousin, Doris Kennedy, and he had! Perhaps down in her heart Elsie had been a bit jealous of the blonde young woman who looked as if she had been run in an exceedingly slender mold, and had never so much as bent her back since—an effect obtained, it was said, by means of an exacting dressmaker. Elsie was far too natural to admire Doris' immobility, loads of false hair and layers of pink and white powder. And she had told David so in a none too pleasant way.

"But her heart is all right," he had argued, stoutly. "Doris is a good girl. The trouble is, you are envious of her, that's all."

"Envious!" cried Elsie, scarlet with rage. So the quarrel had begun.

As she sat there now in the empty room Elsie owned to herself sadly that she had been unreasonable. After all, Doris was David's own cousin and older than he. There had been no reason in the world for her being jealous—as she had been; yes, she had to admit that now.

"If only I had listened to aunt Hope. If only I had let her make peace as she wished—"

A crash at the back of the house startled her. A window had fallen! She sprang to her feet. Steps were coming toward her through the house—heavy steps—a man's. Now they were in the kitchen—now the dining room. She plunged toward the door that opened into the little front entry. It was locked. She tugged at it frantically. Heaven! To be shut in this house with a tramp. Still tugging, with futile desperation, at the unyielding door she looked back over her shoulder just as the invader appeared in the parlor door—a tall young fellow in a respectable ulster, who looked almost as white and shaken as she knew she was.

"Elsie!" he exclaimed. "Great Scott!"

"David!" she gasped. And half fell against the supporting door. They stared at each other, the color slowly coming back to their faces.

"Did you get in at the pantry window, too?" Elsie asked, when she could.

He nodded.

"I remembered that aunt Hope was always going to have it fixed and never did. What are you doing here, Elsie?" He came close to her.

"What are you?"

"I came because I had to. I felt as if I was being called."

"David! That's just the way I felt."

Their eyes sought each other's, awe-struck, wondering. Then their hands met.

"Forgive me, Elsie. I was wrong," he faltered.

"Forgive me, David. I was wrong, too."

They clung together.

"I didn't care for Doris. But she was my cousin—"

"I know. I know."

She was in his arms now. And he had kissed her.

"David," Elsie said, from his shoulder, solemnly, "do you suppose—that she, aunt Hope, drew us here today?"

His eyes had the look of one who has been very near the holy things.

"Who knows?" he answered, very low. "Blessed are the peacemakers!"

News and Notes

PLAINFIELD A. F. C. WILL MEET M. A. C. TOMORROW.

The Marshall A. A. and the Plainfield Association Football Club will meet on the Clinton avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 in a league game. The visitors comprise one of the strongest teams in the amateur soccer league and are putting up a fine record for themselves, and a fast game should be witnessed here tomorrow, as the locals are out for two points at the expense of the visitors.

The game will be called promptly at 3:15, on the grounds at Clinton avenue and South Second street. It is expected that all former records in the matter of attendance will be broken, as the home team has a larger following this season than ever before.

P. H. S. Defeated 56 to 6.

The P. H. S. football eleven was defeated by the Pennington Institute team at Pennington, Wednesday, by a score of 56 to 6. Plainfield's team was completely outweighed. This fact, together with the fast play of Pennington accounts for the overwhelming defeat. The local boys played a good game considering the above facts. Coyle scored the only touchdown for Plainfield in the second quarter.

P. H. S. vs. Holy Cross.

The P. H. S. football team will play its first home game of the season tomorrow afternoon on Crescent Oval at 3:30 o'clock with the Holy Cross eleven.

Enjoyed Old-Fashioned Concert.

Under the auspices of the Shiloh Baptist church, an old fashioned concert was given at the church last night. The members of the church appeared in the old style costumes of the early days, and gave a fine program of vocal and instrumental music. The choruses were much enjoyed. In addition John Taylor and William Tobias appeared in a musical act and Garner Brothers pleased everyone in the presentation of an amusing dialogue. The entertainment was liberally patronized and successful.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company. Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

"Yes. There's an idea of mine I want to talk to you about, and he says you'll blab it to the others. But I say you won't if you promise you won't. That's so, isn't it?"

"Of course," answered Loveland.

"I know you're a great friend of Lillie's," the lady slyly began again when she and Loveland were seated near the fire and "J. J." had drowned himself in a theatrical paper. "But, all the same, you must admit that her acting gets worse every day. She's so awful careless! The fact is it's so discouraging we're thinking of making a change—breaking up the company, in a way, and then starting again with only the ones we really want in a new crowd. Would you like to join?"

Loveland looked her straight in the face, with almost brutally frank disapproval on his. The extra touches she had given to her hair and eyelashes and complexion for his benefit were all in vain. She might have been a block of painted wood for any admiration in his eyes.

"You mean you're going to send Miss de Lisle away?" he asked.

"We're going to send ourselves away from her," Miss Moon corrected him.

"Leaving her in the lurch!" exclaimed Loveland, with that uncompromising truthfulness of his which was a virtue or a vice, according as one had reason to regard it.

The big woman flushed darkly through her powder. "There's no 'lurch' about it!" she defended herself, with a new sharpness in her tone. "I don't intend to shell out any more of my good money carting Lillie de Lisle around the country as a star; that's all. You oughtn't to complain. I'm offering you a chance that lots of real actors would grab. You can go with the new company and have better parts and better pay than what you're getting now. But you'll have to choose right away between me—between us and Lillie de Lisle. Well, what do you say?"

"I say that I choose Miss de Lisle," said Loveland.

Miss Moon burst out laugning hysterically.

"There, I told you what you'd get!" ejaculated her husband.

"Let things alone, can't you?" she snapped. "Gordon's only guying, ain't you, Gordon? Or anyhow, you don't understand. When I said 'choose between us' there's nothing to choose, for Lillie de Lisle hasn't got a thing to offer you, and we have a lot. We can bust her up, and when she's bust she is bust. Why, she won't even have any advertising paper to go along with if she wanted to go along on her own. Her name ain't printed on any of the posters. I took care of that starting out. 'All we've got to do is to wire a Chicago agent for a new star, if I don't choose to do the starring myself, and as many folks as we want. Now, you see how things stand, don't you?"

"I think I do," said Loveland.

"Well, what do you decide?"

"The same that I decided before."

She bounced up from her chair, her large face flaming. "Very well, then; all I've got left to say is I wish you joy of your choice and—good afternoon. You're no gentleman if you play the sneak and tell."

"I've given you my word not to do that," Loveland assured her.

"Mind, you keep it! I wash my hands of you!" cried the angry woman, and, thinking that he might as well take this as his cue for exit, Loveland left the room.

"Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," he heard her husband quoting, with a vicious laugh, before there had been time to shut the door.

Loveland went up to his own room more than a little troubled. He had learned to like Lillie de Lisle not only for Bill's sake, but for her own. She was a sweet, bright little creature, a lady by nature, though not by birth or education, and if she had a chance might even yet, in spite of bad training, become a charming actress. The Moon woman was jealous of the star's youth and prettiness, of course, and now she meant to play her rival a shameful trick, yet he might not warn the poor girl because of that stupid promise he had given.

There was one comfort, he consoled himself—a new company could not be formed in a minute. This was Saturday. Loveland hoped that he might hear from England in another week, and at worst salaries were payable on Saturdays. He would be the possessor of ten hard earned dollars that night.

After all, salaries were not paid that night. "J. J." informed the expectant members of the company that business hadn't "run to it." They must wait for their money till next week. Bonnerstown was a bigger place than Asheville, and there was every prospect of better things for the future.

Sunday morning Jacobus, Miss Moon and the two Eccleses did not appear at breakfast time.

"I can't believe they've really [illegible] and left us like this," pleaded the little star, wide eyed and pale, though unnaturally composed.

With incredible stealth and cunning the manager and his family had slipped away in the night, leaving nothing behind them but a stranded, broken and penniless company.

CHAPTER XXI.

MAROONED.

AFTER consultation in the room of the star it appeared that the funds of the deserted six amounted to exactly $6, or, if equally divided, $1 apiece.

The landlord, disappointed at finding very little of value in the rooms of the actors, had threatened in the first outburst of anger to turn them all into the street, but Loveland and Lillie de Lisle argued that he would lose nothing by waiting an hour or two until matters had been discussed and something of advantage to everybody perhaps arranged. But at the end of a long and gloomy talk nobody had found anything brilliant to suggest.

"I won't go to the poorhouse, and I won't be an object of charity," exclaimed Lillie pluckily. "I've been in bad scrapes before and got out of 'em somehow, and I bet we all have unless it's Gordon, so I guess we can again."

"Can't we get at them and punish them somehow?" Loveland wanted to know.

"Takes money to do that sort of thing, even if we could. It would cost the boss of the hotel more than Jacobus owes him for us all to go to law now they've vamoosed out of the state too. As for us, we're not in it—except the soup. We're stripped clear of everything but our theater trunks, and they'd have taken them if they'd dared."

But Loveland had not even a theater trunk.

"If we could get up some kind of benefit performance, those that are left of us," he suggested, "we might make enough to go—somewhere."

"Good idea if we had a play," said Eddy. "But we—no, by jinks, we have got one!"

"What one?" asked Lillie de Lisle, clasping her hands.

"Sidney Cremer's 'Lord Bob.' Old 'J. J.' gave me the manuscript to copy into parts only three days ago. I've got the play, and half the parts are done."

LOVELAND SET TO WORK TO MANUFACTURE SOME CRUDE POSTERS.

"A new play by Sidney Cremer ought to be a draw even here," said Lillie, "and 'Lord Bob' is brand new—as new as tomorrow's bread."

"Lord Bob," by Sydney Cremer—Loveland remembered seeing the posters up in New York, and for the last year or two the young American playwright's name had been well known even in London. This piece Loveland believed had been produced for the very first time on his first night in New York. Yet these barnstormers had got hold of it.

"There are only three women—two girls and an old lady—in the play. That would suit all right," said Eddy eagerly. "As for the men, it isn't quite so easy—never is. But there are only five. One's a servant, another a policeman. And there's no scenery to speak of. I guess we could fake."

Loveland, whose idea it had been to put up the entertainment, went out at once, luckily catching the local manager of the grandiloquently named opera house just as he was virtuously setting forth to church.

Jacobus, it seemed, had "settled up all right" with him the night before, and he was surprised to hear of the flight. He stipulated for two-thirds of the profits, if any, above expenses and would not unbend.

All the rest of the day Loveland was busy. He finished copying the parts, which must be learned and rehearsed, so that the play might be produced tomorrow night.

There was a newspaper in Ashville which came out once a week, and the company decided after a stormy debate to spend one of the six dollars in buying from the office large sheets or rolls of the coarse white paper on which this weekly publication was printed. Having secured a good supply and obtained black paint and a big brush from a sympathetic sign painter who was a customer of the hotel, Loveland set to work, with Binney's aid and direction, to manufacture some crude posters.

SILENCE—COMFORT

30 H. P. Landaulet

THE Landaulet combines the advantages of an open car in pleasant weather with those of a closed car in chilly or stormy weather. The increased demand for closed cars, for Fall and Winter use, is admirably met with this type of car, without losing any of the pleasure which at times may be afforded by an open car.

SALT SEA YARNS.

Signs and Omens to Which the Sailor Grimly Clings.

A JOKE THAT PROVED FATAL.

Superstition and a Guilty Conscience Proved Too Much For the Norseman—A Bucket of Water That Stopped a Mysterious Wailing.

It is a well known fact that in the past the sailor was among the most superstitious of mortals, and even in these enlightened days there are a goodly number of old salts who cling tenaciously to their belief in certain signs and portents. Some, no doubt, of these superstitions have vanished altogether into the limbo of forgotten things, but there will always be a credulous few who will shake their heads solemnly and prophesy dismally if a knife is stuck in the mast or an albatross or a stormy petrel is captured and brought on board. The origin of some of these superstitions cannot be traced. Many of them have been handed down from father to son for a great number of years, with a touch probably added here and there, turning a comparatively ordinary story into a weird and mysterious legend.

The Finn is the most superstitious of all sailors. There are many of this race who still believe in the ominous portent of the phantom ship, the folly of starting a voyage on a Friday (a notion by no means confined to seafaring men), the low burning blue lights which are ghost spirits hovering near to give warning of approaching disaster and many other things, all of which

Fill the sailor's mind with murmurings
And speak to him of wrecks.

A story is told of a brigantine which numbered several extremely superstitious men among her crew. One night when there was no moon and a slight ground swell was running the watch, who happened to be the most superstitious of them all, heard an unearthly wailing coming apparently from the very surface of the sea. The mate and the helmsman also heard it, but the former lacked imagination, and, although he was certainly interested, he nearly blew the watch's head off when he ventured to suggest mermaids. The helmsman did not feel quite happy, but he had to stick to the wheel. The watch was pale with terror, but he kept silence owing to the mate's complimentary references to his courage and abilities. Slowly the sound began to move along the ship's side, becoming more and more agonized as it approached. This annoyed the mate, and, going to the side of the vessel, he waited until he had located the sound and then emptied a bucket of water over the rail. There was a gasp, then dead silence, and nothing more was heard that night.

When the watch went off duty he of course gave a detailed and lurid account of the incident to his shipmates, who listened, as he thought, in awed silence and then called on one of the audience for his version of the matter. This man, a Tyneside, who dearly loved a joke and had no respect at all for hoary superstitions, had conspired with his fellows to play a trick on the watch. On the night in question he had crept over the bows without a sound, carrying with him the ship's cat secured in a bag. Crouching under the stays, the joker let the cat's head out of the bag, which he tied round the animal's neck so that it could not escape. He then applied his teeth to the unfortunate animal's tail. Everybody knows the fearsome sounds an angry cat is capable of producing, and those to which a cat whose tail is being bitten gives vent are among the most hair raising. The sound was more or less regulated by squeezing the luckless beast's body. The mate's bucket of water was as unwelcome as unexpected and caused the Tyneside to beat a hurried retreat.

Not only is the origin of many sea superstitions "wrogt in mystery," but also any logical explanation of cause and effect. It would puzzle any one to say why it should be unlucky for the ship's boy to whistle on the weather bow, except that it is generally unpleasant from a music lover's point of view for a boy to whistle on any bow at all.

On one occasion superstition and a guilty conscience caused a practical joke to have fatal consequences. The incident arose through one of the sailors, a Norwegian, boxing the ears of the ship's boy for the aforementioned crime of whistling on the weather bow. Not unnaturally the boy was annoyed and determined to pay the Norwegian out. Aided by two other sailors, a white shirt and some string, a very presentable "ghost" was arranged in the foc'sle on the night the Norseman was on watch. He was to be allowed only a glimpse of the "spirit" on entering the foc'sle, and it was then to vanish from view, being jerked by means of a string underneath the bunk of one of the jokers. Everything was ready, and the three conspirators lay in their bunks awaiting their victim. Unfortunately they all fell asleep, to be suddenly awakened by a loud cry from the Norwegian. He stood gazing at the "ghost," the dim light shed by the lamp falling on his ghastly face. The three were about to call out to him when he spoke. "No, no," he cried. "I did not mean to kill you, Morgan! Oh mercy, mercy!" And he rushed madly from the foc'sle. Terrified, his shipmates followed him, but as they reached the deck they saw the Norwegian throw himself into the sea.—London Globe.

POLICE OF GERMANY.

Privacy of the Home No Bar to Their Farreaching Authority.

To a foreigner no feature of German life is more striking than the prominence and almost unlimited authority of the police. Many of its functions are such as in the United States would be intrusted only to a court of law. What seems almost equally strange, the greater part of these functions are exercised quite independently of the local government.

The minuteness and thoroughness of the work of the German police are a constant surprise to the foreigner. The policeman not only preserves order in the streets, but exercises a farreaching authority in private houses. For instance, he undertakes the nightly locking of one's street door at a sufficiently early hour. He sees that one has his chimney regularly cleaned. He inspects at stated times one's stoves and heating apparatus, and while he is about it he will look into a few other matters of domestic economy.

One feature of his activity strikes a good many American visitors with favor. In some places singing and piano playing with open windows are forbidden, and it is a common house regulation in large towns that no pianos may be played after 10 o'clock in the evening. The German policeman is also something of a food inspector in his way, and he keeps a sharp eye on venders of food and of medicines. It is not an uncommon sight to see a German policeman halt a milkman's wagon and on the spot make an inspection of his wares. Should there prove to be anything wrong with them they are promptly seized and destroyed and the matter is immediately taken in hand by the higher authorities.—New York Press.

A BATHLESS AGE.

For a Thousand Years the People of Europe Went Unwashed.

When Egypt, Greece and Rome were at the height of their ancient power their citizens made bathing a social function, a municipal duty and a religious observance. The public baths of these nations were magnificent architecturally and important as centers of hygienic and municipal sentiment.

With the decadence of these countries the world seems to have reverted to a period of mental sloth and physical uncleanliness. As an authority on the matter puts it:

"For 1,000 years there was not a man or woman in Europe that ever took a bath, if the historian of these times, Michelet, is to be believed. The ancient love of the bath seemed to have disappeared from off the land.

"There was no Greece or Rome to hold up the ensign of cleanliness to the nations of Europe. Small wonder that the people of the continent became physical decadents, as indeed they were in spite of tradition to the contrary.

"It is not strange that there came the awful epidemics that cut off one-fourth of the population of Europe—the spotted plague, the black death, the sweating sickness and the terrible mental epidemics that followed in their train—the dancing mania, the mewing mania and the biting mania.

"The bath was banished and filth was almost deified. Indeed, it was then thought that the sanctification of the body was only accomplished when that body was indescribably dirty."—Physical Culture.

An Island of Black Cats.

"The Island of Black Cats" is a name often applied to Chatham island, one of the Galapagos. It is in the Pacific ocean, about 730 miles west of the coast of Ecuador. It is overrun with black cats, and cats of no other color are seen there. These animals live in the crevices of the lava foundation near the coast and subsist by catching fish and crabs instead of rats and mice. Other animals found on this island are horses, cattle, dogs, goats and chickens, all of which are perfectly wild.

A Startling Reply.

"It is very detrimental to the conversation if you play bridge while talking. A gentleman once entered a room and walked up to a lady who was deeply engrossed in correcting her score. 'How d'ye do, Mrs. So-and-so?' he exclaimed. 'I have just met your children with the nurse. By the way, how many have you got?'

"The lady looked up and replied, 'Sixteen above and twenty-four below.'"—From "The Confessions of a Bridge Player," by Quilon.

How Stupid!

Mrs. Jones (reading)—It says here that a nautical mile is 6,080 feet and a statute mile is only 5,280 feet. Why is that? I thought a mile was a mile.

Mr. Jones (without looking up from his paper)—Well, a mile is a mile, but a statute mile is measured on dry land, while a nautical mile is measured on the water, and you know most things swell when in water.

Mrs. Jones (resuming her reading)—Why, of course! How stupid! Ladies' Home Journal.

How It Looked.

"Why don't you eat your caviare?" asked the host.

"Didn't know it was to eat," replied Broncho Bob. "I thought there had been an accident and the cook spilled the bird shot." Washington Star.

Domestic Bliss.

Mrs. Henpeck (with newspaper)—It says here that buttermilk will extend one's life to over a hundred. Henpeck (wearily)—If I was a bachelor, I'd take to drinking it.—Boston Transcript.

OBEDIENCE HIS THEME

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews' Lecture to Mothers of Boys.

AT Y. M. C. A. AUDITORIUM.

The Adolescent Boy a Personality—Rapid Growth Explains Laziness—Other Salient Points.

A large audience of mothers of boys heard Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews in Y. M. C. A. hall yesterday afternon deliver his second lecture on the moral and religious training of boys in the home. His subject was "How to Secure Obedience." He first considered the question of the kind of obedience mothers should endeavor to secure.

The lecturer said that the proper conception of obedience is that it is loyalty. "The boy must be brought to love righteousness and to hate iniquity. Every command of the mother must be inspired by this great purpose. During the boy's earliest years, the mother secures obedience through compulsion. She must then act for the child. It is then vitally important that her authority be based upon character. Later, when the boy enters upon the adolescent period, the mother should act with the boy. There is great danger that the boy at this age shall be treated still as a child. She can no longer say, 'I said it and that settles it,' for the boy now questions her authority. He is forever asking 'Why?' He wants to know why commands are given. He has become a reasonable being and must be treated as such. If he is not treated as a reasonable being, he will come to hate the right and love iniquity."

"Obedience," said Mr. Mathiews, "is not to be imposed but to be developed." He cautioned the mother against seeking to bring about recognition of her authority instead of trying to secure obedience.

"The old commandent, 'Children obey your parents,' is incomplete. The other commandment 'parents provoke not your children to wrath,' completes it.

"Mothers are to learn how to secure obedience by applying fundamental educational methods. First, they should realize that they stand in the relation of the teacher to the boy and that their great business is to develop character through obedience. Then, the mother must know the boy. The adolescent boy, is no longer a person; he is now a personality. He has a temperament to be understood. There are two temperamental types among boys: The motor-minded and the sensory minded. The latter type presents by far the most difficult problem.

"The great danger in dealing with a boy of this temperament is that the attempt shall be made to drive him when he should be led through suggestion. Large allowance must be made at this age for the boy's natural deficiences, due to rapid physical and mental growth. It will be found that rapid physical growth often explains laziness and awkwardness at this age while dullness and sluggishness are due to the rapid growth of the brain. This organ is growing rather than functioning. This often explains the desire of the boy to leave school.

"Under these conditions, it may be desirable to take him out until this period of excessively rapid growth has ceased. Moral deficiences at this age are also often to be explained by the boy's lack of vitality. The boy may be unable to respond morally to the ideal set before him because of this condition. Lying, for example, may be an act of self-protection resulting when the boy is driven into a corner and beyond his resources. Many seeming immoralities at this age are rather unmoralities. Nature is having her way.

"Mothers," said Mr. Mathiews, "must learn the fine art of overlooking."

"It is necessary that at this age abundant material be provided the boy through which he may express himself. This should be what he likes rather than what the mother likes and should include manual training, play, reading and the drama. The boy," he said, "must be met at the level of his best and lifted to the level of the mother's best."

The next lecture will be given on next Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in Y. M. C. A. hall. The topic will be "The Aims of Punishment and the Methods that are Most Effective."

Record of Local Rainfall.

Weather Propht John Neagle reported today's rainfall up to 1 o'clock to be .44 inches, and for the month it was 2.33 inches. The normal for the month is 3.65 inches.

Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland, O., is visiting his uncle, Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton, of Watchung.

R. I. P. S. GIRLS' CLUB ENTERTAINS ITS FRIENDS

The North Plainfield High School Girls' Club, officially known as the R. I. P. S., entertained a party of friends at the Y. W. C. A. last night. Games were enjoyed for several hours and refreshments were served in conclusion.

Most of the R. I. P. S. members are connected with the Y. W. C. A. and the gathering was mainly for those who are not. Miss Ethel Colton was in charge and she was assisted by Miss Nettie Steiner and Miss Lois Dimon. The club will hold the first meeting of the fall season next Friday night.

The Friday evening Junior Club of the Y. W. C. A. met last night. Miss Margaret Leggett was in charge.

All the educational and gymnasium classes of the association began the past week. The registrations are larger than ever before and prospects for a busy season are exceptionally bright.

Miss Maude VanBlarcom the assistant secretary, has commenced a noon day Bible class for working girls. It will meet every Thursday at 12:20 and will continue for twenty minutes.

WITTY SPEAKER WILL ADDRESS TAXPAYERS

Those who attend the Republican municipal mass meeting at Reform hall on Monday night may expect to hear a witty speech if John J. Carroll lives up to his reputation on that occasion. As a fun-maker, the lawyer is described as a "corker", for they say that he can't help being serious without being humorous at the same time. On Monday night he's going to talk about "Running Things," and his remarks will be confined to explaining how a municipal government should be run according to the average "knocker."

B. Frank Coriell, the Republican nominee for mayor, will deliver a brief address. He will let the people know where he stands and what he will do as a mayor. Mayor Chas. J. Fisk, who will preside, will briefly review the achievements of his administration which has been an unusually successful one. Robert H. McCready will also speak. No seats will be reserved and it therefore behooves the taxpayers to go to the hall early.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY AT WEST END TABERNACLE.

Another Christian Endeavor society has been added to the number of societies in this city, making four to be organized in Union county within the past three weeks. The latest organization was completed in the West End Tabernacle and the officers elected were: President, Mrs. Milton Miller; vice-president, Fred Bush; secretary, J. Wilson, and treasurer, Mrs. John Norgard.

County President P. F. Benedict, of Roselle, presided at the opening meeting and gave the members an interesting talk on Christian Endeavor work, as did Frank Stuart, president of another society in the city.

The new society will hold a sociable on Tuesday evening, October 25, and all young people of the West End who are interested in Christian Endeavor work are invited to be present.

Miss Peddle to Sing Here.

Miss Mary Peddle a contralto, will make her first appearance at a concert in Plainfield, Friday evening, October 28, at the Hartridge School auditorium. Miss Peddle only recently came to this country, having spent six years in England singing in concerts and oratorios, where her work met with great success. She will be assisted here by Miss Carolyn Beebe and Edouard Dethier, whose delightful playing cannot be too highly commended.

Removing Stoppage in Sewer.

Street Commissioner Gavett's men are working today removing a stoppage in the Compton avenue storm sewer. This sewer is a ten-inch pipe put in many years ago by the Pond Machine Tool Company, to carry off the waste water from its wash room to Green brook. When the sanitary sewer was put in West Front street, the Pond pipe was connected with that sewer and the remainder of it was donated to the city for a storm sewer.

Borough Democratic Rally.

The North Plainfield Democratic club will hold a rally in the headquarters at 83 Somerset street, next Tuesday night. The meeting will be addressed by Joseph Noonan and Thomas Haight, of Jersey City, and county and borough candidates will be present. All voters are invited.

CONTRATORS RUSHING MACADAMIZING WORK

John McNabb, of Bound Brook, one of the contractors for macadamizing streets for which work the $30,000 worth of bonds were sold on Thursday night, has begun the work of applying the asphalt on Netherwood avenue. He is using two melting tanks, on wheels, so as to have one always ready with hot asphalt. This material is the "Bermudez," one of the best asphalts in use. Mr. McNabb has graded and put in the foundation stone on Johnston, Jackson and Netherwood avenues, a length of about 7,000 feet. He has a total of 19,000 feet in his contract.

Mobus & Burke have their streets, Essex street and Putnam avenue, all ready for the top course and asphalt. Both contractors are well equipped, having their own steam rollers and other road machinery with which to push the work as rapidly as possible.

HEARTLESS HUSBAND LECTURED AND FINED

John Brunn, of South Second stret, got drunk last night and went home in bad humor. In fact his feelings were so much upset that he thought it necessary to break up the furniture and bric-a-brac in the home. He apparently forget the delicate condition of his wife who was in bed with their four-days-old baby. Dishes were in his way so he broke them; the rocking chair collided with his legs and he smashed that; he paid no heed to his wife's pitiful plea for quiet, but went right on smashing things.

Patrolman Nolan was the first one to the rescue and after he had quieted the man he left the house in comparative quiet. Half an hour later Patrolman McGinley was attracted to the house by an uproar and his investigation of the noise revealed Mr. Brunn in another tantrum. McGinley hustled Brunn to the lockup and this morning he was arariged before Mayor Charles J. Fisk. After severely lecturing the man the mayor fined him ten dollars, which will have to be paid at the rate of one dollar a week, which involves the man's appearance at headquarters to report his behavior. Another outbreak will mean a jail sentence for Brunn.

MUSICAL SERVICE.

First of Series at Crescent Avenue Church.

The first of the monthly musical services will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, tomorrow evening, at 7:45, under the direction of Organist Russell. These musical services will be held once a month during the fall and winter. The program tomorrow evening will be as follows:

Organ prelude-a-Largo from New World Symphony, Dvorak; b-Ave Maria, Schubert; anthems, "Fear Not Ye, O Israel," Spicker; "Day is Dying in the West," Salter; "Blessed Jesus" (Stabat Mater), Dvorak; offertory, "Widow's Duet" (Elijah), Mendelssohn; organ postlude, "March Festal," Calkins.

Sewer Extension Commenced.

James A. Christie, of Newark, the contractor for constructing about $30,000 worth of sanitary sewers in the city, is starting work on his contract. He comes here with good recommendations from other places where he has done work and purchased materials and states that he proposes to buy all of his material in this city if prices are fair. The residents in the vicinity of Monroe avenue feel that they are getting sewerage facilities none too soon.

Buzzards to Dance.

At a special meeting of the Buzzards' Club last night in the Babcock building, final arrangements were made for the club's first ball to be held in Saengerbund hall, Friday night, December 2. These committees were appointed: General committee, James Niles, chairman; Roy Lee, F. C. Denton, P. A. Galbraith, William Hoffman; advertising and printing, Edward Koechlein, Raymond Harvey, James Niles.

Parents and Teachers to Meet.

The parents and teachers of the Stillman, Whittier and Franklin Schools will be held in the Franklin School, Tuesday evening, October 25, at 8 o'clock, when a union of the parents and teachers of the Franklin, Stillman and Whittier schools will be formed. The subject will be 'Discussion of Questions in the Question Box." All parents and teachers are invited.

EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN

Rev. Mr. Williams to Begin Series of Revival Meetings Here Tomorrow.

CHORUS CHOIR ASSISTING.

One Week Each at the Three Local Methodist Episcopal Churches to Be Conducted by Conservative Revivalist.

Rev. M. V. Williams, of Athens, Pa., will begin a series of revival meetings tomorrow evening at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, continuing there for a week. He will then devote a week to services at Grace M. E. church and one to the First M. E. church, the congregations of all three churches joining in the meetings. The meetings will be held every evening, except Saturday, throughout the three weeks.

Singers from the three Methodist churches will meet Charles L. Lewis at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, this evening to form a large chorus choir to lead the singing in the evangelistic meetings. The pastors of the Methodist churches will assist Mr. Williams in the revival. The evangelist will preach at the Monroe Avenue church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Williams differs a good deal from the average run of evangelists in that he does not resort to any sensationalism or catch methods in his work. He says, "If religion is worth having, it is worth making a manly stand for it," and by his earnest appeals to the hearts and consciences of the hearers convinces them not only of his sincerity, but there comes a burning conviction on the part of the hearers of the value of Christianity to every soul that cometh into the world.

CONTRACTOR BROKE ARM IN CRANKING AUTOMOBILE

While turning the corner from East Front street to Watchung avenue this morning shortly before 10 o'clock, Frank R. Cooper, a contractor, of Newark, slowed up his automobile rather suddenly and the motor "died." Cooper while cranking up the motor was struck by the crank as it flew back and his right arm was broken at the wrist and dislocated at the elbow.

Mr. Cooper was taken into the office of Dr. Albert W. Pittis, who set the broken bones and placed the arm in splints. Mr. Cooper's chauffeur drove the car the rest of the way to Newark.

DUTCH ARMS ENTERTAIN AT TRINITY REFORMED

About eighty-five members and friends of the Dutch Arms, men's association of Trinity Reformed church attended the first social and business meeting of the organization in the main Sunday school room last night enjoying a musical treat by "The Bunch" and some well rendered recitations by Rev. Ora M. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church, followed by an old fashioned Dutch supper.

At the business meeting devotional exercises were in charge of H. W. Weeks. The president, Fred S. Cutter, presiding. A communication was read from the Ladies' Christian Work Society in which that organization asked the men to contribute toward a vacuum cleaner for use in the church. It was unanimously agreed to bear a proportion of this expense. Messrs. Sheppard, Young, Woodruff and Willet, were named as a committee to prepare an amendment to the by-laws relating to the dues. The committee will report at the November meeting.

E. D. Young was in charge of the entertainment for the evening and provided an enjoyable program. Besides the orchestral music, Rev. Mr. Shoop contributed three recitations which were heartily recived. "Mr. Dinklebender's Dream," and "Trick vs. Trick," a college yarn, were encored deservingly. The orchestra was made up as follows: George W. V. Moy, C. P. Wheeler and Arthur Mosher, violins; E. D. Young and G. H. Bennett, cornets; Elmer Wheeler, flute; Garrett Dunham, trombone; Whitney Frazee, cornet, and L. M. Hummer, piano. All the was well rendered. H. J. Martin was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Rev. Gabriel R. Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will speak at the Salvation Army Hall, tonight at 8 o'clock.

SOMERSET'S TEACHERS HOLD QUARTERLY SESSION

Inclement weather proved no handicap in the attendance at the Somerset County Teachers' Association, which held its quarterly meeting in the North Plainfield High School this morning. Seventy-five membres were present when President B. J. Phelps called the assemblage to order.

After the transaction of business, two papers were read, the first by John Enright, superintendent of the Monmouth county schools, on "The Making of a Teacher," and the second by W. A. Ackerman, superintendent of the Somerville schools, on "Mind and Matter." At the conclusion of the readings each paper was discussed.

The meeting adjourned at 12:30 and lunch was served by the cooking class of the borough grammar grade.

WERE THEY BURGLARS? THE MAYOR SAYS NO

Shouts of police! help! and sundry other cries aroused the neighborhood of Park avenue and North last night shortly before 12 o'clock when John Powers, the barber thought he had caught a pair of burglars surreptitiously leaving the Frost building carrying a package of loot. His lusty call for help to the minions of the law failed to bring any result, but by the time his last yell had joined the echoes of the first the two men convinced Powers that they were peaceable citizens.

William R. Townsend, secretary of, well, a whole lot of things, and Mayor Charles J. Fisk were busy at the new office of the Republican City Committee on the top floor of the building and having been working late whoever left the building ahead of them locked the Mayor and Mr. Townsend in the building. The only means of exit left to them was through a window of the editorial office which they proceeded to utilize.

But that was the psychological moment. Just as the mayor's bulk was half way through the opening, Mr. Powers was attracted by the unusual sight and he stepped softly to the corner and viewed with feelings of intense emotion the advent of two burglars in the act of getting away with the package of loot. Some of the finished product of Mr. Townsend's nimble fingers, carefully wrapped up was what Mr. Powers spied. Then the noise broke loose.

Mayor Fisk finally subdued the excited Mr. Powers and after the latter had positively identified his Honor and the genial secretary, the incident was closed. Incidentally it is the first time either Mayor Fisk or Mr. Townsend have been taken for law breakers. Maybe they'll get a key now.

PROTEST SUSTAINED BY AMATEUR SOCCER LEAUGE.

Robert Battie and J. D. Brown, of the Plainfield Association Football Club, attended a meeting of the Amateur Soccer League, held at 845 Broad street, Newark, last night. A protest by Plainfield against the Pomeroys on account of not getting three days' notice, according to league rules; also no official referee being provided and game called after schedule time the Pomeroys not being ready to start was sustained by the league, and the game called last Saturday was made an exhibition contest by the official action of the league and no points will be awarded for the same.

The Nairs were awarded two points from Omer Type, because of non-appearance. A delegate was appointed to meet the A. F. A. with a view to making application for admission.

Exhibition of Leather Goods.

leather articles was held yesterday afternoon and evening by Miss Minnie Serrll at her home, eeee nie Serrell at her home, 931 Union street. There was a large variety of articles exhibited from small purses and watch fobs to hand bags and table mats. One of the features of the exhibition was the display of hand tooled leather mats made to harmonize in color and design with Tiffany lamps, which can be purchased only at the Tiffany studios, New York. The exhibition will be continued this afternoon and evening.

To Speak at S. A.

"An Oriental Love Song" will be the subject of an address which the Rev. Gabriel Maguire will deliver tonight at the Salvation Army hall on East Second street. The local corps has been announcing this service extensively and a profitable time is expected. The public is cordially invited. The service will begin shortly after eight o'clock.

RUNYON'S TRIUMPH IS ALREADY ASSURED

Members of the advisory Republican committee who met at headquarters at Elizabeth last night brought cheering reports regarding the lessening strength of the Wilson sentiment. Mayor Chas. J. Fisk, of this city, presided, and in a short address expressed his inability to see why any Republican should vote for Wilson this year, when so good a man has been nominated against him.

It was admitted that some hard work must yet be done for the ticket. From nearly ever section very favorable reports were received regarding the popularity of Judge Runyon, the Republican candidate for Congress. There was a strong feeling that Mr. Lewis, the Republican candidate for governor ought to be obtained for another speech in Union county, but it was deemed unlikely that he could be secured.

It was announced that ex-Congressman Landis, of Indiana, would probably be one of the speakers at a meeting about Nov. 1. As a result of a discussion seats will probably be reserved for people outside Elizabeth at succeeding rallies in that city.

PARKER LOIZEAUX BECOMES A BENEDICT

Miss Jessie Wilson Ferrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferrison, of Albany, N. Y., was married Thursday afternoon at 2:30 to S. Parker Loizeaux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Loizeaux, of Putnam avenue, this city. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents and was witnessed by 100 relatives and friends of whom twenty were from Plainfield.

Miss Ferris was attended by her sister, Miss Etta Ferris, and Miss Marie Loixeaux, of this city, niece of the groom, was flower girl. The bride wore white crepe de chine over white satin and chiffon, trimmed with baby Irish. She carried bride roses. The maid of honor was gowned in white chiffon over yellow satin and carried pink roses. The flower girl wore pink over white silk. Joshua Loizeaux, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, a luncheon was served and Mr. and Mrs. Loizeaux left later for the Catskills.

They will be at home to their friends after November 1 on Berkeley avenue, where the groom has recently erected a residence. He is connected with the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company.

NEW MAP OF PLAINFIELD AND BOROUGH BY STATE TRUST CO.

The State Trust Company are about to issue a new map of Plainfield and North Plainfield for the benefit of the increasingly large number of people who are taking up their residence in town. The map is in course of preparation and will show in addition to streets and house numbers, the locations of schools, churches, places of public amusement and the fire alarm signals.

The map is being prepared in a small and compact form that will make it worthy of a place on the walls of any home. The business of the company is growing rapidly and the handsome new vault is still proving a great attraction.

DR. CRIPPEN GUILTY; SENTENCE, HANGING.

London, Oct. 22.—Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen was found guilty today of the murder of his wife, Cora, who was known on the music hall stage as Belle Elmore. Crippen was sentenced to be hanged on Nov. 14 or 15.

A Slip of the Tongue.

Representative Washburn, toastmaster at the prorogation dinner of the Legislature recently, told a story of a pastor who, coming to a new parish, got his words slightly twisted in his announcement. Said he: "I have come here to heal the dead, cast out the sick and raise the devil." Another ministerial friend remarked "I am sorry to see so many absent faces I used to shake hands with."—Boston Record.

The bride will give the groom a garnet and diamond scarf pin and to the matron of honor a gold pin set with pearls. Herbert P. Grant, a brother of the bride, will give her in marriage.

After the ceremony there will be a supper served to the bridal party at the home of the bride's mother. The wedding cake will be cut by the sword of Ensign Davis. The decorations at the house are blue and gold.

After a month's trip through Canada Ensign and Mrs. Davis will return to Philadelphia to live. Ensign Davis has been asigned to shore duty in connection with the outfitting of the new destroyer Maygrant, which was built at the Philadelpha navy yard.

DEMANDS $5,000 FOR KILLING OF HIS CHILD.

Damages of $5,000 for the death of his four-year-old daughter, who was run over and killed by a wagon October 19, last year, were sought from the Union Ice Company by Vincenzo Beninati, as administrator, in a suit on trial in the Circuit Court at Newark Thursday. It was the second case in local courts this week involving the death of a child under the wheels of a wagon.

Beninati's daughter Rosalia was killed while playing in front of her home at 72 Rutgers street. Through Benjamin Weinberg, his counsel, the father alleged that the wagon, driven recklessly, knocked his daughter down and that one of the horses stepped on her head, killing her instantly.

The defense set up through Horace Grise, counsel, that the child ran in front of the horses.

ORGAN RECITALS RESUMED AT GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS.

Do Not Endanger Life When a Plainfield Citizen Shows You the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Plainfield testimony.

Mrs. M. Newman, 532 West Fifth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "A constant pain in my limbs was the principal symptom of my kidney trouble. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at Randolph's Pharmacy and soon after I began taking them, the pains in my limbs disappeared. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOMERVILLE.

A 1500-pound fire bell, forty-two inches in diameter, that can be heard a distance of two miles, is to be placed in the tower of the engine-house in the near future. The Borough Council has made an appropriation of $1,500 for that purpose. The bell, which will be furnished by the Meneely Bell Company, of Troy, N. Y. will cost $860, and the automatic striking apparatus that will connect the bell with the borough fire alarm system will be furnished by the Gamewell Fire Alarm Company, of New York, at a cost of $450.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Van Fleet and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van Fleet and family have returned from Lake Hopatcong, where they spent the summer.

Miss Josephine Sutton, of New York, is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. Nicholas Earnest, at Frankfort.

G. A. Yawger will start next week for Florida, where he expects to spend the winter.

Mrs. Thompson of Bayonne, is a guest of Mrs. J. J. Kopf, at Green Knoll.

Mrs. M. S. Cook is ill at her home at Rocky Hill.

WESTFIELD.

In line with its policy to straighten its line wherever possible between Elizabeth and Plainfield, agents of the Public Service Corporation are negotiating for several tracts of land in Westfield in order to straighten the line and take out bad curves. When the road was constructed some years ago there was considerable opposition to it and the company was forced to follow the line of least resistance and secure a right of way along such highways as it could, with the result that when the line was built it was called the crookedest street railroad in the State. In a trip through Westfield the tracks turn so that the sun shines on both sides of the car.

The Plainfield-Union Water Company has started proceedings to condemn land for the right of way for a pipe line from Netherwood to the reservoir in Clark Township. In many places the owners have sold the right of way to the company for a nominal sum. Papers have been served on the Hetfield estate and the Misses Robinson and Douglass Darby, in Fanwood and Clark Townships, citing them to appear before Justice James J. Bergen at Somerville today to show cause why appraisers should not be appointed to assess the damage caused by laying a two-and-a-half-foot water main through their lands.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

"The Jolly Four" will hold a dance and reception tonight in Schott's Hall, Berkeley Heights. Stages will be run from the Park avenue trolley corner to the hall. A number from here will attend.

The regular order of service will be held tomorrow at the Baptist church. Morning preaching by the pastor, at 10:45; Bible study meeting at 4 p. m.; B. Y. P. U. at 7 o'clock.

George Baldwin, of Front street, has returned from a visit with relatives in Rahway.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Both the Republican and Democratic parties in the borough have filed their respective local tickets. The voters will be called upon to elect three councilmen and a constable. The Republican nominees for Council are Albert Meyers, to fill George Huff's unexpired term; F. H. Gise and A. F. Todd. The Democrats have selected John H. Schmidler for the unexpired term, Lewis Schmider and W. W. Walters. The nominees for constable are C. W. Blaine, Republican, and Harry Schneider and W. W. Walters. The are planning smokers and rallies to be held before election, which is now only a little more than two weeks off.

Truckman H. C. Smith commenced work yesterday unloading five cars of pipe for the local water company. It will be distributed in various parts of the borough for the extension of the mains.

Charles Wyhuskey has sold his house on Front street to a Mr. Pfeister, of South Bound Brook.

Miss Constance Pickoff, of Raritan, is visiting Mrs. Herbert Mundy.

Mrs. Walter Clawson, after being sick, is able to be about.

Mrs. B. Siriski spent Thursday in Newark.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Rev. J. J. Allen, pastor of the Baptist church, will preach tomorrow morning on "The Demands of Discipleship," and in the evening he will give an illustrated sermon on the Old Testament theme, "From Sarah to the Red Sea."

Celebrating Birthday Anniversary.

William L. Chittenden, who claims Plainfield as his residence, but who is now residing at 12 Centre street, Newark, is celebrating the seventy-seventh anniversary of his birthday today. Mr. Chittenden is a veteran of the Civil War, having seen long and hard service in the struggle between the North and South. At one time he conducted a restaurant at Fourth street and Watchung avenue. He has many friends here who will join in wishing him many happy returns of the day. Mr. Chittenden is a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of this city.

C. W. Holland to Entertain.

C. W. Holland, of West Eighth street will give a dinner at the Watchung Hunt Club, tonight, to the members, following the weekly chase in the afternoon. The members will meet the hounds at the water tower Netherwood, and enjoy a long run of about eight miles. The chase will be in charge of Rufus C. Finch, master of the hounds.

Somnambulist's Leg Broken.

While walking around in his sleep, John Gilman tumbled out of a second-story window at his boarding-house, 355 Main street, Rahway, Thursday, and fractured his leg in two places. The Alexian Hospital, Elizabeth, is caring for him. He is fifty years old, unmarried and a driver for a Rahway butcher.

To Try Out New Aeroplane.

If conditions warrant, Thomas W. Walling, of Tinton Falls, expects to make a trial trip with his new aeroplane next week. He thinks his balancing device will establish a new era in the conquest of the air.

MURDERER IS FREED BY ANGRY MOB

Mountaineer friends of John Moore, under sentence to be electrocuted for the murder of Frank Howl, descended upon the Nelson county jail, Lovington, Va. at 1 o'clock Thursday morning, stormed the building and rescued the prisoner. It is supposed he will be taken to the mountains and liberated.

At that early hour of the morning, when the people of the county seat were asleep, a crowd of seventy-five fully armed men from the mountain section of the county where the crime was committed proceeded quietly through the town to the county jail. Admission was gained to the building and the guards awed into comparative non-resistance. The cell where Moore was locked up soon was found and he was taken out.

Precautions had been taken by the determined mob to prevent an alarm being spread. Almost as quietly as they had entered the town they left it and started back to the mountains. It was not until some hours after the rescue that the news spread, and soon several deputy sheriffs were on their way into the mountains to try to rearrest the murderer. It is feared that bloodshed will result from any attempt of the authorities to recapture the murderer.

Moore was condemned to pay the death penalty by electrocution at Richmond on November 25. He had been convicted of having murdered Frank Howl, in Nelson county, last May. Many of the mountaineer friends of the condemned man believed him innocent of the crime.

The only telephone wire leading into the section of the country where the crime was committed and where Moore's friends live was cut before the rescue operations were begun. This leads to the belief that Moore has been carried there to be liberated and that any effort to regain the murderer will be resisted.

Surrounded by escaping steam in his engine cab William B. Wilson, of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad, was compelled to plunge through the window to save himself from being parboiled. A bolt blew out in the injector of the boiler and Wilson was instantly enveloped in escaping steam. The engine was moving slowly. The accident occurred at Waterford, and Wilson was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital, Camden, in a serious condition.

News and Notes

FROM THE WINDY CITY

A dispatch from Chicago says that President Lynch, of the National League, has decided to release James Johnstone, the umpire. No reason is given. Surely it can't be on account of his ability, for Johnstone, who is a Newark man, has been holding the indicator in the big league in the neighborhood of thirteen years. Johnstone is admitted to be one of the very best umpires in the business, and why President Lynch should let him out is more than a mystery. If Johnstone is released it isn't likely that he will retire from the national game without paying his respects to those responsible for the loss of his job. Johnstone's work the past season was excellent, and it was generally believed that he would be chosen to umpire in the world's series or the series between the Giants and the Yankees. But he wasn't, and, taking for granted that those in authority are always looking for good umpires, there must be a reason why Johnstone was not appointed to officiate at one of the big series. Perhaps Johnstone offended away back, and the punishment is being meted out now. Or it may be that his connection with the Chicago New York bribery charges has put him in badly with the powers that be. If so, it would not be surprising if he had something to say when the time comes.

What the Athletics are doing to the Cubs is criminal. Three times they have made the National League champions look like selling platers. The victory Thursday was more decisive than the two previous ones, showing that the farther the Athletics go the better they get. The teams are playing again today in Chicago, although the grounds are wet and the weather chilly. The Mackmen, with Chief Bender in the box, should win the game. That would settle the series and incidentally would make some of the towheads who are always crying fake hunt their holes.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Undoubtedly one of the most amusing comedies yet presented at The Plainfield theatre by the stock company is that of "The Boys of Company B," the present attraction. The play is just one hearty laugh from beginning to end, every member of the cast being particularly good in the individual parts. Ths is especially true of Miss Eleanor Woodruff, who plays the part of "Madge Blake", and Farrell McKnight, as "Chicke Sewell." They have a decided lisp and the way they make love is a scream. This play will be presented this afternoon and evening, and should attract capacity audiences. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the offering will be Robert Hilliard's fine comedy, "Lost Twenty-four Hours," to be followed the last half of the week by "The Little Gray Lady," in which Dorothy Donnelly scored one of her greatest successes.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will occupy his pulpit at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning and evening.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will meet tomorrow evening at 6:45. The topic will be "The Chances we Miss," and Miss May Randolph will be the leader.

The congregations of the First and Grace M. E. churches will unite with that of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, tomorrow night in revival services at the latter church, to be conducted by Rev. M. V. Williams, of Athens, Pa.

J. Wotley Gangloff, humorous and dialect story teller, of Dunellen, will appear at the Netherwood Reformed church, Thursday evening, November 10, at 8 o'clock His subject will be "Strung on the Golden String of Wit and Humor." The affair will be under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church.

ON THEIR RECORD.

That Vivian M. Lewis, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, is a true friend of labor is indisputable. His record gives convincing proof of his sincereity and his appeals to the union workmen for their votes should meet with a hearty response on election day.

The Republican candidate was a member of the Assembly for three successive terms, 1889, 1900, 1901. During that period he worked for the passage of these beneficial measures:

Prohibiting the sale of prison made goods.

Compelling the employment of union labor on all public work.

To prohibit the vicious "company store" evil, which had permitted grasping corporations to make "profitable servants" out of their employes by means of extortionate charges.

To make eight hours a day's work upon all public buildings and improvements.

The Mechanics' Lien Law of 1899, as well as several supplementary acts thereto, tending to secure to building mechanics the payment of their wages.

The bill to license stationary engineers.

The Child Labor Bill of 1899, to limit the age and employment hours of women, children and minors. The scope and benefits of this particular bill, to labor, were too small to suit Mr. Lewis, and his record shows that he voted and worked for the passage of two supplementary bills to lighten the burdens of the weak and oppressed.

Limiting the compensation lawyers may charge injured workingmen for bringing and conducting damage suits.

Compelling manufacturers to install dust appliances, to protect the health of their employes.

To create the State Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Requiring the payment of wages in lawful money of the United States every two weeks.

To provide for Free Public Employment Bureaus in cities.

Requiring the union label on all State printing.

To secure the payment of wages to operatives in factories.

Securing to dyers of all kinds their money, by making their bills liens upon the goods.

On the other hand, Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic nominee, has proven himself more than once to be the enemy of organized labor. We only have to quote an utterance of his made a little over one year ago. Then he said.

"You know what the usual standard of the employe is in our day. It is to give as little as he may for his wages. Labor is standardized by the trades unions and this is the standard to which it is made to conform."

THE REASON WHY.

These days when one hears a lot of criticism of the administration of the city, affairs, most of which is based on an ignorance of public matters, it is well for the taxpayer to consider what, if any, importance may be attached to the reflections cast on the municipal officials. Of course, it can not be denied that the adverse comments are largely due to the fact that those uttering them are actuated by selfish motives—either there is an "axe to grind" or a revenge to be sought.

Does it not appear strange to the taxpayers that these few malcontents should suddenly take such a deep interest in their welfare? How many, if any, of these critics have ever attended hearings and meetings of the governing body? If any ever have, were they actuated by a spirit of civic pride or by a purely personal motive?

As everyone is aware, before the Common Council takes final action on any measure involving any considerable expense or of any degree of importance to the community, a public hearing on such proposed ordinance is advertised. Notice is given days in advance at an appointed time, the city fathers will listen to the views of the taxpayers on the matter being considered. What is the result? Seldom, very seldom, does a single taxpayer appear. Has this been for any other reason than that the taxpayers have every confidence in their duly elected councilmen? We think not. As recently as Thursday night, several important measures were to be passed on final reading and the city fathers were prepared to hear the taxpayers. Did any member of the Bi-partisan League put in an appearance? Why did they not take that much interest in the matters when they make such professions of civic virtue and pride?

Why is it that, in the past, these same virtuous citizens have never demonstrated any great interest in the Councilmanic doings? Why have they so suddenly loudly proclaimed themselves as deliverers from an undesirable administration? Is it not the same old story of getting the outs in and the ins out—that, and that alone? And what sort of an administration might we expect from those who have been so little interested in public affairs before they started to grind their axes?

When Assemblyman W. W. Smalley was introduced as presiding officer at the Republican rally a few nights ago, he was referred to as the next Senator from Somerset. The Republicans of that county will generally agree with the comment of the Bound Brook Chronicle, which says that his four years' career in the Assembly has "certainly earned for him that promotion."

Bourke Cockran has become a Republican spellbinder. Tammany's treasury must be low.

Mold Pudding.

Take any kind of stale cake, break it in small pieces; butter a mold and fill it nearly full with the cake. Beat six eggs to a quart of milk, flavor to taste, turn this over the cake; let it soak two hours. Set the mold into a deep saucepan of boiling water; let it boil an hour and a half. Turn the mold over into the pudding dish, to stand a few moments before serving and then lift carefully that the pudding may not break. Serve with a wine or cold sauce.

Apple Pudding.

Butter a pudding dish and fill it with alternate layers of stale bread, cut into dice; dried apples and sultana raisins. Pour over oil a custard made of four eggs, three and a half cupfuls of milk, half a cupful of sugar and a little lemon rind. Steam or bake for an hour. Turn out and serve hot with a sweet sauce.

NECESSITY OF VENTILATION.

A problem which is worthy of consideration, especially at this time of the year, when we merge from one season to another, is the proper temperature of our living rooms.

One of the first criticisms a foreigner makes when he visits this country for the first time is the habit we have of overheating our homes.

The habit is a bad one and is not only costly, but unhealthy. Rooms in which the thermometer runs up much over seventy degrees are enervating to the system, and when one is not strong any passing germ has a good fighting chance. A woman accustomed to spending part of her time in the kitchen, where of necessity there is much heat, finds the other rooms cold or at least chilly. This they are only by comparison, but the woman will not believe it.

Who has not visited in homes where the temperature of the living-room is nearly eighty degres and yet where the housewife constantly keeps a wrap on and still complains of the cold.

Seventy degrees is warm enough for health, and if one can stand it, even a lower temperature is better.

Colds that come at this time of year are due just as much to overheated houses as to outdoor exposure.

If mothers would understand this, if they would keep their children clean and free from indigestion and poorly ventilated rooms there would be far fewer colds.

Let every bedroom have a thorough airing each day. If more than one person sleeps in a room, special attention should be given to the ventilation.

Use as many warm, lightweight blankets as you need at night, but be sure to have quantities of fresh air. This does not mean that one should sleep in a draft or that the air should blow directly on one.

Neglect of bathing is one of the first causes of cold. Keep children from playing in chilly, unused rooms, too, but let them be properly wrapped up and play out of doors as much as possible. Special attention should be given to their feet, which should be kept warm and dry. Good flannels and rubbers will often save doctors' bills.

A little care on the part of the housewife when once she grasps the importance of these few details will help correc the bad habits which may thus be changed into the most helpful ways by which the entire household may be benefited.

SOLILOQUIES OF A BENEDICT.

Many a marred person will admit that love is blind.

Some married men should be thankful that they do not talk in their sleep.

Most married men expect to receive a bill when the postman brings the mail.

Finance talk at the dinner table will spoil any man's appetite.

No man has risen so high that he got beyond suspicion.

PANICKY IMPORTERS OFFER RESTITUTIONS

A large number of importers in New York city, panic-stricken at the Federal Government's prosecution of the Duveens and the general activity of the customs authorities, have gone to Collector Loeb with admissions that they have profited through undervaluations and have offered to make restitution provided their names are withheld and no criminal proceedings instituted. The Treasury officials are reticent in regard to these new cases, but acknowledge that the total amount involved is large.

The restitution was the subject of a conference in Washington Thursday between Secretary MacVeagh and Collector Loeb. The conference lasted from 10:30 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon with a brief interruption for luncheon. A number of customs officers were called in from time to time.

Secretary MacVeagh, after the conference, authorized the statement that he was considering proposals that had been submitted by a number of heavy importers who were willing to pay back the amounts in which they had been benefited if only the government authorities would keep mum and refrain from criminal prosecution. The Treasury officials declined to go into details.

Apparently the conference ended with uncertainty as to how the offers of the importers should be treated. It was finally decided, however, to refer the matter to the Attorney-General for advice. Collector Loeb, who left Washington on the midnight train for New York, told all questioners to see Secretary MacVeagh for information.

The Treasury officers say that none of the cases considered Thursday has been made public.

HETTY GREEN'S SON IS POSTCARD SPENDTHRIFT.

Edward H. R. Green, railroad president and son of Mrs. Hetty Green, of New York, relieved the tedium of the trip from New York City to Texas by stopping over in St. Louis Thursday and personally selecting 15,000 picture postcards.

The millionaire Texan is not going to open up a picture postcard shop, nor will the assortment be consigned to any orphan's home or children's hospital. The whole bunch is intended as a home coming surprise for the financier's personal friends and boon companions down in Texas—railroad superintendents, bank presidents, ranchmen, cattle owners, brother Elks and such.

The 15,000 postcards are all different. There are funny ones, pathetic ones and cards bearing praiseworthy mottoes.

"I didn't have any special business, so when I found a little time on my hands after calling on my friends, I came down here and began buying cards," said Mr. Green. "It's a fine way to spend an afternoon—buying 15,000 postcards—you ought to try it some time."

WILSON AGAIN BALKS AT SOCIALIST DEBATE.

Woodrow Wilson has again declined to debate the issues of the campaign with Wilson B. Killingbeck, the Socialist candidate for Governor.

Replying to a second request sent by Mr. Killingbeck on Wednesday, the Democratic candidate declares that an exacting campaign makes it impossible to discuss the important problems presented by his Socialist opponent. The reply is as follows:

"Allow me to acknowledge the receipt of your very interesting and important letter of October 18.

"It broaches matters which are, of course, of fundamental importance, but which I feel it would be idle for me to try to discuss by letter or even on the platform with any thoroughness at the present time, when I am hurrying from engagement to engagement in an exacting campaign. I can only express my deep interest and say that I am very much impressed by the earnestness and sincerity of your views."

DECKHAND DROWNED.

In Staten Island Sound Thursday afternoon oystermen discovered the body of Martin Finn, of Elizabethport, who had been missing since Saturday last. He was a deckhand on the freight steamer Edward Clark, of the Singer Sewing Machine Company. There were no marks on the body to indicate the man had met with foul play, and it is supposed that he tumbled overboard accidentally Saturday night while trying to get on the boat which laid at the Singer wharf.

The body was towed to the Central Railroad dock and the police notified. It was removed to Mitchell's morgue.

The victim was thirty-five years old, single and resided at 219 Clark place, Elizabethport, with his widowed mother, three brothers and a sister.

Henry Young, of Raritan, has been visiting relatives here for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lock have left their summer home at Dover, and have returned to their home on Willow avenue, the borough.

UNION COUNTY ORPHAN'S COURT.

IN MATTER OF THE APPLICATION of Louis Morel, Administrator of Louis Morel, Deceased, for Sale of Land to Pay Debts. Order to Show Cause.

Louis Morel, Administrator of Louis Morel, deceased, having exhibited to this Court under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay his debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises: It is, on this twenty-first day of September, nineteen hundred and ten, ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, and real estate of said Louis Morel, deceased, appear before the Court, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, on the twenty-third day of November, next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause why so much of the said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of the said Louis Morel, deceased, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts, or the residue thereof, as the case may require. And it is further ordered, that this order be set up and published in one of the newspapers of this State, as by the statute directed.

By the Court.

EASTERN STAR ORDER ELECTS GRAND OFFICERS

So great has been the growth of the order of the Eastern Star in New Jersey that the annual session of the grand chapter of the State could not dispose of the business in hand in the time appointed, and it may be necessary to extend the session next year to three days instead of two.

In former years one day has sufficed, and the forty-first annual session, which closed at Wallace Hall Newark, Thursday night, was the first which occupied two days.

The concluding business was the election and installation of officers and the election resulted as follows:

Most worthy grand matron, Miss Marie Baum, Paterson; grand patron, Charles A. Nighman, Bayonne; associate grand matron, Mrs. Emma Farrier, Jersey City; grand secretary, Mrs. Mary Martin, Paterson; treasurer, Mrs. Susan A. Stewart, Glen Ridge; grand conductress, Mrs. Pauline Covington, Newark; assistant grand conductress, Mrs. Catherine M. Handy, Jersey City; grand marshal, Mrs. Minnie L. Nighman, Bayonne.

Mrs. Elizabeth Winters, who presided during the session as most worthy grand matron for 1909-10, was presented with a sunburst of pearls by the staff of officers who served with her during the year. The brooch was accompanied by a large bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Miss Baum's home chapter at Paterson presented her also with a bunch of chrysanthemums in honor of her elevation to the presiding office for the coming year.

Newark was decided upon as the most central point for the holding of the annual session, and it will be held there in future years. hTe next annual session will be in January, 1912.

One of the acts of the session was a reconstruction of the ritual and the by-laws of the grand chapter.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," the sweetest child of the brain of Kate Douglas Wiggin, won all hearts when the play was presented by Klaw & Erlanger at the Republic. The play is adapted from Mrs. Wiggin's widely read Rebecca book, but it is a blend that adds the zest of a new and rare flower to those who have tasted what has gone before. The children in the play are real. The tears that dimmed eyes and the spontaneous laughter that lightly swept the house from time to time were true tributes. There were no weak spots in the cast and the staging was all that could be desired."

New York's theatrical season promises to be a most successful one this year. There are more hits than there usually are and the most pronounced is that of Kitty Gordon in "Alma, Where Do You Live?", with Charles A. Bigelow at Joe Weber's theatre at 29th street and Broadway. Miss Gordon is the statuesque English beauty whom the Metropolitan critics agree in proclaiming "the most beautiful actress." She has brought over with her the very latest and most elaborate gowns and hats, which she wears in the play. George V. Hobart, the American humorist, has injected a lot of native fun into the book and cleansed it of all the objectionable Gallicisms, which caused Mayor Gaynor of New York to prohibit its performance in German. The sparkling music of Jean Briquet is being whistled everywhere and is charmingly rendered by Mr. Weber's great orchestra under the direction of Herr Hugo Frey.

"There's a very pleasant evening to be had at the Comedy because the piece is entertaining and somebody has really put it on with attention to details, to that usually (in New York) missing attribute 'atmosphere,' and because every player is in the right place everyone is in the picture. There's a clean-cut effect in the performance that is refreshing. How much of this is due to the players themselves is easily seen—but that is not all. The cast was selected with good judgment and the production supervised by somebody who knew how. Result: Illusion, the rarest result on the New York stage. Another word of praise for Miss Buckley; nothing sweeter, more tender, nothing lovelier and truer has been seen in a long time than her Julie's confession of love, at the end of the play. This sort of thing is usually spoiled by young actresses, but Miss Buckley made it all memorably touching by exquisite modulations of expression in face and voice and motion." —From Mr. Arthur Warren's review of "The Little Damozel," The Tribune, N. Y., Sept. 25.

Train Injuries Fatal.

Elizabeth, Oct. 22.—Injured late Thursday afternoon by being struck near Third street, Elizabethport, by a Philadelphia and Reading express, while crossing the tracks, Frank Sommers died yesterday in the Alexian Hospital. His skull was fractured, both legs and an arm broken and his chest was crushed in. He never regained consciousness. The victim was twenty-eight years old, single, and resided at 621 Livingston street, this city.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

He announced in black letters so gigantic as to be almost convincing that the principal members of the "little human flower's" all star company had been persuaded to remain for a special three nights' engagement in order to produce the sparkling comedy "Lord Bob," New York's latest and biggest success, by the popular playwright, Sidney Cremer.

He toiled like a slave through a whole day and half a night to save Ed Binney fatigue.

After midnight, when the impromptu posters were ready, Loveland and "Pa" Winter went out together with big rolls of paper under their arms and a huge pot of flour paste stirred up (for the sake of Gordon's beaux yeux) by the hand of the landlord's niece over the kitchen fire.

What remained of the night he spent in committing to memory the part of Lord Bob, for which, without a dissenting voice, the five other members of the company had cast him.

They went out to rehearsal early next morning and were thankful that there had been neither rain nor snow to destroy the fragile posters. In front of one which Loveland had put up on the face of the opera house stood a girl and an old man, talking in low voices.

"I shall certainly write and tell them what's going on," remarked the girl to her companion, who was probably her father. "It's a shame. Something ought to be done."

"We might telegraph if you think it would be worth while," replied the old man.

Loveland heard the words, spoken as the pair turned away to walk down the street toward the residence part of the town, but he attached no importance to the disjointed sentences.

Everybody was in deadly earnest, and the rehearsal went off very well, considering all its disadvantages.

Ed Binney's cough had not improved, but he was kept up on strong hot coffee, and they got through the performance that night, two men short, almost without a hitch.

A few well though plainly dressed ladies and gentlemen were in the front seats, and all seemed to know each other, laughing and talking together between the acts, and among them, through a peephole in the curtain, Loveland recognized the nice looking girl and old man he had seen staring at his homemade poster in the morning.

The profits of the first performance and the next were not what Val had expected, though the acting of the company improved, but on the last night Loveland tried to hope that Asheville would turn out in full force.

Having set the first scene himself in default of a stage manager or competent stage hands, he applied an anxious eye to a small "spy hole" in the curtain and peeped out.

His heart sank. The house was half empty. But it was early still. There was hope yet. People were coming in. There were the old gentleman and the girl he had seen before, finding their way once more to the front seats. With them were Lesley Dearmer and her aunt, Mrs. Loveland.

CHAPTER XXII.

PIRATES!

FOR an instant Val thought of nothing but the heavenly surprise of seeing the girl he loved. A wild impulse rushed over him to call her name, "Lesley, Lesley!" and spring from behind the curtain as if they two were alone together in a world of their own. But after the first luminous instant the joy of her presence was blotted out in darkness.

He remembered everything—remembered that he was Perceval Gordon, an actor of the submerged tenth, a wretched, penniless barnstormer, who for the moment came near to being an object of charity.

When he had bidden Lesley goodby he was a splendid being who looked down from his heights and, though loving her, saw her impossible as a wife. Their friendship had begun by being somewhat of a condescension on his part—from his own point of view at least—and she, half amused, half angry, had seen that point of view quite clearly, nor had she ever attempted to change it to the last.

At the thought that the curtain would ring up and show him as he was now, to the astonished eyes of Lesley Dearmer, he could have run away, out of the theater, anywhere—it mattered not where—if only she need not see him, need not know that the magnificent Lord Loveland and the miserable P. Gordon were one.

His blood surged up to his head, throbbing in his temples and tingling in his ears, but through the confusion of his senses penetrated the knowledge that he could not go.

Let him suffer as he might and must, he couldn't desert these people whom he had undertaken to help out of the trouble in which by his inexperience he had landed them.

He was responsible for putting on "Lord Bob," and his was the principal part. Crudely as he knew that he played it, the performance could not go on without him. If he refused to act the curtain could not ring up, and the money in the theater would have to be refunded to the disappointed audience.

Loveland felt that it would have been almost easier to shoot himself than to give the signal for the curtain to ring up, yet the moment came when he could delay no longer. He was not actor enough to forget in his acting the world beyond the stage. He did not lose his lines; but, conscious of Lesley's eyes upon him, he felt as stiff and as jerky in every movement as a mechanical doll. The curtain went down on the third act, and Loveland was making a "bolt" for his dressing room when one of the stage hands intercepted him, holding out an envelope.

"To the Manager of the 'Company Producing 'Lord Bob,'" was the address pencilled in an attractive handwriting, which might be that of a man or a woman.

On a sheet of the Asheville theater paper were written the words, "A friend and agent of Sidney Cremer will be obliged by a few words with the manager of the company in the private room of the manager of the opera house kindly lent for the occasion."

Loveland read the communication and handed it to Ed Binney, who was passing. Ed gave a long, low whistle, which set him coughing again and said: "Whew! This is the last straw, isn't it? Some one's put the author on to us. You know we're pirates—regular play snatchers—don't you? There's a big fine for the offense."

Loveland laughed. "I wish Mr. Cremer joy of it."

"Oh, that's all very well, but if he cuts up rough he can make us a lot of trouble. I'm afraid, though I don't know much about such things. I believe Jacobus was never caught. But we're copped this time sure enough. I wouldn't go into the lion's den if I were you. Let the lion come to us at the hotel if he doesn't find out beforehand that we wouldn't make a meal worth eating."

"Meanwhile, perhaps, he'll have the police attach the luggage or something," argued Loveland. "No; I'll go and face the music. Perhaps when Cremer's agent understands the fix we're in he'll let us down easy."

"Well, maybe you're right," Binney agreed. "But it seems a shame you should have to stand up and be shot at alone."

Loveland laughed dubiously. "I'm riddled with bullets already. I'll wipe the paint off my face and go tell the fellow to aim straight and have done with it."

FACE TO FACE WITH LESLEY DEARMER.

Three minutes later Loveland was at the door of the local manager's room. He opened it and found himself face to face with Lesley Dearmer, who was standing there alone.

"Miss Dearmer!" he stammered.

"Mr. Gordon, I believe?" she said primly. How sweet, how dear she was with her soft, bright eyes and long curled eyelashes!

Involuntarily he put out his hand, but she seemed not to see the gesture, and the hand dropped.

"I used the name. I—thought it was better, and it really is my name," he went on, "one of my names."

"You have so many?"

"My sponsors in baptism"—

"The newspapers accused you of being your own sponsor."

"The newspapers accused me? What do you mean?"

"Surely you know. I told you I should read about you, but I expected to read very different things. However, we won't talk of that now"—

"But we must." For a moment he was the old, masterful Loveland. "We must. I want to know what you mean."

"That can wait awhile. I came to ask what you mean. Though I did read the newspapers, I was surprised to find you here. I am acting for my friend Sidney Cremer. A cousin of Sidney's and mine, who lives a few miles out of Ashville, saw 'Lord Bob' advertised for performance and telegraphed. Sidney couldn't come, but my aunt brought me tonight, as Sidney Cremer's interests and mine are—rather closely allied. And you know nobody has a right to produce the play without the author's permission."

"Yes, I know," answered Loveland dejectedly. Cremer's interests and hers were "closely allied!" She had blushed and even faltered a little as she made the statement, and Val sprang instantly to the conclusion that she was engaged to marry Cremer. And he stood convicted of defrauding the man whom she intended to marry. Was there any depth of wretchedness or of humiliation which the thirteenth Marquis of Loveland had not plumbed at last?

"You admit that you knew and yet you produced and played in the piece?"

"I did, but"— he hesitated.

"But what? You see, I'm bound to report to my friend."

"Your friend!" broke out Loveland, losing his head. "You are going to marry him! You don't deny it."

ROSELLE POSTMASTER MARRIES MISS SAUER.

Elizabeth, Oct. 22.—St. Michael's German Catholic church here was the scene Thursday morning of a very largely attended wedding. The bride was Miss Florence M. Sauer, daughter of City Comptroller John S. Sauer, former Democratic leader in the Board of Aldermen, while the bridegroom was Michael J. Bradley postmaster at Roselle. The best man was Arthur Bradley, brother of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Sadie M. Bradley, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Bertha M. Sauer, sister of the bride. The ushers were Martin F. O'Connor and Carl J. Sauer, a brother of the bride. The bride carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley and was given away by her father. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Hubert J. Behr, rector of St. Michael's, and was followed by a nuptial high mass. A reception took place later at the home of the bride's parents, 1158 East Jersey street. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley started yesterday afternoon on an extended wedding tour. They will make their home in Elizabeth.

—The Men's Club, of the First Presbyterian church, Roselle, held a banquet last night. Covers were laid for one hundred. De DeMolli & Co., of this city, were the caterers.

FRATERNAL BOWLING LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

The Fraternal Bowling Tourney was organized last night at Campbell's alleys.

All the teams were represented and the following officers elected: James McCarthy, Loyal Order Moose, president; George Forgerson, Improved Order Red Men, No. 118, vice-president; John J. Campbell, Knights of Columbus, secretary and treasurer. The executive committee will consist of Chas. Ortleib, Wsetfield Casino; Norman Burscher, Somerville Eiks, and C. F. Stout, Plainfield Elks.

The tourney will open on Tuesday evening, November 1, and it was decided that no games would be allowed to be postponed.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

John Kain, of near Paulsboro, was internally injured when he fell from the limb of a large chestnut tree.

Married in Wilmington, Del., September 24, Edward L. Foster and Miss Anna B. Conover, of Ocean City, have just announced the fact.

The First Presbyterian church of Bordentown has just received $1,000 bequeathed to it by the late Mrs. Eliza G. Carslake, of that city.

Not a single applicant appeared at the Camden courthouse Thursday to take the State civil service examination for the position of stenographer and typewriter.

By consent of counsel the hearing in the bankruptcy proceedings against Assemblyman Henry R. Tatem again was postponed for a week in Camden Thursday.

Albert Dasch, of Gloucester City, who fought as a lightweight some years ago was treated in Cooper Hospital, Camden, Thursday, for contusions of the abdomen sustained at the New York Shipyard, where he was employed as a steamfitter.

After facing death in two forms in a fall of sixty feet at a plant of the New York Shipbuilding Company, Edward Fletcher, twenty-eight years old, of 641 Clinton street, Camden, is in Cooper Hospital suffering merely from shock.

While Charles E. Davis, of Shiloh, was driving from Millvile to Salem, Wednesday night, with a load of fruit jars, a car of the Bridgeton and Millville Traction Company struck his team. Both horses were killed, the wagon demolished, the front of the car badly damaged and Davis was thrown twenty feet into a hedge.

The Trenton police are looking for three men who subjected fifteen-year-old William Jackson to brutal treatment on a lonely part of Hamilton avenue late Wednesday night. Jackson was on his way home, when he was confronted by three men, who demanded money. When he told them he had none, they seized him, beat and kicked him brutally and stripped all his clothing from his body leaving his unconscious. Recovering later, Jackson crawled to his home and reported the matter to the police.

Joseph Zyomoski, of Trenton, kept his ten-year-old daughter Stephanie from school to do the housework while he and his wife were employed, and was highly indignant when Truant Officer Quigg haled him before Police Justice Harris Thursday. He declared that it was no one's business what he did in his own household, and that he could not be compelled to send his child to school if he did not want to. The court delivered to Zomoski a lecture on good citizenship, informing him that the laws of his adopted country were made to be obeyed, and then fined him $5.

Mrs. Caleb Dickinson, of Belleville, is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Smith, of Brook avenue.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor, will preach at both services, tomorrow, in the morning at 10:30 and in the evening at 7:45. The Sunday school will meet at 2:30 o'clock and the Men's Conference Bible class at 2:45 o'clock.

Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue, and her granddaughter, Mrs. Gifford Cooley, of the borough, who have been south, have decided to remain there for a week or two visiting relatives and friends.

HE LOST THE RACE

Mark Twain's Futile Chase After a Tallyho Coach.

MISSED A BIG CELEBRATION.

The Way the Famous Humorist In Company With W. D. Howells Did Not Attend the Centennial of the Battle of the Minutemen at Concord.

In his reminiscences of Mark Twain in Harper's Magazine W. D. Howells tells amusingly of the time when he and Mr. Clemens missed the anniversary of the battle of Concord:

"Mark Twain came on to Cambridge in April, 1875, to go with me to the centennial ceremonies at Concord in celebration of the battle of the minutemen with the British troops a hundred years before. We both had special invitations, including passage from Boston, but I said why bother to go to Boston when we could just as well take the train for Concord at the Cambridge station. He equally decided that it would be absurd, so we breakfasted deliberately and then walked to the station, reasoning of many things, as usual.

"When the train stopped we found it packed inside and out. People stood dense on the platforms of the cars. To our startled eyes they seemed to project from the windows, and unless memory betrays me they lay strewn upon the roofs like brakemen slain at the post of duty. We remounted the fame worn steps of Porter's station and began exploring North Cambridge for some means of transportation overland to Concord, for we were that far on the road by which the British went and came on the day of the battle. The liverymen whom we appealed to received us, some with compassion, some with derision, but in either mood convinced us that we could not have hired a cat to attempt our conveyance, much less a horse or vehicle of any description.

"It was a raw, windy day, very unlike the exceptionally hot April day when the routed redcoats, pursued by the Colonials, fled panting back to Boston, with 'their tongues hanging out like dogs,' but we could not take due comfort in the vision of their discomfiture. We could almost envy them, for they had at least got to Concord. A swift procession of coaches, carriages and buggies, all going to Concord, passed us, inert and helpless, on the sidewalk in the peculiarly cold mud of North Cambridge. We began to wonder if we might not stop one of them and bribe it to take us.

"I felt keenly the shame of defeat and the guilt of responsibility for our failure, and when a gay party of students came toward us on the top of a tallyho, luxuriantly empty inside, we felt that our chance had come and our last chance. He said that if I would stop them and tell them who I was they would gladly, perhaps proudly, give us passage. I contended that if with his far vaster renown he would approach them our success would be assured.

"While we stood, lost in this 'contest of civilities,' the coach passed us, with gay notes blown from the horns of the students, and then Clemens started in pursuit, encouraged with shouts from the merry party, who could not imagine who was trying to run them down, to a rivalry of speed. The unequal match could end only in one way, and I am glad I cannot recall what he said when he came back to me. Since then I have often wondered at the grief which would have wrung those blithe young hearts if they could have known that they might have had the company of Mark Twain to Concord that day and did not.

"We hung about unavailingly in the bitter wind awhile longer and then slowly, very slowly, made our way home. We wished to pass as much time as possible in order to give probability to the deceit we intended to practice, for we could not bear to own ourselves baffled in our boasted wisdom of taking the train at Porter's station and had agreed to say that we had been to Concord and got back. Even after coming home to my house we felt that our statement would be wanting in verisimilitude without further delay, and we crept quietly into my library and made up a roaring fire on the hearth and thawed ourselves out in the heat of it before we regained our courage for the undertaking. With all these precautions we failed, for when our statement was imparted to the proposed victim she instantly pronounced it unreliable, and we were left with it on our hands intact. I think the humor of this situation was finally a greater pleasure to Clemens than an actual visit to Concord would have been. Only a few weeks before his death he laughed our defeat over with one of my family in Bermuda and exulted in our prompt detection."

DISCUSSES IMMORTALITY

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring Takes Exceptions to Thomas Edison's Views.

NO NEW LIGHT ON SUBJECT

"A Man's Conscience Proves His Immortality," Says Preacher, "And He Craves God and Another Life."

"Immortality and Mr. Edison" was the subject of an interesting discourse delivered by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church, last night. The sermon was the result of a recent interview with Mr. Edison in a New York newspaper on the subject of immortality. Dr. Herring said:

"In a recent issue of the New York Times there was the record of an interview with Thomas A. Edison on the subject of immortality. Just why Mr. Edison should be thought of as possessing special light upon this theme I do not know. The fact of the matter is that he had no light whatever to shed upon the subject. We are aware of his wonderful knowledge of physical things, and having confined his attention to this field of observation, he attempts to explain all things from this standpoint.

"Mr. Edison says that man is not an individual but an aggregate of cells. If he should lose his finger by accident, he would lose a certain number of cells. He is no more immortal than a city is immortal with its several millions of people, for he is nothing more than millions of cells. That is Mr. Edison's view of man, but our common sense teaches us that behind all the cells that compose the body of man there is the self or the soul that unifies them all. I am not conscious of cells. I am conscious of myself.

"Mr. Edison confesses that he has never investigated psychical matters. He is neither a philosopher nor a psychologist, and yet he attempts to enter a field with which he is not familiar and he denies that there is a God, a human soul, or immortality. Victor Hugo says that there is a philosophy that denies the infinite, there is also a philosophy which denies the sun which is called pathologically blindness. Too close attention to physical studies may cause a man's spiritual vision to atrophy.

"There are several reasons why it is unreasonable to disbelieve in immortality. It does not seem reasonable that annihilation should be the reward of virtue when we know that vice is so often on the throne and virtue on the gibbet. The wages of virtue cannot be dust except in a universe that is fundamentally irrational and immoral. Some men have never had a chance here. They have been 'shipwrecked into life.' It will require another life to adjust the inequalities of this life and give it moral significance. Some men have not had all the chance they needed to realize all their ideals.

"Hadyn had musical ideas floating in his mind far beyond anything he had done. Cecil Rhodes said just before he died that he had so much to do and so little time to do it. It is not rational to believe that a man's aspirations for a fuller, richer life can be stopped short forever by an accident which may occur at any time. Why should we think of a man's thought living on to bless future generations if he himself has perished?

"A man's conscience proves his immortality, for it bids him to aim at perfection and as perfection is not reached on earth, it must find its opportunity in another life. If there is no other world and death ends all, then man is overweighted in the moral side of his nature. It would have been far better had his actions been guided by instinct, then he would not have longed for immortality. As it is, he craves God and another life.

"Nature does not disappoint the instincts of the lower creation; why should we imagine that it tells lies to man? We have other evidence for immortality besides its rationality. We have the message of Him who brought life and immortality to light in the Gospel, and our hearts respond heartily to Peter's appreciation of Jesus Christ when he said, 'Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou only hast the words of eternal life.' We must not rest in the guesses of men, but in the certain message of our Lord and Savior."

N. J. AUTOMOBILE CLUB

Newark Organization Quizzes Political Candidates in This State.

WANT CHANGES IN STATUTES.

President C. H. Bissell Asks That Reasons For Amendments Be Studied and an Opinion Be Given.

Plainfield automobilists will be interested in the action taken by the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club, of Newark, whose members are making an effort to sound the candidates for Assembly and Senate as to their attitudes regarding the present automobile law. Letters were sent last week to the candidates as was promised by the president and secretary of the organization at a meeting held in this city several weeks ago. The letters were signed by Clarence H. Bissell, president of the organization, and are as follows:

The importance of some changes in our automobile laws is very generally recognized throughout the State. The State committee of both parties have favorably declared for such changes, and the platforms of both parties promise careful consideration of the question looking toward the changes which are desired.

The State of New York and many other States give reciprocal privileges to the inhabitants of States that permit automobiles from their States the use of their roads. It is desired above everything else in New Jersey that reciprocal privileges shall be granted to the automobilists of those States which grant them to us. This feeling is so deep seated that it appears in this campaign as an issue of importance.

The owners of automobiles number about twenty-five thousand. A reasonable estimate indicates that not less than twenty thousand are voters. To this number must be added those interested in or employed by the countless number of garages throughout the State, those who sell automobile supplies of all kinds and those interested in supplying entertainment for those who come into the State. It might not be far from the fact to say that altogether upward of fifty thousand citizens of the State of New Jersey are directly interested in this great automobile question.

If in addition to this large number the manufacturers of the State with their employees who are engaged in the production of automobile material of all kinds—leather, wheels, hardware and the various parts—are to be considered those interested in the question would probably number not less than one hundred thousand.

The enormous increase in the valuation of suburban property by which large sections of our State hitherto practically inaccessible have been made residential by virtue of the automobile is, perhaps, another consideration by the people of New Jersey toward the people of other States. The people who care nothing for automobiles do not like to be pointed at as being narrow and mean and selfish. The old days of Camden and Amboy gave the citizens of New Jersey a reputation which it took more than a generation to outlive, if indeed it has entirely disappeared.

The papers of the State have discussed the question with fulness, and it is not necessary to enter into an extended argument. It is important for the automobilist to know the position of the candidates for office on this important matter, and in behalf of the club over which I have the honor to preside I enclose copy of resolutions adopted by the trustees at their meeting held August 1 which define the changes desired, and I would be glad if you would with as little delay as possible inform me of your attitude on this question

Mrs. Noyes Spicer.

Mrs. Harriet M. Spicer, wife of Noyes Spicer, who is well known here, died on Saturday at her home at Potter Hill, R. I., following a long illness. She was born at Pitts Grove, this State, and before removing to Potter Hill, lived in New York. Mr. Spicer is a younger brother of J. D. Spicer, of West Fifth street. Mrs. Spicer leaves a husband and one son. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at the late home. J. D. Spicer and daughter, Miss Ida Spicer, left today for Potter Hill to attend the service.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stewart, of 971 West Fourth street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Viola Stewart, to Chauncey Lant, of 1132 West Third street.

Mr. and Mrs. David T. Kenney have leased Benjamin Wood's house furnished, on West Eighth street for the Winter.

FREEDOM CASTLE'S FAIR

Golden Eagle Knights' Bazaar Opening Attended by a Big Crowd.

TO RUN ALL THIS WEEK.

Music and Dancing Every Night—Booths in Charge of Members' Wives—A Good Restaurant.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, opened its first big fair in Company K armory Saturday night, under gratifying circumstances. A large crowd was in attendance and from the manner in which the various attractions were patronized the undertaking will be a complete success. It will continue all this week and the proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of new initiatory robes for the second degree team.

The hall has been elaborately decorated, fully sixty American flags alone being used. The various booths are prettily grouped about the room and the wares invitingly displayed induced many to buy. One of the features new to fair goers is a restaurant department in charge of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Allen.

Business was brisk on Saturday evening. Dancing is one of the strong attractions and will be a feature every night. Music is furnished by Arthur E. Mosher's orchestra. The booths are in charge of wives and friends of the members and different ones are serving each night. An informal program will be given all through the week and one of the specialties will be a drill by the degree team.

The general committee in charge of the fair is composed of Caspar Waglow, chairman, Joseph Randall, George L. Apgar, David Weiss, and Louis M. Hummer. The treasurers are R. V. Kinney and W. E. Ray. Horace J. Martin, Sr., is in charge of the door and tickets.

FINE MUSIC AT RECITAL IN GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

The resumption of the Sunday afternoon organ recitals at Grace Episcopal church yesterday, was marked by a large attendance. Organist S. Frederick Smith rendered in masterful style the following program: March Solonnelle, Faulkes; Chansonnette, Gaston de Lelle; Dithyramb, Basil Harwood; Serenade, Kinder.

These recitals will be a feature of the afternoon services at Grace church during the coming winter.

Plan for a "Cafe Chantante."

The Silver Cross Circle of King's Daughters, of the borough, is planning to hold a "Cafe Chantante," on Friday evening, November 11, at the Park Club. This will be similar to the one held last year on election night and which was so successful. There will be a novel program, fancy dances and there will be special numbers by New York talent. A limited number of tables will be reserved at an extra price, applications for which will be received by Mrs. Henry Crofut White.

Mrs. A. B. Koplin Celebrates.

Mrs. A. B. Koplin, of Hellertown, Pa., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. William H. Clark, of East Ninth street. Mrs. Koplin is the wife of well known Rev. Dr. A. B. Koplin, of Hellertown, and on Saturday last celebrated the seventy-seventh anniversary of her birthday. Daniel Shea, the popular letter-carrier, has been loaded down the past few days with congratulatory letters and post cards from Mrs. Koplin's numerous friends.

Broke Wrist Cranking Auto.

Russell Sharp, son of David Sharp, of the borough, broke his wrist yesterday afternoon while trying to crank an automobile. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan was summoned and set the bones. It will be some time before the young man will again have the use of his arm.

"Farmer Orator" is Hustling.

James E. Martine will speak at a Democratic mass meeting at Camden tonight. Tomorrow and Wednesday he will speak at other points in Camden county and on Thursday at Milburn and South Orange and Friday evening at Nutley.

M'CREADY'S HOT SHOT IS PROMISED TONIGHT

When Robert H. McCready speaks tonight at the Republican municipal rally at Reform hall, the voters will hear some really interesting facts about the Bi-partisan league, its candidate and the men behind him. He is a convincing talker and what he will have to say promises to be mighty interesting.

John J. Carroll a witty barrister, will give a ginger talk on the local issues and it will be well worth an evening's time to hear his mixture of humor and solid fact. Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who will preside, and B. Frank Coriell, the mayoralty nominee, will also make short addresses. Mr. Fisk will tell about how the city has been run in the past and Mr. Coriell how it will be run in the time he is mayor, should the voters honor him with an election.

The meeting will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Women are invited to attend.

CROWDS GREET RUNYON WHEREVER HE SPEAKS

Judge William N. Runyon is conducting a vigorous campaign in Warren and Morris counties as the Republican candidate for Congress. On Saturday at noon he addressed a company of nearly two hundred miners at Mt. Hope, and in the evening he spoke to five hundred voters in the public hall at Wharton. This rally was preceeded by a large parade. A band iscoursed popular airs at the hall. Former Senator Thomas J. Hilliery also spoke at this meeting.

Tonight Judge Runyon, and Vivian M. Lewis, the gubernatorial candidate, will speak at Phillipsburg. Tomorrow night the Judge will make an address at Stirling. Wednesday night at Netcong and Thursday night at Franklin Furnace. Wherever Judge Runyon appears he is greeted by large audiences and it is the unanimous opinion that he is making lots of votes for himself and the whole ticket throughout the district.

MRS. LEFLER'S ESTATE GOES TO RELATIVES

The will of Mrs. Harriet Lefler, of South avenue, who died ten days ago, was admitted to probate at the surrogate's office in Elizabeth today. Bequests of $500 each are made to Charles Lefler, of Hackettstown, a brother-in-law; Frances Barber, of Paterson, a sister-in-law; Lottie Aber, of Paterson wife of deceased husband's nephew, and Elizabeth Smith, of Paterson, niece of her deceased husband. A bequest of $1,000 is given Mary Bankhead Bodine, of Niagara Falls.

The residue of the estate is left to Elizabeth T. Bankhead and Annie B. Bacon, both of New York. Horace Bacon, of New York, is named as executor. The lawyer for the estate is C. W. Bennett, of New York.

CALVIN A. MOORE DIES, IN SEVENTY EIGHTH YR.

Calvin A. Moore, aged 77 years, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Calvin G. Moore, of Boston, died this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William A. Pinto, 731 West Eighth street. He had been an invalid for the past five years, and during the past few days had been confined to his room.

Mr. Moore was a member of one of the oldest families in Boston, where he was born. For thirty years he was a member of the dry goods firm of Lawrence & Co., of New York, making his home in that city during that time. Five years ago he retired from business owing to ill health. He then spent his first two summers here and for the past three years made his home with his daughter in this city. Mr. Moore is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. A. Pinto and Mrs. R. L. Henshaw, the latter of New York, and one brother, George Moore, of Bayonne. The funeral will be held at the home of Mrs. Pinto, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Exhibition Continued.

The exhibition of hand wrought leather goods at the home of Miss Minnie Sorrell at her home on Arlington avenue, will be continued today, owing to the fact that on account of the weather many could not attend the affair on Saturday. There is a large variety of leather goods shown from small purses to door mats and hand bags.

REVIVAL OF METHODISTS

Monroe Ave. Church Filled at 3 Services Conducted by Rev. M. V. Williams.

TWENTY MAKE THE DECISION.

Large Choir Under Direction of C. L. Lewis a Feature—Meetings to Continue for Three Weeks.

The Monroe Avenue Methodist church was crowded at all three services yesterday including the Sunday school session in the afternoon, the occasion being the advent of Rev. M. V. Williams, pastor of the Rev. M. V. Williams.

Methodist church at Athens, Pa., who will conduct a series of evangelistic services in the three Methodist churches in this city during the next three weeks. Mr. Williams is an interesting and intensely earnest speaker, carrying a manly message, devoid of excitement and hysteria and convincing his hearers of sincereity.

At the Sunday school session yesterday afternoon no less than eighteen young people acknowledged their choice for leading a Christian life and at the evening service two more were added to the list. The congregation last night was made up of the members from Grace M. E. of the borough; the First M. E. and Monroe Avenue churches, and every seat in the edifice was filled as were the extra chairs brought in from the Sunday school department.

The topic selected by Mr. Williams for last evening's sermon was "Christ the Light of the World." The speaker demonstrated beyond any possible doubt that Jesus Christ came into the world for the sole purpose of saving it and that his presence everywhere was the light to the Christian throughout life. The absence of light in the soul told of an unsaved one. How to get the precious gift of eternal life was shown to be a mere surrender of self to the will of the Master and the way to maintain and make secure the once obtained pardon was clearly enunciated by the gifted speaker.

The choirs of the three churches have been consolidated under the leadership of Charles L. Lewis and music will be, as it was last night, one of the pleasing features of the three weeks' revival. There will be services every evening of this week at the Monroe avenue church and the week following at Grace M. E. church in the borough. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the meetings.

FIRE IN WEST END BARN CAUSES $150 DAMAGE.

A barn belonging to Herman Goudhish and occupied by Frank Tinn, a junkman, at 207 Spooner avenue, caught fire in some way last night. The blaze originated in bales of rags and had gained considerable headway when discovered. An alarm was turned in from box 45 at 10.23.

The firemen laid in one line of hose, but had to do a great deal of overhauling in order to get at the bottom of the blaze. It was confined to one part of the structure.

The damage is placed at $100 on the barn and $50 on contents, partially covered by insurance.

MARRIED WITH DIRECTORY

Otto Hoppe and Elnora Donovan Subsequently Arrested on Disorderly Charge.

VICTIM OF WOMAN, SAYS GROOM

Pseudo Clergyman Performs Mock Ceremony in Restaurant—Honeymoon Delayed by Loss of $10 Bill.

Otto was rather guileless and thought he was going to have the time of his life when he accepted an invitation from a pert young miss to escort her to dinner at a local restaurant last evening. Otto's full name is Otto Hoppe, and the fair damsel who so entranced him gave her name to the police as Elnora Donovan. Both young people had a hearing this morning before Mayor Fisk and were remanded until this afternoon for a further hearing. The charge against both is disorderly conduct.

According to reliable information, Otto was slightly under the influence of liquor and was in a loving mood. While the couple were enjoying a repast at the restaurant it was suddenly suggested to them that they be married. Otto was not a bit backward in accepting the challenge to change his estate and Miss Donovan apparently had no objection, so at the psychological moment a clerical looking individual walked up to the table and offered to perform the ceremony.

It is not recorded that the city directory has ever been substituted here for the church ritual, but the record must be made now, for that was the volume used. The sepulchral tones of the pseudo clergyman had hardly ceased when the newly made "Mrs. Hoppe" suggested a trip to Scotch Plains for the honeymoon. P. W. Cregar's hack was requisitioned and the couple started off for the elysian fields. On arrival at the Plains, they discovered that everything was closed up and not even liquid refreshments were obtainable. A return trip was then in order, and upon arrival here the hackman demanded his fare.

Right here the trouble started. Otto felt in his pocket for a ten-dollar bill which he thought he had, but discovered that it had taken unto itself wings. He was broke. Accusing his quondam wife with the theft of his money, he raised a howl that attracted the police. The party were taken to headquarters and locked up. Nora denies having filched the ten-dollar bill, but Otto insists that she must have done it because he had it when they left the restaurant. Nobody seems to know who the individual was who officiated at the ceremony, but it may be that notwithstanding his clerical garb he was one of the light fingered fraternity and while shaking hands with the newly made husband helped himself to the money. But this, of course is mere conjecture.

TALENTED ARTISTS TO APPEAR AT "TABLEAUX VIVANTS."

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ford Watters, of the Master Music Studio, of New York who are to sing at the Plainfield High School auditorium, Thursday evening, November 3, in connection with the Tableaux Vivants, to be given by the Cheerful Workers Circle, of the King's Daughters, for the benefit of the city nurse, will afford a great treat. Mr. Watters is the possessor of a beautiful lyric baritone voice, and has sung with great success in this country and Europe in opera, oratorio and song recitals and Mrs. Watters is rapidly taking her place in the foremost ranks of song singers.

David Bispham says of the latter: "I recall with distinctness and the greatest pleasure Mrs. Watters singing; and for insight into the songs she sang and clarity of expression, the beauty of voice and clearness of enunciation, I do not know just where among American women to lay my hand upon her equal." Tickets may be obtained at Armstrong's and Randolph's drug stores.

Harry L. Finch Entertains.

Harry L. Finch, president of the Watchung Hunt Club, gave a tea at the club yesterday afternoon for a few friends. Mrs. C. W. Holland poured tea and among those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Nicholas, Miss Nicholas, Fred Schroeder, of New Brunswick; William Brown, of Westfield; S. A. Cruikshank, Mr. and Mrs. George Griffiths, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hpliand, Mr. and Mrs. Hart S. Farlee. It has been arranged to hold a tea at the club Saturday and Sunday afternoons at which various women will pour tea.

20 YRS. FOR ANTONNOZZI

Italian Who Slew Fellow Countryman Sentenced This Morning.

NON VULT TO 2ND DEGREE.

He Killed Ferdinand Laghi on the Street Here on Sunday Night, September 25, Following a Quarrel.

Battisto Antonnozzi, the young Italian who killed Ferdinand Langi at Watchung avenue and Fourth street on Sunday night, September 25, retracted his plea of not guilty of murder in the first degree when his case was called in the county court this morning. Acting on the advice of his counsel he entered one of non vult to murder in the second degree and it was accepted by Prosecutor Swift. The defendant was immediately arraigned before Justice James J. Bergen and sentenced to twenty years at hard labor. He will be taken to the States Prison at Trenton Friday.

The action of Antonnozzi's counsel, William G. DeMeza, of this city, and Abe J. David, of Elizabeth, came after a realization that there was but little chance of saving the defendant from a first degree conviction. A second degree verdict was all they could hope for and when the prosecutor indicated a plea of this character would be acceptable they realized it would be for the best and at the same time save the county the expense of a drawn-out trial.

A conference was held when the case was called, Judge Bergen agreeing to wait, and the course as stated was decided upon. The defending lawyers were in receipt of numerous congratulations on their action as otherwise Antonnozzi would probably have gone to the chair. The defendant expressed himself as being fully satisfied at the turn of affairs.

Antonnozzi and Laghi engaged in a quarrel on the street and the former used a knife on his adversary three times, making wounds which proved mortal two hours after his removal to Muhlenberg Hospital. Antonnozzi escaped, but was found hiding under his bed, at his home on East Third street, a half hour after the affray by Patrolman Nick Meyers and Roundsman Higgins.

Up-to-Date-Cash System.

Tepper Brothers, the dry goods merchants, have just installed an up-to-date cash system at their store which is sure to prove popular not only with the clerks, but customers as well, as it insures a prompt delivery of change. The system is known as the "Lamson," and is operated by an electric motor. There is an upper and lower track for the operation of the small cash boxes on a small cable. The system is in tallied throughout the entire store and money is carried quickly back and forth. The cable is in constant action and is practically noiseless. This is only another step taken by the progressive firm to give its customers the best possible service.

Off on a Three Days' Tramp.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, accompanied by Borough Recorder Charles M. Dolliver and Charles McNabb, also of the borough, started out this morning on a three days' tramp over the mountains. They took the train to a point near Hackettstown, from which place they will take a tramp over the country, including stops at German Valley, Morris county, and other places in Hunterdon county. They will return home on Wednesday in time for Mr. Broek to take charge of the prayer meeting at Trinity Reformed church.

Secures Important Position.

J. A. Wilson, of Grove street, who has been one of the head salesmen for the VanDyke, Churchill Company, of New York, a machinery house, has resigned his position and will take a similar one on November 1 with Manning Moxwell and Moore. He will be attached to the Philadelphia branch, making his headquarters in that city and traveling through Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. The position is a very important one, and Mr. Wilson is being congratulated by his friends on his selection.

We Invite Your Most Critical Inspection

of the famous "Forest Mills" underwear, of which we have an immense stock for Ladies and Children. This underwear has the unqualified approval of the most critical persons, having no objectionable features common to ordinary knitted garments. This week will be specially devoted to displaying and explaining the superior points possessed by this famous brand of hand trimmed underwear.

FOREST MILLS HAND TRIMMED UNDERWEAR, EXCEPTIONAL WEARING QUALITIES

The superior quality of material used in the construction of "Forest Mills" hand trimmed underwear, and the special process by which these fabrics are knitted, gives them remarkable life and elasticity, causing them to hold their shape and preventing that "pulled out" appearance which is so common to the ordinary undergarments after wear. When a woman buys a "Forest Mills" undergarment she knows it is absolutely clean, for they are made under the most ideal sanitary conditions and finished by hand in sanitary homes that are licensed and regularly inspected.

MUSICAL PROGRAM AT CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH

The main auditorium of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church was comfortably filled last night when the quartet choir rendered a special musical program. Among the composers represented on the list were Mendelssohn (Elijah), Dvorak (Stabat Mater), Salter and Spicker.

The rendition of these masterpieces of church music left nothing to be desired. Organist Alexander Russell had complete mastery of his instrument, and accompanied the singers with intelligence and a proper conception of the value of nuance and coloring. The enunciation of the soloists was a source of keen delight. They individually vitalized the musical senses of the hearers, evoking warm praise. The capacities of the music were shown in their true value through the splendid ensemble work, the organ at times, notably in "Blessed Jesus," from Dvorak's Stabat Mater, to be an integral part of the vocal work.

The quartet is composed of the following: Miss Lillian Vernon Watt, soprano; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; LeRoy Pilcher, tenor; Albert Betteridge, bass.

It is hoped that these musical evenings will be repeated often. At the morning service "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung for the last hymn, and Rev. Dr. Zelie spoke a few words on the long and useful life of Julia Ward Howe, its author.

THE LATEST IN HANDBAGS.

Here are some of the very newest things in the handbag line.

A fitted bag for week-ends is of seal leather, with an overhanging box frame ten inches wide. It is equipped with a leather pocketbook and seven toilet and manicure articles. The lining is of red leather and the frame is in rose or green gold, with burnished metal pieces.

A very exclusive and luxurious little bag is of blue cross-grain saffian leather with a frame of imitation ivory and a lining of blue moire. It has duplicate strap handles and an equipment of change purse, cardcase and combined powder-puff pocket and bevel mirror. There is a novelty unbreakable clasp.

Still smaller, for afternoon use, is a green cross-grain saffian leather bag, 5½x6½ inches. It has a gold-plated frame concealed between two flaps and flanked on each side by pockets. Duplicate strap handles are again used here, and there come with the bag, in pockets beneath the outer flap, a mirror, a kid-lined powder-puff pocket and a slate with a gold pencil.

Another bag of dark green morocco, nine inches wide, has a mother-of-pearl frame, held by green bands. The lining is gray calfskin, with a change purse, a powder-puff pocket and a mirror. The handle is so made as to fall flat against the bag when folded down.

A bag with an overlapping box frame of German silver, one half entering into the other like a box and its lid, is of black walrus with black bag lining, and there are a vanity accessory and a coin purse.

Red and blue cross-grain saffian leather, suede, seal, walrus and mottled or beaver calf are all in all the best choice for handbags this season.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Epworth League of the local Methodist church is busy at work on the plans for the district convention of the Leaguers to be held in the borough next Friday. There are sixty-seven Leagues in the Elizabeth district, and preparations are being made to receive 250 delegates. Morning, afternoon and evening sessions will be included in the program.

A sepcial service in the nature of a Harvest Home was held in the Presbyterian church yesterday. The interior presented an autumnal appearance through the use of foliage, shocks of corn, fruits and vegetables. An appropriate sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. Ernest R. Brown.

Rev. E. C. Little, who preached in the Methodist church yesterday, was greeted by many old friends he knew when he organized the local church in 1865. During his stay here he was the guest of Rev. W. H. Knox.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church held a birthday social at the home of Mrs. Frank Bowlby Friday evening. The attendance was large and an enjoyable time was had by all.

The W. C. T. U. of Dunellen will hold a meeting in Junior Hall Thursday night. An interesting program has been arranged.

Miss Grace Dolan, of the Bronx, New York, was the guest over Sunday of Miss Katherine Moynihan.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The dance of the Jolly Four, which was to have been held Saturday night in Schott Hall, Berkely Heights, was postponed until Saturday night of this week on account of the bad weather.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The attraction at The Plainfield theatre, today, tomorrow and Wednesday, afternoon and evening, will be that successful comedy, "Lost Twenty-four Hours," in which Robert Hilliard appeared with so much success. This is an amusing play and affords abundant opportunity for the cast to show its ability in light comedy parts. On Wednesday afternoon the management will give a reception on the stage following the matinee performance and all patrons of the house at that time will be received by the members of the company on the stage. A caterer will serve refreshments and other pleasing features have been arranged. The theatre will be decorated for the occasion and everything possible will be done to make the event a successful one. The last half of the week "The Little Gray Lady," in which Dorothy Donnelly was so successful, will be the offering.

Roy Chipman, of New York, has been visiting Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Eaton, of Watchung.

C. B. MORGAN WINS P. C. C. CHAMPIONSHIP

C. B. Morgan, who was the runner-up in last year's golf championship play at the Plainfield Country Club, Robert Abbott being the winner, won the honor on Saturday by defeating Frank C. Talmadge in the final round, 1 up. The stormy weather put a damper on golfing events and only those who were scheduled to play in the final rounds for the championship and second and third sixteens and defeated eights, braved the elements and made the round of the course. It was even slow at the clubhouse, where but few gathered throughout the day.

In addition to the final round for the championship, W. T. Kaufman, 16, beat C. W. King, 25, 5 up and 4 to play, for the second sixteen, and L. H. Gates, 27, beat C. M. Church, 23, 1 up, in the final for the third sixteen. H. D. Hibbard beat R. S. Rowland, by default, defeated eight of first sixteen; C. C. Burke and H. F. Fox, in the final for the defeated eight, second sixteen, did not play, while for the defeated eight of the third sixteen, B. F. Kraffert, 20, beat George S. Clay, 20, 3 up and 1 to play.

Although the weather was disagreeable, the course was in good condition. In the morning about ten boys started in the boys' competition, but on account of the rain did not finish. This competition will probably be continued in November and in addition to a cup for the best net score there has been added a cup for the best gross score during the time of play.

Only two members showed up at the Park Golf Club, and they did not even start in the competition.

Cabbage and Cream.

Remove the outside leaves from a firm cabbage and boil it until tender with an onion, in which a few cloves are stuck. Chop very fine and then mash through a sieve. Put the cabbage into a saucepan with a tablespoonful of butter, pepper and salt to taste and a quarter of a cupful of cream. When thoroughly hot, heap on a hot dish and garnish with triangles of toast.

THE FORUM.

Fair Trade vs. Real Protection.

Columbia University, in the City of New York
Department of Semitic Languages.
October 22, 1910.

Editor, The Daily Press:

My attempt on October 15 at Plainfield to define Dr. Wilson's position on the tariff may have been "awkward," as LeRoy Ellis, in his letter to you of Oct. 18, has seen fit to term it, but it was, at least, sincere. Dr. Wilson, in his recent Monmouth county address, is reported by all the papers as having declared himself openly against "the principle of a protective tariff." This being the case, I was perfectly justified in defining Dr. Wilson's position as being a hostile one to protection.

In Mr. Ellis' quotation from Dr. Wilson I note that Dr. Wilson expresses himself as being in favor of that old hybrid pet of the New York Democratic Press "fair trade;" viz., the principle that advocates protection against foreign competition, only for so long a time as the home industries are unable to bear competition. The fact is that our home industries will never be in a position to bear competition from low waged countries, so long as the present high standard of wages is to exist in this country. The whole question resolves itself to the query: "How are we going to feed our laboring man and enable him to live a life commensurate with human dignity?" Wages are higher now in this country, even in proportion to the present cost of living, than they are in any other country in the world, and, in spite of all specious arguments to the contrary, this undoubted fact must be connected causally with the present tariff. If Mr. Ellis wishes to assure himself as to the better standard of wages and consequent prosperity of the working people in high tariff countries, other than our own, let him pay a visit from an economic point of vie wto France and Germany, and then pass over to free-trade England, and compare the distress among those who labour for a wage in England, with the general prosperity of the similar classes in France or Germany. The reason is because there is no employment in England for many people who would plainly have work today, had not England largely stifled her productive interests by throwing her home markets open to the world, at the expense of her unfortunate proletariat. The world is not yet one great nation with interests and conditions common to all humanity, and, until such a Utopia be reached, there must always be a rigid protection in every country which desires to insure prosperity.

Dr. Wilson adds furthermore, that in the Aldrich tariff, private interests are deliberately thought of rather than public benefits, but where does Dr. Wilson draw the line of demarcation between private interests and public benefits? Public benefit is merely the result of a prosperous national commercial life and the component parts of commercial life are nothing but private interests. He has also failed to show how any particular interests are benefited more than others by the existing tariff, resting content in his usual manner, with a genral statement.

In order to "place Dr. Wilson in the right position" (!) Mr. Ellis cites the following interesting paragraph as a Wilson emanation: "Recent tariff legislation seeks at every point to relieve them (the producers) of (such) necessities of vigilance and improvement; seeks to protect those who have not put their business at the best against those who have." It would be very instructive for the voters of this State to learn from Dr. Wilson just what industries of New Jersey he regards as lacking in "vigilance" and "improvement" and as having deliberately permitted the quality of their goods to deteriorate. What industries of our State does he think ought to be wiped out in favor of similar foreign activities? Such as a passage as the one just cited can only mean that Dr. Wilson has in mind certain specific industries which in his opinion have become inefficient under the fattening tariff. I call upon Dr. Wilson to tell us of which enterprises he was thinking when he wrote these words.

I do not believe that the Aldrich tariff is a perfect one—no omnibus tariff can possible be so in every detail—but I do believe that the present tariff regulations, which will undoubtedly be subject to minor amendment by the Tariff Board inaugurated by President Taft—are as perfect for the welfare of the country at large as they can be made under existing conditions.

Yours faithfully,
JOHN DYNELEY PRINCE.

Organized Labor.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I have read with considerable interest the various articles published in your paper during the last few weeks, in which you criticize the Democratic candidate for governor because he had the fearlessness to speak, what many think just, regarding the growing evils of organized labor. The writer is not opposed to all things of organized labor, but the party leaders, both Democratic and Republican, of late years have been running a race to outdo each other and so widen the breach between capital and labor, in order to capture the union vote. The Republican candidate, Lewis, has adopted in his platform the following articles: "Compelling the employment of union labor on all public work," and "Requiring the union label on all State printing."

Now, I am no lawyer, but my interpretation of the Constitution of these United States is that both of these are direct violations of the same. This is supposed to be a free country, and a man is entitled to pursue a living in a free and unmolested way, so long as he does not interfere with the other fellow. Our former President has had a great deal to say about the "square deal," and I ask—does a free man get the "square deal" when the government under which he is born and lives compels him to join the labor union before he can get a job?

The labor unions are making a great howl about the combination of capital increasing the cost of living, but they don't say a word about their own part in the high cost of living. Let me ask, what was it that raised the price of coal several years ago from $6 to $6.50 a ton? Why are the railroads trying to get freight increases? The demands of organized labor have forced the issue. Where is this continued increase of wages to end? I venture to say that increased wages have been next responsible, in bringing about this high cost of living, to the favored few, from our present unfair tariff. It took a Lincoln to stand for the right in '62; why attack a man who stands by his convictions? If you have any doubt ask any householder, who pays the bills, or any employer of labor, and he will tell you the same story.

Many mechanics of today, when hours are taken into consideration, are overpaid, when compared to the compensation of the clerks and the hours which they give to securing an education and in fitting themselves for the struggle of life.

It is time the leaders of this country stop and give sober thought. Labor cannot exist without capital, and there is a limit to all things. Government should endeavor to build up enterprise, not hamper it as it is doing, by giving too strong emphasis to the evils of capital, while they whitewash the evils of labor.

A DELIGHTFUL MUSICAL AT MRS. FRANK B. BALL'S

Mrs. Frank Bayne Ball, assisted by Mrs. George A. Warner, were the hostesses at a musical at the residence of the former, 31 Myrtle avenue, on Saturday night and a goodly company of music lovers were happily entertained by some excellent talent.

Mrs. Ball threw open her home for the event which was for the benefit of the piano fund of Holy Cross church and the affair proved to be a success both artistically and financially. A program of ten numbers in two parts was given and with the encores demanded filled up a delightful evening in spite of the inclement weather.

Samuel Myers, pianist; Mrs. Ball, soprano, B. A. Linton, tenor; Miss Bertha Waldron, contralto, and Frank B. Ball, of Philadelphia, baritone, all contributed much to the evening's entertainment. A splendidly sung duet "La Forza del Destino," Verdi, was one of the features of the work of Messrs. Ball and Linton, while Miss Waldron and Mrs. Ball in solos were delightful. All the numbers were appreciated by the audience. Mr. Myers displayed fine talent at the piano and was an admirable accompanist. Following was the program:

Part One—Romanza, Grunfeld, Samuel Myers; duet, La Forza del Destino, Verdi, F. B. Ball and F. B. A. Linton; Postillion, Molloy, Mrs. F. B. Ball; Mon Coeur S'ouvre ta Roix, Saint Saenz, Miss Waldron; Spring Song, Wagner, Mr. Linton.

Part Two—Piano solo, Mr. Myers; duet, La Ci Darem, Mozart, Mr. Ball and Miss Waldron; Prelude and Lumier, Donald, Mr. Linton; Flower Song from Faust, Gounod, Miss Waldron; Toreador song, from Carmen, Bizet, Mr. Ball. Coffee was served after the entertainment.

Changes at the Tax Office.

Extensive improvements are being made in the arrangement of the entrance to the office of Tax Collector William R. Townsend on North avenue. The present entrance off the street is being closed up and in it's place a large plate glass will extend across the entire front. The entrance to the office will be to the right of the main hallway just inside the swinging doors. By this arrangement, Mr. Townsend will have the much desired additional room, making use of the space heretofore used by the street entrance. William C. Smith, the contractor, is doing the work.

Musical Entertainment Nov. 29.

"The Evening of Music," one of the entertainments planned in the series of four to be given at the First Baptist church, for the benefit of the building fund of the Temple Baptist church, will be under the direction of Howard M. Case, organist of the First Baptist church, and an exceptionally fine program will be presented. The date for this entertainment is November 29.

CARRIED CONCEALED GUN; ANOTHER SPEAK-EASY

Among the over Sunday arrests arraigned in the city court this morning were four men on charges of intoxication, one for carrying concealed weapons and one for selling liquor without a license.

John Newburg, Charles Marshall and John Kelly, of this city, and James Burke, of Dunellen, were the delinquents, all but the last named escaping with suspended sentences. Kelly was fined ten dollars which he paid.

Frank Carco, an Italian, was arrested on Front street near Park avenue, for carrying a 38 calibre revolver. He was held to await the action of the grand jury.

Peter Riseto, who runs a candy and fruit store at 166 East Front street, was fined twenty dollars for selling liquor without a license. The place has been under suspicion for some time, but the police wanted to get proper evidence before making a move. Last evening Detective Sergenat John Flynn in company with Serveant Overbaugh waited until they were positive they had the goods on Riseto when they promptly raided the place.

They discovered that James Bogue had purchased a half pint of alleged whisky which he was concealing under his coat when he attempted to make his exit from the store. The liquor was promptly confiscated as part of the evidence and the proprietor arrested. In the store a quantity of the fluid was found stored in an out building and was also added to the collection of evidence at headquarters.

Risetto was fined $20 which he paid.

Mayor Fisk, who presided in the absence of Judge William N. Runyon opened court at 8 o'clock and by 9:30 had disposed of all the cases brought before him.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

The Sunday-school class of Trinity Reformed church, of which Miss Winifred C. Rapalje is teacher, has contributed $1.76 to the building fund.

Pastor Broek, of Trinity Reformed church, will make pastoral calls on Thursday on Craig place and Pearl street, and on Friday on Somerset place and Chatham street.

The Consistory of Trinity Reformed church has given a vote of thanks to Edgar F. Sheppard, the official clerk of the Consistory, for his work in revising the church roll. The task was a laborious one, but the work was carefully and well done and Mr. Sheppard deserves much credit.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a business meeting Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, conducted by the president Miss Jennie Sears. There will also be the final rehearsal for the twentieth anniversary exercises to be held at the church Sunday night.

Lots of Comedy at Proctor's.

"At Economy Junction," an amusing comedy of railroad life, will be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Freile at Proctor's theatre, today. The Three Sylvesters, introducing Larry, Jr., will appear in a comedy skit; Pearson & Garfield, comedians, are unusually good; the Mysterious Moore illusionist, introducing the casket mystery. The bill will be concluded by Bonner & Meredith in their fine western comedy sketch, "A Cowboy's Proposal."

—R. Murray, Auctioneer, will sell a choice lot of household goods tomorrow at his auction room, corner Park Ave. and Fourth St., at 2 p. m.

—Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Mary Tucker and Robert Cashman, formerly of this city. The couple were married at Riverton on September 9 last by Rev. E. B. Bates.

Miss Sarah Winkee, of South Second street, is visiting friend in Boston, Mass.

JAMES M. VAIL DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

James M. Vail, who had been ill since February 1909, and who had undergone two operations for appendicitis, died yesterday at his home on Duer street. He is survived by his wife, four children and three brothers, Henry Albert and Walter Vail, also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Vail.

Mr. Vail was a well-known citizen and had up to his illness been in the employ of the late Adam Dealaman, of Dunellen. He was a member of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., and Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, both of which orders will be represented at the funeral.

Mr. Vail was a great sufferer. When he was first taken ill his trouble was diagnosed as appendicitis and he was operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital. Later there developed abscesses which would not respond to treatment and which finally caused his death. His death will be mourned by a large circle of friends among whom were some of the best known residents of the city. The funeral will be held at 12 Duer street, the borough, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

SOMERVILLE.

At the annual meeting of the Public Library Association the following directors were elected: Judge Clarence E. Case in place of Mrs. C. H. Bateman, who resigned; Dr. Mary Gaston, Peter C. Van Nuys, Miss Jean Cawley, Mrs. A. M. Terriberry, Mrs. George Thompson, Miss Verta Opie and Dr. T. P. Brokaw. The new board of directors met last evening and elected the following officers: President, Jas. L. Griggs; vice-president, Dr. William A. Ackerman; secretary, Mrs. L. C. Hardwicke; treasurer, John B. Osbourn.

Friday evening was home mission night at the First Baptist church, the mission boxes were opened and a good sum of money was the result. A novel social was held and the admission was unique, for each one was requested to bring one potato for their admission to the chapel.

Fred Smith aged thirty-five years, died at his home on West Main street on Thursday night after a long illness. Besides a wife, he is survived by a daughter and aged mother.

The opening of the children's dancing class with Miss Blanche Van Eleet as teacher, took place Friday afternoon in the armory. A large number of children attended the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. George Conklin, of Glen Gardner, spent last week with Mr. Conklin's mother, Mrs. J. T. Conklin, on South street.

Miss Mary Weeks is spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Beatty at North Branch Depot.

M'ADOO TUBE STATION.
BROADWAY, 33D ST., N. Y.

William McAdoo, builder of the Hudson Tunne's, announces November 10 as the date for the formal opening of the new Hudson Terminal at Thirty-third street and Broadway.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has arranged a lease with the management whereby it will be allotted space in the concourse for the maintenance of a ticket office.

The terminal station has five entrances from the street, one on the northwest corner of Broadway and Thirty-second street, three under the elevated railroad stairs and one through the Gimbel store property.

Mrs. C. W. Holland will give a dinner at the Watchung Hunt Club, tomorrow night covers being laid for twelve. Music will be furnished by Fred VanEpps.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to publicly thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness in our sad bereavement in the death of our dear father and husband, and also their many floral offerings, including those sent by the employees of the Potter Printing Press Works and Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P.

A CARD.

Recently I received from Plainfield by mail, a very pretty pen tray—a souvenir of The Plainfield High School. The package arrived with the wrappings so much torn that any identifying slip that may have been enclosed was lost on the way. Not knowing to whom I am indebted for this pleasing token of remembrance, (which now lies here on my desk fulfilling its mission), I offer this apology in lieu of a more personal acknowledgment to the sender, who will kindly accept my appreciative thanks.

WHAT TO DO FOR BABY.

Children should never be allowed to eat seasoned dishes or rich cakes or anything of that kind. The plainer their food is the better. It is always a good plan to give a child a glass of hot milk, a biscuit or something equally digestible before going to bed.

When baby goes out in his perambulator or go-cart great care should be taken that his carriage is lifted gently over the curbstones, and when taken on country roads smooth ones should be the first choice. It is very bad for the child to have his carriage jolted.

It is not necessarily a sign that a baby is healthy if he is very fat and eats enormously. Babies of this type should not be feed to excess, and should be kept in the open air as much as possible. As soon as they are old enough they should be encouraged to kick and stretch, and may indulge in walking exercises if their legs are sturdy enough to carry them.

Don't send your year-old son or daughter to the "Land of Nod" by pacing the floor with him or her. The hour may come when you will be physically incapable of so doing and trouble may follow.

Children should be encouraged to take care of their things, and even quite small girls can be taught the value of this. Most mothers are guilty of allowing their children to depend on them for nearly everything. The little girl who is taught to sew the buttons on her clothes, to repair ripping seams, to trim the ends of her hair ribbons, not only developes the habit of self-reliance, but unconsciously becomes neat and particular with her belongings.

CHILDREN'S HATS.

Charming's the word.

They are nearly all quaint.

A number are very large.

But the broad flower pots lead.

Dainty and chic are the trimhings.

The less adorning the better if it be well done.

A quilled ribbon, with a quilled ribbon rosette, is effective.

One pretty dress model, in black velvet, shows a wee white lace frill, headed by tink pink roses.

FUR-TRIMMED BOOTS.

The newest fad in footwear this autumn and winter will be fur-trimmed boots, to be worn with fur and fur-trimmed garments. The fur, usually black and of one of the short haired varieties, will be treated as collars, about three inches down from the top, or as welting.

Everything, indeed, is to be fur-adorned this season, and shoes, it seems, are to be no exception.

A $100,000 DEAL in MISSION FURNITURE

Many Carloads Already Here; More on the Way for the Gigantic Sale Which Begins Today

Thousands of Pieces of the Famed "Arts and Crafts" Product of the Stickley Bros. Co., Grand Rapids Factories, Bought by Us in This, the Largest Single Purchase Ever Made of this Fine Furniture—A Transaction Enabling Us to Sell the People of New Jersey

Every Piece of It at Half Regular Price

It was the most natural thing in the world for the Stickley Bros. Co., of Grand Rapids, Michigan, producers of the famed, quaint "Arts and Crafts" furniture, to come to Hahne & Co. when they wanted to clear at one stroke so many thousands of dollars' worth of furniture, and it is just as natural that we should grasp this extraordinary opportunity to secure this large lot of furniture at half what we usually have to pay.

True, it was an enormous lot of one class of furniture to buy at one time—no other house in the United States would be likely to undertake the handling of such a proposition, for no other one has equal facilities with this organization for disposing of the goods.

America's Greatest Furniture Store demonstrates its supremacy in this transaction as it has on previous occasions; and brings to the people of New Jersey what is certainly the most unusual opportunity ever offered them to buy quantities of the best made mission furniture at exactly half the regular price.

The Quaint "Arts and Crafts" Furniture produced by Stickley Bros. Co., of Grand Rapids, is known far and wide as the most artistically designed, most perfectly made and most beautifully finished of any furniture produced in the class popularly known as "mission."

All makers take off their hats to Stickley Bros. No one questions their right and title to kingship among furniture builders.

We have long represented the Stickley Bros. Co. in this section of New Jersey. Their product can be seen in no other Newark store; the moderate regular prices have been rigidly adhered to, it being Stickley Bros.' wish that the dignity their furniture deserved be well maintained in a price way.

Because of this superiority, this exclusiveness and this maintenance of prices, the sale we inaugurate tomorrow becomes extraordinarily important.

This tremendous purchase embraces furniture for all sorts of rooms, so that one may furnish an entire home, an office, club or cafe, and have it in perfect harmony at just half the usual cost.

Halls, dens, libraries, dining rooms, bedrooms, living rooms, offices, clubs, cafes, taprooms—all may be furnished from this surpassingly large collection of quaint mission pieces, which combine utility, comfort and art.

The woods are carefully selected, quarter-sawed Indiana White Oak, fumed a rich brown shade—different from almost any mission furniture you know of, a color that will harmonize readily with almost any decorative scheme. Solid woods are used thruout in every piece—there are positively no veneers.

In construction the best methods of cabinet work are employed. All joints are mortised and tenoned. Only the most skilled labor is employed in the Stickley Factories. We have never known a joint to open in any of this furniture.

The finish is with wax, that makes a hard surface that is not easily scratched and improves in looks with age, maintaining the beautiful nut-brown shade which distinguishes the "Arts and Crafts" furniture.

The leather used in the upholstering and cushions is genuine Spanish Morocco, tanned and finished in the Stickley Bros.' Factory; fully guaranteed to be the highest standard of leather it is possible to obtain for upholstering. The color is of a shade that harmonizes perfectly with the warm browns of the wood itself.

In every instance we have duplicates of the pieces above listed. Of some there are many, and according to the terms of the contract the goods are to be delivered as fast as we can receive them; therefore it is essential that deliveries be made at once of purchases in this sale.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company. Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

She laughed gently. "Why should I deny it—to you? Have you any right to question me or bring me to book about anything, Mr. Gordon?"

"I know I have no right," he admitted. "Forgive me." To her he was now only Gordon, the actor, who had stolen Sidney Cremer's play. The past was to be forgotten.

"I must remind you again," Lesley went on, in a cool, businesslike manner, though her eyes were starry, "that you mustn't go on using Sidney Cremer's play."

"We have no intention of doing so," said Loveland. And then in as few words as possible, without any attempt at defending himself for his part in the transaction, he explained baldly that the manager had deserted the company and that they had only one piece, "Lord Bob." They had produced it for three nights in the hope of making money enough to get away, but the result had proved disappointing.

"My affairs are rather in a muddle just now," Loveland finished, "but as soon as I get them straightened out again, which I expect to do shortly, I will myself pay Mr. Cremer's fees for these performances if you'll let me know what they are."

"Oh, Sidney wouldn't want you to do that," the girl explained. "I—neither of us knew that the company was in trouble. I can answer for Sidney as if it were for myself. If only you give me your word; Lord Lo—I mean Mr. Gordon—that these people won't go about the country playing this piece I'll ask nothing more."

"You may set Mr. Cremer's mind at rest about that," Loveland answered bitterly. "They aren't likely to go about the country playing any piece."

"You mean they—you—are stranded here?" inquired Lesley.

"Oh, I'm all right," Loveland said hurriedly, far from wishing to pose as an object of pity. "It's the others I'm thinking of."

She gave him a quick, clear look. "Would you go away and leave them here in trouble?" she asked.

"No; I won't do that," replied Val. "I mean to do something for them."

"Won't there be money enough from these three performances of 'Lord Bob' to pay their railroad fares somewhere?"

"I'm afraid not, hardly enough to settle with the landlord and get him to release their luggage, which he's keeping till last week's board bills are paid."

"Your luggage too?"

Loveland grew red. "I haven't any."

"Oh!" The color flew to her cheeks, as if in sympathy with the flush she could not help seeing on his. "No trunks?"

"You say you read the newspapers," said Loveland. "If you did you perhaps saw that the hotel people in New York treated me rather curiously. I didn't read the stuff myself. I really couldn't bring myself to do it. But I gathered from hints given me here and there that the journalists had a pretty rough game with me."

"You had a game with them, to begin with," said Lesley.

"I shut my door in the face of one on my first day in New York," Loveland admitted. "Next day I hadn't a door to shut. America hasn't been very hospitable to me."

"What could you expect? Americans don't like having tricks played on them."

"I played no trick."

"You played a part—the part of Lord Loveland."

Val stared. "How can a man play that he's himself?"

"Do you deny the newspaper accusations then?"

"What accusations? I did knock a man down in the street, and he gave his own version of the story."

"Oh, I don't mean that story, but quite another, the story he said you knocked him down for alluding to—when"—

"We're talking at cross purposes," broke in Loveland, bewildered. "For the sake of any friendship you may ever have had for me, though I'm not asking you to continue it in future, explain what you mean."

"But do you mean that you read nothing, heard nothing of what they were saying about you in New York?"

"I told you I wouldn't look at the papers. What I heard I of course took for granted was in connection with the hotel affair and the row in the street."

CHAPTER XXIII.

LORD LOVELAND, CHAUFFEUR.

LESLEY thought for a minute, with an expression on her face which Loveland could not understand. Presently an idea seemed to commend itself to the girl. On her arm a little gold and platinum bag hung from its chain. Well did he know the two compartments in this favorite little receptacle of Lesley's treasures; and now he watched her with eyes homesick for past days, as she took out the remembered cardcase and from an inner pocket of that cardcase a folded newspaper cutting.

"It's quite time you did read for yourself," she said. "This will make you understand better than I can tell you. Fanny Milton cut it out of the New York Light and posted it to me. I've kept it here—I hardly knew why, but now I'm glad I did."

It was Tony Kidd's first article that Loveland read with a shock of surprise, which at the very beginning set the blood humming in his ears like the sound of the sea in a shell.

Tony had told his story spicily in a way to make his readers laugh. But Loveland did not laugh. He read on and on, dazed at first, then with a burst of enlightenment which made clear many mysteries.

"The difficult young man to approach" had come to New York to see heiresses and conquer papas, said Tony. He had begun the conquering process on board ship, being a youth of a thrifty turn of mind, who believed in taking time by the forelock. He had made friends. He had even perhaps made love. Soon no doubt he would have made a match, but the schemes of mice, men and even marquises have a way of going wrong, especially when and that "when" reminded Tony to pause and ask a conundrum. "When is a marquis not a marquis?" The writer invited the public to guess. "Why, when he's a valet, of course." And then Tony went on to protest gayly that neither he nor his paper was responsible for the assertion that this marquis was not a marquis. They merely put the question and gave the answer for what it was worth.

MASQUERADE PARTY FOR THEIR DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Verschuur, of 37 Prospect place, gave a masquerade party Saturday evening for their dauhgter, Miss Emma Verschuur, in honor of the eleventh anniversary of her birthday. The house was elaborately decorated for the affair with autumn leaves and chrysanthemums. The evening was spent playing games and in dancing, music being furnished by an orchestra. During an intermission, supper was served. Miss Verschuur received a large collection of handsome presents. Miss Anna Blume and Miss Lillian Hulsing were awarded first and second prizes following the games, and Clay Cassel and Charles Blume won first and second prizes for the young men. Those present were the following:

The Misses Genevieve Potter, Ruth Foster, Isabelle Lambert and Charles Potter, Kenneth Potter, Clay Cassel and Clifford Foster, of Greenville; the Misses Marion Thompson, Pauline Stuart, Winnie Stuart, Phebe Herrman, Clara Brown, Gertrude King, Anna Blume, Lillian Hulsing, Charlotte Verschuur, Elsie Verschuur, Miss Perry and Ralph Slonim, Charles Bloom, Pelland Wilmerding, Stanley Bellows, of this city; John de Bruin, of Suriname, West India, and Mr. and Mrs. Verschuur.

C. W. HOLLAND GIVES DINNER AT HUNT CLUB

Although the disagreeable weather prevented the holding of the weekly chase after the hounds, it did not interfere with the dinner given at the Watchung Hunt Club by C. W. Holland to about thirty members and friends Saturday night. The affair was a delightful one. The dinner was served in the grill room under the direction of Sidney Richmond the steward, and the menu was greatly enjoyed. During the evening there was a fine musical program by the Watermelon Quartet. Those present were the following:

R. A. Fairbairn and E. Lowe, of Fairbairn and Edward Lowe, of Westfield; S. A. Cruikshank, Harry L. Finch, Rufus C. Finch, C. W. Holland, Sidney Hollis and J. J. O'Donahue, of New York; H. W. Rose, Marshall Clapp, Charles Wildey, George Perry, H. S. Farlee, F. L. C. Martin, John Tenney, R. Douglass Martin, A. B. Davies, W. deLaR. Anderson, Fred Dietrich, H. W. Beebe, C. E. S. Bellows, J. Hartley Mellick, T. R. VanBoskerck, A. G. Hooley, Thomas Beard and Col. Postlethwaite, the last named of Philadelphia. Gilbert B. Fletcher was the toastmaster at the dinner.

NEWLYWEDS' RECEPTION WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

Mr. and Mrs. Laurance H. McNeill, who were married last week, were given a reception Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Thompson, of Rockview avenue, the borough, following a short trip. There were about 150 relatives and immediate friends of the couple present at the reception, which proved to be a delightful affair.

The bride and groom were assisted in receiving by the parents of the bride and her sisters the Misses Thompson. The house was attractively decorated with autumn leaves, cosmos and chrysanthemums. During the evening an elaborate supper was served by a New York caterer. The bride received many beautiful and costly gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. McNeill leave tonight for Mobile, Ala., where they will reside. Mr. McNeill is engaged as architect for the Board of Education of Mobile.

Marshal Culver Resigns.

Frank Culver, who has been a regular marshal on the borough force for the past fifteen months, tendered his resignation Saturday night, and asked for immediate acceptance. He returned to his trade as carpenter this morning. Culver said in resigning that he did so because his hours were too long, his beat too large and the pay insufficient. He made an excellent officer and leaves the force with a clean record.

A Birthday Surprise.

Frank Neidig, the popular Somerset street butcher, was given a surprise party at his home, yesterday, in honor of his birthday. Thirty friends from New York, Brooklyn and the Plainfields were in attendance and enjoyed dinner and sociability. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Neidig.

Mrs. Minnie K. Eriksen.

Mrs. Minnie K. Eriksen, wife of James P. Eriksen, of 730 Ravine road, died yesterday after an illness extending over two years. The funeral will be private.

Rev. Dr. Blauvelt Resigns.

Rev. Dr. I. A. Blauvelt, for thirty-six years pastor of the Presbyterian church, Roselle, tendered his resignation at a special meeting of the Elizabeth Presbytery, held in the Second Presbyterian church, Elizabeth this morning. He was made pastor-emiritus of the church. Dr. Blauvelt retires because of advanced age, being seventy-one, and the pastoral duties are too heavy for him. Many kind expressions were made by the ministers at this morning's session.

Annual Church Election.

Following the mid-week prayer meeting at Trinity Reformed church Wednesday night, there will be a congregational meeting for the annual election of church officers. The members of the Consistory whose terms of office expire are as follows: Elders George H. VanEmburgh, Robert Clark, Jr., H. E. Gayle; Deasons A. K. Willett, William R. Kriney and William F. Oliver.

Soccer Game Postponed.

The soccer game scheduled between the Plainfield A. F. Club and the Marshall A. A., for Saturday, had to be called off on account of the weather. This was a great disappointment to the local club and its supporters, who were eagerly looking forward to an exciting game. The management have hopes, however, of ringing this game in on one of the holidays so that it will not conflict with the regular schedule.

Ball Game Called Off.

On account of the weather the last game of the season between the Plainfield Baseball Club and Bound Brook, had to be postponed on Saturday. It is not known whether the game will be played or not, on account of the lateness of the season.

Miss Ethel E. Humphrey, of East Front street, left yesterday for Rome, N. Y., to spend two weeks.

PROUD OF CITY'S RECORD

Mayor Fisk Reviews the Municipality's Envious History.

NO "GRAFTERS", NO "RINGS".

He Declares That Those Who Assail City as Machine Ridden Are "Gibbering Asses."

Mayor Fisk's speech at last night's Republican municipal rally, which was the feature of the demonstration, is herewith reproduced in full:

"My friends, I am proud of the City of Plainfield and I feel justly so. I have been connected in some way with the city government ever since February, 1892. As a member of the Common Council, member of the Board of Health and Mayor. I have been associated with many citizens who have from time to time been members of the Common Council and taken part and performed their share in bringing about the many improvements and protecting the interests of the city.

"It has been charged and rumored that the government of this city has been under 'Ring Rule.' Years ago it was Pope and Murray. Then the 'Three Macs;' within the last few years it has been the 'One Mac' who has been charged with being a great machine.

"This 'Mac' or machine, has now been taken over by the opposition and I suppose now that the machine has gone, all work will have to be done by hand. But be this as it may, I claim that 'Ring Rule' and 'Machine Politics' has never existed as far as the government of Plainfield is concerned. The charatcer of men that have taken part in bringing about these many reforms should be enough to convince people of the untruth of any such statement. Among others I have only to mention Townsend Rushmore, Henry R. Newhall, E. R. Ackerman, S. A. Ginna, W. E. C. See, E. H. Bird, E. N. Erickson, Rufus Case, Frank A. Marsh, J. B. Dumont, H. M. Stockton, George H. Frost, William H. Moore, Elliot T. Barrows, Albert C. Stebbins, Harold Terrell, John T. Baker, Wm. N. Runyon, F. H. Andrews, Jas. T. Buckle, J. P. Homan, Henry Leifke, John Van Herwerden, B. Frank Coriell, Geo. B. Mellick, Frank H. Smith, Leslie M. Daniel, Edward E. Pray, W. A. Garrigues, H. D. Hibbard, Wm. S. Tyler, D. F. Ginna, Robert E. Hall, without mentioning the names of the present members of the Council, whom you all know.

"Do you mean to tell me that any of these men can be called 'grafters' or even be suspicioned of graft, or be charged with doing anything in their own interests and against the interests of the city, or to violate any trust imposed upon them?

"Do you mean to tell me that these men or anyone of them could be dictated to by any political boss or be brought in under the whip or a ring-master? I say positively no! Such an insinuation is too insulting to require any answer, and such statements could only be made with malice aforethought by somebody having an axe to grind, or by the emanations coming from a beaddled brain and spoken from the mouth and by the tongue of some jibbering ass.

"Since the year 1892 the government of the city has been entirely under the control of the Republican party. During that time they have brought about the reorganization of every department. Business methods have been inaugerated to bring about the best and greatest results with the least expenditure of money.

"Among the important matters accomplished was the adoption of new grades to conform with the modern improvements throughout the city, which has been the means of saving the taxpayers and property owners a great deal of money.

"All the back real estate taxes were adjusted and collected under the Martin Act, thereby not only bringing in a large amount of money to the treasury by clearing up many titles.

"A complete sewer system and a sewage disposal plant installed.

"Telegraph, telephone and electric light wires placed under ground in the business sections.

"Electric street lighting introduced.

"New High School building erected. New fireproof school house at Darrow avenue and a new school house in the West End erected.

"Franchises granted under favorable conditions to the city from which the city receives 5 per cent. of the gross earnings, the city's proportion amounting to about $6,000 yearly, and in addition the trolley company pays one-third of street repairs or street re-paving where they have a single track and one half of all repairs or repaving where they have double tracks.

"These trolley lines have opened up outlying sections of the city and have been of benefit and convenience to the people.

"Three new fire houses have been built—the fire headquarters on East Second street, and a fire house in both the east and west ends of the city.

"Permanent brick pavement has been laid in the business section.

"New police station, courtroom and jail erected.

"Commission established for the care and planting of shade trees.

"Play grounds commission appointed and play grounds have been opened in certain sections of the city for the children, and through the generosity of one of our citizens an atheletic field second to none in this State is now in course of construction for the use our boys and girls.

"Many miles of streets have been macadamized, sidewalks and crosswalks laid. Street sprinkling has been introduced and many of our streets treated with oil—thus doing away with the dust nuisance.

"In the early 90's water works were built and contracts made with the water company for fire hydrants throughout the city, doing away with the old fire wells.

"The Council have made various investigations and have taken preliminary steps looking towards the acquiring of these water works or the establishing of a municipal plant. The report of the engineers engaged in this work is expected early in November.

"All the above and many other matters have been accomplished without creating any large amount of bonded indebtedness. The bonded indebtedness of the city is now $575,000, divided as follow:

"Sewers, $220,000.
"Schools, $274,000.
"Police headquarters, $25,000.
"Brick pavement, $31,000.
"Fire house $15,000.

"In addition to this $39,000 short term, three year assessment bonds, for the improvement of certain streets, have been issued, the most of which will be paid by the property owners directly benefitted.

"A few years later the police department was reorganized and put into good shape under the leadership of Mr. Elliott T. Barrows. A system was adopted for the appointment of men to the force under civil service rules, after a thorough examination both mentally and physically, and today we have in the city of Plainfield one of the best and most efficient police departments for its size in this State.

"The force at this time consists of twenty-four men. The chief of police, salary $1,600 per year; the captain, salary $1,200 per year; two sergeants, salary $1,140 per year; one roundsman, salary $1,080 per year; a partol driver, salary $792 per year; and eighteen patrolmen with salaries ranging from $792 to $1,000 per year. There is one pensioner who receives a pension of $500 per year.

"The time will very shortly come—owing to the growth of the city—when he should have more men, and the men who have served the city for five years or more should be better paid.

"A pension fund should be created to provide for the care of those men and their families when the men have grown old in the service or have been disabled while in the conduct of their duty.

"Plainfield is one of the few cities that has not created a pension fund. Our men are paid on the average less than men holding similar positions in other cities of the same size, and owing to the small number, the men are obliged to do much longer duty each day.

"The fire department was purely a volunteer department, very poor apparatus and equipment. The reorganization of this department really began during the reign of the celebrated Big Six by the introduction of horses to draw the apparatus and paid drivers. Later in 1893 or 1894 when the late E. N. Erickson was in charge, the old apparatus was replaced with new and up-to-date equipment and the fire headquarters built on East Second street, and in about the year 1899 or 1900 B. Frank Coriell as chairman of the fire committee brought about the organization of a part paid department and did away with the volunteer companies.

"The force consists of the chief, salary $1,100 per year; assistant chief, salary $1,080; four captains, salaries $1,200 per year, and twelve regular firemen consisting of drivers, tiller-men, hosemen, etc., as salaries ranging from $720 to $960 per year, and thirty-one call men, twenty-nine of whom receive $55 per year, one captain of call men ,$100 per year, and the engineer of steamer, $82.50.

"Owing to the growth of the city this department will also have to increase the force, and unless we are able to do something to increase the water pressure at the hydrants, we will have to have additional apparatus—either of steam or some other power engine.

"There is only one other city in the same class as Plainfield in this State that pays less salary to its firemen. In most cases the salaries are much higher. Our chief—even

MURPHY, LIQUOR CRAZED, FIGHTS PATROLMEN

It required the combined efforts of three patrolmen to land Timothy Murphy in a cell at police headquarters last night. Murphy was drunk and was raising a disturbance in the Netherwood section when the police were telephoned for. The patrol wagon was hurried to the place where Murphy was raising ructions, intimidating passers by and people in their houses.

After an effort he was landed in the wagon and then began a strenuous time for Patrolmen Myers and Baeder. Their efforts to subdue the fighting drunkard resulted in both men becoming tired of the job, and when Driver Tom O'Gorman suggested that one of the others drive the horse and he would attend to Mr. Murphy, the change was made. O'Gorman made short work of the job, and Murphy was landed in a cell much subdued. This morning Mayor Fisk sentenced Murphy to thirty days in the county jail.

WANT BETTER LIGHTING FOR BUSINESS SECTION

William Jeffery, president of the Board of Trade, with a view to taking up the question of better street lighting for the business section of the city, has appointed Mayor Chas. J. Fisk, B. Frank Coriell and A. E. Force a committee to investigate the question and submit a report at the December meeting of the Board. It is the object of Mr. Jeffery to have the committee visit other cities for the purpose of securing advanced ideas on the best plan to be followed in Plainfield.

Mr. Jeffery says that all agree that the business section is very poorly lighted and this condition is a deterrent to the best interests of the community. He hopes that some feasible plan will be adopted whereby better results can be secured in this respect.

GETS BROKEN WRIST IN STARTING FRIEND'S AUTO.

Mayer Warren, the Somerset street painter, picked up an automobile at a bargain last week, but when he got it in his back yard, Sunday, he was unable to start it up. Russell Sharp, a neighbor volunteered to do the cranking and went at it in a business-like way. At the second try the handle back-fired and gave him a fearful crack on the wrist, breaking it in two places.

Telephone calls were sent for doctors but five offices were called before one was located. He arrived in a short time and was setting the breaks when the other four dropped around one by one. With this array of medical and surgical talent the arm was fixed up in fine shape and Sharp is doing all right.

Mr. Suffern Honored.

At the annual convention of the American Association of Certified Public Accountants, at the Hotel Astor, New York, Edward L. Suffern, of Sycamore avenue, was elected president. He is senior member of the firm of Suffern & Son, certified public accountants, New York. The American Association is the national organization of Public Accountants, and includes in its membership substantially all of the best known certified public accountants practicing in the various States under the laws thereof.

"Present Opportunities in China."

The first monthly missionary meeting of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held tomorrow evening. The speaker will be Gilbert Reid, who will give an address on "Present Opportunities in China," with references to his own work among the higher classes in connection with the International Institute of China.

Wedding Anniversary Surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H Pennoyer, of West Front street, were given a surprise at their home last night, in honor of their fourteenth wedding anniversary. Forty-five friends were in attendance from this city and surrounding places, and spent the evening in a social way. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Democratic Rally Tonight.

The North Plainfield Democratic Club will conduct a mass meeting in its rooms at 83 Somerset street tonight. Joseph Noonan and Thos. Haight, of Jersey City, will be the speakers. All borough voters are invited to attend.

SUFFRAGISTS PRACTICAL

Local League Adopts Plan to Make its Work More Effective.

SYMPATHY FOR MRS. HALL.

Letter Expresses Appreciation of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe's Life —State Convention Here Next Month.

A special meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield was held at the home of Mrs. Samuel Huntington, on Franklin place, yesterday afternoon to consider and vote upon the new scheme for work and organization which the National Woman Suffrage Association had submitted. The local league, in common with the other New Jersey clubs, is auxiliary to the New Jersey State Association which in turn is auxiliary to the National Woman Suffrage Association, thus providing a businesslike and efficient organization, by means of which the local branch, through the State Association, is in direct communication with the National Woman Suffrage Association, the source from which the latest campaign plans and the ideas for enlarging the work are obtained.

The organization of the movement has so far proved thoroughly practical and excellent, but the time is now ripe for an earnest and energetic campaign of work, and it is furtherance of this end that a scheme for the extended scope of work and closer organization has been prepared by the Rev. Anna Shaw and the leaders of the National Woman Suffrage Association. The scheme submitted in the form of questions was adopted after discussion of the various points. By it plans are suggested for the enrollment of suffragists according to the political district in which they reside, in order that at a given time they may exert effective pressure upon their legislative candidates—the concentration of effort to keep the question of equal suffrage continually before Congress; the carrying through of test cases whenever and wherever possible, and the reorganization of the literature department in order that it may become self supporting.

The secretary was empowered, by a motion unanimously carried, to write a letter of love and sympathy to Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, honorary president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, expressing the league's appreciation of the life and work of her mother, the late Julia Ward Howe.

Business in connection with the entertainment of delegates from the other New Jersey suffrage clubs to the annual convention of the State Association to be held this year in Plainfield on the first and second of November, at the Y. M. C. A. building, was transacted. These delegates to the convention from the local league were appointed: Mrs. Champlain Riley, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Dr. Clara Kraus, Mrs. Haff, Mrs. Ryder, Mrs. Tomlinson and Miss Mary R. Wells.

After the meeting adjourned tea was served.

HEAVENLY REST Y. P. A. TO ENTERTAIN FRIENDS.

The third dramatic entertainment given by the Young Peoples' Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, will take place this evening in the parish house. The program includes sketches, quartet singing, solos, and instrumental music by an orchestra. Miss Jane Bennett will be the piano accompanist.

Following is the program: Prelude, orchestra; cornet solo, Albert McCall; sketch, "Byron Johnson," Misses Ida Brooks, Isabel French, Sadie Wadhams and Messrs Richard Borden, Lewis Kriney and John Kriney; song, Mrs. Shreve; sketch, "A Woman's Wit," Misses Julia Lee and Blanche Thorne; popular songs, male quartet composed of Messrs. Leadbetter, Metler, Apgar and Cumberly; song, Susan Bennett; sketch, "Worse and Worser," Claude Borden and Frank Putnam; selections by male quartet.

The entertainment is given under the supervision of Mrs. Charles Borden, who has worked assiduously for the success of the entertainment in training the young people in their parts. A successful evening is assured.

Republicans are Invited to attend Democratic mass meeting, Thursday, Oct. 27, Reform Hall, 8:00 p. m. Speakers: the eloquent Congressman Robert L. Henry, of Texas; William E. Tuttle, Jr., candidate for Congress; Congressman Jas. A. Hamil, of Jersey City, and Honorable John H. Lippincott, of Jersey City.

RUNYON TOURS MORRIS, SPEAKING EACH NIGHT

No stone is being left unturned by Judge William N. Runyon to pile up a big majority on election day, as the Republican congressional nominee. He is touring Morris county today. Tonight he speaks at Stirling. Tomorrow night will find him addressing the voters at Netcong and on Thursday night he will be heard at Franklin Furnace. He is scheduled to talk at a mass meeting at Kenville on Friday night. His tour of Morris will be ended then and on Saturday he will begin a whirlwind tour of Warren county.

In company with Vivian M. Lewis, the gubernatorial nominee, Judge Runyon yesterday made a trip through Warren county. There were twelve automobiles filled with Republican leaders in the party. In the afternoon the judge spoke at Belvidere and at night at Phillipsburg. Everywhere he goes big crowds greet him.

BOROUGH REPUBLICANS PLANNING BIG MEETING

The North Plainfield Republican club is busy at work completing plans for the mass meeting to be held in Saengerbund hall, Thursday night. It will be the largest rally of the campaign and preparations are being made for a capacity audience. President Alex. Milne, of the club, will issue a list of vice-presidents tomorrow or Thursday.

Former Governor Edward Casper Stokes will be the big magnet in the speaking talent, and others secured are Congressman Ira N. Wood, seeking re-election, and Adam Bede, of Michigan, one of the best of the national speakers. The county and borough candidates will also be present and speak briefly. A musical entertainment is also to be provided.

All voters in North Plainfield, irrespective of party, are urged to be in attendance.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN'S CLUB PLANNING FOR WINTER SEASON.

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church, met last night, upon invitation to hear a talk by H. W. Herrman, leader of the Men's Conference Bible class of the First Baptist church, on the subject of greater usefulness of men in church work. Mr. Herrman told of the work being accomplished by his class at the First Baptist church, offering suggestions that might be of help to the Men's Club.

Mr. Herrman's talk was followed by an informal discussion of plans, but no definite action was taken at that time. The club will hold another meeting within a short time for this purpose. It is likely that the club will hold one and possible two banquets this winter, according to the anual custom, but this will be taken up later.

Eloquent Speakers Coming.

The speakers engaged for the Democratic mass meeting to be held in Reform hall on Thursday night will include Robert L. Henry, of Texas, who is considered to be one of the most eloquent men in Congress; William E. Tuttle, Jr., candidate for Congress in the Fifth district to succeed Mr. Fowler; Congressman James A. Hamil, of Jersey City, and Hon. Job H. Lippincott, chairman of the Democratic State auxiliary committee.

In the Police Court.

As a result of an investigation made by Mayor Fisk into the escapade of Otto Hoppe and Elnora Donovan on Sunday night, the former was fined $10 and the latter put in charge of Probation Officer Irwin, of Elizabeth. Hoppe paid his fine from a big roll and seemed glad to have escaped without having to spend the balance. He belongs in Boston and undoubtedly will give Plainfield a wide berth in future.

Disorderly Italians.

Two Italians were picked up by the local police this morning at the request of the Fanwood police, on charges of disorderly conduct and intoxication. The men were fighting in Fanwood, but when the patrolmen approached to arrest them they hot-footed it for Plainfield. They were turned over to the Fanwood authorities.

Parent-Teacher Meeting.

The proposition to consolidate the Stillman and Franklin Parent-Teacher association will be adopted at a meeting of the latter organization tonight at the Franklin school at 8 o'clock. It will be a question box meeting, and all parents are invited to be present whether they are members or not.

MARTY O'LOUGHLIN TO WED MISS GUISE

Miss Mary Guise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Guise of New Brunswick, and Martin J. O'Loughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William O'Loughlin, of Park avenue, will be married at 6 o'clock this evening at the rectory of St. Mary's church, Father B. M. Bogan, pastor of the church, will perform the ceremony.

The bride, who will wear a traveling gown of cadet blue, trimmed with black satin, and carry a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley will be attended by Miss Jennie Donning, of New Brunswick. The best man will be Neil Scott, of this city.

Following the ceremony, the couple will enjoy their honeymoon at West Point, and upon their return will reside with the groom's parents on Park avenue.

The groom, who is engaged as the professional at the Plainfield Country Club, is one of the best known golfers in the country, having taken part in many of the big tournaments. He has always been a prominent figure in the professional golf tournaments.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICE OF STIRRING INTEREST

Evangelistic services were continued at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church last night, in charge of Rev. M. V. Williams, of Athens, Pa., and more than one hundred people attended, the majority being Christians. In view of this, Mr. Williams devoted his remarks especially to those professing Christ. He emphasized the importance of consecration and of Christians placing themselves in God's hands to be used by Him in His service. The talk was one that appealed strongly to Christians and was calculated to inspire them to do greater things in the future and bring the unconverted into the church.

The talk by Mr. Williams was preceded by a song service, led by a chorus choir, under the direction of Charles L. Lewis. Tonight William Holmes will direct the chorus choir in the absence of Mr. Lewis, and Mrs. Richard Gilbert, soprano, will sing several solos.

Assisting Mr. Williams are Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church; Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church, and Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church. All of the local Methodist churches were represented last night.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY GIVEN BY MISS CHARLOTTA SUTTON.

Miss Charlotta Sutton, of 52 Chatham street, North Plainfield, entertained her teachers and about twenty-five of her classmates at a hallowe'en party at her home last night. The company were attired in fancy costumes and masks, which brought many amusing situations when the teachers attempted to identify their pupils.

The evening was pleasantly spent in vocal and instrumental music and games. The class songs and patriotic airs were sung and the ducking for apples evoked much merriment. The house was decorated in autumn foliage and presented a handsome appearance. Refreshments were served. The teachers present were Miss Falkenburgh, Mr. Demar and Miss Pound.

Attended Wedding Anniversary.

Henry Johnson, the steward at the Park Club, has just returned from a two months' trip to his native home in Malmo, Sweden, where on September 27 he attended the golden wedding anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Johnson, highly respected residents of that place. Mr. Johnson who is seventy-eight years old, is the chief custom officer at Malmo, a position he has held for many years.

Attended Father's Funeral.

Mrs. Margaret Neil of East Fourth street, and her brother have returned from Prince Edward county, Va., whee they attended the funeral of their father, Lewis Booker, aged 82 years, who died on October 18 last. He was father of twenty-three children and left a wife and fifteen children, eighty grandchildren, fourteen great grandchildren and many friends to mourn his loss.

Traded Fire Horses.

"Ted" and "Mack," the grey fire team that has been doing duty in the North Plainfield department, has been traded off with Stonewall Jackson for a new brown team. The old team was not well matched for working together and the new ones are much better in every way. They have been named "Tom" and "Jerry."

CLINCHING FACTS AT CITY REPUBLICAN RALLY

Tumultous Applause Interrupts Ringing Remarks of the Speakers Who Poke Fun at the Opposition.

RAPS BI-PARTISAN LEADERS.

"The Nursery of Discontent" Comes in for Attention—B. F. Coriell Makes a Straightforward Address.

Some three hundred men, mostly Republicans and a few women, enjoyed a meeting in Reform Hall last night in which the claims of George W. V. Moy to the suffrage of the people of this city were shown to hang on very slender threads and incidentally to discover that the so-called double salary graft was not graft at all, but the in every case the salaries paid to city employes whatever their occupations was justified and should receive the approbation of the voters.

In the audience Mr. Moy, L. V. F. Randolph, Howard Tracy and R. Henry Depew heard the arguments brought out by Mayor Charles J. Fisk, B. Frank Coriell and Robert H. McCready as to why the Republican party should be supported at the polls on November 8. Mayor Fisk was the first to take up the burden of telling why the Republican administration should be endorsed. Mr. Coriell followed with his declaration of intentions if elected and was followed by Robert H. McCready who riddled the bulwarks of the Bi-partisans with shot left after the Mayor had finished throwing his bombshells into the League. John Carroll spoke on National issues.

On the platform with the speakers were Dr. Ellis W. Hedges, William G. DeMeza, Councilman W. L. Gloak, Walter Hetfield, Jr., who introduced Mayor Fisk as chairman of the meeting, Duncan W. Taylor, Councilman Herbert Buxton, J. Henry Crane and others.

Mayor Fisk spoke for over an hour and in that time went over the history of the Republican administration in municipal affairs for the past twenty years pointing out with some show of pride what had been accomplished in that time. In the beginning Mr. Fisk said he was not there to defend the administration as he had yet to hear any accusation which required defense. "In municipal affairs," he said, "the Republican party has stood for progress and has always had the interest of the city of Plainfield at heart. In 1890 after the 'Big Six' had got through with the administration and had left the city's finances in a tangle which took several months to straighten out, the affairs of the city began to mend and ever since progress upward has marked the trend of affairs.

"Every department in the city has been reorganized and today is on a basis of fair government, yet our public servants are underpaid when compared with other cities of a similar size. Our policemen are under paid and before very long will have to be increased in number. But what incentive to become a policeman will a man have who has to start on a salary of $540 a year? There are not enough men now to properly patrol the city.

"Regarding the street and sewer question, I want to say that the office of street commissioner was created by law and was therefore necessary, the engineer of sewers became necessary when the sewerage system was inaugurated and Mr. Gavett was appointed by me and confirmed by the Common Council. If these offices were separated and two men appointed to fill them it would cost the city much more than the consolidation of the two with competent men filling them."

Mayor Fisk reviewed all the other departments and as to the Board of Education declared that it would be a good thing for a woman to be a member of that board, but under the system of elections it was impossible.

Mayor Fisk said that a picture had come vividly before his mind—it was the Nursery of Discontents, meaning the Bi-partisan League leaders. "First, there was the old and respected citizen, L. V. F. Randolph, stowed away in one crib. In another little crib," he said, "was James T. MacMurray, the noted machine politician, occupying the next crib; then Patsy Reville, the trouble maker in the Democratic party, and of the famous "Forest Mills" underwear, of which we have an immense stock for Ladies and Children This underwear has the unqualified approval of the most critical persons, having no objectionable features common to ordinary knitted garments. This week will be specially devoted to displaying and explaining the superior points possessed by this famous brand of hand trimmed underwear.

FOREST MILLS HAND TRIMMED UNDERWEAR, EXCEPTIONAL WEARING QUALITIES

The superior quality of material used in the construction of "Forest Mills" hand trimmed underwear, and the special process by which these fabrics are knitted, gives them remarkable life and elasticity; causing them to hold their shape and preventing that "pulled out" appearance which is so common to the ordinary undergarments after wear. When a woman buys a "Forest Mills" undergarment she knows it is absolutely clean, for they are made under the most ideal sanitary conditions and finished by hand in sanitary homes that are licensed and regularly inspected.

WHAT CURES ECZEMA?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D., can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. Prescription.

Because—We know that it gives instant relief to that tortuing itch.

Because—D. D. D. starts the cure at the foundation of the trouble.

Because—It cleanses, soothes and heals the skin.

Because—It enables nature to repair the ravages of disease.

Because—The records of ten years to complete cures of thousands of the most serious cases show that D. D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema Cure.

Drop in to our store today, just to talk over your case with us.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The outlook for the recently organized Boys' Club is very bright. The boys in town are interested and take advantage of the club rooms which were donated by the trustees of the Baptist church. The object of the club is to keep the boys off the streets at night, and yet give them a place where they can meet and enjoy an evening playing games. The club rooms are being patronized and a most promising future for the club is looked forward to.

The total registry list for the election is 388, a number more will be added to the list when the registry board meets in November, which will bring the list up around the 400 mark, which will be the largest registry the township has ever had. Who said Scotch Plains was not growing.

BIG STEP TOWARD A CHURCH UNITY

Discussing the movement toward church unity, as illustrated by the appointment of a committee at the Protestant Episcopal Church convention at Cincinnati last week, and the naming of a committee at the Boston convention of the Congregational Church of America to take steps looking toward that end, Rev. Dr. Newman Smyth, pastor emeritus of the Centre Congregational church of New Haven, Conn., and chairman of the committee named at the Congregational convention, in an interview there says:

"I regard the simultaneous action of both the representative conventions as a great step in a practical way to realize the ideal of church unity. It is a providential movement, which may lead us all on and on to larger issues than we had dared to hope for. I learn that the Episcopal committee is already organized for work, and Mr. Morgan's contribution of $100,000 to this endeavor has more than its great financial value now, as it commends the movement from the practical side to all men in a forcible way. I regard it as opportune that our Congregational committee, with the indorsement of our national council, is ready at once to co-operate with the Episcopal commission. Ample time will no doubt be taken for mutual conferences all around and for thorough preliminary work before the world conference contemplated will be called."

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Junior Epworth League of the First M. E. church will meet in Vincent chapel, Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church held a social meeting in the church parlors yesterday afternoon.

The regular mid-week prayer meetings will be discontinued at the local Methodist churches until after the evangelistic services are concluded.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. church has been requested to help a missionary and his family and various useful articles are being collected for the purpose.

The regular sewing meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will be held in the church parlors Friday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock.

A mission study class of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church has been organized with a membership of ten. It has been decided to take up "The Challenge of the City," a book on home missions. The first class meeting will be held Wednesday evening, November 30 at 9 o'clock.

The Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will hold its monthly meeting Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. F. S. Thompson will lead the devotional exercises, the theme being, "The Holy Spirit Makes Only a True Witness." Miss Carrie Combs will present a paper on "Missionaries and their work in Africa."

AIRMEN WON $712,650 IN LAST TWELVE MONTHS.

A tabulation of prizes won by aviators in the United States and Europe sinces the opening of the first international meet at Rheims a year ago, shows that $712,650 has been divided by the airmen in twelve months The figures include only official prizes competed for under the rules of authorized organizations. They do not include money paid for exhibition or instruction.

Paulham is credited with being the largest individual winner. His twelve months' earnings are slightly more than $82,000. Morane comes next with $53,000; Latham is close behind with $52,000; Rogier, who is fourth in the list, abandoned flying after a bad fall.

Curtiss heads the list of American prize winners with $16,600, with Brookins next.

Bleriot is down in the list with only $8,400, although he has made a fortune by exhibitions. So have Latham, Paulhan and others. Paulhan's exhibition tour in America, which is said to have netted him nearly $50,000, is not counted. The only woman in the list of winners is the Baroness De la Roche.

The list of casualties during the twelve-month period shows that twenty-four aviators lost their lives in flights.

LABOR IS STILL AGAINST WILSON

Calling on the labor interests of the State to abide by the resolution adopted by the State Federation of Labor opposing the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson for Governor, circulars will be sent out by the executive council of that body this week. This action was decided upon at a meeting of the council held in Michel's hall, South Orange avenue, Newark, Sunday.

The resolution in question, which was adopted at the recent State convention held in that city, cited Dr. Wilson's alleged views on organized labor expressed in addresses purported to have been made by him at various times since 1905. The measure concludes by putting the convention on record as opposing the Democratic nominee's candidacy on these grounds.

During the discussion of the circular idea Sunday, Michael McIntyre, a delegate from Trenton, a member of the Steamfitters' Union, declared he had been told by his employer last week that unless he dropped his opposition to the Wilson candidacy he could seek employment elsewhere. McIntyre said he was a Democrat, but has been openly against Wilson. He declared he had declined to make any promises and did not know what steps his employer would take this week.

It was decided to hold a meeting on Sunday, November 13, at which representatives of every central trade body in the State will be present; for the purpose of discussing various drafts of employers' liability bills to be presented to the Legislature at the next session. It is planned to decide on just what one of these measures the labor unions will support.

A committtee was appointed to go throughout the State and take up with the bread-makers the question of putting union labels on their products. It was declared that the union label guaranteed sanitary conditions in the bakeries and to more effectually carry on this work it was resolved to appeal to the American Federation of Labor to establish an executive office in Newark for at least one year.

Several matters were referred to the Legislative Committee with power to act. One was the strengthening of the laws under which the Commissioner of Labor acts and the other was the passage of laws to curtail powers at present enjoyed by the justices of the peace.

The former is aimed particularly at factory inspectors. The council wants the powers of the inspectors enlarged; wants them to receive higher salaries, and wants their number increased. The chief objection to the peace justice's power is in the matter of making exemption certificates for school attendance.

The question of labelling prison-made products will be taken up by a committee appointed for the purpose. It was declared in the meeting that while the laws require that such material be labeled, the packages only are so marked. As an example it was stated that brooms are tagged in bundles. At the headquarters of the contractors these tags are removed and sent back to the prison to be used again, while the brooms themselves are sent out to retailers and jobbers with nothing to show where they were made.

A committee of three was appointed to confer with the Liquor Dealers' Association for the purpose of getting members of that organization to employ only union men and to sell only union made goods.

GOOD NEWS FROM THE YOUTH'S COMPANION.

We have had to make The Youth's Companion larger to get in all the good things that Companion readers ought to have. The added amount would make four hundred pages of standard magazine size and print; but we have kept the price just the same—$1.75 for the fifty-two weeks of 1911, and all the issues for the rest of this year free from the time you send in your subscription.

We would like to tell you what is in store for Companion readers next year. We cannot do it here, though; there is not room. But send us your address on a postal card, and we will send you the beautiful Prospectus of The Companion for 1911, announcing many new features, together with sample copies of the paper.

We think you will agree, when you have read them, that there is no other paper that gives quite so much of such a high quality as The Companion.

The new subscriber receives a gift of The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, reproducing in thirteen colors and gold a beautiful water-color garden scene.

including the $500 that he receives as inspector of buildings, and our assistant chief, who does half the work of the building department, are the lowest paid men for this class of offices in any city in this state.

"In the year 1897 after the introduction of sewers, the street and sewer departments were consolidated under one head. Previous to that time we had a street commissioner, a city surveyor, and an engineer of sewer construction, all held by different people. This consolidation was made for t behettre was made for the better working of the department and for economy. Since that time all grade maps, profiles, engineering and surveying has been done in this office. By great good fortune the city was able to secure the services of a man well known in this community—Andrew J. Gavett. A man not only well qualified to fill the position, but known throughout the community as a man absolutely honest and with a character above reproach. Mr. Gavett is street commissioner, city surveyor and engineer of sewers, for which he receives a combined salary of $3,000 per year, $1,800 of which is charged up to general salary account for streets and surveying, and $1,200 as engineer of sewers is charged to the care and maintenance of the sewers.

"It would take too long at a meeting of this kind to go into details in regard to the work performed in this department, but if there is anyone interested—and I hope there are many—if they will take the trouble to look over the city reports or come to my office or to Mr. Gavett's office, it will give us pleasure to not only show them, but give them full explanation in regard to the detail workings of this department.

"The poor department just previous to this time—I think about the year 1895—was also reorganized and put into a business shape. Previous to that time anyone that applied for relief was cared for as best they could by boarding them out here and there. When making the purchase of land for the sewer beds it was necessary to purchase more land than was really required. Acting on the suggestion of Mr. George H. Frost, who was then in the Council, an old farm house was taken and remodled as the City Alms House. Since then all the indigent poor—those who are absolutely unable to take care of themselves, some of them old and crippled—were sent to the Alms House and a superintendent and matron placed in charge.

The matron has direct care of the inmates and the superintendent has charge of the work on the farm. They are paid a joint salary of $480 per year, and are given their home and board. They have nothing to do with the poor department except to look after those committed to the Alms House.

But this is only the smallest part of the work in taking care of the poor. There are families and children who cannot be placed in this institution. They have to be assisted in part. Some of them are widows with large families, who have to be assisted partly by provisions and rent. There are children who ha to be looked after, children who have been left orphans and stranded in the city.

"A glance at the annual report of the alms committee for the last year will give some little idea in regard to the work done among the outside poor. To give you some little idea I will read a few items which will show the various cases calling for the attention of the overseer. The overseer reecives a salary of $800 per year. He has office hours in the morning and attends to the outside work in the afternoon. Everything connected with this department is under his charge and full reports are made to the Council each month, which are open to the inspection of anyone desiring to see them. Through this department $1,500 is contributed to the Muhlenberg Hospital for the care of any of the indigent poor or others that may be sent there by the city.

"The city physician has charge of and must attend and supply medicine to all cases called to his attention. The report of 1909 shows that during the year he made 408 calls. The salary for this purpose is $400 per year.

"All money received by the city from taxes or from any other source is turned over to the city treasurer and deposited in various banks to the cedit of the city. The city treasurer is under heavy bonds and has full control of these monies which are only paid out by a resolution of the Common Council. He also has under his care the Sinking Fund for the retirement of bonds, and really acts as comtroller, there being no such office keeping track of the appropriations and taking care that no money is paid out except when authorized by the Common Council as state dabove. For this service he receives a salary of $1,200 per year.

"The school law provides that in cities the Board of Education shall designate either the person having charge of the municipal funds, that it, the treaurer of the city, or the collector, as custodian of school monies, for which service he shall be paid a salary by the municipality to be fixed by the Common Council. The salary paid for this purpose is $550. The treasurer is under a separate bond, the accounts must be kept separately from the city accounts and the money must be held in trust and paid out only on orders from the Board of Education.

"The Board of Health was reorganized about the year 1897, and has the reputation throughout the State of being one of the best and most efficient and doing the best work of any local Board of Health.

"For some years the work was under the direct charge of Mr. L. R. Thurlow, who is a graduate of the Mass. School of Technology, and ed-

Millinery, Trimmed and Untrimmed

There never has been a season when there has been such a variety of styles. Not alone in the shapes, but in the trimmings as well. Yet there is not a shape or trimming but what can be found here. We have had a very busy season in this department, and are still very busy, which goes to show that the ladies of Plainfield appreciate our efforts to give them what is best in millinery at prices within the reach of all. No matter what your ideas are, either in style or price, we can suit you.

The Home Building & Loan Association
Offers Cheap Interest for a Home Builder or Buyer

It figures out about like this, as a series will run out in twelve years:
If $2,000.00 is borrowed (other amounts in same proportion),

He pays $10.00 a month dues for 144 months	$1,440 00
He pays $10.00 a month interest for 144 months at 6 per cent.	1,440 00
Entrance fee, search, etc., about	25 00
Total amount paid	$2,905 00
He has the use of	2,000 00
At a cost for 12 years of	$ 905 00

Which is actual net interest of only 3¾ per cent. per annum.

This is on a basis of 6 per cent. When no money is on hand, the Association will provide money for the borrower at a very slight premium.

The regular meetings of the association are held at its rooms, 109 Park Avenue, on the third Monday evening of each month. New series are opened at each regular meeting. Further information may be had at that time or by applying to the secretary, Arthur E. Crone, care of the City National Bank. 10 25 4m t&t ucated particularly for this character of work. Mr. Thurlow proved himself a most valuable and efficient officer, so much so that he was selected by the State Board of Health as one of the examiners, and when he resigned as the active head of the office in order to take a more lucrative position, the board desiring his co-operation and advice on many matters concerning directly the health of the city and the interests of the taxpayers, they retained him in a consulting position, taking part of this time, allowing him the small compensation of $500 per year.

"This is one of the most important departments in the whole city and the one from which the taxpayers both directly and indirectly receive a very large return.

"The total expense of the department is only $7,500 per year.

"Some comment has been made in regard to the assessment and collection of taxes. Taxes are assessed by a Board of Assessors, one appointed from each ward, for which they receive annually a salary of $400 each.

"The present assessors are Harry Van Emburgh for the First ward. Asa F. Randolph for the Second ward. W. T. Kirk for the Third ward, and Harry G. Runyon for the Fourth ward.

"An examination of the tax books shows that there are between 11,000 and 12,000 assessments made. The amount of property assesses amounts to about $24,000,000. Although there has been and always will be more or less talk in regard to assessments, we have only one way really to judge and that is by the number of complaints that are filed and appeals made. The county tax board informs me that during the past year there were only forty-eight complaints and about forty of these were on personal property where the parties involved refused to make a return when asked to do so by the assessor.

"The collection of taxes has been very satisfactory. All real estate taxes practically being collected, very few properties having to be bought in by the city. The collector receives a salary of $2,250, and there are other expenses amounting to about $1,000, but all the expenses of the office are practically paid out of the fines, penalties and interests, in the case of delinquents, which are turned over to the city treasurer.

"I have urged several times that Council publish a full list of the real estate valuations as permitted by the statutes, as I feel that if there are any inequalities to be adjusted that one of the best ways is to bring the matter to the public's attention so that they can be easily examined and the valuation of one property compared with another.

"I have also urged the Common Council to appoint a committee to be known as a committee on taxes and assessments, that could pay special attention to this branch of the city's business.

"During all of this time the city has been most fortunate in having for counsel to the corporation a man of the standing and ability of Craig A. Marsh. This man has steered the Common Council safely over many hard places and has saved the taxpayers large amounts of money. His value can only be estimated and appreciated by those who have been brought into personal contact with him and know his true value and untiring work in your behalf. I know of one case where his judgment and advice saved the city what would have equalled his salary for several years.

"Two men have been nominated for Mayor. The Repubdican nominee is B. Frank Coriell. It has been stated by some that Mr. Coriell was nominated at a picnic. This is absolutely not so, as his name was discussed by many prominent citizens long before the Republican outing referred to. As a matter of fact his petition was signed by over 150 Republican voters, many of them very prominent, old and respected citizens and property owners of the city, but under the present it makes no difference whether his name was suggested at a picnic or at a church sociable, it was placed properly before the voters at the primary election and he was nominated by the people—the Republican voters of the city of Plainfield, by a majority of 480.

"It has been insinuated that this majority was obtained by unfair means. This is absolutely not so. Neither Mr. Coriell nor any of his friends spent one single dollar to influence any voter. The primary was fair and square as far as the Republican nominee is concerned and he was honestly nominated.

"The question has been asked, 'why were so many votes polled at the Republican primary?' Anyone who has looked at all into the subject knows that at that primary there were six candidates, I believe, for city judge, everyone of whom got all their friends to come out and support them. Besides this there was a very sharp contest for the Congressional nomination.

"There is probably no doubt that there may have been some Democrats that voted in the Republican box, but this is the fault of the law. There is no provision for an enrollment and unless a voter is challenged he must be permitted to vote in whichever box he chooses unless the year before he voted with the opposite party. If challenged he must swear that he voted for a majority of the candidates on the ticket at the last Assembly election.

"You may say this is wrong. It is wrong and the law should be amended and probably will be amended so as to require an enrollment and some means taken where a person cannot vote first one year as a Republyican and the next year as a Democrat.

The lecture will be given for the benefit of the building fund of the Temple Baptist church.

Sent the Boys to School.

A number of very small boys were hustled out of court this morning and told to go to school by his Honor, Mayor Fisk. The boys had been arrested on complaint of a storekeeper on West Third street, who said that one of them, he did not know which, had thrown a ball through one of his windows. The Mayor would not entertain the complaint, it being purely an accident.

Fell From Wagon, Drunk.

The oft repeated promise made by Samuel Goff, a peddler, to reform was broken again this morning. Goff fell from his vegetable wagon near the corner of Richmond and Third streets, and was unable to rise. The patrol wagon took him to headquarters and he is now sleeping off the effects of the liquor.

RECORD COMES BACK STRONG AT KINKEAD

George L. Record says he is not excited over the charges made against him last Friday by Congressman Eugene Kinkead, who accused him of bribing a "funny-faced Irishman" in Bayonne; of improperly collecting fees while counsel to the Riparian Commission and various other things.

When asked what he had to say in reply to Kinkead, Mr. Record replied:

In my letter to Woodrow Wilson, as an illustration of the way the corporations control politics through the boss system I cited the fact that Robert Davis and Congressman Kinkead are the owners of an extremely valuable contract which controls the advertising in all the trolley cars in Northern New Jersey.

Instead of replying to my charge, Congressman Kinkead calls me names. As to these charges, it is enough to say that they have been brought up in every campaign for seven or eight years and that there is not a vestige of truth in any of them.

The Riparian Commission charge grew out of the attempt of the Republican State leaders to break down my canvass for United States Senator against United States Senator John Dryden. Nothing has ever been shown or can be shown in connection with any official act of mine that was not legal and in the interest of the public; and nobody can point out a single thing which I have ever done officially that was not in the public interest.

I publicly ask Mr. Kinkead to answer these questions:

"Are you part owner of the exclusive privilege of renting the advertising space in the trolley cars of the Public Service Corporation?

"When was that contract granted and how long has it to run?

"Is it true that it is worth $40,000 a year to you and your partners?

"Why did you refuse to receive the advertisement of Everett Colby as a candidate for State Senator?

"When Fitzgerald, the Standard Oil Democratic Congressman from Brooklyn, joined with the Tammany Congressmen in saving Cannon from overthrow by a union of the Progressive Republicans and the honest Democratic Congressmen, the indignant Democratic Congressmen who were thus sold out by a traitor in their own party held a caucus to censure Fitzgerald and his associates. In this caucus you defended Fitzgerald and the Tammany men and voted against any resolution of censure. Why did you do this? Why did you not vote to repudiate them as traitors to the party as they clearly were?"

CRAMP'S SHIP YARD SALE MYSTERY.

A revival of the persistent rumor that the Cramp shipbuilding plant has changed hands and that Charles M. Schwab has secured control of the big industrial establishment for the Bethlehem Steel Company caused much speculation in Philadelphia Saturday. While there were tentative denials taht Schwab had taken over the plant, men in touch with the bigger financial affairs of the city seemed willing to believe that a deal of some kind has really taken place. It was said by several that not Schwab, but the big shipbuilding firm of Vickers & Co., of Sheffield, England, would become owners of the plant.

Both Henry S. Grove, president of the Cramp company, and an official of the Bethlehem Steel Company said to be in Mr. Schwab's confidence are quoted as positively denying knowledge of any such purchase.

The entrance of the firm of Vickers & Co. into American shipbuilding affairs would create quite a stir. The company is one of the largest shipbuilding concerns in England.

In spite of the denials from Mr. Schwab's South Bethlehem plant a persistent rumor said that he was concerned with the purchase of the Cramps shipyard.

SHORT WEIGHTS IN JERSEY.

Investigator Found That 986 Scales Out of 1,355 Were Incorrect.

At the seventh annual convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs held at the Presbyterian church Saturday Dr. William E. A. Allen, of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research presented some statistics which he said had been gathered in testing weights, measures and scales in the cities of Newark, Hoboken, Jersey City, Montclair, Orange, New Brunswick, Trenton and Camden.

Dr. Allen said that of the dealers who were visited only 6 per cent had no deceptive weights and measures. Five percent caused a loss to the dealers and the rest a loss to the customers. Of 1,355 scales tested 986 were incorrect.

Dr. Allen said that the Federation of Women's Clubs could do the State a great service by helping to secure some provision of law that would put an end to short weights and measures and deceptive scales.

The Baptist State convention is being held at Atlantic City today and tomorrow. There are present representatives from the First and Park Avenue Baptist churches.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The fall session of the Cape May County Teachers' Association will be held at South Seaville on Saturday.

So efficient a delinquent tax collector has Constable Richard Elwell, of Delaware township, proven that he has been employed in a similar capacity by Merchantville and Haddon townships.

Following a slight operation in the Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, John L. Bray, of Broadway and Mickle streets, Camden, and widely known in religious work, died in that institution Sunday. He is survived by a widow.

To Company A, of Haddonsfield, has been awarded a silver cup offered to the company in the Third New Jersey Regiment, United Boys' Brigades of America, for the best attendance at religious and military services during the last drill season.

John Whited, the station master at Lakeview, who was injured two weeks ago by a train striking the baggage truck he was handling, is reported to be getting along so well that he will be able to leave the hospital in Paterson within a short time.

Rev. Albert L. Winans, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Millville, is one of the few ministers in New Jersey who believe that the pastor should not be entirely dependent upon his congregation for a livelihood. Mr. Winans occupies his pulpit twice every Sunday. During the week he is on the streets selling produce among the church community and has established a large trade. For several years he was president of the Philadelphia district of the Congregational Conference.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Lost Twenty-four Hours" a comedy in three acts, was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience at The Plainfield theatre, last night, as well as at the matinee performance. Those who remember when Robert Hilliard appeared in this play with such success will welcome the opportunity to see it produced by the clever local stock company. The members of the organization are doing better work every day under the guidance of Harry Sedley, the very efficient stage director, and the productions are deserving of liberal patronage. The management is doing everything possible to give its patrons the best at popular prices and believe it should be appreciated. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening "The Little Gray Lady," a charming play from the pen of Channing Pollock, will be the attraction.

EYE MALADY AT TRINITY.

Afflicted with a peculiar form of eye malady which the specialists have not yet been able ot diagnose definitely nine Trinity College students, members of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity, are under quarantine in the house of that society and many other members of the chapter, some of whom room at the fraternity house, and all of whom take their meals there, are without a home temporarily. The disease was at first thought to be the ordinary "pink eye" which appeared at the college a year or two ago, but the physicians, while deciding against this designation have not determined the exact nature of the disease. It has, however, been classed as some form of conjunctivitis, and the quarantine was declared to prevent its possible spread throughout the college.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company. Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

A number of people prominent in New York society had received cablegrams from London informing them that the valet of the Marquis of Loveland had absconded with his lordship's jewelry and other belongings; that the fugitive was known to have impersonated his master in London, obtaining goods from tradesmen and running up bills at hotels in Lord Loveland's name. If a person calling himself the Marquis of Loveland should appear in New York presenting letters of introduction to the said prominent people earlier than the arrival of the White Star liner Baltic they were to beware of him, as the real Lord Loveland expected to sail on that ship.

On the very day when these cablegrams were received, Tony Kidd went on to state, there arrived by a strange (?) coincidence an attractive looking and haughty young gentleman known among acquaintances collected on the Mauretania as Lord Loveland. This alleged nobleman had gone to the Waldorf-Astoria, where, through a servant of the hotel, it was soon discovered that his pretentious trunks were practically empty.

Act 2 was a round of calls with letters of introduction to all the prominent people warned by a friend (also prominent) in England.

Act 3, a scene in the Waldorf restaurant, where some shipboard acquaintances, dining with one of the prominent people, had heard from him of the cablegram and of course refused to acknowledge acquaintance with the attractive nobleman when he appeared in the room, ready to greet the whole party with effusion.

Act 4, the hotel authorities being informed, request "Lord Loveland" to find other acommodation.

Act 5, the husband and father of the two ladies whom Lord Loveland met on the Mauretania attacked and knocked down in the street by the "difficult young man to approach."

* * * * * * *

Now, at last, Loveland understood everything that had happened to him in New York, even to the mystery of the bank. Again he seemed to see Cadwallader Hunter bending to talk with the good looking, dark young man who had dined with the Coolidges. Mr. van Cotter had doubtless been one of those who had received the warning cablegrams, and naturally he had passed on the interesting news to the Coolidges and Miltons. Cadwallader Hunter, who had stopped to chat with the party, had been just in time to glean the information and had taken revenge for the Englishman's rudeness of the morning by advising the hotel people to get rid of an undesirable client.

Oh, yes, it was easy enough to see it all now, even the reason why his mother and the London bankers had failed to answer his appeals for money. They had thought that Foxham was cabling and had accordingly refused to be taken in. Apparently Foxham had absconded somewhere, and his misdoings had been discovered on the other side before his late master had found him out.

It all came from accepting the chance offered by Jim Harborough to sail on the Mauretania. But in spite of everything he had suffered Loveland told himself that he would not have it different. If he had come over on the Baltic he would probably by this time be engaged to some American heiress and would never have met Lesley Dearmer.

Just now his acquaintance with her was putting him to torture, and he was gloomily convinced that nothing would ever make things come right. Nevertheless he was dimly, subconsciously aware even in this bitter moment that he wouldn't choose release from torture at the price of not knowing the girl.

"All this is a surprise to you, then?" Her voice broke into the midst of his reflections over the newspaper cutting.

"Completely."

"How very odd that you didn't read the papers!" exclaimed Lesley.

"I was so disgusted with the way New York was treating me that I wasn't very keen to see what it was saying of me. Besides, as I told you, I thought I did know. I supposed it was all about the hotel fuss and my knocking down that man Milton."

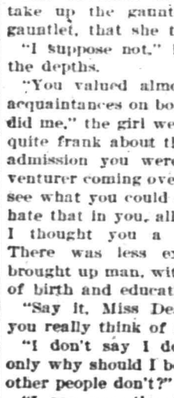
"Why did you knock him down?"

"I slapped him in the face, and he fell down."

"But why did you slap him in the face?"

"I can't tell you that, Miss Dearmer."

"Well," said Lesley, looking at him always from under her lashes to see how he was taking her words, "you've been dreadfully punished, at all events."



"BUT WHY DID YOU SLAP HIM?"

"I don't think I deserved punishment for that."

"Don't you? Of course I don't know anything about that, but you used to be—well, rather arrogant."

"I'm not arrogant now." Loveland smiled faintly. "I'm almost inclined to think I never shall be again."

"If you're not really Lord Loveland"—

"Not really"— He almost gasped as he would have repeated her words. It had not occurred to him, even while he read the cutting, that Lesley Dearmer could possibly think him a fraud. "What—you—you—don't believe in me?" he stammered. "You?"

Apparently she was untouched by the reproach, the actual consternation in his voice.

"Why should I believe more than any one else?" she asked, with a little dainty, sidewise turn of her head. "I was only a ship acquaintance, you know, like the others."

"Like the others who threw me over," he said.

"Yes, like the others. There was no difference, was there?" she challenged him.

But Loveland was in no mood to take up the gauntlet, if it were a gauntlet, that she threw down.

"I suppose not," he answered from the depths.

"You valued almost all your other acquaintances on board more than you did me," the girl went on. "You were quite frank about that. By your own admission you were a bit of an adventurer coming over to my country to see what you could devour. I used to hate that in you, all the more because I thought you a titled adventurer. There was less excuse for a well brought up man, with every advantage of birth and education, than for"—

"Say it, Miss Dearmer. Say what you really think of me."

"I don't say I do think it. I say only why should I believe in you when other people don't?"

"I see now there's no reason, and I'm not going to ask you to believe."

"You're not going to assure me that you are the real Lord Loveland?"

"No, I'm not. I'm not going to assert myself or defend myself in any way to you. I want you to draw your own conclusions."

"Very well," said Lesley, with sparkling eyes. "I do draw them."

"I've no excuse to offer even for stealing your friend's play except that we were hard up and we saw nothing else to do. I've had no answer to my cablegrams. There's no time for answers to have come to letters yet."

"I see. Meanwhile?"

"Meanwhile we're on our beam ends."

"You say 'we.' You identify yourself with these people—these poor little stranded actors?"

200 Dresses Bought at Our Own Price $9.75

From One of the Best of New York's Dressmakers
Made to Sell at $19.98; to Go at $9.75

This sale of dresses ought to prove a positive sensation, for we are actually lopping $10 off the price of each dress—not that we lose a penny, but because the maker, eager to dispose of the stock, pared his price to suit us, and we, looking for a price for our patrons, gladly grasped the opportunity to get them so cheaply.

There are about 200 dresses in the lot, made of Fine French Serge, in handsome styles, with fine lace yokes, high collars, finished with velvet of contrasting and self colors; sleeves in three-quarter lengths with fancy cuffs to match; bodice trimmed with loops of satin and buttons; skirts in new semi-circular models, trimmed with six large velvet buttons and belt to match.

These dresses may be had in black, navy, gray, green, Copenhagen, raisin, wine, corn and other just as good shades.

There are sizes for women, misses and juniors in this collection.

The dresses were made to sell for $19.98. We offer you your choice of any in the lot tomorrow at only $9.75

No mail, 'phone, C. O. D. or special orders taken.

One Day Special—Fine Linen and Lingerie
$2 Waists at 97c

Here is another special purchase that will set the trade to wondering how we manage to turn up so many good lots of waists at such ridiculously little prices.

This lot of many dozen waists of fine linen and lingerie are beautifully tucked and finished with embroidery; panel, tailored collar and cuffs or fine lace yokes with heavy medallions and lace inserts; high collars, long sleeves with deep cuff trimmed to match; waists that would in the ordinary course of trade retail for no less than $2; bought so we could sell them tomorrow at the absurdly little price of 97c

Women's $3 Shoes for $2

Since "Her Majesty" Shoes have been priced permanently at $3 the pair we have determined to carry no other line of $3 shoes and now we are going to close out all other $3 shoes in our stock at the little price of $2, saving our patrons many hundreds of dollars, for we have a considerable stock of $3 shoes on hand.

Beginning tomorrow morning you may choose from

Patent Leather in Button and Lace— Gunmetal in Button and Lace—
Tan Calf Leather in Button Styles—

All shoes made in this season's most favored styles, with low vamps, well arched Cuban heels, sizes running from 2½ to 7; widths B, C, D, E—practically every size in every style—all good $3 grades—all to go at $2

CITY REPUBLICAN RALLY

George Moy, both in their cribs, while Harry Depew, acting as nurse maid, went around with a bottle of pap, trying to keep peace in his little family."

Speaking intently, Mr. Fisk said: "The man who claims that the city of Plainfield has been run by a machine is speaking with the mouth and tongue of a gibbering ass. He knows nothing about it. Not one cent was spent at the primaries nor before that day by Mr. Coriell or any of his friends to buy votes for his nomination, notwithstanding the public statements to the contrary." Cheers and long continued applause greeted the end of the Mayor's speech and he was frequently interrupted by noisy approval during his remarks.

When Mr. Coriell arose to speak he was greeted with a warm welcome. He declared that he wore nobody's nor no party's collar, and that if elected he would be Mayor. He read a statement setting forth his intentions and putting himself on record in favor of municipal ownership of the water plant provided the enterprise could be made self-supporting. He favored better lighting in the business section of the city and a re-arrangement of the lights in the residential sections. Mr. Coriell declared himself against the appointive selection for members of the Board of Education, although Mr. Fisk was in favor of it. He said he believed that the members ought to be elected by the people. At the end of his speech Mr. Coriell declared that if the people had found that he had discharged his duties faithfully in the four positions which he had filled in the past he asked for their support at the polls.

"Plainfield is one of the best governed cities in the State," he said, "and if elected I promise to fulfill the office of chief executive of it to the best of my ability.

Mr. McCready, the next speaker said that he had been hunting for graft here as well as in other places, but as Mayor Fisk had stolen most of his ammunition he would very briefly tell of a few the things he had uncovered in Plainfield. Mr. McCready's speech was full of sarcasm. He said that Tammany wasn't in it with conditions he found here. "Primaries," he said, "are made for the selection of candidates for office and for settling differences if they exist as to candidates, but that then all contention should cease. However, here we have a Bi-Partisan or I might call it a tri-partisan league, made of MacMurray, Reville and Depew. Mr. Moy is really the Democratic nominee, nominated by the mugwumps. Plainfield is not so much a government as it is a big corporation or business concern. The Mayor is tied hand and foot, it's the Common Council that has the power.

"If Mr. Moy has any evidences of bribery at the polls he is compounding a high misdemeanor by not producing the evidence of the fact. He is a good lawyer, earning $25 a day when he works and he ought to know what this means." Regarding the charges of double salaries Mr. McCready could say but little but what already had been said by Mayor Fisk, but he did take up the matter of the assessors' big salaries. He declared that the total valuation of the city for taxation purposes was $24,411,389, involving 11,417 assessments out of which total there had been but ten "kicks." The cost of these assessments averaged 15 cents, while in Elizabeth it cost three times that amount of money.

Referring to the alleged "jaunts" of the chiefs of the fire and police departments, he said that these were educational institutions which were as necessary as schools for our children. It enabled the departments to keep in touch with every new method or apparatus made for the protection of the people. "These are not junkets but conventions which are of much educational value," he said.

Referring to Mr. Thurlow, the consulting expert for the Board of Health, than whom there is no better in the country, Mr. McCready asked whether Mr. Moy would act as consulting lawyer to a big corporation for the sum Mr. Thurlow gets as advisory expert for the city, $500. There was no response. The cost of living has gone up, but the employes salaries have remained stationary, declared Mr. McCready.

Mr. Carroll delivered an oration on the necessity for upholding the hands of the President and of the entire Republican party, by voting the party of progress into power and the party of retrogression to innocuous desuetude.

Martin Geraghty Satisfied.

Through the instrumentality of Martin B. Stutsman, counsel for Martin Geraghty, in the latter's suit against the Public Service Railway Co., for damages resulting from an accident in which Geraghty was injured in Elizabeth last June, the case has been settled to the satisfaction of Mr. Geraghty. He has been recompensed for his injuries, loss of time and other incidentals and the suit has been withdrawn. Mr. Geraghty lives in Westfield.

Moves for New Trial.

The prejudice against automobiles is reflected in the verdict of only $750 in the Ball case against the Public Service Railway Co., Plaintiff's counsell, Craig A. Marsh, has begun proceedings for a new trial, claiming that as the jury found the company guilty of negligence, a verdict for such grotesquely inadequate damages cannot stand.

Conference of Men Teachers.

The men teachers of boys' Sunday school classes in the city will hold a conference in the Y. M. C. A. parlors tonight. Rev. Franklin K. Matthews, of Scotch Plains, who has been lecturing to mothers of boys on "How to Know our Boys," will be present and make an address. All men teachers of boys classes are invited to attend.

Park Club Reception.

EXPOUND REPUBLICANISM

Assemblyman Schwartz and Others Compare Lewis and Wilson.

DISCUSS FEDERAL ISSUES.

George T. Vickers Reminds Voters How G. O. P. Administration Has Smashed the Trusts.

Under the auspices of the John Kean Club, a Republican rally was held last night at Vauxhall Terrace, Union township. George T. Vickers, prosecutor of Hudson county, was the principal speaker. Another meeting in Union township was also held at Saybrook. John Dengler presided at the Vauxhall Terrace rally. Peter H. Meisel, of Springfield, candidate for assemblyman, spoke of his record as a Republican and Freeholder and asked support. Aaron D. Crane, of Roselle Park, candidate for Freeholder, emphasized the need of improvements in the township and promised to do what he could for their accomplishment, if elected.

Then Mr. Vickers spoke of national issues and of the great good accomplished for the county by the protective tariff. Replying to the charge made by Woodrow Wilson and others that the McKinley tariff has built up and fostered trusts he said the first measure passed to control great corporations was the Serman anti-trust act, enacted three months before the McKinley tariff law was passed. "Among the opponents of that measure," said Mr. Vickers, "was William L. Wilson, leader of the Democrats in the House of Representatives." Then the way in which trusts have been prosecuted and smashed from Alaska to Florida was eloquently described. The Democrats including Mr. Cleveland, had insisted the Federal government could not prosecute trade combinations.

Mr. Vickers doubted Woodrow Wilson's intetest in New Jersey because he had remained silent all the years while so many important problems were up for consideration. "All the interest he has had in New Jersey," declared Mr. Vickers, "was in Princeton College. Were he to be called to the presidency of Yale or Harvard he would soon cease to care anything about New Jersey. Dr. Wilson's fidelity to his college was so great that he has not recently registered or cast a ballot.

Augustus H. Schwartz, candidate for the Assembly, was then introduced. He expressed his failure to see any reason for a change in government. "The Republicans of New Jersey have been faithful in their stewardship," he declared. Regarding Dr. Wilson he did not question his honesty or ability, but he did not consider him so fit to govern a great State as Vivian M. Lewis, who has had that experience in official life which Dr. Wilson lacks. "If you are a commuter," said the speaker, "you would not feel so safe if your engine were conducted by one who learned his trade at a correspondence school as you would if the engineer had had a thorough training from the first rung of the ladder." Mr. Schwartz spoke of his own record in the Assembly and said it should be the duty of every member to look out, first of all, for his constituents, though he should not neglect his obligations to the State as a whole. "When a bill is introduced," said Mr. Schwartz, "the assemblyman has to look out for it, not only until it has passed that body, but watch its progress through the Senate and finally be ready to give reasons to the governor why it should be signed. Union county assemblymen have not been negligent and there is more work connected with the office than some people imagine."

"Then Mr. Schwartz told how each member had to read over 1,000 or more bills and be ready to act intelligently on them all. "If my record deserves your approval, I ask your support," he concluded.

Charles Woodruff presided at the Saybrook meeting. Mr. Woodruff spoke briefly and Messrs. Meisel and Schwartz made speeches substantially the same as delivered at Vouxhall Terrace. Then Charles Wagner spoke on both State and National issues and Mr. Crane dwelt, as at the other Union township meeting, mainly on local affairs. Both rallies were well attended.

JOB LIPPINCOTT TALKS TO DEMOCRATIC VOTERS

Judge Thomas Haight and Joseph Noonan, of Jersey City, who were scheduled by County Committeeman Walter Linbarger to appear at the rally of the North Plainfield Democratic Club, last night, were unable to be present. They expressed regrets by telegram and sent Job C. Lippincott, of Hudson county, in their place. The attendance was large, considering the disagreeable weather, and the men enjoyed right good Democratic cigars while they listened to the addresses.

Mr. Lippincott is a straightforward speaker who says what he wants to without flowery language and references to Abraham Lincoln and the star spangled banner to gain applause. He declared that the Democrats had been turned out of power in New Jersey seventeen years ago because they deserved to be, and the Republican party is now guilty of the very things that led to their downfall. They have failed to keep their promises, he said; have been subservient to the corporations and are spending State money in a lavish manner.

"Give the Democrats a chance" he urged, "and if they don't do the right thing the first year turn them out at the next election. Woodrow Wilson is a man who will be dictated to by no one, and to me the greatest recommendation in his favor is his remark that if the legislature didn't pass laws the people wanted he would fight them in the open until they had to do it."

Mr. Lippincott went over some of the clauses in the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and asserted that the biggest part of it was a lot of buncombe. He asserted that the people were as tired of the tariff tinkering as they were of mismanagement at Trenton and November 8 would put a stop to both.

A. C. Pleydell, who was chairman of the meeting, spoke briefly, and remarks were made by Francis E. Bodin and George Kirch, candidate for Assembly.

YOUNG PEOPLE PROVIDE VARIETY PERFORMANCE

In spite of a down pour and a high wind nearly 150 people had the courage to face the storm and attend the entertainment given last night by the Young People's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest. They were well repaid for their trouble, as the program rendered was one of the best yet offered to the people of the parish. Dancing to music furnished by Squires' orchestra followed the entertainment.

Several of the young people shone as bright stars in a galaxy of competent entertainers, notably Misses Julia and Blanche Thorne in their sketch, "A Woman's Wit." Repeated curtain calls attested the appreciation of the audience of the clever work of these two young women. Miss Susan Bennett had to respond to a triple encore after singing in a sweet contralto voice "A Beautiful Garden of Roses." All the performers acquitted themselves in a satisfactory manner especially the male quartet composed of Messrs. Leadbetter, Metler, Apgar and Cumberly.

It was announced at the conclusion of the entertainment that another and pernaps a better one would be given at an early date. Mrs. Charles Borden, under whose supervision last night's performances were given, was congratulated upon the success of the event.

Returned From the Mines.

E. D. Middlekauff, vice-president of the National Mining and Leasing Company; Jasper Cadmus, of Cadmus Bros., druggists, Plainfield, N. J., and N. W. Hoffman, a former banker of Lebanon, N. J., have returned from a visit to the mining properties of the National Mining and Leasing Company, located in the Missouri-Kansas district. They brought back many samples of ore in the crude state and also some of the ore that had been run through the mills. They will be glad to give full particulars of their trip to anyone interested. ***

Will Celebrate Anniversary.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Women's Relief Corps, No. 10, auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will be celebrated in the parlors of Reform Hall, Friday evening, November 11. A silver offering will be received at the door. An attractive program has been prepared for the occasion.

MISS CARROLL A BRIDE

Youngest Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. K. Carroll Weds C. K. Mason.

AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

Largely Attended Ceremony Followed by Reception at Home of the Bride's Parents.

Miss Winifred Charlotte Carroll, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry King Carroll, of Westervelt avenue, and Charles Kendall Mason, son of Henry S. Mason, of East Fifth street, were married at 7:30 o'clock last evening in Grace M. E. church, the borough, in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends from Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, Newark, Madison and this city. Rev. Dr. A. B. Leonard, corresponding secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the M. E. church, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Ora Jerome Shoop, pastor of the church.

The bride was attended by Miss Anna Mabel Stevens, of the borough, as maid of honor, and her sisters, the Misses Alice and Grace Carroll, and Miss Eva Noe, of New York, as bridesmaids. The best man was Howard S. Mason, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Raymond B. Carroll, brother of the bride, and Dr. Charles L. Moore, of this city; Oscar Dare, of Philadelphia, and Frederick Hillman, of Jersey City.

The bride's gown was of ivory white cachemire de soie, trimmed with point applique lace, embroidered in seed pearls. She wore a tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lillies-of-the-valley.

The bridesmaids wore gowns of pale green satin and chiffon, trimmed with chantilly lace. They also wore white wreaths in the hair and carried armfuls of white chrysanthemums. The maid-of-honor's gown was of blush pink satin and chiffon and she wore a pink wreath in the hair and caried an armful of pink chrysanthemums.

William P. Dunn, formerly organist of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, presided at the organ. He gave a half-hour recital of selections from Schumann, Jensen, Widor, "Pilgrim's Chorus," from Tannhauser, and the third act from Lohengrim, preceding and during the ceremony. The bridal party entered the church during the rendition of the wedding march, the ushers taking the lead, followed by the maid-of-honor, bridesmaids and the bride, accompanied by her father, who gave her in marriage. At the altar they were met by the groom and best man, who entered from the front of the edifice.

The church was lavishly decorated with white chrysanthemums, palms, and red autumn leaves, all banked about the pulpit platform, presenting an attractive sight.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Westervelt avenue, which was attended by about 150 relatives and friends. The house was attractively decorated, the reception and library being in green and white and the dining room in pink. After the guests extended best wishes they were given an opportunity to view the large and costly array of gifts received by the bride and an elaborate wedding repast was served. After a two weeks' wedding trip the couple will reside in this city.

The bride is well and favorably known in musical circles. She was formerly contralto soloist at Trinity Reformed church and has been filling a similar position at the First Presbyterian church, where her singing has been greatly enjoyed. Both she and the groom enjoy the acquaintance of a large circle of friends. Mr. Mason is engaged in business in New York city.

Goff Got Sixty Days.

When Samuel Goff, the peddler, who was arrested for the 'steenth time for intoxication, was arraigned before Mayor Fisk this morning in the city court His Honor meted out the punishment promised to Goff about a month ago by Judge William N. JR. MECHANICS' SESSION

Forty-First Convention of State Council is Being Held at Trenton.

THREE HUNDRED DELEGATES.

Reports Show That There are 303 Councils and 54,773 Members—The Assets Are $103,636.90.

Thomas E. Currin and LeRoy DeCamp, of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., are among the local members attending the forty-first annual session of the State Council of the order being held at Trenton today. There are more than 300 delegates present. One of the most important propositions to be considered is the proposed change in the board of managers by which the junior councilor will be dropped and warden and conductor added.

Rev. E. L. Hand, of New Egypt; Frank Muta, of Bridgeton, and Rev. Samuel Harker, of Wildwood, are in the lead for vice State councilor. Vice-councilor William B. LaRue, of Bound Brook, will be advanced to State councilor.

State Secretary William H. Miers presented his annual report. This showed that six new councils were instituted during the year. There are 303 councils in the State with a combined membership of 54,773. The total worth of the councils is $1,112,591.95, which shows a net gain for the year of $103,636.90.

Mr. Miers also presented the following report regarding orphans:

"During the past year the Board of Managers have visited every orphan that has been assisted from the orphans' fund. In some cases we found that the need of the families was such that we increased the amount, and in other instances reduced the amount. A number were taken from the list, as we found that those in charge of the orphans were fully able to care for them without assistance.

"We received several applications from councils for assistance for orphans and upon investigation by the committee appointed by us, also personal investigation by members of the board, we found that these orphans were not in need of assistance, and that the parties in charge were fully able to care for them; therefore, we refused assistance.

"During the year we have assisted 137 children. At the present time we are assisting 113 children.

"You will notice from the report of the State Council secretary that the total assessment for the orphans' fund was $3,150.24."

MR. AND MRS. C. W. HOLLAND GIVE DINNER AT HUNT CLUB.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Holland, of West Seventh street, gave a delightful dinner party at the Watchung Hunt Club last night, covers being laid for nine. The affair was replete with pleasing features, and while the dinner was in progress and afterward popular songs were sung by a professional artist from New York. The dining-room was tastefully decorated by Steward Richmond with autumn leaves.

Those at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hooley, E. S. Hooley, George Whalen, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Holland, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Sherin, of Bound Brook, and Col. Postlethwaite, of Philadelphia.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MRS. GEO. H. CAMPBELL

Rarely has the arrangements of a surprise party been attended with such successful results as those that culminated last night in a delightful affair at the home of George H. Campbell, of Grove street. More than sixty neighbors and friends were present and enjoyed a program of recitations, given by Frederick Clarke and Bertram L. Smith, of New York. The recitations surprised the surprising party, for they savored of the professional, rather than the amateur.

Mr. Clarke recited with tragic ability Shakespeare's murder scene from King Henry, and for the time the parlor was converted into a dramatic stage. An encore brought Mr. Clarke forward again with a humorous recitation of "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," in which a young girl makes her first appearance in recital, and the crudities of the first performance convulsed the audience with their mixture of fun and pathos. Later, as "Aunty Delafield," he made a call on a sick friend with an idea of cheer in his lugubrious statements and premonitions.

Bertram L. Smith, the son-in-law of a neighbor, Charles Place, delighted his listeners with the recitation of "De Rapide," a French-Canadian story full of power and dramatic force, and charming with its French patois, as told by Mr. Smith. That recitation alone gave Mr. Smith a place among recitationists of acknowledged ability. He followed with "The Jewish Wedding" "Why Jim Ran," in negro dialect, and an Italian story showing great versatility of talent and adaptability in impersonating a variety of dialects.

Rev. Dr. J. H. Zelie, on behalf of the surprising party, presented Mrs. Campbell with a velvet handbag, and Mrs. Campbell responded in her characteristic vein of humor. Later she gave a brief story in negro dialect. Refreshments and social chat followed.

EVANGELIST REFERS TO HIS CONVERSION

Considering the disagreeable weather there was a large audience at the revival meeting in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, last night, and it proved to be a helpful service. Rev. M. V. Williams, the evangelist in charge, made a strong address on the topic, "The Glorious Change," in which he depicted the great change that takes place when an unconverted person accepts Christ, emphasizing not only the change in a persons character, but also in the church where they work.

The text from which Mr. Williams selected his subject reads as follows: "We all with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory." Mr. Williams gave a personal experience to illustrate the change. He said that before he was converted he was a clog dancer and he loved the diversion, but when his heart was changed he decided that he did not need those clog shoes and he burned them up. Since that day he has never had a desire to clog again. He also referred to a season of protracted meetings in his church at Athens, Pa. and at the conclusion 263 persons united with the church on profession of faith.

The audience was greatly interested in the personal experiences of Mr. Williams in revival services and it had a tendency to arouse all to greater effort. The chorus choir was led by Williams Holmes, and a feature was the solo by Mrs. Fred Gilbert, of the First Baptist church choir. Tonight Charles L. Lewis will lead the choir and Mr. Holmes will sing a solo.

Banquet on Noember 1.

The banquet being arranged by the teachers and officers of the First Baptist church Sunday-school will be given Tuesday evening, November 1, in the lecture room of the church. The heads of the different departments will make short speeches and there will be an address by someone prominent in the State Sunday-school work. Miss May Serrell is chairman of the committee in charge.

Will Hold a Missionary Meeting.

The regular monthly missionary meeting will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at Warren chapel. A question of special interest will be considered and the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, desires a large attendance of the chapel members. Reports from the foreign field will also be received.

CONTRACTOR GOT FUSSY

McNab Tried Harsh Measures With Interpreter and got Pummeled.

ALLEGED ASSAILANT FREED.

Mayor Fisk on Bench Lectures Man Engaged on City Streets —Dismisses Complaint.

Alleging that he had been held up on the street near the North avenue freight depot on Monday afternoon by Paul Lavoni, John McNab, of Bound Brook, a contractor who is doing some work for the city of Plainfield, had Lavoni arrested and this morning appeared against him in the city court. Mr. McNab told a harrowing tale of beign knocked down, kicked and otherwise maltreated, all of which was stoutly denied by Lavoni. Mayor Fisk dismissed the charge and lectured McNab.

According to Lavoni he was on his way from Westfield on his bicycle, and when about to enter his home on North avenue two Italians stopped him and asked him to interpret for them in speaking to McNab. The two men had been discharged by the contractor, but had not received their pay. Lavoni went up to Mr. McNab and asked him when he would pay the two laborers the wages that were coming to them. He was answered with a shove and told to go to a warmer place than Plainfield, and when the two men insisted on getting an answer, McNab jumped on him and slugged him good and plenty and instead of being the aggressor he, Lavoni, was the person assaulted.

Mayor Fisk listened patiently to the two stories and then told Mr. McNab a few things and then some more. He believed Lavoni's story, as he has known the man for several years, and said that he was persuaded that the Italian had as good if not a better reputation than the contractor. He advised McNab to be a little more careful in his treatment of his men, saying that it was poor policy to start scrapping with his employes just after beginning work in a city where he was not so well known as he is at home.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY FOR MISS SNEDEKER.

An informal party was given in honor of Miss Edna Snedeker at her home on West Fifth street, last night, the time being spent playing Hallowe'en games. Piano solos and duets were rendered by the Misses Grace LeMaty and Elsie Moulten. One of the features of the evening was the lighted fireplace around which the party gathered telling ghost stories and popping corn.

The house was attractively decorated with chrysanthemums and carnations, the color being pink and white. Refreshments were served and at a late hour the young people departed after an enjoyable evening. Those present were the Misses Edna Snedeker, Grace LeMatty, Ruth Kenney, Alice Auten, Edith Sears, Evelyn Manley, Elsie Moulton and Herbert Hillman, Alfred Manley, Melville Roseberry, Clinton Firstbrook, Harry Moulton and Nat Rouse.

FEDERATION OF BOYS' WORK LEADERS ORGANIZED.

Last evening fourteen men teachers of boys' Bible classes, representing nine of the Sunday-schools of the city, met at the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of forming a federation of boys' work leaders. A committee on permanent organization consisting of C. W. Bingeman, Theodore Gavett and James McClymont, was appointed to report at the next meeting which will be held some time in November.

Last evening's conference was led by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, who suggested various lines of work which may be profitably taken up by the federation. One of the special parts of the work will be to reach the boys of the city who are outside of the Sunday-schools, and it is hoped to interest all men teachers of boys' classes in the city.

We Invite Your Most Critical Inspection

of the famous "Forest Mills" underwear, of which we have an immense stock for Ladies and Children. This underwear has the unqualified approval of the most critical persons, having no objectionable features common to ordinary knitted garments. This week will be specially devoted to displaying and explaining the superior points possessed by this famous brand of hand trimmed underwear.

FOREST MILLS HAND TRIMMED UNDERWEAR, EXCEPTIONAL WEARING QUALITIES

The superior quality of material used in the construction of "Forest Mills" hand trimmed underwear, and the special process by which these fabrics are knitted, gives them remarkable life and elasticity, causing them to hold their shape and preventing that "pulled out" appearance which is so common to the ordinary undergarments after wear. When a woman buys a "Forest Mills" undergarment she knows it is absolutely clean, for they are made under the most ideal sanitary conditions and finished by hand in sanitary homes that are licensed and regularly inspected.

SOMERVILLE.

The Bible Fellowship of the Second Reformed church held a meeting Sunday afternoon. Vocal selections were rendered by Goeffrey O'Hara and F. R. McKenzie, of Bound Brook. The "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung by the sixty-eight men present, under the leadership of Mr. O'Hara. The class is now studying the Maccabean period of Jewish history under the direction of Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl, pastor of the church.

The women of the Second Reformed church met yesterday in an all-day session to sew for a Christmas box, that will be sent to the frontier. Luncheon was served by a committee of women to those interested in the work. The box committee, consisting of Miss Vroom, Mrs. Frills and Mrs. Hoagland, have been working for two weeks gathering materials and money.

The final meeting of the Civic Society to perfect arrangements for the Hallowe'en parade will be held at the engine house on Maple street tonight. Special trains have been arranged for on the night of the celebration from Flemington and High Bridge.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mrs. Francis Wight, who has been spending the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. R. Buckley, of Front street, returned to her home yesterday at Sturbridge, Mass. Mrs. Buckley accompanied her for a week's visit with friends.

George Harper and daughter Adelaide, of Front street, have returned from a visit with Mr. Harper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Harper, at Southold, L. I.

Mrs. William Hull and Mrs. Geo. Guest have returned from a week's stay with relatives and friends at Forty Fort, Pa.

The weekly prayer and praise meeting of the Baptist church will be held tonight in the parlors of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Voight, of Front street, have been entertaining relatives from New York for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Corey, of Park avenue, have been entertaining friends from out of town.

Mrs. Norman Dunn, of Park avenue, has been entertaining relatives from Philadelphia.

Mrs. Thomas Farrell, of Stout avenue, is visiting friends at Hackettstown, N. J.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

G. H. McVey, of Plainfield, has leased the remaining store in the W. G. Runyon building and will soon open a first-class restaurant. Mr. McVey was associated with his brother, the late John H. McVey, of Plainfield, for many years and has a thorough knowledge of the business. It is believed that the restaurant will fill a long-felt want in the borough and eventually prove a great success.

County Committeeman W. H. Frederick is making arrangements for a Republican rally and mass meeting in the borough next week. He has been advised by the national bureau that a competent speaker will be furnished, and also has the assurance of the county and local candidates that they will be present. The date of the meeting has not yet been announced.

Rev. C. W. F. Cutter, who has been the Dunellen correspondent for the Plainfield Courier-News for the past two years, is seriously ill in Muhlenberg hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Moody, of New Market road, have been entertaining friends from Babylon, L. I.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. Frank Faulks with her little daughter visited her mother, Mrs. Uhler, of Duer street, Plainfield, yesterday.

Miss Joyce has returned to her home in Raritan after a visit with friends here.

Miss Maude Smith with an auto party of friends visited the Newark sanitarium.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Senno, of 815 Richmond street, are parents of a girl, born to them Monday.

S. H. Beeching, of Grandview avenue, has removed to his new home, 1022 West Front street.

Miss Lulu Acker, secretary at Muhlenberg Hospital, has returned to her position after a vacation of two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Clark, of No. 59 Jackson avenue, are proud parents of a little girl, who came to their home yesterday afternoon.

Edgar Davis, of West Fourth street, has returned home after an extended business trip through the northwestern States and British Columbia.

Alex Lusardi, of West Front street, will leave today for an extended trip to Lewiston, Altoona and Hollidaysburg, Pa. He will be gone about a month and in December will sail for Italy.

Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, of West End avenue, who has been engaged in local newspaper work, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital Sunday for treatment. A hemorrhage of the head is the cause of his illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Bennett, who resided on Vine street, in the borough for several years, and who took up their residence in Savannah, Ga., are now residing in Brooklyn, Savannah not agreeing with Mr. Bennett's health.

P. C. C. GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP BIG EVENT OF THE SEASON.

The golf championship was the big event at the Plainfield Country Club this year, the event being the most successful in the history of the club. Heretofore it has been difficult to secure enough entries to make the first sixteen of real interest, but this year there were three sixteens, prizes being awarded the winners in each.

Although the announcement has not been made as to Saturday's event, it may be arranged to hold a sweepstakes. There will be a special event on Election Day and the active season will be concluded on Thanksgiving Day with a cross-country golf tournament.

Hunt Club Chase.

The Watchung Hunt Club will hold its weekly chase Saturday afternoon, weather permitting. The riding members will meet the hounds at Dog Tavern at 3 o'clock and cover a territory of about eight miles, finishing at the clubhouse. The runs this year have been unusually successful and it is expected that a number of New Yorkers will take part in those scheduled during the season.

Ladies' Guild Plans a Bazaar.

The Ladies' Guild of the Netherwood Reformed church will hold a sewing meeting tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. C. Hansen, 257 Jackson avenue. All those interested are invited to be present. The articles will be disposed of at a bazaar which will be held in the church the first week in December.

You'll do Better at this Store

The full significance of the word Economy is not expressed by a mere lowness of price—its true meaning finds complete expression in a combination of dependable quality with a low price.

It is this combination that you will find at this store—exemplified not in a few instances only, but throughout every stock. We guarantee unconditionally the absolute dependable quality of every article we sell—and our guarantee means that your money will be promptly refunded should you find any purchase made here not to be exactly as represented by us.

Good Goods at Fair Prices are, of course, this store's greatest attractions—but these are strengthened by prompt and courteous service and a "home-like" store atmosphere.

We're mighty well prepared to fill all your cold weather needs—and you couldn't find a better time to test this claim we make for our qualities and prices.

P. H. S. NOTES.

The P. H. S. orchestra is now organizing for the year. All who play, no matter what the instrument, are asked to join. Practice for the minstrel show is going on frequently and the A. A. expects to give a better performance than ever.

On account of bad weather the football game between the P. H. S. and Holy Cross teams was postponed from last Saturday until a later date, which will be arranged later between the managers of the teams.

The P. H. S. eleven will line up against the Battin High School team this afternoon at Crescent Oval at 3:30. This will be Plainfield's first home game and will be played on the new field.

The High School Chess Club which meets every Friday afternoon, is proving to be a popular thing among the pupils and has nearly doubled its membership since it was organized.

The Seniors will have a fancy dress masquerade party at the High School on Friday evening. The committee has arranged a series of games and for dancing.

NEW GREAT LAKE FOUND IN NORTH CANADA.

Announcement of the discovery of another Great Lake in the Canadian northwest is contained in a letter received by P. W. Drulard, of Windsor, Ontario, from his son, William Drulard, now in Edmonton.

Indians arriving in Edmonton from the Far North brought a story that a party of government surveyors have discovered a new lake, supposed to be nearly as large as Lake Superior.

Miss Mazie Gray, of East Second street, has been detained at home several days by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ernest, of Brooklyn, who have been spending several days with friends here, have returned home.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Mary Jane Kelly, Executrix of John Lavery, deceased, Frances L. Quackenbush and Vesta Q. Van Trump, individually and as executors of Charles E. Quackenbush, decd., Leighton C. Van Trump, Elizabeth Q. Holcombe, Charles Q. Freeman and Addison Gardner, executors of Abraham Quackenbush, decd., Elizabeth Q. Holcombe and Charles Q. Freeman, Executors of Vestiana Q. Freeman, decd., Lambert S. Quackenbush and Abraham C. Quackenbush, individually and as executors of Daniel Mc. L. Quackenbush, decd.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York is complainant and you are defendants, you are required to appear and plead, answer or demur to the complainant's bill of complaint, on or before the twelfth day of December next, or that in default thereof the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a certain mortgage given by John Lavery to the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, bearing date the twenty-second day of April in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-five, given to secure the sum of six thousand dollars on premises situate in the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, which mortgage is recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Union, on the twenty-seventh day of April in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-five in Book 125 of mortgages for said county on pages 460, &c.

And you Mary Jane Kelly are made a party defendant to said bill because as the executrix of the estate of John Lavery, deceased, you claim to have some interest or estate in and to said mortgaged premises, and you Frances L. Quackenbush and Vesta Q. Van Trump, individually and as executors of Charles E. Quackenbush, decd., claim to own the said premises in fee simple, and you Leighton C. Van Trump, Elizabeth Q. GOLF.

American golfers, who have always been taught to believe in the unquestioned superiority of the devotees of the game in Great Britain, will doubtless be agreeably surprised at the impressions gathered by Donald J. Ross, the Oakley professional, recently returned from a tour of the best links in Scotland and England. Ross, it will be remembered, with Will Smith, made a fine showing in the last open championship tournament of Great Britain at St. Andrews. With regard to the relative merits of the players here and abroad, Ross in a conversation with a Boston scribe said:

"Golfers over there seem to take 'ess pains with their golf and to care very much less whether they defeat their opponents than they do here. Perhaps this is because the larger leisure class has been less under the strain of professional business life and therefore is less sensitive to success or failure. In any event, as we went from one golfing resort to another we used to wonder whether it would be possible to find so many players anywhere in the United States who would promptly be rated as 'duffers.'

"Nevertheless, these 'duffers' were enjoying the game on some of the hardest links to play properly in the world, and if any one had dared to suggest to them that they might find more pleasure on an easier and therefore an inferior course their remarks would have been received with silence and contempt.

"Passing to St. Andrews, where the open championship was played from June 23 to 24, we had another ten days of golf. Of all the links we visited St. Andrews was the most worthy of study to those who wished to make a good score. Of course, Will Smith and I were desirous of making a good showing in the tournament.

"St. Andrews goes out and comes back, everybody at least knows that, and also that at one time the nine holes were once played twice, out and in. Now the bunkering of St. Andrews led the professionals to defeat the object of the committee, for coming home they would play to the fairway of the holes going out and so avoid the bunker problems and open up an easy way to the greens. But that's another story.

"We found at St. Andrews during the open championship the same worship of names as Mr. Travis had found at Sandwich, England, in 1904. The crowds were all Braid and Taylor and Vardon and a few others, and seemed to think it preposterous that any of the young and rising golfers in Great Britain or that Smith or myself should accomplish anything against these historic giants of golf.

"Smith's record round of 73 was forgotten when George Duncan equalled it and Duncan was left to himself, as Smith had been, after he had fallen in his next round.

"Being accustomed to the admirable arrangement that the United States Golf Association makes for its open championship in relation to the posting of the scores and of giving everybody the squarest possible deal, certain happenings at St. Andrews should not be allowed to pass without mention.

"For instance, the scores were printed each day, but during the progress of the play each day it was next to impossible to find out how the golfers were going, all information, except a few casual postings on a blackboard, being kept religiously within the tent of the committee. Everybody seemed to be asking everybody else how So and So or So and So had finished, with little hope of enlightenment.

"Again, the great players and the great names in the competition were followed by large crowds and they were taken care of by flagmen and others, but the poor struggling player was left to himself, and however well he might be going, would at any moment be held up by crowds which had just left a favorite pair or which were racing to follow another favorite pair. Such discrimination in favor of the great men struck me as being very un-American, to say the least."

Miss Carrie Combs will present a paper of unusual interest at the monthly meeting of the Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, Friday afternoon. The subject will be "Missionaries and their Work in Africa."

The first monthly missionary meeting of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held in the church parlors tonight. Gilbert Reid will speak on "Present Opportunities in China," with reference to his own work among the higher classes in connection with the International Institute of China.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., October 26, 1910.

VAPOR FROM WARREN.

C. L. Stryker is a journalist. He is entitled to that distinction because he is editor of a country weekly. All editors of country weeklies are journalists, just the same as a man who occasionally contributes to a religious magazine or solicits subscriptions for a trade paper. Washington, in the wilds of Warren county, is the scene of this journalist's activities. The products of his fertile brain and facile pen are distributed once a week through the Washington Star, and no bags of potatoes are taken in exchange for a subscription. But C. L. Stryker is "wasting his fragrance on the desert air," as it were. Any man who can put the gloss of fact on a framework of fiction, who can manufacture truth out of falsehood, should not be restricted to any narrow sphere. There is an inviting and lucrative field for him. For instance, he might run one of those popular much-raking magazines, he might buy up some swamp land and offer it as an ideal building site, or he might retail unlisted mining stocks. Abundant proof of his ability to make good in any one of these avocations is given in this choice morsel culled from the editorial columns of his Warren county weekly:

"Perhaps there may be better campaigners than Mr. Tuttle—men who are older and more skilled in playing the part of good fellow to barroom hangers-on—but this man is making his canvass with the paramount idea of interesting and impressing thinking men who really desire clean government and honest representation. Judge Runyon's title is being used for all there is in it, in fact is being considerably overworked. To be a Judge sounds elevated and dignified. But Judge Runyon personally is not particularly elevated or dignified. He mixes becomingly with the boys under the bright lights and is something of a rounder. And that title of Judge does not mean that he is of Supreme Court calibre. Far from it. He is simply Judge of a small police court in Plainfield and the title carries but little more weight than the famaljar 'Landle' that we in Warren county often bestow upon one of our Justices of the Peace."

As a matter of fact C. L. Stryker in uttering such a scurrilous and libellous attack on a candidate of high character, who enjoys the respect and esteem of those among whom he has lived and among whom he has labored for all that is for the betterment of his fellow man, has done a low, contemptible trick and has besmirched not the reputation of the dignified man he so unwarrantly abuses but that of the paper itself.

If James Smith, Jr. is actuated by unselfish motives in his support of Dr. Woodrow Wilson's candidacy, the greatest service he can render the candidate he nominated is to publish over his own signature the statement that he is not and will not be a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed John Kean. His continued silence is generally accepted as a confirmation of the understanding that he is secretly conniving with his henchmen to be the next United States Senator to be elected by the Legislature.

HOPE CHAPEL'S BIG FAIR COMMENCES TONIGHT.

Hope chapel's big industrial fair will open tonight and continue tomorrow and Friday evenings. The Sunday school room has been filled with booths and with the decorations presents an attractive appearance. There are to be many departures from the usual fair offerings and the visitors will find many surprises in store for them.

One of the features is a Chinese laundry in place of the old-time grab bag. Tickets printed in Chinese will be sold and they will be exchanged for a package by a genuine celestial.

The young men of this chapel have erected a stage in the gymnasium and will present an entertainment each evening, beginning at 9 o'clock. Harry Kartscher is in charge of the program and the contributors will include W. J. Firstbrook, Roy Titsworth, Arthur Van Zandt and T. M. Muir.

Creatore's Band at Proctor's.

Signor Creatore and his famous Royal Italian Band of fourteen soloists will be one of the headline acts at Proctor's theatre tomorrow and the rest of the week, and will present exceptional programs of music. Sidney Dean & Co. will present their "big time" act, "Christmas on the Island," which has made a hit wherever billed.

THE FORUM.

REBUKES MR. FISK.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Mr. Fisk's sense of humor and his sense of courtesy are equally fine. What a pity that the ancient Jo Miller Joke Book should have been everlastingly closed without that delightful nursery sketch composed and recited by Mr. Fisk! And what a refined appreciation of life's amenities and decencies our dignified Mayor displays when he denounces the man who disagrees with him as "a gibbering ass!"

As I retired at a late hour from Mr. Fisk's somewhat tedious "ratification," a friend at my elbow mentioned a recurrence of the four arguments sure to be brought forward in the defence of a poor cause; these four arguments being Ancient History, Villification, Silly Jokes and the American Flag. Mr. Fisk and his colleagues did their best with each of these arguments. It is rather a mean use to make of the Flag to prop up things that are undeserving of support. Silly jokes are broken reeds to lean upon. Villification amongst gentlemen and thoughtful citizens counts for little. And Ancient History in municipal affairs, going back thirty years or so, seems remote as an argument applying to existing conditions. The argument appears to be, for example, (if indeed there is any argument in it), that because Mr. Newhall and Mr. S. A. Ginna (who were with me in the city administration some thirty years ago) were good men and efficient councilmen, therefore everything that is going on in municipal affairs in this year of grace is all for the best. A considerable proportion of the names of councilmen read off by the Mayor are dead. Others have moved away. But the Mayor needed an argument and Ancient History was forced into the service.

Perhaps one thing about the Mayor is worthy of admiration. Tallyrand said that there were just three pre-requisites to success—Audacity! Audacity! Audacity! It does take some brazenness to stand up, (even before a few people and a few empty chairs) and claim that each and every distinct blunder and extravagance entered into and recommended was highly praiseworthy and noble. The Mayor mentioned the municipal debt as approaching $600,000 at the end of last year, but did not mention within what short time it had doubled into such figures! He praised the police, but did not tell within what short space the cost of police to the city had jumped from $15,000 per year to $30,000 a year, nor did he state the proportion of serious offences against the law—aside from the daily drunks—which had been detected and punished, nor did he mention anything about "speak-easies," or other continuing violations of law; and in praising the building inspector, he omitted to mention the spite-houses and spite-fences, and such little matters, as are more and more adorning the city. He also furnished meagre information as to the entire cost of running the fire department, but stood up boldly for bonding the city for brick pavements, fire houses, police station, streets and other enterprises and demanded that the current municipal expense and taxation should now further be increased for salaries, pensions and other matters. He did not happen to mention that, taking into account the advance in the ratables, the rate of taxation here is more than one-quarter as high again as it was four years ago, and is something like twice as high as it was when he was first introduced to Plainfield politics, and that the sum of tax moneys paid by our citizens this year is fully as much again as it was only five years ago.

For one, I am opposed to Mr. Coriell, but any severity of opinion or feeling that one might have had toward him vanished, and a sentiment of commiseration took its place when he appeared (after the Mayor had talked an hour and twenty minutes) for the purpose of reading from a bit of paper his own half incoherent little speech. For one, I was glad that he was able to finish without an atack of the palsy; but I felt sure that he was doing both himself and the city an act of injustice in attempting to take the Mayoralty. Just now in particular, we need a strong man for mayor—not one who either trembles or drivels. The Mayor should have physical, mental and moral stamina. One thing Mr. Coriell told us. As councilman he had voted for the water contract. In explanation he said it was the only thing he could do.

The one sole argument which has been attempted on behalf of Mr. Coriell for Mayor was the argument for "regularity." It was punctured past the possibility of repair—not only in precedents given by our candidate, Mr. Moy, as to various respected Republicans who had cheerfully and openly accepted Democratic nominations, but in the more significant fact that Coriell's own introduction to Plainfield politics was by means of a mongrel ticket, with a Democrat at its head, sprung clandestinely upon the people on the morning of election. How it was then elected is, as Mr. Kipling would say, "another story."

Interlinked with certain baleful interests of Plainfield politics have been the autocratic interest and direction from the county seat; and to this the water supply control has borne the closest relation. It has all been beautifully bound together in one system. Did any Plainfield citizen fail to notice the insultingly arbitrary tone of the water company when its rough and menacing mandate to water users was recently issued. One might have supposed that the Plainfield people, whose natural water supply was every day piped to Elizabeth, and whose over taxed pockets were enriching the water company at about double rates were the merest menials of the corporation.

And now comes along Mr. Kean claiming a third term of senatorship. If he had submitted his claim to the popular vote, as some others did, how much popular clamor would have supported his claim? A cheaper and more effective plan has always been, (following an understanding with the other so-called "leaders") to see well to it in advance that Kean men should be put up for the legislature. Professional Plainfield politicians have admired and welcomed the simplicity of a program which ever had its liberal features on all crucial occasions. And are Mr. Kean's achievements in statesmanship continuously essential to the happiness and prosperity of the people? Is he a statesman at all? Has he any superior intelligence or capacity for usefulness in the Senate? Or is he so admirable a gentleman, as patriot or philanthropist, that New Jersey cannot afford to relegate him to private life? Has he ever originated, or efficiently advocated a single great or useful measure in Congress? Has he, even in the course of thirty years, made a single telling address in support of any masterpiece of patriotism or policy? Can he do it? These are questions fair to consider when a man asks for a third term. Everyone knows the true answer to these questions. The answer that comes home to at least one voter prevents him from voting for any assemblyman who will vote for Mr. Kean.

Is there an inconsistency in supporting Judge Runyon and in refusing to support Senator Kean? If there is, you may charge me with it. I wish to see a Republican senator elected, but I will not vote for any one likely to vote for Mr. Kean. I prefer to vote for Mr. Brodhead, of Plainfield, and perhaps for one or two of his associates on his ticket, and by so much at least to reduce Mr. Kean's chance of success. I am glad to vote for Judge Runyon. I believe him to be independent and honest. He announced his independence at least four years ago and has not taken back what he then said. On September 17, 1906, in a public address he said that he spoke "as a machine man, as one who up to that year had always voted the one ticket prepared for the voters." "For ten years," he said, he had worked faithfully, doing the bidding of "the machine" at all times—until he realized he was serving the wrong master. He "had seen the power to make up the ticket taken from the people and given over to the hands of very few men." In the course of a speech made in September, 1906, Judge Runyon referred to the candidacy of Charles J. Fisk. "It was a pity," he said, "that Mr. Fisk should lend himself to the elements in control of the organization." "His complacent attitude toward the bosses at this time," the Judge continued, "indicated what his course would be, if elected." He further remarked: "We have in Union county an overlord, who, if he thinks well of you, will smile upon you. I was offered a position. I could not accept it and retain my purity."

Until within a few days, it has been my intention to vote the Republican ticket except as to Mayor and assemblymen. A conversation I recently had with an officeholder who for years has held office under the ring has given me pause. Upon inquiry, I am informed that no important office, and not many unimportant ones have for these many years been given out except from what Judge Runyon calls "the hands of a very few men." The boss, or a few bosees combined, will apply to the Governor for certain appointments. The governor regards the so-called "leaders" as "responsible for the appointments," and makes them accordingly. Do we sufficiently realize that things may come to a pass even about our courts in which no suit, except by permission of the political leaders and their subservient henchmen. I believe in the honesty of Governor Fort, but I am convinced that we need a change at Trenton. I believe that President Wilson of Princeton was right at Camden on Monday in bringing forward certain facts: "There are men here who can testify to the fact that they dare not vote as they think because of the terrorism that some political leaders are able to exercise," he said. "There are men here who can testify that they cannot borrow money at certain banks if they do not vote a certain political ticket." And he went on to speak of "grand juries that never find true bills in political cases, and public prosecutors who never try to get true bills." I believe that Woodrow Wilson is an able and honest man, and that he is his own man, and that he will make honest and decent appointments as Governor, and I expect to vote for him. Protective tariff has nothing to do with the Governorship. I have voted for every Republican President, beginning more than fifty years ago when Abraham Lincoln was candidate for the first time. I voted for human freedom and for the union of the States; and I believed then, and believe still, in a Tariff for protection of our industries. Though advanced in years, I am hoping to vote once more for electors who will re-elect President Taft; but I cannot and will not consent to give my voice for the perpetuation of what I believe to be an unworthy and corrupt Ring, whether it is State of Municipal, or both, and I am unalterably and indignantly opposed to the bribery which has disgraced our elections.

Child Lost.—A little girl about nine years old, long black curly hair, had on brown frock, black sack trimmed with blue points; red flannel hood, no shoes or stockings, strayed from her home in Washingtonville on Monday, May 19th. Her mother will be very grateful for any intelligence of her, which may be left at Ezquire Verdon's house, North Plainfield, Laing's Hotel, Plainfield, or Mr. H. Erench's store, Washingtonville.

Robbery.—On Sunday evening last while the family of Rev. J. R. Bryan were attending divine worship, a thief entered the parsonage building by raising a window of the study room and succeeded in stealing a quantity of silverware, amounting in value to about $50. He was undoubtedly frightened away before he had accomplished all his work, as he did not visit the upper rooms, and the servant girl was moving about the house.

Mr. M. D. Corriell, Esq., has been elected councilman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Allen, a short time since.

Mr. Edin T. Boice, whose stables were burned on Friday night last, has located himself on Cherry street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, where he will keep on hand hay of the best quality at low prices. He also offers a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who fired his stable.

Personal.—By private letter we learn that Mr. William Embury and brother, of this city, arrived at the "Grand National," at Jacksonville, Florida, on the 14th inst., and afterwards proceeded up the St. John's River.

We received a visit on Monday last from E. Dean Dow, Esq., former editor and proprietor of the Times of this city. Mr. Dow is sojourning at Griffin, Georgia, and likes the country very much. He is looking remarkable well at all events.

May 15, 1873.

Beat It.—About April 1st Wm. Spencer, at Washingtonville, missed a favorite pullet. Search was made for the lost one. About the time she disappeared a ton of hay was stowed away in the mow. On May 2nd the hay was removed, and lo! and behold! Mrs. Hen turned up, having been without anything to eat or drink for over thirty days. She was rather weak, but is now doing well and if cared for will furnish food for a dinner, Thanksgiving, 1873. Beat that.

Real Estate.—The First National Bank has bought J. M. C. Smith's lot on Front street, at the head of Cherry, for $8,500, and will immediately proceed to erect a handsome building on the same, the first floor of which will be used for banking purposes.

The cottage property on Front street belonging to Judge Runyon, which was sold at auction on Tuesday last, was knocked down to Mr. Lewis Mundy for $5,750.

A beautiful floral exhibition may be seen on the grounds surrounding the residence of Mr. Daniel G. Van Winkle, corner of Mercer avenue and Grove street, North Plainfield, consisting of a bed if imported tulips, of eleven different vareties and colors, also two kinds of hyacinths all in bloom. The grounds around this gentleman's residence are laid out tastefully, and abound in different specimens of the flower kingdom.

Mr. Samuel D. Frazee, Plainfield's well known musician, left this city on Friday last to join a traveling troupe for the sale of patent medicines, at Chicago, Ill. Mr. F.'s services as a musician are held in such high estimation by the proprietor as to insure him a permanent situation at a good salary. We trust "Sam" will do well in this venture. All old customers and friends of his who may desire to secure good musicians during his absence may receive information by calling on his wife at Orchard place or at this office.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Sauer, of Somerset street, are the parents of a daughter, who came to their home a few days ago.

HERE AND THERE.

Blanche Bates, whom David Belasco will shortly present in "Nobody's Widow, insists she is the happiest woman in the world, and any woman who thinks that, usually is. Just why Miss Bates feels so will be be very clear to womankind, although no man can be expected quite to understand. "I am the happiest woman in the world because the part I am to play in Mr. Hopwood's new comedy permits me to do two things I have never yet been allowed to do. It allows me to look as pretty as I can possibly make myself look (and that's no egotism because any woman now could be beautiful in the gowns the part calls for), and it also allows me to be—what shall I call it —angelically devlish, as much so as Shakespeare's Rosalind. And what woman worthy the name of woman does not love and envy Rosalind, and who would not love to be Rosalind dressed in the latest Paris fashion? Well, that's me in "Nobody's Widow."

Y. M. C. A. BOYS TO COMPETE IN ATHLETIC EVENTS.

Under the auspices of the Boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. a series of athletic events has been scheduled for the coming season. A silver association medal will be given the boy winning first place, and a bronze medal for second place, emblematic of all-round championship. The events are as follows:

December 3, 15-yard dash, two standing broad jumps; December 15, running broad jump, standing broad jump; January 7, running high jump, standing hop, step and jump; January 21, running high dive, three standing broad jumps; February 4, potato race, 220 yards, twenty-three-yard swim; February 11, gymnastic championship; February 18, shot put 8 pounds; diving for form; March 4, running hop, step and jump; 46-yard swim.

FRESHENING RIBBONS.

Messaline ribbons and those of taffeta can be washed in gasoline and cornmeal mixed if but slightly soiled. Velvet can be cleaned in the same way.

Certain ribbons will stand washing in soap and water. Experiment first with a small end. Take a thick suds of white soap and rinse through several soapy waters, and a final clear, cool water. Press out most of the moisture between cloths and dry on a crock or press between linen cloths, while still damp.

Where it is proved that ribbon will not wash without stiffening rinse through gasoline or benzine, several times, then wipe dry with a piece of flannel and stretch tight until dry.

Ribbon belting can be stretched tight on a board or the edge of a stationary washstand and scrubbed with a clean nail brush and thick white suds. Keep stretched until dry.

Ribbons with picot edges must be carefully pinned into place through each loop if it is to look fresh when finished. Gauze ribbons rarely stand washing, but with care can be freshened by using a little gum arabic water.

A great many simple dresses of short, round length are now being worn in Paris. These continue to have the veilings of chiffon, and even in the models prepared for fall this idea is being carried out. But with heavier materials coming into prominent use, less of the chiffon cover will be used.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

A noteworthy event in connection with the production at The Plainfield theatre by the stock company is the handsome gowns worn by the women members of the company. In the play, "Lost Twenty-four Hours" Miss Eleanor Woodruff, who has an important role, wears a Worth gown in the third act, which is valued at $250. Those worn by other women in the plays are creations of the modiste's art and are very costly. Today's attraction is a clever comedy which has been drawing good houses. The offering tomorrow and the rest of the week, "The Little Gray Lady," from Channing Pollock's story of that name, is, perhaps, one of the strongest yet presented. It affords exceptional opportunities for the display of talent and every role is given a fine interpretation by the cast. In nearly every instance the productions by the stock company equal in cost those given by road companies and for this reason are deserving of liberal patronage.

BRIDEGROOM OVERSLEPT; WEDDING WAS DELAYED.

Tnere were people waiting at the church, and the bride, Miss Minnie Snyder, was at home in tears. The bridegroom, Albert Gigher, of Hoboken, hadn't put in an appearance. He was sound asleep.

Tired of waiting, the people left the church, and Rev. William Van Zele went to comfort the bride. She was much excited, and feared something had happened Mr. Gigher.

The wedding was to have taken place at 9 o'clock Monday morning, and it was noon when the bridegroom arrived and explained his delay. He is employed at night work on the Lackawanna Railroad.

The fact that he had overslept on such an important occasion caused him to become so excited that he hardly knew what to do. He dressed and rushed for the first train he could get and the twenty miles between Hoboken and North Paterson seemed to him to be about twenty thousand miles.

Arrangeemnts were made for a speedy marriage then, and the ceremony took place at the church at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

WERE FINED $47.50 FOR HUNTING ON SUNDAY.

Charged with hunting on Sunday, three foreigners were arraigned before Justice Layton at Liberty Corner Monday and fined $47.50, which was paid by one of their number. The arrests were made Sunday by Game Warden John J. Park, of Whitehouse Station, and Wardens Hoblitzell, of Rahway, and Shorter, of Hudson county.

These officials have for a long time been on the lookout for violators of the law in the vicinity of Millington and Liberty Corner. Warden Park stated that the men had been making a practise of Sunday hunting, but that this was the first time he and his associates were able to make arrests with any chance of conviction. The wardens say they are determined to break up illegal gunning.

"BEE HIVE," New Jersey's Shopping Centre NEWARK

The Finest Goods and the Lowest Priced

L. S. PLAUT & COMPANY are recognized as a house that maintains a single high standard of merit in its wares all the year 'round, year in and year out.

This applies with equal force and truth to its lowest priced merchandise as well as to its more expensive lines.

It may not perhaps be known to all that this old established concern carries assortments of some of the highest grade goods on the market. For example—a woman, if her need requires something particularly fine in ribbons, has a range of selection at this store up to as high as two seventy-five a yard; or lace handkerchiefs up to twenty-five dollars; hosiery up to five dollars the pair; merino underwear up to five dollars the garment; laces up to ten fifty the yard; waists up to twenty-two and a half; and up to eighty-five dollars for a trimmed hat.

Or a man may find neckwear here in the most exclusive styles and patterns up to as high as two dollars; hosiery to two dollars the pair; and America's standard collars and cuffs, the "E. & W."

In these finer lines it is, of course, not the price that establishes their superiority, but the very exceptional beauty, style or workmanship—or all three—of the articles quoted (which have been selected with the utmost care in many foreign centres as well as at home) to the end that whatever their patrons may care to choose, according to their wishes, may it entail merchandise of the highest cost or the less expensive kinds, they are still bound to get the best that the stipulated amount of money they have to spend may buy. Which is why the L. S. Plaut and Company store, as a store, is equally popular with all—pay they little or much.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Millville tube works resumed operations on full capacity Monday, with bright prospects for a steady run.

A jury acquitted Andes E. Budd, at Woodbury, on a charge of driving George M. Corsey from his property with a horse whip while gathering chestnuts.

Mrs. Maria H. Levis, of Mt. Holly, entertained members of the family at luncheon Sunday in celebration of her ninety-sixth birthday. The aged hostess has retained all her faculties.

The disemboweling and killing of a $350 horse belonging to Ivins Wright, a farmer between Mt. Holly and Burlington, ended a race in which the victim was not participating, in Main streets, Mt. Holly, Sunday night.

Walter Wellman and his family left Atlantic City for New York Monday. Before he left he said he was not at all certain as to whether he would ever make another attempt to sail across the Atlantic Ocean in a balloon.

Surrogate William P. Lippincott has appointed Griffith W. Lewis, of Burlington, and Robert S. Gaskell, of Mt. Holly, executors to settle the estate of Schuyler Rainier, the wealthy Florence farmer, who was found dead in a cornfield by his aged housekeeper, Jane Nixon. Mr. Gaskell announces that no will has been found, but he believes one might be discovered later.

Within the next month Charles Kurth, a Camden tinsmith, must get a job or go to jail, according to the decree given by Vice-Chancellor Learning Monday. Kurth was summoned before him for contempt of court in that Kurth had failed to comply with an order of the court requiring him to pay his wife, Mrs. Caroline Kurth, $4 a week alimony. It was shown that Kurth has a tinsmith business, but according to the books presented at court the total net proceeds the past year reached the munificent sum of $98.51.

Fearing that a Saturday half holiday will put them at an inconvenience which will entail serious losses should they be called upon to execute a quick job, members of the Master Plumbers' Association of Atlantic City have refused the demands made by the journeymen plumbers for a raise from their present scale of $3.50 per day to $4 and the half day off on Saturday. The employes of the concerns in Atlantic City have nearly all walked out, and the employers are faced with a general tie-up unless an amicable agreement is reached immediately.

To make Luther St. John's bail effective Monday, Constable Daniel Block had to chop the jail door down with an axe, otherwise St. John, a colored man charged with beating his wife, would have remained in his cell, despite the $100 security which a friend furnished. St. John and "General" Washington, also colored, had been locked up by Marshal Jaggard, who went away with the jail keys in his possession. As he could not be found, when bail came forward, Constable Block tried a skeleton key on the lock, but broke it off, and the only thing to do then was partly to destroy the jail and to free two prisoners in order to release one.

Adjudged insane by a commission appointed by Judge Horner, Philip Bullock, of Mt. Holly, was taken Monday to the county asylum at New Lisbon. His mind became impaired, it is alleged, after he had served twenty years in State prison for the killing of a negro at Moorestown. Two weeks ago Joseph Meeks discovered that Mrs. Lydia Phillips' house on Carlton avenue was on fire. While extinguishing the flames Meeks was taken to task by Bullock for interfering. It was found that kerosene had been poured over the weather boards of the porch, and Bullock was arrested on a charge of arson. Jailers say that Bullock confessed.

STOKES JOINS LEWIS DESPITE HIS ENEMIES.

Former Governor Stokes "put one over" on his political opponents in Cumberland county yesterday, and instead of being left at home on Vivian M Lewis' tour of the county, is accompanying the party as a special guest of honor.

Mr. Stokes was not invited to go on the tour, and his enemies were chuckling at his humiliation, but they reckoned without their host. Mr. Stokes obtained an assignment to speak with Mr. Lewis Monday night at Phillipsboro and accompanied Mr. Lewis to Bridgeton yesterday morning as a member of Mr. Lewis' party. There was nothing to do but receive him, and he was given a place in the car with Congressman John J. Gardner. Mr. Lewis spent the day visiting the factories of Bridgeton, Millville and Vineland. He spoke last night at Vineland.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Staats, of Jersey City, who have been visiting friends here, have returned home.

The Women's Relief Corps, auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will hold a regular meeting Friday evening.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tomorrow night and consider matters of importance and interest to every member.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company - Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

"Oh, yes; I'm one of them—a poor little stranded actor too."

"You're not going to desert them?"

"No. We'll sink or swim together. You see, I've got rather fond of two of the 'poor little stranded actors,' my companions in misery. Ed Binney, who's very ill, really, and oughtn't to be acting—a good fellow if ever there was one—and Miss de Lisle, the star"—

Lesley's face changed slightly, and her lips opened, but she did not speak.

"Who will perhaps some day marry a great friend of mine in New York."

"Oh! So you have a friend in New York?"

"Yes, one. He paints menus in the Twelfth street restaurant where I was a waiter."

"How you have changed!" exclaimed Lesley. "But perhaps it's only circumstances."

"Perhaps," said Loveland.

"If I knew a way in which you could help your actor friends to escape from here and go—wherever they want to go, would you take it, I wonder?" asked the girl.

"I don't wonder; I'm sure," Loveland answered, thinking of poor little Lillie, "Bill's gal"—and Ed Binney.

"Would you care to take a position in somebody's house as—as—well, a position with an advance on your salary by which you could send all your friends happily away?"

"I'd do it like a shot—if any one would have me," Loveland said quickly.

"Some one will have you—shall we say as secretary? Do you know typewriting or shorthand?"

Loveland reluctantly answered that he did not.

"Dear me! The secretaryship won't answer then, I'm afraid. Are you anything of a linguist?"

"Can't speak a word of any language but my own, except a hotchpotch of French. The little Latin I ever had is practically gone. You'll have to give me up as a bad job and chuck me into jail for the theft of Cremer's play. I've never had any proper education."

"Haven't you? I'm not so sure about that," said Lesley, with an inflection in her voice that Val couldn't quite understand. "And I'm not sure you haven't learned your lesson rather well. You must be able to do something. Can you drive a motorcar?"

"Yes," said Loveland.

"Good! Do you understand the mechanism of cars? Would you take quite a temporary job as chauffeur in—in a private family, with a sal—oh, I might as well say wages—of $25 a week and your board and lodging besides?"

"If I could get the first week in advance I might send everybody to Chicago with what we've got out of the stolen play," Loveland said.

"Never mind the stolen play. In Sidney Cremer's name I forgive you all, now I know the circumstances. No more to be said about that."

"You must know him very well indeed to speak for him so positively," broke in Loveland gloomily.

"I do," said Lesley. "You can have the first week's wages in advance and the second too. The car's a Gloria."

"My last was a Gloria."

"You mean Lord Loveland's?"

"Oh, yes; I mean Lord Loveland's. Some men do make chauffeurs of their valets, and vice versa."

"Do you accept the situation I offer you?"

"You offer?"

"Well, for my friend Sidney Cremer. Sidney has just bought a new car and sent it to us. I'm allowed to use it for awhile as much as I like."

"I'm hanged if I'll be his servant!" Val exclaimed with something of his old vehemence.

"Oh, very well, Mr. Gordon. I thought you were really in earnest or I wouldn't have made the suggestion."

"So I am, but"—

"There's often a 'but' in such cases, isn't there? I admit it wouldn't be a particularly agreeable position for a man who has—er"—

"Posed as a peer," Loveland finished for her bitterly.

"You put the words into my mouth. I was going to say you seemed so anxious to do something to help the others, and this is the only thing I can think of by which you could make money quickly and"—

Ed Binney's pale face and Lillie's wistful eyes seemed to float in the air before the unhappy Loveland. "Very well," he said; "I will be Mr. Cremer's chauffeur. I've taken his play, I'll take his money. I'll take his food. I'll live under his roof, and I'll serve him as well as I can. And I'll only ask you to believe one decent thing of me, Miss Dearmer—that it isn't for my own sake."

"It will be my food you eat," said Lesley sweetly, "and my roof which will give you shelter. It's quite settled then?"

"It's quite settled," he echoed, "for a fortnight."

There were no dimples at play in Lesley's cheeks, but one might almost have said that her eyes laughed.

CHAPTER XXIV.

A PROTEGE OF MISS DEARMER'S.

LESLEY DEARMER and her aunt were staying that night at Asheville with their friends, and next morning everything was arranged. Loveland explained that in a fortnight at least he would certainly be released from the bondage of his embarrassments, therefore he would take service as Mr. Cremer's chauffeur only for that length of time, thus giving his employers a chance to find a good man for a permanent engagement. He received from Lesley the two weeks' wages in advance, and the $50—a far larger amount than he had touched since landing—seemed to him a respectable sum. Ten dollars he kept for his own necessities, and the rest he divided among the members of the broken company.

"I WANT A LITTLE TALK WITH YOU."

The profits from the three performances of "Lord Bob" paid the hotel bills for all and left a few dollars over. Lumped together there was enough to take Lillie de Lisle, Ed Binney, Miss St. Clare and the Winters to Chicago, leaving something to tide each one through a week or two of idleness.

Lillie, Ed and Miss St. Clare could hardly express their gratitude to Loveland, and the words they said to him warmed his heart as it had never been warmed before. There was a queer kind of happiness in sacrificing himself for others that came as an absolutely new sensation to Val.

STRAIN TOO GREAT.

Hundreds of Plainfield Readers Find Daily Toil a Burden.

The hustle and worry of business men,

The hard work and stooping of workmen,

The woman's household cares,

Are too great a strain on the kidneys.

Backache, headache, sideache,

Kidney troubles follow.

A Plainfield citizen tells you how to cure them all.

A. C. Lazzi, 44 Elm place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for five years and from my experience with them, I feel that I cannot give them too much praise. I have to do a great deal of stooping at my work and I think that my kidneys became weakened in this way. I suffered from a dull, grinding pain in my back and also had attacks of rheumatism. Another source of annoyance was irregular passages of the kidney secretions. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Randolph's drug store and I was soon in god health. Since then hard work has brought on one or two slight attacks of backache but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to give me instant relief."

FEDERATION OF TEACHERS FOR BIBLE STUDY

The Parent-Teacher Association at a meeting at the Franklin School auditorium, drew out a fine attendance last night, in spite of the forbidding weather.. The most important action was a consolidation of the parents and teachers of the Franklin Whittier and Stillman schools into one association. As the same child passes through the three schools in succession, there are many parents that have children in each school and therefore would belong to three different associations. It seemed wisest, therefore, to consolidate them all into one, and this was accomplished by unanimous vote, the organization to be known hereafter as the Franklin-Whittier-Stillman Parent-Teacher Association.

The parents last night inspected the new addition to the Franklin School, which has been built during the vacation, giving that building modern toilet conveniences and enlarged cloakrooms. The inspection was so satisfactory that the association voted to send the Board of Education an expression of its gratification at the improvements made.

One of the parents presented to the association the inadequacy of the salaries paid the teachers, expressing astonishment that Plainfield is able to obtain and retain such splendid teachers at the meager salaries paid, the cost of living having increased so much within a few years that the diminished purchasing power of the present salaries makes them but little more than what the teachers used to receive years ago. The association expressed its conviction in the following resolution: "Resolved, that in view of the increased cost of living, the salaries paid our teachers are still much too low, in spite of the liberal increase made three years ago, and this association desires to go on record as urging an increase of salary as soon as the Board of Education finds the increased expense to be practicable."

The association spent the remainder of the evening in an interesting discussion of various questions from the question box. One of the questions taken up was regarding the peculiar hours of the lowest primary class in the Franklin School. On account of lack of school accommodation, two classes have to use the same room. One class goes in at 8:30 and remains till 10:30, then the second class goes in and remains until 12:30. At 12:30, the first class goes in for the afternoon session, remaining until 2:30, when the second class begins its afternoon session, remaining until 4:30. Some parents considered that it would be better to have one class stay all the forenoon, and the other class all the afternoon, and that there should be an interval between the two sessions so that the teachers could put work on the board.

Superintendent Mason explained that the peculiar arrangement was made necessary by the fact that, in spite of the recent erection of two new buildings, there is still only one vacant school room in the city, and that is out on Dunellen avenue; that there are so many children in the Franklin School that eleven classes are necessary, while there are only ten rooms to put them into, so two classes must use one room, and this necessity will continue until such time as the Board of Education is able to erect another building.

As to the arrangement of hours, the hands of the Board are tied because the grant of State money depends on the number of days' attendance of the pupils and requires that each pupil shall attend four hours a day, exclusive of recess. If the session is shortened even fifteen minutes, it is recorded as only one half day. This would sacrifice eight or nine hundred dollars a year for these two classes, if the hours were made anything less than four hours. He could not see any possibility of getting the children to school any earlier than 8.30 or keeping them later than 4:30. The parents finally voted that the present hours were as good as can be arranged under the circumstances, but it was felt that a new building should be erected as soon as possible.

Percy Hand Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Lavinia D. Canfield, of West Brighton avenue, East Orange, to Percy Hand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hand, formerly of this city, but now of Orange. Mr. Hand is well known here. For several years he has been the star player on the Y. M. C. A. basketball team. He holds a responsible position with the Fruit Dispatch Company, of New York.

Not a High Misdemeanor.

Robert H. McCready, one of the speakers at the Republican rally on Monday night, did not refer to bribery as a high misdemeanor in New Jersey but as a plain misdemeanor. He added that in his opinion the man who knows of such bribery and does not bring the matter before the prosecutor is also guilty of wrongdoing.

MALICIOUS PERSONS WRECK A CORN HARVESTING MACHINE.

Maliciously inclined persons ruined a valuable corn harvesting machine belonging to David Blackford, of Samptown, yesterday. After breaking the machine, a bundle of cornstalks and debris were piled up under the wreckage and then set fire. The machine had been in use cutting a field of corn for Judge Smith, of South Plainfield, when the outrage happened. A reward of $10 is offered for the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators of the contemptible act. A photograph of the wrecked machine was taken this morning.

A Widow's Appeal.

The Daily Press has been asked to make an appeal in behalf of a poor widow who recently lost her home by fire. She is in need of a mattress for a double bed, kitchen utensils and clothing for five small children. The woman is well and favorably known to the Organized Charity Association and the articles will be called for if the society is notified by telephone, No. 103. The cause is a most worthy one, as the woman has had a hard struggle to maintain her family, and is now working under extreme difficulties.

Injured His Eye.

Frank Lee Camp, of the borough, an employe of Fred Schenck, the carpenter, received a severe injury to his right eye yesterday while working in the Jackson building. He was using a brace and bit when it slipped and swung backward. The eye was struck by the point, splitting the pupil. The injury was dressed by Dr. F. C. Ard, and every effort is being made to save the optic.

TUBERCULOSIS CAMP SITE

Tract Near Scotch Plains Best Suited for Union County Institution.

AN INSPECTION IS MADE.

Another Location at Roselle Being Considered—The Freeholders Appropriate $50,000 for the Camp.

The question of the location for the proposed county tuberculosis camp is still undecided. There was a meeting of the committee from the Board of Freeholders at Elizabeth yesterday, but owing to the absence of one member, no attempt was taken to vote on the matter. As it stands now, the committee, which comprises four members of the board J. Hervey Doane, of this city, chairman, Freeholders Krausse and Haviland and Director Cady, Messrs. Doane and Cady favor the purchase of the site on the mountains near Feltville, while the other two members favor a site at Roselle.

These two sites were picked out as available after a tour of inspection by Dr. Carrington, of New York, a specialist on the subject, accompanied by the committee, as well as Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Dr. Fred J. Hughes and a physician from Elizabeth. It is agreed by a majority of those who have looked into the matter that the location near Scotch Plains is by far the most advantageous. There is a tract of about 135 acres, which may be secured for about $15 000, as against a fifty-acre tract at Roselle, which would cost in the neighborhood of $22,000. The land at Roselle is flat, would have to be connected with the sanitary sewer at a cost of several thousand dollars, and is in what is known as the "mosquito belt."

On the other hand the site near Feltville is on an elevation, high and dry, and permitting fine drainage, and the air is the best. It is a little over a mile from the trolley, but the question of transportation would not be a serious one, nor a costly one. The arguments of those who favor the Roselle property are that it is easy of access and would lessen the cost of transportation and cartage of things to be used at the camp. Besides it is proposed to have a large garden, where produce can be raised.

The Board of Freeholders have appropriated $50,000 for the purpose of purchasing the land and establishing a camp, the sum to be raised through an issue of bonds. This amount will go a long way toward obtaining ground and erecting a building.

There will be another meeting of the committee tomorrow and if there should be a tie vote on the question of selecting the site, it is proposed to refer the matter to the entire board, and it is believed that a majority will favor the site near Feltville, which from a sanitary point of view as well as picturesque, could not be improved upon.

DEACONS AND ELDERS SELECTED AT TRINITY.

Deacons and elders were elected at a congregational meeting of Trinity Reformed church, held in the lecture room of the church, last night. F. S. Cutter was chosen chairman of the meeting and Edgar F. Sheppard acted in his capacity as clerk.

The three retiring elders, G. L. VanEmburgh, Robert Clark, Jr., and H. E. Gayle were renominated and as no other nominations were made, the clerk cast the ballot for their election. The three deacons, whose terms expired, A. K. Willett, W. F. Oliver and W. R. Kriney, were then placed in nomination as was also James K. Arnold. The last named declined the nomination in favor of those already nominated, and the clerk cast the ballot for the three retiring deacons.

Illustrated Passion Play Lecture.

Prof. Myron T. Scudder, member of the faculty of Rutgers College, and headmaster of Rutgers Preparatory School, is to lecture in the High School auditorium, Tuesday evening, November 15th, under the auspices of the Benevolent Band of King's Daughters. Subject, the Passion Play of 1910, illustrated by nearly one hundred stereopticon views. Prof. Scudder saw the play twice, and has made his own slides, and the lecture is sure to be an unusual treat.

Euchre for St. Mary's Convent.

A successful euchre party was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. E. M. Conway, at her home on West Seventh street, for the benefit of St. Mary's Convent. There were thirty-five guests, and all enjoyed the playing very much, after which refreshments were served. The honors were awarded to Mrs. A. Slevin and Mrs. J. J. Kenney.

TOWNSHIP REPUBLICANS RALLY TOMORROW NIGHT

A general meeting and smoker of the voters of North Plainfield township will be held at Texier's Mills on Friday evening at 8 o'clock to hear some of the candidates on the Republican ticket who will explain the issues and give those who attend an opportunity to become acquainted personally with the candidates themselves, and learn what they stand for.

Among the speakers will be Prosecutor F. A. Pope, of Somerville, who will talk on the governorship; H. F. Mcosebrugger, candidate for Congress, whose topic will be his attitude toward legislation; Robert Kay will talk about the schrievalty and W. De la R. Anderson, who is a candidate for the Township Committee, will tell of his attitude toward a business-like administration of local offices and the benefits to be derived therefrom in tax reduction.

The committee having the meeting in charge believe that it is the duty of all voters regardless of party affiliations to be present as to vote intelligently the voter must know what he is voting for.

EVANGELIST IMPRESSES HIS LARGE CONGREGATION

One of the largest audiences of the week attended the revival services in the Monroe Avenue Methodist church last and they heard what was probably the most impressive story of the personal experiences of Rev. M. V. Williams that has yet been given by the evangelist from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Williams took for his topic "Come over into Macedonia and help us," and brought out the cause for that cry. He said that the Macedonians did not realize their need, but Paul did know that they needed Christianity just as the churches today know that the unsaved people of our time need it. It is not that people today want Christianity, but that they need it which is causing the campaign against wickedness and the urging of them to accept Christ as their personal Saviour. This is the first consideration that the minister should have for his charge.

One of Mr. William's experiences with the sons of the Molly Maguires in a town near Wyoming, Pa., is well worth recording. When he arrived at the town he was convinced of its antagonistic attitude, but he was not deterred from prosecuting his work on that account. At the beginning he was preaching to an unruly mob of stone throwers and villifiers and on one occasion while he was on his knees praying in the street, one of the toughs threw a handful of corn and beans in his face. "I did not know whether it was the devil or God that inspired me," he said, "but I lit out at that fellow and gave him a sound trouncing. The next night the hall where I held my meetings was unable to accommodate the crowds who wanted to hear the fighting parson. However, that was the turning point. Thereafter the power of the Gospel prevailed and when I left there more than 150 members had been gotten together in the church and the man who threw the corn and beans was superintendent of the Sunday school."

Mr. Williams told his story so earnestly and so interestingly that the audience was hushed and listened with absorbing attention. William Holmes sang effectively "Just For Today." Rev. W. F. Randolph, of Ocean Grove, brother of Rev. D. B. F. Randolph, offered the opening prayer. Mrs. C. K. Shreve will be the soloist this evening.

BABCOCK APPOINTED TO PLAYGROUND COMMISSION.

Following the resignation of Joseph W. Gavett from the Playground Commission, Mayor Fisk this morning appointed George L. Babcock as a member. In making the appointment Mr. Fisk said that Mr. Babcock had always evinced an interest in the playgrounds and he believed the new appointee would be able to give the necessary time to the work.

Mr. Gavett, in his letter of resignation, says that other societies and business interests make it impossible for him to devote the time necessary to give adequate attention to the duties.

Autiost Fined.

John Cooley, of Fritts place, was arraigned in the borough court this morning, on a charge of running an auto without a license and without lights. He was fined $3.

WHITE PLAGUE BATTLE

State Anti-Tuberctlosis Association's Important Conference.

AT NEWARK, MONDAY NOV. 17.

Governor Fort, Dean West, Vivian Lewis and Other Big Men to Participate in the Program.

An important conference of the New Jersey Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis and the thirty-three local committees on the Prevention of Tuberculosis will be held in the Public Library, Newark, November 17. There will be three sessions, opening at 10:30 in the morning, 2:30 in the afternoon and 8 in the evening. This is the first conference of the kind held in the State, and particular effort has been made to ararnge a program that will emphasize the special problems concerning tuberculosis in the State.

At the morning session, at which Vivian Lewis will preside, the subject is "The Discovery and Supervision of Cases in the Home and the Enforcement of the Tuberculosis Law." Under this heading there will be a Symposium, Agencies for Carrying into Effect the Provisions of the Law—the Physician, the Dispensary, the Visiting Nurse, and Relief.

At the afternoon session, at which Governor Fort will preside, the subject is "The Value of County Tuberculosis Hospitals." County Tuberculosis Hospitals is just now the leading need in the State, the last Legislature having passed a bill authorizing the erection of such hospitals. For this meeting all Boards of Chosen Freeholders will send delegates.

At the evening session at which Dean Andrew F. West, of the Graduate School of Princeton, will preside, the subject is "Tuberculosis as a School Problem." There will be a paper on Teaching the Essential Facts to School Children, another on Medical Inspection of School Children with Respect to the Prevention of Tuberculosis, and Open Air Schools for Children Predisposed to Tuberculosis. The value of special treatment for the school child below normal is now recognized as a necessity and a number of the more progressive communities are making provision for such children, notably Montclair, the Oranges, and Newark.

The full program will be announced within a few days, and includes such names as Dr. Lawrence F. Flick, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Florence Kelley, of the Consumers' League, New York city; Leonard P. Ayres, Associate Director of the Department of Child Hygiene of the Russel Sage Foundation, New York city; Frederick L. Hoffman, State Statistician, Newark; Dr. Herbert Maxon King, Loomis Sanatorium, Liberty, N. Y., Miss Nellie M. Casey, Frederick, Md.; General Bird W. Spencer, Mayor of Passaic; Dr. Woods Hutchinson, New York city, and many of the leading physicians and health officers of the State.

While the meeting will be open to the public, special instructions will be sent to all physicians in the State, local boards of health, members of the local Tuberculosis committees and others interested in the general problem of tuberculosis.

SIXTEEN NEW ELKS ARE IN TOWN TODAY.

Sixteen new members were added to the constantly growing number of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., at the meeting of the Elks last night. A degree team composed of John R. Wilson, E. R., William Cartwright, E. E., Edmund G. Stalter, past grand deputy for New Jersey, and James C. Gould, all of Paterson Lodge, No. 60, officiated at the initiation of the candidates before one of the largest gatherings of the antlered tribe ever held in the lodge rooms.

Previous to the initiatory exercises, W. A. Codington was elected to fill the unexpired term of Judge William N. Runyon as trustee. Speeches, songs, recitations and a banquet followed the business meeting, at which two hundred members of the order enjoyed themselves to the limit.

Has Covered 5,600 Miles.

Riding an old style Columbia high wheel, an elderly man, possibly sixty-five years old, whose modesty prevented him from telling his name to a reporter, passed through this city this morning on his way East. Up to the time he left here he had covered some 5,600 miles on his wheel. The bicycle itself is a splendid example of the old high wheel in vogue before the advent of the safety. It is of nickle and highly polished, and looks good for another twenty years of service.

ONE GREAT OBJECTION TO WILSON'S ELECTION

Surrogate George T. Parrot made the point in his address among others before the Twelfth ward Republican Club in the Dix building, Elizabeth, last night that the governor's power to appoint judges of the courts and officers of the various State charitable and reformatory institutions should make every thoughtful man ponder and ask whether he desired the old Democratic gang to make such appointments. Woodrow Wilson, said Mr. Parrott, will have to depend upon the Democratic leaders in finding men to gll the various vacancies. "We don't want such influences to have the naming of our judges or heading our institutions," he declared.

Samuel G. Berry, Republican candidate for mayor, expressed his indignation the previous evening in reading the reflection upon his honesty in the Standard Oil pipe line matter. After hearing his friends, among them many Democrats, utter their contempt for such political methods he had regarded the matter less seriously. Mr. Berry said many things should be done to make an up to date city. He urged a different kind of paving for the principal streets, and the abolition of grade crossings. When these crossings are eliminated the matter of tunnels intsead of elevated roads, he thought, should be seriously considered. He expected the railroads would make certain demands upon the city in the way of improvements, but until those demands are made he felt unable to saw how the city should act. He said much depended upon the kind of councilmen elected, and thought all knew he had done the best he could for the city of Elizabeth when he was mayor before. If elected he would do the same again.

Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth, and Lloyd Thompson, of Westfield, candidates for the Assembly, then spoke, urging the support of the whole Republican ticket. Mr. Schwartz likened Woodrow Wilson to a theoretical engineer and Vivian M. Lewis to a practical mechanic. He thought those who traveled upon trains would feel safer in the hands of the experienced employe. He hoped Judge Runyon would be elected to help uphold President Taft during the remainder of his administration. Mr. Thompson emphasized the fidelity of Union county's representatives for their constituents and said they never had to ask what any bill was about. When any act affecting Union county was introduced they were active either in support of or in opposition to that measure.

William F. Woodruff, who presided, discouraged flopping. "Let your fight be confined to the primaries," he said, "don't vote the Democratic ticket to satisfy a grudge."

DR. BARNES TO SPEAK ON WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE

The State Association of Equal Suffrage will hold its annual meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building next Tuesday evening. Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, will open the session. An address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Charles J. Fisk. Dr. Earl Barnes, of Philadelphia, will be the speaker of the evening, his subject being "Woman's Rights in England vs. Woman's Duties in America."

Since 1890 Dr. Barnes has occupied a place of distinction in both England and America. For many years he was staff lecturer upon the University Extension of the Chautauqua program. Previous to his adoption of a career as lecturer he held a chair in Leland Stanford University. He is the author of "Strides in Education," and "Studies in American History;" also "Where Knowledge Failed."

FORMER GOV. STOKES SPEAKS HERE TONIGHT

There will be a grand rally of the Republicans of North Plainfield tonight in Saengerbund hall. Former Governor Edward C. Stokes will be the principal speaker and Congressman Ira W. Wood, who is seeking another term, will also address the meeting.

Assemblyman W. W. Smalley, of Somerville, has something to say of interest to Somerset county voters and Mayor Newton B. Smalley will discuss municipal affairs for the benefit of the borough at large. The meeting promises to be one of the largest of the campaign.

JR. MECHANICS' ELECTION

New Egypt Man Chosen Vice Councilor After Lively Fight.

STATE COUNCILOR TALKS.

Everett Gray Receives a Gold Watch —Ten-story Building Being Erected by the Association.

With an attendance of nearly 400 representatives of subordinate lodges the forty-first annual session of the State council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, took place at Trenton yesterday in Association Hall, the principal business being the election of officers, presentation of reports by the officers and the consideration of a proposition of increasing the board of managers from five to six members.

The fight for the office of vice-councilor was spirited, the candidate numbering a half dozen. Rev. L. L. Hand, of New Egypt, was elected on the first ballot. His closest competitors were Frank Muta, of Bridgeton, and Rev. Samuel Harker, of Wildwood. Vice-Councilor William S. La Rue was elevated to State councilor. He is a member of Bound Brook Council, and one of the most popular members of the order in this State. Everett L. Benson, of Newark, was elected State conductor. J. A. Brown, of Bloomfield, was chosen State warden. Herbert Sharp, of Vineland, was elected inside sentinel. Frank L. Morton, of Newark, was elected a member of the auditing committee for four years, and B. A. Fairbanks, of Jersey City, for five years.

The new officers were installed by Past State Councilor J. J. Read, of Seabright. The proposition of amending the constitution to permit the increasing of the board of managers from five to six members was laid over until next year. It was proposed to drop the junior past State councilor and add the conductors and wardens.

The Jr. O. U. A. M. Building Association, which is erecting a ten-story sykscraper in Trenton, received the hearty endorsement of State council. To demonstrate that the State council has the utmost faith in the building project the sum of $3,000 from the surplus fund was subscribed for stock. The action of the State council prompted many members of the order to subscribe for stock in the building association. The contract price for the building is $300,000. Secretary William H. Miers was commended by the council for his efforts in behalf of building project. The terms of Secretary William H. Miers, of Trenton, and Treasurer Rev Dr. J. Morgan Read, of Pennington, do not expire until next year.

The session was presided over by State Councilor Everett Gray. In his report he reviewed the work of the past year and called attention to the gain in membership, showing that 4,046 new members have been received in the various lodges in the State. During the year he visited 127 councils. He urged that the State council take some action whereby the uniform rank be brought under the control of State council. He also recommended that May 17 be observed hereafter in this State by the members as the birthday of the order, and that the various councils be requested to appropriately observe the day.

Retiring Councilor Gray was presented with a gold watch by Summit Council and a testimonial by Pioneer Council of Jersey City. The funeral benefit association of the order raised the salary of the president, the Rev. Dr. J. Morgan Read, to $250 a year. Secretary Norris was voted $160 increase, as was also Treasurer Frank L. Morton, of Newark. The council adjourned to meet in Trenton next year.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF CALVIN A. MOORE LARGELY ATTENDED.

The funeral of Calvin A. Moore was held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. William A. Pinto, of West Eighth street and was largely attended by many friends, including former business associates in New York. There were also many beautiful floral tributes, including many large wreaths and set pieces.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, officiated at the service, reading Scripture selections and offering prayer. During the service two hymns were sung, "Abide With Me" and "Lead, Kindly Light." The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

MISS ADA LEIGH BRIDE OF FRANK L. COMPTON

Miss Ada Leigh, daughter of Henry S. Leigh, of Allerton, and cousin of Miss Anna VanFleet, of Duer street, the borough, was married at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon to Frank L. Compton, son of Jacob Compton, of Sunnyside, Hunterdon county, in the Reformed church parsonage, Lebanon, by Rev. W. Lansdale, the pastor of the church.

The bride, who was attended by his cousin, Miss Elizabeth Higgins, as bridesmaid, wore a traveling gown of blue chiffon broadcloth. The best man was William Smith.

After the wedding the couple left on a short trip to Washington, D. C., They will return Saturday and that evening a reception will be held for the bride and groom at Sunnyside. Mr. Comptom is building a home at Sunnyside, which he and his bride will occupy upon its completion. The bride received a large number of handsome gifts. Miss Anna VanFleet, of the borough, was among those who witnessed the ceremony yesterday. The bride is well known here, where she has visitd on many occasions.

QUEEN CITY LODGE, I. O. F. OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY

Queen City Lodge, No. 226, Independent Order Odd Fellows, observed its nineteenth anniversary at a regular meeting last night. There were visiting Odd Fellows from all parts of the State, as well as Connecticut, New York and Brooklyn. An excellent program of addresses, music and recitations was enjoyed. Distirct Deputy Grand Master John M. Shoe, of Lawrence Lodge, No. 62, of Perth Amboy, was present and made an interesting address, congratulating the members.

Queen City Lodge was instituted October 26, 1891, with forty charter members. Today the membership is over 200 and constantly increasing. Nearly every week there is initiation.

Last night's program comprised cornet solos by William Bennett; songs by Brothers Pearson, Mixner, Ramsey, Wilson, Craig, Spalding, of the Queen City Lodge; Brothers Nimrod Horton, Joseph Gray and remarks by Brother D. C. Patterson, of Plainfield lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F.; remarks by J. V. E. Vanderhoef, Guillermo Thorn, and Brother Witter; also by Brother Platt, of Bridgeport, Conn. Following the program there was a smoker and refreshments. During the business session the third degree was worked on one candidate.

MISS HERLICK BRIDE OF ANTON LEON BARTON.

Miss M. Elizabeth Herlick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Herlick, of Dunellen; and Anton Leon Barton, of the same borough, were married at the home of the bride's parents yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Knox, pastor of the Dunellen Methodist church, and was witnessed only by relatives of the young couple.

Miss Lottie Barton, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and the best man was William F. Herlick. Miss Herlick wore a traveling suit of blue broadcloth and carried white roses. Her attendant's gown was of blue satin and she carried white crrysanthemums.

Following a reception and supper, Mr. and Mrs. Herlick left for Richmond, Va., where they will spend two weeks. On returning they will make their home at Roseville, a suburb of Newark, the groom being in business in New York. Both have many acquaintances in Plainfield.

HOPE CHAPEL'S BIG FAIR

Biggest Undertaking Yet of West End Chapel Folk a Success.

EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT.

There's "Something Doing" All the Time and It is a Bazaar Well Worth Attending.

Hope chapel's big industrial fair, with a multitude of attractions, opened for business last night with every indication of complete success. It is to be continued tonight and tomorrow night and if the initial attendance is any criterion, large crowds will be present. There is "something doing" all the time and the visitor has any number of novelties and entertaining features to occupy his time.

The Sunday-school room, where the fair is being held, has been completely transformed by elaborate decorations and vari-colored booths. There are almost a score of the latter and include a Chinese laundry, where prize packages are secured by the presentation of a ticket; a country grocery store with a big general stock; stationery table, confectionery and fancy booths, fish pond and many others. An orchestra in charge of Edward Guest furnishes a delightful musical program and boys and girls are always at hand to sell Hope chapel souvenir buttons.

The young men's Bible class has a feature of its own in the gymnasium, where a complete stage has been erected for the purpose of giving a separate entertainment, beginning each night at 9 o'clock. The program lasts an hour and is to be changed nightly. The contributors last night were the Crescent Avenue church trio, instrumental music; Ernest Van Zandt, vocal solos; Thomas M. Muir, songs and stories, accompanied by Miss Anna Warnock; Harry Kartscher, humorous recitations, and Roy Titsworth, solos. Miss Mary Radford presided at the piano. A duet number by Miss Warnock and Mr. Muir was warmly applauded by the audience.

The supper room proved to be a big drawing card last night, and the waitresses had a busy time of supplying the needs of the patrons. All kinds of refreshments are served.

The proceeds of the fair are to be devoted to the chapel's general fund. The enterprise is in charge of an executive committee composed of G. Herbert Condict, honorary chairman; Donald McInnes, chairman; George T. Leighs, secretary and treasurer; Charles Hughes, William Baker, Harry Keen, James Penny and Willard H. Cook. The booths and various attractions are presided over as follows:

Men's industrial booth, men's club, Thomas Hendry, chairman, William Baker and Walter Firstbrook; women's industrial booth, home department, Mrs. Donald McInnes, chairman, Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Mrs. James Bushby and Mrs. E. SOME RARE OLD BIBLES OWNED BY JERSEYMEN

What is probably one of the largest and most valuable private collection of Bibles in this country is owned by Rev. Marshall Owens, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, Ocean Grove. For nearly a score of years, Rev. Mr. Owens has been engaged in the search for old and rare Bibles, and the collection now numbers about fifty copies of the sacred book, as well as several leaves from historic Bibles and New Testaments. Some of the copies are very rare, and duplicates of these are to be found only in large libraries and museums.

Rev. Mr. Owens is always ready to talk about his Bibles, and even to exhibit them upon occasions. The collection comprises Bibles of all ages in various prints, and several of them are of considerable size and have heavy wooden backs.

Occupying an enviable position in the collection is a revised edition of Coverdale's Bible, printed in 1550, and an edition extremely rare, because nearly all the copies were seized at Paris and destroyed by the Inquisition at the instigation of Bishop Bonner. A copy of this Bible once sold for £160.

Another interesting volume is the "Breeches Bible," the Geneva or Puritan Bible of 1576. The name given came through a curious error discovered in Genesis II, 7, reading as follows: "And they sewed figge leaves together and made themselves breeches."

Then there is Matthew's Bible of 1551, the "Bugges Bible," so called from the peculiar rendering of Psalm 91 5: "So that thou shalt not be afrayed for any bugges at night," for "terror at night."

Cranner's or the Great Bible of 1566, one of the seven are Bibles issued during the interval between April, 1539, and December, 1566, each of which was subject to a very necessary revision, is in the collection.

Then there is the Bishop's Bible of 1572, called also the "Treacle Bible." Mr. Owens has the second edition in folio of the Bishop's version, sometimes referred to as the "Leda Bible," because of a representation of Leda and the Swan being introduced in the opening initial of the Epistle to the Hebrews. A curious rendering of Jeremiah VIII., 22, is: "Is there not reavle at Gilead?" which gives it its name.

A leaf of Tindale's Testament of 1536 and Tindale's New Testament of 1550, with Erasmus' Latin version, are among the books.

Owing to a typographical error which changed the "we" in Acts VI., 3, to "ye," thus making the verse read, "Whom ye may appoint," instead of "Whom we may appoint," the Authorized or Independents' Bible of 1638 is said to have cost Cromwell £1,000 fine or "hush" money. This volume occupies a conspicuous place in Rev. Mr. Owens' collection.

The Preachers' Bible of 1666 is a curious flat Bible, printed in quorto, and said to have been printed from silver type. Then there is a copy of the Jefferson Bible in fac simile, issued by the United States government, and a copy of the Collins Bible, an early American Bible published at Trenton in 1791, and the first Bible printed in New Jersey.

This is from the press of Isaac Colline, State printer, and it was said of him that he never printed anything detrimental to the morals of his fellow men. Besides these, there is a complete copy of the New Testament in minature, one of the smallest copies extant.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

WESTFIELD.

Westfield Republicans are commencing active campaign work. Special campaign committees are to be appointed in each ward, to look after the work of the ward. This is in addition to the work of the general committee. The special committees have been organized in First and Fourth wards and will be organized in the Second and Third this week. As an offset to the activity of their opponents the Democrats have organized a general committee with sub-committees for each ward and a colored Democratic Club to take care of the colored voters.

Rev. L. D. Calkins, of Westfield, will have temporary charge of the Presbyterian church parish at Roselle owing to the resignation of Rev. I. A. Blauvelt, filling in until D. A. Blauvelt's successor is installed. The pulpit of the Roselle church will be formally declared vacant next Sunday morning by Rev. G. F. Green of Cranford Presbyterian church.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The annual convention of the Elizabeth district Epworth League will be held in the Dunellen Methodist church tomorrow beginning at 10 o'clock. The committee has planned to receive 300 delegates representing seventy-three churches. There are to be morning, afternoon and evening sessions, lunch and supper being served in the basement by the local league. John J. Marsh, of Westfield, the district president, will be in charge of the convention and Raymond Miller, of Plainfield, will be secretary. The principal speakers as announced are to be Rev. Dr. Randall, of Chicago, national president of the Epworth League; Rev. Dr. William H. Morgan, of Newark, and Rev. C. C. Woodruff, of Rahway. Local speakers are also to be heard.

The Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. A special program will be prosecuted.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will celebrate its twentieth anniversary Sunday night, with a special program and an address by the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Little Gray Lady," from Channing Pollock's story of that name, will be the offering at The Plainfield theatre today and the rest of the week by the stock company. The play tells a charming story of love, devotion and sacrifice, and the local company will give a fine performance. Miss Diehl will take the leading part, made famous by Dorothy Donnelly, while Harold Mead will aso take a leading part. The roles assigned to the rest of the cast insure the best interpretation. In selecting plays to be given by the stock company, the management is striving to ascertain just the kind of productions that are desired, and in its efforts have presented a number of the best known among theatregoers. Each member of the company is doing his and her best to give finished performances, and at the popular prices charged should prove a strong attraction.

COMPARES MISS CASE'S VOICE WITH THAT OF TETTRAZINI.

Miss Anna L. Case, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will give a concert at the Plainfield High School Saturday night. The Utica Observer, of May 20, last, has this to say of the talented young woman:

"Miss Case had never before appeared in Utica, but her interesting, almost romantic, story, was known to many in the audience and lent interest to the occasion. She has a pure soprano voice of great range and sweetness and her artistic singing is supplemented by a most pleasing and attractive personality. Her selections gave her an opportunity to demonstrate what a wonderful gift is hers. Her finest number was the aria from "Traviata." Her tone shading was delicate and effective. Clear, true and without apparent effort her voice rose note by note until, with a wonderful volume and sweetness of tone she touched and held the E above high C—the note that Tettranzini is so proud of. But her other numbers were not less pleasing. She was generous in responding to encores, the first being an old Irish song by Lohr. Her second encore number was a composition of her own, she herself playing the accompaniment, 'Revelation.' It is dainty and effective, admirably suited to the singer."

The Junior Mission Band, of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and enjoy a special program.

BACON, 3 LBS. FOR $1; GOOD HOGS ARE SCARCE.

In the face of a steady decline in the price of hogs and corn on which they are fed, Chicagoans who desired to eat bacon Tuesday discovered that they were compelled to pay the highest price ever obtained for the salt meat in times of peace—thirty-five cents a pound, sliced.

If the housewife was willing to cut it up herself, she might have reduced this figure to three pounds for $1, but that was the best she could do. It was up, and, to all appearances, would stay at this record-smashing figure for some months.

The sole reason for this situation, according to C. W. Foster, veteran provision dealer, lies in the shortage of bacon-producing hogs.

No matter what the facts might seem to indicate, said he, the difficulty lies in the inability of the packers to buy the porkers.

The situation, he said, would be changed in the interest of the public and lower prices just as soon as a new yield of hogs could be produced from the cheaper corn.

P. H. S. NOTES.

The material for the back stops of the tennis courts has arrived and the work has already been begun. The iron poles are decorated and give a finished appearance to the grounds.

The play which is to be the after piece of the High School minstrel show is developing some good dramatic talent. Burse, Karr, Ramsey, Titsworth and Doane in their several part are doing good work and are practically letter perfect now.

The Boys' Battalion of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow night for the weekly drill, under the direction of Louis Matlack.

STATE'S CASH BOX FULL GOVERNOR IS PLEASED

According to the figures obtained from the office of the State comptroller it is shown that on October 31, next, the close of the fiscal year for the State Government, there will be the sum of $1,760,000 in the State treasury, free and clear of all obligations.

The actual amount of money which Comptroller West will notify Governor Fort as being on hand will be $2,160,000, but against this sum there will be outstanding debts of approximately $400,000, which must be liquidated to determine the actual free balance. These debts are made up of sums due on contracts for work at State institutions authorized by the State Legislature and expenses incurred by the State Road Department and the State Inland Waterways Commission.

Governor Fort Tuesday afternoon expressed himself as highly gratified at the condition of the State finances and declared that the $1,760,000 free balance which will be to the credit of the next Gubernatorial administration, is just about three times the balance that was left in the State Treasury when he assumed the office of chief executive. At the close of the Stokes administration the available cash balance for State purposes was $584,898.86.

ALL MY PIMPLES GONE.

Girl Tells How a Blotchy Skin Was Cleansed by a Simple Wash.

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Minnie Pickard of Altamahaw, N. C. "It was all full of pimples and scars, but after using D. D. D. Prescription I can say that now there is no sign of that Eczema, and that was three years ago."

D. D. D. has become so famous as a cure and instant relief in Eczema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, blackheads, and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D. D. is so penetrating that it strikes to the very root of Eczema or any other serious trouble, the soothing Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients are so carefully compounded there is no wash for the skin made that can compare with this great household remedy for every kind of skin trouble.

D. D. D. is pleasant to use, perfectly harmless to the most delicate skin, and absolutely reliable. A 25 cent bottle will give you positive proof of the wonderful effectiveness of this great remedy.

GOLF.

Those looking for a novelty in a golf way will have a hard time beating the southpaw tournament held at the Midlothian Country Club on Saturday. The committee even went so far as to have all the tee boxes placed on the left side.

The recent performance of Miss Cecelia Leitch, the Scotch girl who defeated H. H. Hilton in a 72-hole match, makes it appear as if sooner or later the mantle of queen of the links must fall her way. Hilton, who atempted to concede half a stroke a hole to his opponent, lost after being 5 up with only fifteen holes to play.

The governors' cup, representing the golf championship of the Rockland Country Club, at Palisade, N. Y., was won on Sunday by E. M. Carroll, of Nyack N. Y. Mr. Carroll defeated H. T. Westervelt 5 up and 4 to go in the final round, having previously defeated Armstrong 4 up and 3 to play; Connelly 6 up and 4 to play; Shields 4 up and 3 to play, and Wilson 2 up.

Harry Kuhns was severely cut on one arm by the bursting of a large bottle at the South Millville Glass Works, of Whitall, Tatum Company.

The Monroe Township Board of Education closed all the schools in Williamstown Tuesday afternoon, owing to the prevalence of diphtheria.

Rev. John Erler, who recently resigned as pastor of the Pottersville church, has accepted a call to St. Stephen's Evangelical Lutheran church, New York.

While Walter Batten, of Woodbury, was plowing Tuesday on the Andes Budd farm, his plow struck a snag and he was thrown over the handles, breaking his collarbone.

Hiram Clement, of near Woodbury, has been dining on strawberries since June. Tuesday he picked eight boxes that were just as fine as those gathered from the same vines early in the season.

Constable Joseph Moore at Mullica Hill arrested a driver of a Philadelphia team on a charge of cruelty. The horses, Moore declares, were almost starved to death and could scarcely pull an empty wagon.

Stumbling downstairs at his home at Marlton and Westminster avenues, Camden, Tuesday, Charles Johnson, forty-eight years old, sustained a slight fracture of the skull and was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital.

After a courtship of more than ten years, which began in their school days, George J. Tichenor, of Burlington, and Miss Elizabeth G. Kelty, of Florence, were married Monday in St. Clare's Catholic church by Rev. John Caulfield, assisted by Rev. Henry Rusi, of Burlington.

The building trades department of the American Federation of Labor was formed in Atlantic City with these officers: Dennis A. Leary, president; Charles E. Tusky, vice-president; William Mullen, secretary-treasurer. The object is to adjust trade disputes and promote harmony between employer and employe.

Three boys from Trenton, who had gone to Philadelphia last week to see the world's championship baseball games, were found stranded there Tuesday by Detectives Wood and Tate, of the city hall force. They were retained at city hall Tuesday night and were sent home the next day. The boys gave their names as Nick Comerett, fourteen years old; John Ryan, fifteen years, and Chas. Raven, fifteen years.

At the point of a revolver, John Heisler, colored, of 713 Van Hook street, Camden, was arrested by City Detective Painter on a farm near Gloucester City Tuesday and locked up in the Camden city pall to await the result of injuries by David Cartright, colored, who is in Cooper Hospital with a fractured skull. The injured man rented a room from Heisler, and in a quarrel over rent Heisler is alleged to have struck Cartright with a blunt instrument. He was working on the farm, and at the sight of the detective made an effort to escape.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

In enrolling its members according to the political divisions in which they reside, the Equal Suffrage League has adopted a wise policy, one that is most practical and beneficial for results. It marks a step forward in a movement having right and justice as its powerful weapons. Those who scoff at the demand for votes for women are mostly to be found among the class who do not even know why they are Republicans, Democrats, Prohibitionists or Socialists except that their fathers were. Some of them, however, will live to see the day when one or the other of the big political parties will advocate the scheme. For why should not a woman with large property holdings, particularly, have just as much right to say whether and how much she may be taxed, the same as does some ignorant foreign-born citizen who with difficulty speaks the English language, knows nothing about our institutions and has no property?

THE FORUM.

REJOINDER TO DR. PRINCE.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Prof. John Dynely Prince's letter in your issue of Monday as well as his speech reflects the effort of the Republican speakers to divert the public mind from the real issue in this campaign for the governorship, to befog the issues instead of clarify them, to divert attention from the real greatness and genius of the man our candidate, Woodrow Wilson.

While we believe Dr. Wilson's views on the tariff eminently sound and make him all the more attractive, that his views on that subject have nothing whatever to do with his fitness for the governorship is a self-evident proposition. That Prof. Prince should spend so much time in discussing them shows the weakness of the opposition.

It would be an imposition on you to ask for space to reply at length to Prof. Prince's questions and it seems to me unnecessary since Dr. Wilson's views on the tariff are clearly and unequivocally set forth in his address and it would border on the impertinent for any one else to attempt to further set them forth. It is unjust, however, to quote disconnected sentences from a document, constituting one harmonious whole and base conclusions on these disconnected sentences, yet this is what Prof. Prince has done.

The tariff issue in this campaign applies only to Congressman and the issue is plainly whether we shall have a revision downward and not one of protection or free trade as Dr. Prince's reference would indicate. Protection is a long established policy and is doubtless here to stay some time longer. The question then is one of the degree of protection. Shall we continue to have that degree of protection which enables manufacturers to boost prices beyond all reason to tax the consumer all that they think the consumers will stand; that degree of protection for instance which enables the thread manufacturer in Newark, N. J., to compel the citizens of Newark to pay five (5) cents a spool while they sell this same thread to the citizens of London, Eigland, for three (3) cents a spool.

This is what the tariff of 46 per cent. on thread does and there are a thousand similar instances which show the crime of the present tariff. People who favor the continuation of this crime should vote for Judge Runyon for Congress, those who are opposed to it should vote for Mr. Tuttle. But Dr. Wilson as governor has nothing to do with the tariff, and protectionists, free traders and people of all schools of politics are going to vote for him not because they love Lewis the less but because they love Wilson more, and because they have never yet had the opportunity to vote for so good and great a man for governor.

ATHLETICS IN BUSINESS.

An alliance of athletic and commerce, in which the latter profits through the keenness induced and energy infused by the former, is being consummated in many American business firms and corporations today.

One of the best examples of how athletics has been made to increase the working value of a business establishment is that of a large life insurance company. The office building has been equipped with a complete gymnasium and shower baths, a competent athletic instructor has been retained and a schedule has been mapped out for the employees, both male and female. The gymnasium occupies the eleventh floor, and here, during the luncheon hour, directly after business hours and on spcified evenings during the week the employees are given physical training. The women are provided with a special instructress on Wednesdays. There are organized basketball teams during the winter months. In Spring and Summer the gymnasium is moved to the roof.

"You will find, too," says the instructor, "that on Thursday, the day following the lack of gymnasium work for men, the employees do not give nearly the impression of alertness that they evidence on the other days." The instructor keeps his eye on the physical condition of the clerks not only during gymnasium hours, but also during his rounds of the departments throughout the day. Thus he is enabled to notice sagging vitality and to suggest to the employees so affected the remedy. The heads of the departments declare that the athletic movement perfected by the officials has succeeded in doubling the efficiency of the different staffs of workers under their immediate charge.—Harper's Weekly.

Democratic Rally Tonight.

At the Democratic mass meeting in Reform hall tonight Calvin E. Brodhead, candidate for the Assembly, will preside. Among the vice-presidents of the meeting are the following: David J. Carney, R. B. Corey, Howard Fleming E. Fluck, Hugh F. Fox, David T. Kenney, J. R. Knowlton, Harry W. Marshall, J. O. Stevens, Fred Thompson, Robert Woodhouse and Fred Wagner.

Rescue Mission Tonight.

At the Plainfield Rescue Mission this evening at 7:45 o'clock in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue, Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Temple Baptist church, will be the speaker. The Christian Endeavor Society and the choir of Temple Baptist church will be present and assist with the services with special music. All are welcome.

Rev. Howard Leaves for Buffalo.

Rev. Lawrence R. Howard, former pastor of Hope chapel, left this morning for Buffalo, where he will remain until Monday. He will then be joined by Mrs. Howard and they will proceed to Glencoe, Ill., to remain for the winter.

AS YOU GO THROUGH LIFE.

Don't look for the flaws as you go through life,
And even when you find them
It is wise and kind to be somewhat blind
And look for the virtue behind them.
For the cloudiest night has a dint of light,
Somewhere in its shadow hiding;
It is better by far to hunt for a star,
Than the spots on the sun abiding.

The world will never adjust itself
To suit your whims to the letter.
Some things must go wrong your whole life long.
And the sooner you know it the better.
It is folly to fight with the Infinite,
And go under at last in the wrestle;
The wiser man shapes into God's plan
As water shapes into a vessel.
—Exchange.

LATEST FASHIONS.

Skirts are fitted smoothly over the hips and often simply gored, but more often some plaiting effect is introduced towards the bottom or down the full length of the front and back.

There is no change in the design of waists. They continue to be in the peasant blouse style and seamless. One piece cut girdles are placed high or low, according to the fancy of the wearer. Sleeves are invariably short. Collarless effects still prevail.

Judge Westcott to Speak.

Leroy J. Ellis, president of the Democratic club, announced this morning that he had received word from Congressman Henry that he cannot be present and address the mass meeting tonight in Reform Hall. However Judge John W. Westcott, the famous South Jersey orator, who nominated Mr. Katzenbach for Governor at the last convention, will be present and address the meeting.

Member Old Glory Council.

The late James Vail in addition to being a member of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., and Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, was also a member of Old Glory Council, Daughters of Liberty, and that organization was represented at the funeral service.

Juniors Get Their Pins.

The class pins for the Juniors of the North Plainfield High School have arrived and been distributed. The colors are purple and gold.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cothell, of East Second street, left today for Lawrenceville, Brunswick county, Virginia where they will spend the winter. Mr. Cothell took his two prize setters "Vic" and "Berg" with him, as he expects to bag a lot of game.

The Home Building & Loan Association
Offers Cheap Interest for a Home Builder or Buyer

It figures out about like this, as a series will run out in twelve years: If $2,000.00 is borrowed (other amounts in same proportion),

He pays $10.00 a month dues for 144 months	$1,440 00
He pays $10.00 a month interest for 144 months at 6 per cent.	1,440 00
Entrance fee, search, etc., about	25 00
Total amount paid	$2,905 00
He has the use of	2,000 00
At a cost for 12 years of	$ 905 00

Which is actual net interest of only 3¾ per cent. per annum.

This is on a basis of 6 per cent. When no money is on hand, the Association will provide money for the borrower at a very slight premium.

The regular meetings of the association are held at its rooms, 109 Park Avenue, on the third Monday evening of each month. New series are opened at each regular meeting. Further information may be had at that time or by applying to the secretary, Arthur E. Crone, care of the City National Bank.

NEW JERSEY ODD FELLOWS CONVENTION NEXT WEEK

The seventy-seventh annual session of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, I. O. O. F. which will be held in Masonic Hall, Trenton, November 16 and 17, will be one of the most important held in several years. Plainfield lodges will be well represented, as well as those from all over the State.

Reports which will be presented will show that the past year has been one of the most successful in the history of the order in this State. In these reports will be suggested matters of business which are of vital importance to the Odd Fellowship in New Jersey.

The session will be made up of representatives from each of the 264 lodges of the State. The new grand officers, to be voted on in the week of October 15, will be installed. William T. Robbins, of Hamilton Square, who is the present deputy grand master will be advanced to grand master without opposition. Charles A. Woodruff, of Newark, the present warden, will be advanced to deputy grand master without opposition. John R. Deacon, of Bordentown, will be unanimously re-elected treasurer.

For the grand wardenship there are seven candidates in the field. At the present time Gorge W. Shinn, of Burlington, the present grand marshal, is in the lead, and he will probably win out in the contest. The other candidates for the place are: James H. White, of Paterson; Walter S. Campbell, of Newark; Amos E. Waugh, of Jersey City; Arthur J. Runyon, of Newark; F. H. Chorpenning, of Atco; Wallace M. Kinsey, of Pompton Plains.

Harry S. Pine, the present secretary of the Grand Lodge, and Frank R. Jummel, of Trenton, are candidates for the secertaryship. The contest is a friendly one. It is believed that Mr. Pine will be re-elected.

C. Fleming Stanger, of Glassboro, is a candidate to succeed himself as grand representative. Peter W. Stagg, of Hackensack, is also a candidate for this position. Grand Master Thomas E. English, of Ridgewood, will preside over the sesion.

There is much interest being manifested in the forthcoming report of the committee on new constitution for the Grand Lodge. This matter has been up before two previous sessions and will no doubt bring out much debate on the floor. The report of the board of directors for the Odd Fellows Home in this city will show that there are now forty-four inmates in the institution, four having died during the past year. The institution, under the management of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Adams, the superintendent and matron, has reached a high state of efficiency, and visitors universally speak in the highest praise of the manner in which it is conducted. This report will also show ependitures of about $10,000 on the institution during the past year. In addition to this about $5,000 was paid on the standing debt, which leaves but $5,000 debt outstanding now. The Grand Lodge also donated $1,500 to the orphanage at Newark.

The yearly report of Secretary Pine will show that the total initiations for 1909 were 1,520 as against 1,317 for the year previous, while in the first six months of this year over 1,000 were initiated.

In the mater of dropped members the average for the entire country is five per cent. and the average in this State is about 3.6 per cent. The order at large made a net gain in membership of nearly 400,000 in the past five years and will pass the 2,000,000 for membership this year. It shows over $50,000,000 in invested funds, dispensing nearly $6,000,000 annually for relief alone. In New Jersey there has been a net gain in membership of over 1,400 in the past five years, and so far this year the net gain is over 700.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The quarterly conference meeting of the Methodist church will be held in the church Wednesday night of next week. Rev. D. B. Randolph, of Plainfield, will preside.

Fireside Council, R. A., of Westfield, holds an important meeting tonight in Arcanum Hall. All local members are requested to attend.

John Peters, who has been spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. John Gillotti, of Bartle avenue, has returned to his home in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Benjamin Clark, of Prospect avenue, is spending a week with her daughter, Mrs. Otto Peterson, at Newark.

Mrs. Anna Goodwin, of Stanbury avenue, has returned from a visit of two weeks with relatives in Michigan.

Miss Mamie Gallagher, who has been visiting friends in town, has returned to her home at Metuchen.

PUPILS IN OPEN-AIR SCHOOL GAIN WEIGHT.

An aggregate gain of twenty-four pounds fifteen ounces has been made by the twenty pupils in the Montclair Open-air School during the two weeks since the schol was opened. A lunch of bread and butter and milk was served at 10:30 o'clock this morning for the first time. Cooking apparatus is being installed in one of the rooms of the old Cedar Avenue School building in the rear of which the tent school is located.

Beginning next Monday it is expected to furnish the children with three hot lunches daily. One will be given at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, another between 12 o'clock and 1 o'clock and the last just before dismissal at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Until everything is completed for the three-meal course, one session only will be held. Ample funds to provide the emals have been contributed by the generosity of Unity church and other friends of the movement.

Unity Lodge No. 102, Knights of Pythias, will hold a regular session this evening.

TROLLEY CAR AND AUTO COLLIDE ON E. FRONT

While trying to get by a main line trolley car on East Front street with a large touring car, Thomas Brooks, colored, chauffeur for Miss Alpaugh, of East Sixth street, crossed the street directly in front of another trolley car going west causing a collision which ripped the running board and a part of the automobile's body off and snapped the fender from the trolley car.

The accident caused a crowd to collect quickly, but as no one was injured it as quickly dispersed. Miss Alpaugh said this afternoon that she was on her way toward Watchung avenue following a main line trolley. When her car had reached Stanley's flower store on East Front street her car was unable to pass through owing to the presence of another automobile standing on the right hand side of the road. Brooks steered to the left intending to pass behind and get ahead of the trolley car going east when another came from the opposite direction and in an instant the collision occured. Miss Alpaugh's car was taken to a garage for repairs.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Alfred W. Day, of New York city, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Anthony P. Vail, of West Eighth street, has returned to her home.

Foster Updike, the real estate dealer, with desk room at Elston M. French's office, has returned to business again after an absence of six months caused by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Marsh and son, Floyd L. Marsh, of McMichaels, Monroe county, Pa., returned home today after a pleasant visit at the home of his brother, A. F. Marsh, of Westervelt avenue.

Rev. L. R. Howard left today for Glencoe, Ill. Enroute he will stop at Buffalo, New York, where on Monday he will be joined by Mrs. Howard and their sons Richard and Donald. They will spent the winter at Glencoe, Ill., with his mother.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Young Society of Friends will hold a social in the meeting house this evening beginning at 8 o'clock.

Rev. Theodore Francis, of Jersey City, will give Bible readings tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 and in the evening at 7:45 in the church at Duer street and Craig place. The subject will be "The Ninth Chapter of Romans."

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor, and O. B. Leonard, clerk of the First Baptist church, were among those who attended the annual State convention of the Baptist societies held at Atlantic City, this week. Pastor Maguire and members of the Park Avenue Baptist church were also in attendance.

Auto Side-swipes Trolley Car.

J. Harry Green's large touring car side-swiped a west-bound trolley car on West Front street during the early part of last evening, and although no one was injured, both the occupants of the car and the machine were given a shakeup. Mr. Green's car was standing on the street and just as the trolley came along started up. The wheels of the auto went under the body of the car, and although both vehicles were stopped quickly, some damage resulted to the machine.

Appointed Bankruptcy Receiver.

Attorney Martin B. Stutsman, of this city, has been appointed receiver of the estate of Harvey K. Trumpore, bankrupt, by the United States District Court. Mr. Trumpore is a grocer at Westfield. W. H. Robinson, of Cranford, has been relieved of his work as assignee and Mr. Stusman will now take charge of the case.

PLATINIZED GLASS.

It Produces an Odd and a Tricky Kind of Mirror.

Platinized glass consists of a piece of glass coated with an exceedingly thin layer of a liquid charged with platinum and then raised to a red heat. The platinum becomes united to the glass in such a way as to form an odd kind of mirror.

The glass has not really lost its transparency, and yet if one places it against a wall and looks at it he sees his image as in an ordinary looking glass. But when light is allowed to come through the glass from the other side, as when it is placed in a window, it appears perfectly transparent, like ordinary glass.

By constructing a window of platinized glass one could stand close behind the panes in an unilluminated room and behold clearly everything going on outside, while passersby looking at the window would behold only a fine mirror or set of mirrors in which their own figures would be reflected while the person inside remained invisible.

In France various tricks have been contrived with the aid of this glass. In one a person seeing what appears to be an ordinary mirror approaches it to gaze upon himself. A sudden change in the mechanism sends light through the glass from the back, whereupon it instantly becomes transparent, and the startled spectator finds himself confronted by some grotesque figure that had been hidden behind the glass.—Harper's Weekly.

ORIGIN OF LLOYD'S.

Humble Beginning of Europe's Great Maritime Agency.

Two centuries ago a man who had a cargo to send to the Mediterranean contrived to get rid of some of the risk by inducing a friend to take an interest with him. It was necessary to write out a statement of contract to which the guarantors subscribed. This was the first underwriting. These two men happened to be frequenters of Lloyd's coffee house in London, which was a favorite place for the merchants of the town to gather to discuss business or to gossip.

Others immediately saw the advantage of the scheme which their colleagues had devised, and on the next voyage the risk was parceled out among a larger number of the patrons of the coffee house.

Out of this small beginning has grown the great European maritime agency, still bearing the name of the humble coffee house proprietor, and which not only writes risks on vessels, but rates them and publishes their arrivals at every port the world over, no matter how small or how remotely situated.—"Annals of the American Academy."

Where Abraham Fished.

Mrs. Victoria de Bunsen in "The Soul of a Turk" relates a legend concerning Abraham which will be new to many readers. She learned of it while at Edessa, the traditional Ur of the Chaldees. She was shown there a large oblong tank of water so filled with fishes resting just below the surface of the water that their fins and backs seemed almost wedged together so as to form "an almost solid layer of silvery life."

"The guardian of the mosque throws some meal into the water, and the fish jump high to catch it, a great living pyramid, of which those which jump the highest form the pinnacle. The tradition is that Abraham as a child fished in the tank; hence the fish were considered sacred. No single one has been caught or killed to this day. Indeed, death would overtake the man who transgressed this law."

Protection From Lightning.

Sir Oliver Lodge stated that the problem of securing protection from lightning consisted in finding the best method of dissipating the enormous energy of the flash, but that it was not wise to get rid of the energy too quickly. A thin iron wire is considered the best lightning conductor from the electrical point of view, but it is almost impossible to protect a building from lightning unless it is completely enveloped in a metal cage. It is by no means true that a building is safe when provided with a conductor reaching up to the highest part of the building.

The Origin of Grocer.

Grocer appears in Holinshed's Chronicle, 1580, as "grosser," and in other mediaeval records it is sometimes written "engrosser" and was applied to the spicers and pepperers who were wholesale dealers in various spices—that is, who dealt en gros—in large quantities, as distinguished from "regrators," who were retail dealers. The Grocers' company first adopted the word grocer in 1373, when the spicers and pepperers allied themselves into a single corporation.—London Express.

Agreed With Her.

Tramp (at the door)—If you please, lady— Mrs. Muggs (sternly)—There, that will do. I am tired of this everlasting whine of "Lady, lady." I am just a plain woman, and— Tramp—You are, madam, one of the plainest women I've ever seen an' one of the honestest to own up to it.

Cruel.

Mrs. Benham—Every time I sing to the baby he cries. Benham—He gets his ability as a musical critic from my side of the house.—New York Press.

Prosperity demands of us more prudence and moderation than adversity.

Use TIZ--

Smaller Feet

Sore Feet, Tender Feet and Swollen Feet Cured Every Time. TIZ Makes Sore Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

Everyone who is troubled with sore, sweaty, or tender feet—swollen feet—smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions can quickly make their feet well now. Here is instant relief and a lasting, permanent remedy—it's called TIZ. TIZ makes sore feet well and swollen feet are quickly reduced to their natural size. Thousands of ladies have been able to wear shoes a full size smaller with perfect comfort.

It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleanses them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists 25 cents per box or direct if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 30, 1910.

Topic.—My denomination at work in other lands.—Ps. ii. 1-8. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Five weeks ago we had this very same subject as applied to our own land. But our denominations do not limit their labors to the boundaries of our own land, to our mainland and its islands, but to all peoples as far as possible. Christ said to begin at home, but also to continue the work of witnessing for Him "unto the uttermost parts of the earth."

This, too, all Christian denominations are striving to do. Modern missions in foreign fields have rapidly increased since their origin a little over a century ago.

The Old Testament as well as the New breathes the spirit of foreign missions. In the second psalm perhaps as strongly as in any other place God emphasizes this work, setting forth through the psalmist the futility of heathen opposition and the sure success finally of the kingdom of Christ.

When first missionaries began their work there was much opposition to them. In China, India, Japan and the isles of the sea they were mistreated and many times won the crown of martyrdom. This was not so much because they were Christian missionaries, but because they were foreigners. Most of these nations were closed entirely to foreigners altogether. China had its great wall to keep them out. Japan, now so vigorous, was a closed island to all foreigners, and Commodore Perry of the United States navy was the first foreign naval officer to be received, and thereafter treaties were made and foreign trade begun and with it (and sometimes here and there a single missionary before the missionaries. But still "the heathen raged" and often took their spite out on the missionaries. But the "blood of the martyrs," as in the time of the persecutions by the Roman empire, "became the seed of the church." Kings and rulers took counsel together, but with futile results. The kingdom was bound to make progress and to win out in the end.

Had the church been but human it might have been kept away, but instead it is the church of the living God and nothing could stop it. While they derided, God in the heavens laughed and held them in derision and brought them to a position where the door of every nation was and is opened to missionaries, and they are free from persecutions, except in case of some local outbreak, which the authorities soon control.

Under these conditions God sent out his servants to invite them "to be wise," "to fear the Lord," "to kiss the Son, lest he be angry and ye perish." The people, no longer derisive, are listening to the call of God's messengers and by the thousands are coming into Christ's kingdom.

The societies of each denomination should study the work of their own denominations.

Let me sing a song of hope
For the weary and the sad;
Let me light the feet that grope;
Let me make some lone heart glad
Thus my life will flow forever
Through a sweet Christ-i-an endeavor.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company. Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

Lillie was in touch with Bill again, therefore, in spite of the uncertain future, she was not unhappy. She had written to Bill the day after Loveland joined the company, had sent him a photograph of herself and a collar for Shakespeare, the best that could be bought, for 50 cents in Modunk. Bill had answered to Ashville, and, though neither had any prospects, both had unlimited hope now that they were sure of the love and loyalty which had outlived discouragements, absence and unprosperous years. Lillie was going to Chicago, and Chicago might have something to offer. By and by—who could tell?—she and Bill, "the best man she ever knew," might come together. Meanwhile they could go on loving each other.

The girl went off buoyed up with hope, and Ed Binney had friends in Chicago. He would rest a little and be "all right," he said to Val, shaking hands over and over again in the moment of goodby.

Hill Farm, as Mrs. Loveland's place was called, lay in a charming country not far from Louisville, and at noon of the day after her surprise visit to the theater Miss Dearmer's newly appointed chauffeur was waiting for his employer at the Ashville station.

In his hand was the battered bag which had called forth the contempt of Jack Jacobus, and in his heart were shame, rebellion, jealousy and joy, mingled with several other emotions, none of which he could have defined—least of all the joy.

He reminded himself that there could now be no possible satisfaction in his nearness to Lesley. She did not like him enough to believe in him.

He had to wait for some time on the platform before Miss Dearmer appeared, and then she came toward him alone.

"Auntie is saying goodby to our Ashville friends," she explained. "I—they're not going to stop with us till the train goes. I thought for several reasons it would be better not, and they quite understand. Before you meet my aunt I want a little talk with you. I haven't told her or the others that you—that there's any connection between you and the newspaper story about the marquis and his adventures. I said I'd met you before and was sorry to find now that you'd had misfortunes, losing your money and other things, that had put you into an uncomfortable position. Auntie was in her stateroom on board ship till the last morning, and then I didn't point you out to her. If she saw you at all she didn't notice you particularly, and, besides, she's very nearsighted. She knows only that you're Mr. Gordon and that to help you a little I've asked you to act as chauffeur for a short time till you can get something better."

"And till Mr. Cremer can get some one better," Loveland capped her words.

"You have to be tried first," smiled the girl. "And I mean you to be a success—a great success. Now I'm going to auntie. I think we'd better travel in different cars, for she hasn't quite got used yet to the idea of a gentleman chauffeur."

With that the girl pressed a railway ticket into his hand, and he was left, not knowing whether he were more inclined to laughter or to cursing.

The Hill Farm might almost have been an English farm, with its rambling red brick house, apparently of the Georgian period, its square paned windows and its pillared porch draped with a tangle of grapevine and Virginia creeper.

Val arrived only a few minutes later than Lesley and Mrs. Loveland, and the girl was waiting for him in the open doorway when his hack drove up.

"This is a big old house," said Lesley, coming out into the porch—"at least it's old for America. It's stood for about 150 years, and there's lots of room in it. You will live in the west wing. In a few minutes Uncle Wally will show you where to go. Here, Uncle Wally, take Mr. Gordon's bag."

There was no contempt either for the bag or its owner on the mild old face of the gray headed negro, who was as perfect and well trained a servant in his way as any butler in an English country house. Evidently he, too, had been told that this was a "gentleman chauffeur," to be treated like a gentleman. And Loveland was grateful to his hostess, feeling a sudden impulse toward happiness until, with a shock, he remembered Sidney Cremer.

"When will Mr. Cremer arrive?" he asked Lesley as they walked together across a sloping lawn toward the stables.

"Oh, Sidney's very much at home here," she answered lightly. "You may see him at any time. Meanwhile you won't mind driving the car for me, will you?"

"I think you know whether I'll mind that or not," said Loveland almost more to himself than to the girl. "If only there were no Sidney Cremer!"

"I have an idea you won't dislike Sidney when you meet him," Lesley said kindly.

"A man's chauffeur has no right to an opinion about him—at least that's what I used to think myself. Cremer must be very rich," grumbled Loveland, apparently apropos of nothing.

"Sidney makes a good deal of money out of novels and plays—at least it seems a good deal to me, but maybe it wouldn't to you. Perhaps Sidney's earnings amount to about twelve or fifteen thousand of your English pounds a year, and he's saved quite a lot, too, for he's been popular as a playwright and novelist in America and England for several years now."

"By Jove!" exclaimed Loveland. "What a lucky beggar!"

"That just expresses it—a 'lucky beggar'—for he was almost a beggar at the time he made his first success."

"Shall you be married soon?"

Lesley smiled, and her dimples twinkled. "It isn't decided yet. But I dare say it will be soon. Now, I suppose with the grand ideas you used to talk to me about, £12,000 or £15,000 a year and a few loose thousands lying around, would seem like shabby genteel poverty to you."

"Don't hit a man when he's down," said Loveland. "If I had only half as much as Mr. Cremer I could do the things I want most to do."

"What are they?" asked Lesley.

"Nowadays the things I feel I should like most to do are to restore our poor old tumbled down home and get rid of my debts."

"You say 'nowadays.' Have you changed your mind lately?"

"I've changed almost everything except these everlasting tweeds! I know, of course, that my affairs will come right in one way presently. I shall get back to England before my leave's up, but I shan't go back the same man. I've lost the chance of all that's the best worth having, if I ever could have had such a chance."

"You're too young to give up hope, almost as young as Sidney Cremer."

"What! He's younger than I am?"

"Sidney is twenty-three."

"Once you said you didn't like men under twenty-six, they seemed so raw."

"I ought to be flattered that you should remember my sayings of 'once.' You see, though, Sidney's quite different from other men, especially to me. But here we are at the stables. We'll talk about Sidney's car instead of Sidney."

"Just one question first!" exclaimed Loveland, stopping short in front of the old fashioned but neatly kept stables and spacious southern barn. "I know I haven't any right to ask it, but were you engaged to Cremer when we crossed together on the Mauretania?"

"WERE YOU ENGAGED TO CREMER?"

"My relations with Sidney were then exactly what they are now," replied the girl, with a pretty primness that made her mouth look as if she had just said "prunes, prisms, propriety."

His last hope gone—since Lesley had not accepted Cremer out of pique—Loveland was silenced.

CHAPTER XXV.

SIDNEY CREMER'S CHAUFFEUR.

NO letter was forwarded to the Hill Farm from the theater at Bonnerstown for the very good reason that Miss Moon, having found one for Mr. P. Gordon, opened, read and out of sheer spite destroyed it, with its several inclosures.

The envelope was addressed in Bill Willing's inappropriately beautiful handwriting, and there was a short note from him saying that he had great pleasure in inclosing two letters just arrived from England; also that he sent his undying love to Lillie de Lisle."

One of the English letters blazed to the actress' dazzled eyes with a gilded coronet and began: "My Own Darling Val—How can you ever forgive me for not answering your poor, dear cablegram? But of course I thought it was from that horrible wretch Foxham. It seems now he sold your ticket for the Baltic and sailed for Australia. All sorts of reports came in about him directly after you must have sailed, and I learn now that even before you left James Harborough suspected him because of some forged check he'd heard of—I'm really too confused and upset to remember how or when or what. But in any case it was most remiss of James not to have instantly warned you against the man, even on the slightest suspicion."

This was only the beginning of the coroneted letter, which had no paragraphs and very few punctuations. Jealous still, Miss Moon was relieved to see that the signature was "Your Adoring Mother," but she was at a loss to understand allusions to duchesses and other persons of title. Indeed, it would have appeared to her like a "property" letter to be read on the stage by an aristocratic hero of melodrama had it not been for the post-office order for $300, which it contained. This she threw into the fire that Gordon might not benefit by it.

The other letter inclosed had no coronet and was signed "Your affectionate cousin, Betty." At the end was a postscript in a different hand, which seemed somehow to suit the rather dashing signature—"Jim."

HERE AND THERE.

Many people have wondered how it was that Warry McLoughlin managed to put the Indian sign on so many of his opposing batsmen, but it is not so hard to guess after one has seen Warry work, not with his powerful left wing, but with his right hand. While not exactly ambidextrous Warry has so cultivated the left hand and arm that his right refuses to fling the ball the way it should.

But that same right arm with its handy digits with a carving knife or a pen is just as useful as its mate. When Warry gets to slinging ink he is just as swift as the next man and as for lighting a match on the only recognized place the left hand isn't in it.

When asked how it happened that he had leveloped his left arm for use in baseball Warry said he didn't quite know how it happened. "When I was a kid," he said, "it seemed to me more natural to throw with my left and when I got to playing ball with the other boys I continued the habit until it became so natural for me to fling 'em over from the south side that I never even tried to change back."

And that's the reason Warry is effective. Some day he may teach his right arm to work if his left gives out, anyway it is a good asset for a baseball mound artist. He may have to fall back on it some day.

FOOTBALL.

The P. H. S. football team played a practice game with the second eleven Tuesday in which some good points were developed. Clark is back again and has recovered his old form. Van Zandt made several long end runs while Sharp, Vechte, Rosenson and Terry are showing fine form.

BATTIN HIGH DEFEATED

Plainfield High Won First Game Here by Score Ten to Six.

PLAY A CLEAN, OPEN GAME.

Elizabeth Boys Put up a Strong Fight but Were Outplayed by the Local Lads.

The Plainfield High School eleven won its first home game of the season yesterday by defeating Battin High, of Elizabeth. The score was 10 to 6. Five of the ten points made by the home team in the first quarter. At the beginning of the second quarter Battin resorted to kicking and after some lively scrimmaging Fisher, of Battin made a thirty-five yard run for a touch down from which Ross kicked the goal. No further scoring was done.

Battin started the game by kicking off. Van Zandt caught the ball and rushed it back for ten yards and Clark receiving the spheriod made another gain of three yards as did Bristol. Battin then got the ball and gained about fifteen yards against what appeared to be Plainfield's weakest spot in the line. Successive gains of ten, seven and five yards by Battin put the home teams goal in danger, but here Nash loomed up with a nifty play at right end receiving the ball on the run he made Battin's goal after a thirty-five yard sprint. The goal was missed, but P. H. S. scored five points.

The second quarter was ful of lively play, forward passes, line rushing and all the new tricks possible under the new rules were tried and only the blowing of the whistle when the ball was within a yard of Plainfield's goal, prevented Battin from scoring a touchdown.

Battin scored in the third quarter. Fisher, of Battin, after about seven minutes of the livliest work of the day, caught the ball on P. H. S. 25-yard line and rushed across the line for a touchdown from which Wingut kicked the goal, but in the first few minutes of the quarter Van Zandt had made the star play of the game by taking the ball through Battins line thirty-five yards for P. H. S.'s second touchdown, making the score 10 to 0. The only touchdown and goal made by Battin in this quarter made the score 10 to 6, and although Battin made desperate efforts to get by the local line, the latter had stiffened so much that the Elizabethans could make no impression upon it. Van Zandt, Clark, Coyle and Nash played splendidly for the home team while Wingert, Fisher, Elliott and Ross did star work for Battin. Several hundred people witnessed the contest.

The lineup was as follows:

Plainfield.		Elizabeth.
F. Clark, Hanrahan		H. Davidson
	left end
H. Robinson, Terry		W. Wingert left tackle
A. Moy, Vichte		F. Thorp

P. H. S. NOTES.

At a meeting of the junior class of the P. H. S. held yesterday, it was decided to hold a masquerade dance on Friday evening, November 4, and committees were appointed to attend to the arrangements for the affair.

The next game on the schedule for the football eleven is that for next Saturday. On that day the P. H. S. oppopents will be the Wilson Military Academy team, of Finderne. The game will be played on Crescent Ovai and will be called at 3:30.

The High School orchestra had its first rehearsal yesterday afternoon under the direction of Samuel Silbert. The material is of good calibre and the orchestra will be as large as in former years.

The P. H. S. science club held its second regular meeting yesterday afternoon. Walter Parker and Benjamin Harris made short addresses, taking for their topics the New York Electrical show. Both speeches were interesting to the members. Arrangements were made to have Schuyler Line and Frank Schwed speak at the next meeting. Mr. Line's topic will be "Wellman," and Mr. Schwed will speak about the Belmont Park aviation meet.

Mrs. Philip Barnes, of Elizabeth, who has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. Charles Westphal, of East Third street, has returned home.

CZAR OF HIS SHIP

The Captain of an Ocean Liner Is a Real Autocrat.

HIS WORD IS ABSOLUTE LAW.

He May, if He Deems It Necessary, Put a Passenger In Irons or Clap Him In a Cell, and In Cases of Emergency Is Empowered to Take Life.

Imagine a mayor or a judge of a circuit court or a county sheriff or a town marshal of a village of 3,800 population stepping out into the street and on general and self imposed authority picking up a citizen, ordering him to a cell and clapping irons on him for safe keeping!

Wouldn't the bird of American liberty set up a scream? Wouldn't the old and badly cracked Liberty bell resonate in discord?

After one of the great transatlantic passenger steamships leaves the three mile limit of New York the passenger is in foreign territory on the high seas. English, French, German—whatever the flag at the masthead—the ship is a section of its fatherland, floating in the high seas, where only maritime laws regarding its transit in times of peace may hold check upon the czardom of the ship's commander, on or off the bridge.

No czar has more power within his territory than has the captain of the great Atlantic liner on the high seas. He is on an island of his country's ownership—a floating island, having a population of 800 employees and looking after the welfare and safety of perhaps 3,000 passengers. He is practically the administrative, executive and judicial single individual, such as exists rarely on the map of present day civilization. Aside from his authority over mankind, he may have $7,000,000 of vessel under him, to say nothing of the international mails and millions in gold in transshipment.

"There's the captain," is a whispered bit of comment made a million times a year in the beginning of the passages of great ocean steamships. And generally the captain looks the part.

It is not so much his uniform either. Ordinarily the captain is not young. There is gray in his hair, mustache or beard. That young man in his twenties, no matter what his schooling for beginning the work, isn't called at a moment's notice to the captain's bridge. He must have his maximum of training for six or seven numbers below before he is called to the foot of the ladder.

On the British passenger vessels most of the beginners at navigating an ocean vessel of the first class will have had a lieutenant's commission from the navy. It is from the royal navy reserves that the lowest officer's vacancy is filled. Filling it, he has his chance to rise to the position of captain.

As to the captain's authority: One midnight, when in a fog the White Star Baltic struck, the German oil steamship Standard, the Baltic needed its captain, and he was there. His ship carpenters were rushed to the bow of the vessel and began the work of patching up the hole in the Baltic's steel sheathing.

Suppose that in a stampede of the Baltic's crew its employees had rushed up to fill its boats? It was within the captain's power to have shot down the leader—to have brought about war to the knife, revolver and rifle in the interests of his vessel and its passengers. Or had some passenger or passengers become panic stricken and against orders menaced the welfare of the majority on the ship death would have been dealt with the same rigid discipline which requires of the captain that he be the autocrat at his post.

There are no forms of writs or warrants necessary. There is no court at which the passenger or the seaman may give bond. In that instant of sudden great emergency which arises the captain's word is more than written law; it is the unwritten common law of the high seas, in the spirit of which the vigilance committee of the wild west of the United States rose, lawlessly lawful.

Today the captain of the great liner may step into the palatial cabin and command order. He may go into the smoking cabin and stop the game of cards at which the sharper is playing for his stakes. In case of refusal that ancient land right of "no deprivation of liberty without due process of law" becomes a farce. The cell room or even the iron manacles of the captain's authority may be used upon the individual who has paid $500 or $1,000 for his suit of rooms and his passage. On the high seas the captain's ship becomes an autocratic democracy. The individual in the first cabin and at the captain's table must share with the immigrant far below those equities that are granted to each in his place.

"Don't buck the captain," said an official in the offices of a great steamship line. "He is all there is of authority. He is the supreme entity of his ship. He is dressed for it; but, more than that, he is trained to it. He is empowered to take life if he must, and on land this is the most serious of all things in the statute books."

"Commodore of the fleet" is one of the offices toward which the old sea captain looks, not enviously, not with disdain. It is a naval number in the passenger service which marks the age of retirement. There is honor in the title. It does not descend to his children. He gives half his life to the gaining of it, and it means that his activities and powers are at an end.—Chicago Tribune.

PROHIBITIONISTS AT WORK

Charles E. Hedges, of Morristown, Their Nominee for Congress.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC THE ISSUE.

Brookfield, Long and Story Candidates for Assembly—Charles F. Repp for the Governorship.

The Prohibition party, which has nominated Charles E. Hedges, of Morristown, as a candidate for Congress to succeed Charles N. Fowler have been working in a consistently quiet and apparently effective way to get votes for their candidates on the entire ticket. Mr. Hedges has long been known as an ardent advocate of prohibition and is a staunch supporter of the doctrine as promulgated in the platform adopted at Trenton on May 12, last.

On the ticket with Mr. Hedges are Charles F. Repp, of Glassboro, who aspires to the governorship, and the three candidates for the assembly, J. Malcolm Brookfield, of Rahway, Lewis C. Long, of Elizabeth, and Irving W. Story, of Rahway.

The tenets of the party as expressed in the platform declare the licensed liquor traffic to be the great overshadowing curse of the nation, and their purpose to enact laws prohibiting the sale and manufacture of the stuff which they claim to lie at the bottom of all the nation's ills.

The platform contains, besides the drastic arraignment of the liquor interesis, a plea for the conservation of the nation's resources by eliminating the waste of two and a half billion of dollars consumed in intoxicating beverages each year in this country.

The platform favors an inter-state law which will prevent the liquor being shipped into prohibition States under cover of the inter-state commerce law.

One of the planks in the prohibition platform on which great stress is laid is that which relates to removal power by the governor. The party declares itself in favor of the enactment of laws which will confer power upon the governor to remove officials who refuse to enforce existing laws. The party also favors good roads, and challenges the ability of either the Republican or Democrat parties to perform even the routine duties of the State government without enormous expenditure of the public moneys.

RACONTEUR AND SINGER

Rev. Robt. MacKellar Entertains Men at Heavenly Rest Church.

"THE RUNYON OF RED BANK."

Anecdotes and Songs Bring Hearty Applause and Cheers—Board of Governors and Committees Appointed.

Business and sociability were the combined attractions for the members of the Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, last night in the Parish House, the former being the announcement of committees for the coming year by president Maynard and the latter superinduced by the presence of Rev. Robert MacKellar, of Red Bank, grand chaplain of the Masonic order in New Jersey, who entertained the members in a delightful informal way with songs and anecdotes until he was hailed as the "Judge Runyon," of Red Bank.

Singularly enough, the meeting occurred on the third anniversary of the ordination of Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, rector of the church, who took priestly orders at St. Ignatius' church, New York city, on October 27, 1907, being ordained by Right Rev. Bishop William W. Webb. Mr. Mallery became a deacon on May 25, 1902.

Rev. Mr. MacKellar was introduced to the members of the club by the president, James A. Maynard, who bestowed upon the speaker the title referred to. And it was the unanimous opinion of those present that the title was fully justified. Songs and stories fell from Mr. MacKellar's lips with such spontaneous humor that his audience was moved to encore him repeatedly and when he left for his home a rising vote of thanks was extended to him to say nothing of three cheers and a tiger.

President Maynard announced the following appointments: Board of Governors, James A. Maynard, Chas. C. Graves, John Ludgate, Samuel Forster, James Harris, who comprise the officers of the club, and Albert Harris, E. Bennett, R. A. Laramour, Joel Pennington and J. Gray. Entertainment committee, Mortimer L. Givens, J. Hallard, A. Jordan, Jas. Harris and Arthur Calleen. Press committee, Rev. C. H. Mallery and Ernest Dorflinger. House committee, Charles Ludgate, Joel Pennington, J. E. Pine, A. Peck and Charles Kellerway. Membership committee, G. Ludgate, W. Jordan, Samuel Wilson and David Gordan. Absentee committee, H. Romand, Albert Brooks and Samuel Kriney.

The revised by-laws will be taken up at the November meeting.

Rose Gets Four Years.

Judge Clarence L. Case, of Somerville, this morning sentenced Fred Rose, the alleged highway robber, who was convicted before a jury a week ago, to four years in State prison. A notice of appeal was made by Rose's counsel, Robert Newton Crane, and bail in the sum of $5,000 was fixed by Judge Case. It is confidently believed that Rose will be successful in obtaining bondsmen some time before tomorrow morning and that he will be able to resume work. Every effort is being made to that end.

Harold Willard Makes a Hit.

Harold Willard, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Willard, of West Front street, who takes the part of "Bob," an urchin, in "The Little Gray Lady," now on at The Plainfield theatre, makes a hit in the role. Last night he was given great applause for the clever way in which he acted. He has appeared in several productions at the playhouse this winter and is a favorite with the audiences.

Strangled to Death.

Donald Larmour, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Lamour, of 1221 West Sixth street, died yesterday from strangulation. THUNDER OF DEMOCRATS

Tuttle, Lippincott, Hamill, Westcott and Others are Heard Here.

CALVIN E. BRODHEAD PRESIDES

Tariff the Principal Issue Discussed at a Well Attended Meeting at Reform Hall.

William E. Tuttle, Jr., of Westfield, candidate for Congress from the Fifth district; Job Lippincott, of Jersey City; Judge John W. Westcott, of Camden; J. A. Edgerton, of the American Press Association, and Congressman James A. Hamill, of Jersey City, were the speakers at the Democratic mass meeting in Reform hall last night. Despite the stormy weather, there was a good attendance of voters, mostly Democrats, with a sprinkling of Republicans.

Calvin E. Brodhead, of this city, Democratic candidate for the Assembly, presided and introduced the several speakers. A number of people occupied seats on the platform with the speakers, including Samuel Townsend, A. J. Serrell, David T. Kenney, J. O. Stevens and others.

The remarks of the speakers were confined entirely to State and National issues and were of the sort that appealed to the best judgment of the hearers. Mr. Tuttle, the first speaker, recalled the Republican platform of 1908, when certain promises were made, which have been broken; the tariff, which was supposed to be a downward revision, but in reality had been an upward revision, increasing the cost of living so that the pay envelope now buys less and less.

Mr. Tuttle said that those in power had neglected to care for the wants and needs of the people; that through the combination of capital the prices of food, clothing and shelter had advanced to enormous proportions, largely due to the high tariff.

In an effort to show how the Republicans had discriminated in the adoption of a tariff law, Mr. Tuttle said that a tax of from fifty to sixty per cent. had been placed on champagne, while it was from eighty to ninety per cent. on clothing. He said that he favored a sharp revision of the tariff downward and believed that the people would endorse that policy.

"Wilson is trying to wrest the State from the bosses," said Mr. Tuttle, "and he will succeed. Governor Fort has practically admitted his inability to do this. I believe the only way to break up this machine is to vote the Democratic ticket this fall. In this district the question of the bosses is a serious one.

"My opponent in this contest is your fellow townsman. I know the esteem in which he is held; many of his friends are my friends and I have yet to hear aught against him, but I believe that the Republican system of government should not be retained and judging from present indications I believe that the Democratic party is coming into its own."

Job Lippincot declared that Wilson will be the next Governor of the State, that everyone is confident of this fact. He then devoted his remarks to explaining the causes that have led up to this great desire for a change, which has brought the people up to the threshhold of a great change. He said that he appealed to the voters on the ground of patriotism and not party issues. The Republicans had betrayed a public trust during the past seventeen years they have had undisputed control of the State with every opportunity to work out reforms, yet there is a widespread feeling that they have failed to keep faith with the people.

The speaker declared that the tax laws today are more unequal than when Charles C. Black was a candidate for Governor. He briefly discussed the public utilities act, the Republican overlords. He said that the Republicans had failed to declare for a rate-making power, corrupt practice act the publication of campaign funds in this year's platform. He said that it was important that Wilson should be supported and be given an honest Senate and Assembly.

"We need a fighter," said Mr. Lippincott, "one that will clean out the gang at Trenton. I am not attacking the Republicans, for they are no more Republicans than Democrats. I am not defending the record of the Democratic party. It was rightly turned out of office seventeen years ago, but now the Republicans deserve the same treatment." In conclusion, Mr. Lippincott explained Dr. Wilson's attitude toward organized labor, adding that he is for the square deal.

Judge John W. Westcott, of Camden, was inclined to be a little humorous in his remarks. He said

DUNELLEN POPULATION, BY 1910 CENSUS, 1,996

The population of the borough of Dunellen, according to the census of 1910, is announced at 1,996, and Miss Elsie Peters, of that place, made the nearest guess, 1,977. Her brother, Ernest Peters, was second, his estimate being 2,027, thirty-one too many.

Ten years ago the census of 1900 gave Dunellen 1,239 and the big jump to 1,996 is gratifying to it residents. The percentage of increase is 61. In 1905 the population was 1,517, and there has been a steady increase, a large number of new families having removed to Dunellen, even since the census was completed on May 15 last.

RECEPTION GIVEN FOR REV. AND MRS. HERRING

Notwithstanding the inclement weather of last evening a large number of the members of the First Presbyterian church gathered in the church parlors at the reception tendered to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Herring. Singularly enough the weather duplicated that of a year ago at a similar function.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with pampas grass, hydrangeas, chrysanthemums and palms under the careful direction of Mrs. Percy Dayton, Mrs. E. W. Poinier and Mrs. W. R. Causebrook. Dr. and Mrs. Herring received the guests assited by Mrs. C. E. Bond who was general chairman of the affair.

Clifford E. Braider, organist of the church, entertained the company with selections from MacDowell's "Woodland Sketches." Refreshments were served and a general social time was enjoyed. The refreshment committe consisted of Mrs. George A. Ballantyne, chairman; Mrs. H. A. Pope, Mrs. A. B. Searing, Sr., Mrs. A. B. Searing, Jr., and Miss Isabelle Scarborough. The waitresses were: Mrs. George Wean, chairman; Miss Leontine Huntsman, Miss Helen Fowler, Misses Barbara and Jennie Peacock, Misses Ruth and Marion Wean, Miss Lois Diman, Miss Ada Woodworth, Miss Hazel Selby and Miss Sue Farland.

Mrs. D. K. Young poured tea and Mrs. C. M. Hummer poured cocoa.

MAC MURRAY OPPOSES HIS PARTY'S NOMINEES

That City Clerk James T. Mac Murray, for years the recognized "boss" of the Republican organization here, has bolted his party as has former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph was confirmed in an interview given a representative of this paper. Not alone will he fight at the polls against the election of the Republican municipal nominee for mayor former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, but also the party's county ticket. The purposes of the Bi-partisan League of which he and Mr. Randolph are officers, are purely local, but the fight of its members in this campaign is also on the Republican Assembly candidates.

"You may say" said Mr. MacMurray yesterday afternoon, "that I shall vote for Mr. Moy for mayor. You may also say that I will vote for McLaughlin and Brodhead, the Democratic candidates for Assembly, and also for Lloyd Thompson, who is on the Republican ticket. I will not vote for either Schwartz or Meisel, the other Republican candidates.

When asked how his vote for Governor would be cast, Mr. MacMurray evaded giving a direct answer. "Mr. Wilson is an excellent candidate, a great man," said he. "I am a personal friend of Mr. Lewis and I am a Republican—what would anyone presume?"

Marvel Thorne.

Marvel Thorne, the three-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Burgess Thorne, of 533 East Third street, died this morning. The funeral will be held at the house tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rev. G. W. Bailey, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, officiating. Thei nterment will be in Hillside cemetery.

STOKES ENTHUSES CROWD

Former Governor Thrills Republican Voters at Borough Mass Meeting.

WOOD TALKS ON TARIFF.

Fourth District Congressman Declares That High Duty Rates Are on Luxuries Not on Necessities.

The North Plainfield Republican Club conducted its first big rally of the present campaign in Saengerbund hall last night. The bad weather held down the attendance at the opening, but it continued to grow until a good-sized crowd was present. The principal speakers were former Governor Edward C. Stokes, Congressman Ira Wood, Assemblyman W. W. Smalley and Mayor N. B. Smalley. All are men thoroughly versed in national, State, county and local affairs, and their remarks were based on personal experiences. Each one was greeted with prolonged applause.

The meeting was called to order by President Alex Milne, who introduced James Church as chairman. The latter announced the speakers in a taking way, prefacing his remarks with an apt story or reference that always produced a hearty laugh.

Assemblyman Smalley was first called upon and related facts and figures denying Democratic assertions that the Republican legislators have been extravagant and wasteful in the expenditure of State money. He showed where the increases in appropriations had been made and why, emphasizing that $400,000 had been voted for roads the past year while only $20,000 had been spent by the Democrats when they were last in power. Mr. Smalley also said the Democrats spoke of "bossism" and "party control" in legislation affairs, but the biggest piece of bossism he ever saw was the attempt of a Democratic leader to close an Assembly session because his plans for certain measures were being defeated. His action led to a scene of pandemonium until he was forced to retire and another speaker took the chair. In closing he urged the voters to support the Republican ticket from top to bottom and continue the able government of the State as it has been in vogue for seventeen years.

Congressman Ira Wood, who is a candidate for re-election, was the second speaker and dwelt principally upon questions of the tariff. He asserted that the aim of the Republican party has been to uphold American manufacturers and at the same time seek to reduce the cost of living. A perusal of the Payne-Aldrich bill, he said, would show that in many cases the tariff on foodstuffs had been lowered twenty-five per cent. and had been correspondingly raised on luxuries. He reminded the audience of what had happened in 1892 when the Democratic tariff bill was passed. He argued that the people did not want a repetition of the dull times they experienced then and the way to prevent it is the upholding of President Taft and the Republican party.

Congressman Wood was followed by Former Governor Stokes who spoke in a humorous vein at the outset and cracked a joke relative to his predecessor and himself being bachelors. Getting down to facts he dwelt upon the immensity of the American nation, comparing the size and population of various States with the monarchies of Europe. He produced a big laugh by saying that Texas alone could use Germany as an ulster and then have no covering below the knees. All England, he said, could be put in the United States without the least danger of slipping into the seas. He also spoke of the magnitude of the American industries and its exportation and importations, a business in themselves that needs the careful and scrutinizing eye of the government to protest and promote.

Referring to the Gubernatorial fight, Mr. Stokes said that as a man Woodrow Wilson is one of the foremost men in the State but he himself would admit that if a man was needed for a certain position one would be selected who understood it, who has a knowledge of its details and had served an apprenticeship.

"Mr. Wilson," the speaker said, "is seeking to be governor, a position of which he knows nothing practical and for which he has had no training. He has left Princeton College and his successor is to be appointed and he himself will admit that the new president will be a man who knows something about college management and is versed in educational matters.

Mr. Stokes ridiculed the assertion that the Democratic candidate would be dictated to by no one or refuse to listen to the leaders in the event of

BICYCLE THIEVES THRIVE

Wheels Disappear as if by Magic but Where do They go?

HARRY DE MEZA A VICTIM.

Where is the "Fence"? the Question for Police to Decide—Story of a Long Chase.

Where is the "fence" located? That is the question being asked almost daily by persons who are losing their bicycles. The bicycles are not exactly lost—they are stolen and invariably right under the noses of the police.

The latest outrage of the kind occurred yesterday when some slick individual purloined a brand new Pierce wheel from the hallway of the Coward building on Park avenue. This wheel had been in possession of its owner but three days and represented an outlay of $50. It belonged to Harry DeMeza, the genial clerk in James R. Blair's men's furnishing store.

Mr. DeMeza is not the only one who has suffered through the loss of a wheel. It is almost a daily occurrence now for reports of losses to be made to the police, but the stealing goes merrily on. And that brings up to the opening lines of this story. It is said that there is a regularly organized gang of bicycle thieves operating in this neighborhood and it is believed that the "fence," or purchaser of stolen goods is located far enough away from the city to make the purchase and resale of stolen bicycles absolutely safe.

It has been said that in New Brunswick practically new wheels may be purchased for less than the dealers have to pay for them, but the place has never been investigated so far as anyone in Plainfield knows.

Yesterday one man over in North Plainfield had a rather exciting experience with a bicycle thief. He had entered a store on business and left his whel standing at the curb and was gone but a moment. When he emerged he was just in time to see his wheel disappearing down Somerset street propelled by a pair of powerful legs. Finding another wheel nearby he gave chase. Over the car tracks on West Front street up East Front to Watchung avenue, down Watchung avenue to Fifth street sped the two wheelmen, with chaser gaining slowly but surely. As the fugitive with the stolen wheel turned around to see how the race was going he noticed that he was losing ground making capture imminent. It took but a moment to decide that it would not be healthy for him to be caught with the goods so, getting close up to the curb he dismounted, laying the wheel over on its side and sprinted away at top speed.

Satisfied to get his wheel back the other fellow did not continue the chase, but recovering the wheel rode calmly back just in time to prevent the man from whom he had borrowed a wheel from notifying the police that another wheel had been stolen. Explanations were made satisfactory to the owner of the second bicycle and the incident was closed. But, where is the "fence?"

Mrs. John H. Mundy.

Mrs. John H. Mundy, aged 63 years, sister of Mrs. M. F. Gano, of this city, died yesterday afternoon at her home on Jefferson avenue, after a lingering illness. She had been a resident of this city for a long time and was esteemed for her many excellent qualities. She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Mrs. William Beekman and Miss Mary Mundy; one son, Fred P. Mundy; also an aged mother of 86 years, six brothers and one sister, Mrs. M. F. Gano. The funeral will be held from the late residence on Jefferson avenue, one block from the Front street trolley line, Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The burial will be at Bound Brook.

Carpenters Tools Stolen.

Carpenter tools to the value of $50 were stolen on Wednesday night from a new building at the corner of East Second street and Leland avenue. They were the property of Charles J. Abel, of 35 Third place, and George Felmley, the contractor. The thieves broke open the tool boxes of the men and selected the best of youth outfits. They left no clue behind them. The police department is investigating.

W. C. T. U. Parlor Meeting.

The first social meeting of the season was held by the W. C. T. U. yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Charles E. Vail, of Norwood avenue. Reports from the State convention were given by the delegates, Mrs. C. L. Bennett, Mrs. T. C. Bodine and Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, after which tea was served and a social hour enjoyed.

COURT'S HEAVY BLOW AGAINST WHOLESALERS

Conviction of Edward Coleman, Driver for N. Y. Department Store for Violating Excise Law, Set Aside.

A blow which will do irreparable damage to the legalized wholesale liquor dealers in New Jersey was struck this morning when Chief Justice Gummere handed down an opinion setting aside the conviction of Edward Coleman, a driver of a New York department store, indicted for violating the Werts act in selling liquor without a license in Plainfield. To protect the local wholesalers, each of whom pay the city $750 a year for the right to do business here and also pay large taxes, action was taken by the authorities nearly two years ago to put a stop to the practise of New York department stores doing business here without any local license. Hundreds of dollars were spent in collecting evidence and pushing the cases against the accused, and now the higher court has decided that the New York stores are perfectly within their rights in doing business in any part of New Jersey.

The opinion of the Supreme Court written by Chief Justice Gummere in the criminal case, decrees at the outset that the act of 1889 is limited in its cope to State regulation and does not concern dealers elsewhere. It does not and cannot restrict inter-State traffic. After reviewing the history of the case, the chief justice, in the unanimous opinion, says that at the trial in the county criminal court before Judge Atwater, the counsel for the defendant moved for an acquittal on two grounds—first, that the offense was not within the statute and second that the arrest was an interference with the inter-state commerce law. The motion was denied by Judge Atwater, the chief justice states, probably on the theory that it was a violation of the State law inasmuch as the order was taken in Plainfield, the goods delivered by the New York store and the collection for the same made here. This, it is explained at great length, is lawful according to the Federal law. In effect it makes no difference that the order is given and the payment made in Jersey.

Edward Coleman, a driver for Siegel, Cooper Company, was arrested here together with drivers of other New York department stores, early in 1909, for violation of the Werts act. The city had hired a detective, Edward Rainey, to procure evidence in such cases and the latter early in April of that year, twice gave Coleman orders for whiskey and the latter on delivering the goods was paid in cash by the detective. Criminal and civil prosecutions were withheld. The grand jury indicted Coleman. He was found guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine. An appeal was taken at once, resulting in setting aside the verdict in the county court.

An appeal will undoubtedly be taken to the Court of Errors and Appeals.

The case in which the city, Mayor C. J. Fisk and Chief Kiely and Prosecutor Swift were defendants was a different case and in a different court, namely, the United States Circuit Court. That case was won by the defendants on the motion for preliminary injunction, and Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh says that the decision in the criminal case has no bearing on the injunction case, and the very points relied upon by the defendants being that if the complainant was protected by the federal constitution, the State courts would so declare, and hence the complaint had no right to injunction.

Young Friends Hold a Social.

Under the auspices of the Social Duty Committee, of the Young Friends Association, a social was held at the Friends' meeting house on Watchung avenue, last night. During the evening an informal program was presented comprising readings by Miss Margaret Vail, Miss Ruth Stryker; recitations by Mrs. Richard Williams, after which those present related their vacation experiences. During a social hour refreshments were served. Mrs. Arthur Stryker is the chairman of the committee, and was assisted by other members.

RECORD ON WILSON REPLY

Feels Progressive Ideas Will Become State Laws Whoever is Next Governor.

Does Not Recall if Lewis Formally Stands for a Physical Valuation of the Property of Public Utilities Companies.

Comments made yesterday by George L. Record on the reply to his letter recently made by Woodrow Wilson make it clear that Mr. Record finds it satisfactory and that he is not likely to query the Gubernatorial candidate further. Mr. Record says Mr. Wilson's reply is full and frank on every question now before the public and that "that candidate for Governor will win who impresses the people as being most sincerely and unreservedly intent on carrying out this (Progressive) program." Mr. Record points out that the principles for which the Progressives stand are slowly coming into a full triumph.

"Whichever man is now elected," says Mr. Record, "it is certain that the main body of our Progressive Republican ideas will be incorporated into the laws of our State during the next administration."

Here are Mr. Record's views of the Wilson reply to his queries:

The letter of Woodrow Wilson in reply to my letter to him has aroused wide spread interest in the campaign. I think the public has sized up Mr. Wilson's letter as a full and frank statement upon every question now before the public, and in this judgment I concur. Mr. Wilson accepts our Progressive Republican plank as to the necessity of a physical valuation for all public utility corporations, and is willing that that valuation shall be taken as a basis for taxation but he is not willing that it shall be used as an exclusive basis for fixing rates, although he admits that it must play an important part in any rate fixing of the future This position on this point is sufficient for practical purposes. As soon as we have a physical valuation of the property of these corporations and begin to use that valuation as a basis for taxes, it will be utterly impossible to induce the people to submit to paying rates based upon any other valuation or theory. A valuation that is good enough to pay taxes on, is good enough on which to base charges which are to be paid by the public. It is a great step forward to have the physical valuation proposition admitted to be necessary. The rest will follow in due time.

All this is very encouraging to all those who are fighting for ideas and for principles. All such people have cause for congratulation at the way this campaign has turned out. At the beginning it threatened to be a campaign of the old order, with no discussion of any real public questions. The political bosses of both sides evidently figured that Progressive Republicans were safely bottled up, for the time being at least, and that their principles were to receive scant attention in the campaign, as they did in the conventions of both parties. The exigencies of the campaign, however, have forced a complete change of this policy on both sides. Mr. Lewis, on the night before the convention, insisted upon a rate-making feature in the platform, and against the strenuous efforts of the State bosses and with the aid of the Progressives, this was done. Mr. Lewis in the campaign has gone further than the platform itself by declaring himself in favor of one after another of the Progressive Republican planks, which had been rejected by the convention. As I remember it, he is now on record for the extension of the direct vote principle to the choice of candidates for Governor and Congressman; to the impartial selection of election officers; to the blanket ballot and the distribution of the same at public expense, or confining it to the polling place; and for complete power in the public utility commission to fix just and reasonable rates, and has announced his opposition to the political bosses, and pledged an administration free from their control.

He has not, so far as I have noticed, formally stood for a physical valuation of the property of the public utility companies. Mr. Wilson now comes forward and frankly and fully takes a stand in favor of all of our Progressive principles, including the abolition of the boss system. This is making splendid progress under the most adverse conditions, and whichever man is now elected it is certain that the main body of our Progressive Republican ideas will be incorporated into the laws of our State during the next administration. Thus the principles for which we stand are slowly coming into a full triumph. The boss system is on its last legs, and I believe we have seen the last convention in New Jersey. In the future ideas will be the sole subject of party platforms, and of the speeches of candidates for important public office. For the rest of this campaign the public will listen to nothing except the ideas which have thus been pushed to the front, and that candidate for Governor will win who impresses the people as being most sincerely and unreservedly intent on carrying out this program.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Mrs. Fanny Hart, a sister of Philip and William Jenner, of New Market, died at her home in New York Wednesday. The body was brought to Philip Jenner's home yesterday and the funeral was held there at 2:30 today. Rev. George H. Gardner was in charge and burial was made in the South Plainfield cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: J. Y. Rupell, Charles Kelly, Eugene Smalley and George Jenner.

Mrs. Terissa Mundy, wife of John H. Mundy, died yesterday afternoon at her home on Jefferson avenue. She had been ill for a long time with a complication of troubles. She was in her sixty-fourth year and leaves one son, Fred Mundy, and two daughters, Mrs. William Beekman and Miss Mundy. The funeral will be held at her late home Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock and burial will be at Bound Brook.

All local residents are cordially invited to attend tonight's session of the Epworth League convention in the Dunellen Methodist church. Rev. Dr. Randolph, of Chicago, national secretary of the Epworth League, will be the principal speaker and may be counted on for an excellent address.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church held a Hallowe'en social in the chapel last night. Appropriate games were enjoyed and refreshments were servd in conclusion. Th attendance was large considering the inclement weather.

The Dunellen Football Club will journey to Summit tomorrow afternoon to play the Y. M. C. A. team of that place. All football enthusiasts are invited to accompany the home team.

MAYOR A WITNESS IN GERSTUNG CASE.

Elizabeth, Oct. 28.—Mayor Mravlag testified yesterday before Supreme Court Commissioner William D. Wolfskiel in the latter's office in Broad street, in the mandamus proceedings brought by Chief Gerstung of the fire department. The chief was granted a writ compelling the Mayor and Board of Fire Commissioners to show cause why the increase in salary voted him should not be granted.

The Mayor, after reiterating his statement that the increase should not go into effect, said that in giving the salary appropriation to the board, Council did not think that the commissioners would engage the services of a substitute driver instead of a regular paid man. The Mayor is firmly against increasing the salaries of the chief and deputy chief.

Comptroller Sauer did not give any important testimony. Secretary of the Board Cox testified as to the records of the department.

The case will go before the Supreme court Tuesday, November 1.

John A. Kenney, of Sandford avenue, has returned to Plainfield High School for a post-graduate course. He was graduated from the school last June.

GENTLEMEN FARMERS STUDY AGRICULTURE

To assist in organizing the New Jersey gentlemen farmers into an association to study the economics of agriculture a meeting will be held at the Morris County Golf Club on Monday evening, November 7. Invitations have been sent to farmers throughout the State, and it is expected that a large representation will be on hand. The invitations are signed by Dr. D. Hunter McAlpin and R. H. Thomas. The latter is president of the Morris County Golf Club.

Speaking of the project, Dr. McAlpin said this morning that the association will be formed on the occasion of the Harvest dinner of the New Jersey farmers, at which time there will be exhibited specimens of their products.

"Such an organization," continued Mr. McAlpin, "is in successful operation in New York State and the membership is made up of such men as J. Pierpont Morgan. We hope to have a series of lectures and the best methods of growing crops will be discussed.

"In addition to agriculture, subjects the association will also consider the question of good roads, schools, etc. We consider that this comes under the general head of economics of agriculture."

Miss Mildred Schlessinger, of Yonkers, N. Y., has returned home after spending a few days at the home of Miss Margaret Kenney, of Sandford avenue.

Miss Ella Mullen, of West Front street, has returned home after spending several days visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Treadwell of White Plains, N. Y.

GOLF.

Willie Anderson, hero of a thousand hard fought golf matches, has been conquered by the grim reaper. The winner of four national open championship tournaments died at his home in Philadelphia at noon on Tuesday, a victim of heart failure from hardening of the arteries. Although only thirty-one years of age, Anderson had been troubled with a weak heart for a long time, and two winters ago came near losing his life at St. Augustine.

Born in Edinburgh, Scotland, Anderson came to this country when a boy of fifteen. Up to that time he had done most of his golfing over the North Berwick links, where his father, Tom Anderson, was greenskeeper. At the time Willie reached these shores he was only beginning to show signs of coming greatness, and, as he often said himself, he was to all intents and purposes an American golfer.

When a lad of only seventeen he competed in his first national open championship. That was at Wheaton, in 1897, and Anderson was beaten a single stroke for the title by Joe Lloyd. Anderson then represented the Watch Hill Golf Club.

Although almost always in the money, it was not until 1901 that Anderson came into his first national title, when he defeated Alec Smith, at Myopia, after a tie. Anderson won again at Baltusrol two years later, after a play-off with the veteran David Brown. The two following years again saw Anderson the "daddie of them all," winning at Glen View in 1904 with a seventy-two-hole score of 303 and showing the way in 1905 at Mayopia with 314. Thereafter Anderson almost invariably got in the prize list, but was never able to annex the title for the fifth time.

Winning championships of one sort or another, however, was like breaking sticks for the redoubtable Willie, who made devotees of the game the world over gasp when with a solid gutty ball at Euclid, in 1902, he won the championship tournament of the Western Golf Association with the hitherto unheard-of total of 299. He also won the Western title in 1904, 1908 and 1909. In the first open championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association at Fox Hills, in 1905, Anderson tied with Alec Smith for first place with a score of 300. Smith won on the play-off.

At various times Anderson has won open titles in California and Florida. As a winner of titles Anderson stood alone among professionals in this country, and with the exception of Alec Smith is the only golfer to win the national open more than once. From his earliest associations Anderson was ever a favorite, and wherever, he played there was sure to be a gallery.

Only last Sunday, Anderson, then a sick man, competed, with Gil Nicholls for a partner, in an exhibition match at the Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburg, against W. C. Fownes, Jr., the national amateur champion, and E. M. Byers. The amateurs won, with a thirty-six hole score of 139, as against 149 for the "pros."

On October 19 Anderson made his last metropolitan appearance at Fox Hills in a four-ball match. At various times Anderson was connected with the Watch Hill Golf Club, Lakewood Golf Club, Baltusrol Golf Club, Oconomowoc Club (Wisconsin), Pittsfield Country Club, Apawamis Club, Onwentsia Club, St. Louis Field Club, St. Augustine Golf Club and the Philadelphia Cricket Club, where he was at the time of his death.

Anderson is survived by his wife and child, his parents and his brother Thomas, the last named being connected with the Inwood Country Club, while Anderson, Sr., has been professional at the Montclair Golf Club for the last seven years.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Little Gray Lady," presented at The Plainfield theatre yesterday by the permanent stock company, proved a delightful attraction, and it is predicted that the production will draw capacity audiences today and tomorrow. Miss Ilka Diehl, as "Anna Gray," added greatly to her popularity with patrons of the house, while Miss Woodruff, Farrall McKnight and Harold Mead scored in their roles. In fact, the entire cast gave a fine performance. Such work as the company is doing at present has attracted favorable comment and the idea of having a permanent stock organization here is rapidly securing the interest of theatre-goers. There are many strong situations in "The Little Gray Lady," and the audience last night was quick to appreciate and applaud the work of the company.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight and consider an important matter laid over from the last meeting.

The Women's Relief Corps hold a meeting tonight to complete arrangements for the twenty-fifth anniversary to be held in November.

Camp Bagley, Spanish-American War Veterans, will meet on Thursday night, November 10, for the nomination of officers. The election will be held at the December meeting.

Thomas E. Currin and LeRoy DeCamp, of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., have returned from Trenton, where they attended the annual State convention of the order as delegates.

REVIVAL MEETINGS ARE GROWING IN INTEREST

The audience at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church last night was large considering the weather and Rev. Mr. Williams was encouraged with the interest shown in the services. Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, district superintendent, was present and offered the opening prayer. Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, and Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E., were also on the platform.

Rev. Mr. Williams spoke at length on the subject of repentence, self sacrifice, subsequent discouragement and rehabilitation of the soul. He took for his text John 6:56. He said that there came a time in every man's dear life when choice was offerred him to become a Christian and if he accepted the opportunity it involved the sacrifice of certain things held dear by most men. Discouragement sometimes came when the matter of sacrifice was seemingly an impossibility and there resulted the going back to the former things.

Mr. Williams gave illustrations from his own experiences which showed how with true conversion, the discouragements and imminent disasters were only temporary and that if the right way were persisted in it inevitably brought happiness in the service of the Lord.

Preparations are being made to receive a large attendance this evening when the evangelist will give some further interesting stories of the value of Christian living drawn from personal experience.

NEW JERSEY'S TREASURY TO HAVE LARGE BALANCE.

According to the figures obtained from the office of the State Comptroller, it is shown that on October 31 next, the close of the fiscal year for the State government, there will be the sum of $1,160,000 in the State treasury, free and clear of all obligations.

The actual amount of money which Comptroller West will notify Governor Fort as being on hand will be $2,160,000, but against this sum there will be outstanding debts of approximately $400,000, which must be liquidated to determine the actual free balance.

Governor Fort has expressed himself as highly gratified at the condition of the State's finances and declared that the $1,760,000 free balance, which will be to the credit of the next Gubernatorial administration, is just about three times the balance that was left in the State treasury when he assumed the office of Chief Executive.

BAPTIST CHURCH GROWS THROUGHOUT NEW JERSEY.

Atlantic City, Oct. 28.—Membership in the Baptist churches of the State has increased 26,542, and 142 new churches have been established during the past twenty years, according to the report of the State Board of Missions made before the annual convention of the New Jersey Baptists at their session at Atlantic City Wednesday.

Rev. George W. Peck, of Camden, was elected president of the Baptist Pastors Convention at a meeting of that body. The local Baptist ministers were present.

FIRST POSTAL BANK IN JERSEY AT RUTHERFORD.

Washington, Oct. 28.—The board of trustees of the postal savings bank system on Saturday approved a list of forty-eight second-class postoffices at which the plan will be given its first trial. The list includes one office for each State and Territory. Rutherford was named for New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Senno, of Richmond street, are the parents of a daughter, born to them on Monday.

THUNDER OF DEMOCRATS

that the fitness of people to govern could be judged by the size of the tax bills, the size of the grocery bills and the cost of transportation of self and goods, all of which makes up the practical part of the government. He told how the taxes on his property at Camden had increased from $22 to $105, since the Democrats went out of power, adding that, when the Democrats were in office it cost $1,800,000 to run the State and today it costs over $6,000,000. He declared that the Republicans had created offices and raised salaries.

"Why," said Judge Westcott, "the sheriff in Camden county which is the wild and woolly county of the State, draws the fine salary of $12,000 a year and he visits his office about three times a year and remains five minutes each time. His assistants do the work, for which they are well paid. In Camden they pay the police about $90 a month, but about a month before election the police get a check for $70, the difference being used for political purposes, but I had better say no more or I will let out some secrets.

"Even our judges put down $300 and $500 for political purposes which they know to be dishonest. Dr. Wilson is going to stop all this. The Republican bosses have said that Wilson is an amateur politician. That is exactly what we all are. What is a professional politician? In defining this question you define Griggs and Lewis. They can not escape. We are going to clean out the professional politician on November 8."

"I am not a partisan," declared John A. Edgerton, "I have never refused to vote for a good Republican rather than a bad Democrat, but this year I hope you will vote for a good Democrat rather than a bad Republican. I am now engaged in writing a progressive page urging the people to vote for the most progressive candidate and the most progressive candidate in New Jersey is Dr. Woodrow Wilson. I believe in him because he is a political economist, which will prove of great advantage to the State. He is not a demagogue. The laboring people can trust him, even though he does speak his mind freely. I believe in Dr. Wilson because he understands the peculiar genius of Americanism. He is a fundamental Democrat. I believe in him because he understands real Democracy and will make it mean more than ever before."

Referring to the high cost of living, Mr. Edgerton said that one cannot take a bath now without paying toll, the Standard Oil Company having bought up all the soap factories. He made a strong appeal in closing to voters to support the entire Democratic ticket.

Although it was now growing late, the crowd remained and listened with intense interest to the masterly talk of Congressman James A. Hamill, of the Tenth district. He said that the prices of meat had doubled in the past decade. A tax of $15 is imposed on every steer brought into this country. There is lots of beef abroad and if this high tariff should be reduced the prices would drop automatically. Speaking of granulated sugar which is manufactured in Jersey City and Brooklyn, he declared that this sugar is carried across the Atlantic with the cost of transportation added and sold in London and Liverpool sixty per cent. cheaper than in Jersey City.

A HEALTH CRUSADE.

A health-preaching movement has been undertaken in Great Britain, largely through the efforts of Viscountess Muriel Helmsley. Lecturers provided with moving picture apparatus, are to travel through the British Isles, preaching the "Decalogue of Health," so that those remote from centres of business activity will learn of how to eat and keep a strong and healthful body. The principles taught are tersely put as follows:

Keep the windows open day and night.

Breathe through the nose, keeping the mouth shut.

Drink pure water.

Eat slowly, take well-cooked meats; cultivate regular habits.

Wear loose clothing of seasonable material.

Take regular open-air exercise, in sunshine if possible.

Wash the whole body at least once a week.

Work, but do not worry.

Get house drains certified by sanitary authority.

The New Veils.

The heavy mesh veil is no longer worn. In its place are lovely filmy draperies traced in delicate patterns.

STOKES ENTHUSES CROWD

election. He maintained that "Jim" Nugent is on deck now and will be on deck later with Bob Davis and the rest of the Democratic dictators. As former governor of New Jersey and in a position to know, he denied any extravagances or graft in State government and upheld Governor Fort and his assistants in office.

"The management of State affairs," he said, "is all that could be desired and the Democratic cry of mismanagement is absurd. The whole issue narrows down to the fact that it is a case of the outs against the ins."

Mayor N. B. Smalley spoke after Mr. Stokes had finished and urged all Republican voters to be loyal to the entire ticket as he intends doing. He said he had not intended devoting any of his time to the present campaign, as his private interests demanded his undivided attention, but the indications were such that he had believed it best to speak for the ticket. In conclusion he expressed the hope that North Plainfield would be firm in its support of every man nominated by the party and roll up the usual big majority.

Herman Moosebrugger, the Assembly candidate, and Robert Kay, the shrievalty candidate, spoke briefly at the close of the meeting.

Court Closes Elizabeth Saloon.

Trenton, Oct. 28.—In an opinion filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by Justice Bergen, Nathaniel H. Astfalk, of Elizabeth, is refused permission to conduct a saloon in that city under an inn and tavern license during the continuance of legal proceedings to test the legality of his license. The case is that of George R. Sayre against the Elizabeth Board of Excise and Astfalk.

RESTAURANTS.

They Really Had Their Origin In the First French Revolution.

The restaurant of the present time had its origin in the first French revolution, toward the close of the eighteenth century. And the reputation of the French for good cookery and the delicacy of taste in eating as well as in producing toothsome dishes and morsels dates practically from the same time.

That revolution meant ruin to many noble families, and their downfall meant ruin also for their chefs, so some of the latter hit upon the idea of opening houses where dainties prepared by their skilled hands could be obtained. If the experiment succeeded the chefs would be as well off as when in service. The idea was pleasing to the public, the restaurants did a large business, and the proprietors had no reason to regret the revolution from a monetary point of view.

Then it occurred to others that the people might appreciate being educated up to this fine cookery, and many books on the culinary art were published and sold well. One of the most noted of these was "The Gourman Almanack," which appeared in 1798.

Restaurant really means "restoring" and was applied to these places because you went there to have something to revive or restore your failing strength.

MAKING NEEDLES.

Various Processes Through Which the Steel Wire Must Pass.

Needles are made from steel wire, which is first cut by shears from coils into the length of the needles to be made. After a bath of such bits as have been cut out they are placed in a furnace, then rolled until perfectly straight. Next the needle pointer takes up a dozen or so of the wires and rolls them between his thumb and finger, with their ends on a turning grindstone, first one and then the other being ground. The little steel bobbins are next fed into a machine which flattens and gutters the heads, after which the eyes are punched.

They are now complete needles, but rough and easily bent. Careful heating and sudden cooling gives them the necessary temper, and nothing remains but to give them their final polish. On a coarse cloth needles are spread to the number of 40,000 or 50,000. Emery dust is strewed over them, oil is sprinkled on and soft soap daubed over the cloth, which, rolled tightly, is thrown into a pot with others, where it rolls about for twelve hours or more.

When taken from this friction bath the needles require only rinsing in clean hot water, when they are ready to be sorted and packed. — Chicago Tribune.

Fulton and the Clermont.

The first trip of Robert Fulton up the Hudson river in the Clermont was thus described in the American Citizen of Aug. 17, 1810:

"Mr. Fulton's ingenious Steam Boat, invented with a View to the Navigation of The Mississippi from New Orleans upwards, Sails today from the North River, near the State Prison, to Albany. The Velosity of The Steam Boat is Calculated at four miles an hour. It is said that it will make a progress of two against The Current of The Mississippi, and if so it will certainly be a very valuable acquisition to the Commerce of the Western States."

According to Edward Hagaman Hall's history, the Clermont made the trip to Albany in thirty-two hours. The state prison referred to stood on the block in New York now bounded by Washington, West Tenth, West and Charles Streets, in old Greenwich village.

Vessels That Failed.

There was a time when it was believed possible to prevent seasickness by means of specially constructed vessels, says the London Chronicle. The Calais-Douvres, a twin ship, was used on the channel service for many years. Great things were expected from this, but she proved a slow boat, and her passengers were by no mans immune from seasickness. Another attempt in this direction was the Castalia, in which the saloon was suspended like a hammock with a view to minimizing the pitching and rolling. This turned out an utter failure. If the rolling was less than in ordinary vessels the pitching was quite as bad and, moreover, the swinging mechanism occasionally stuck. After a very few trips across the channel the Castalia was taken off the service.

Easy Figuring.

Ascum—I suppose you haven't had time to figure out yet how much your cashier took?

Bank President—Oh, yes. We knew in a very short time.

Ascum—Why, I thought he took a great deal.

Bank President—Exactly. We merely had to count what he left.

Why He Resigned.

"So you resigned!"

"Yes. I couldn't stand the way the firm treated me."

"What did they do?"

"Took my name off the pay roll."—Exchange.

Beginning.

Be always beginning. Never think that you can relax or that you have attained the end. If we think ourselves more than beginners it is a sign that we have hardly yet begun.

Man thinks and at once becomes the master of beings that do not think.—Buffon.

TEACHERS ARE ASKED TO VOTE FOR LEWIS

That some school teachers in the State are not in favor of the schoolmaster candidate, Woodrow Wilson, is evidenced by a circular letter issued by three active members of the Paterson Teachers' Association. The circulars which have been sent to teachers and principals throughout the State, declare that "Vivian M. Lewis, while a member of the Legislature, was a staunch friend of the teachers in supporting the Retirement Fund legislation."

The letter then continues:

Dear Friend:

"Afterwards, as prominent official with wide personal acquaintance with legislators, he was in a position to give invaluable advice and effective aid.

"That advice and aid was sought and obtained in procuring the law of tenure of service and salary.

"In fact, in all cases of emergency the success of our efforts would have been more than doubtful had it not been for his timely action.

"As many of the teachers of the State do not come in personal contact with the committees of teachers sent to Trenton for the purpose of procuring advanced legislation, would it not be wise at the present time, to spread this information?

"With this knowledge of facts they would, without doubt, grasp the opportunity of showing their appreciation of the services of Vivian M. Lewis, by doing all in their power to support him, and thus partly discharge their great obligation of gratitude."

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

The big New York Hippodrome is attracting its usual capacity houses twice daily with the big triple spectacle, "The International Cup," "The Ballet of Niagara" and "The Earthquake." The Indian ballet with its wonderful Niagara Falls background is one of the big features of the year's fine show. The dazzling costumes of the coryphees against the beautiful water effect with its faithful representation of the mists and moving cascades is a picture well worth seeing. This may also be said of the other splendid scenic features including the great Yacht Race, the Shipwreck scene, the Earthquake, the Tidal Wave and wonderful aquatic finale. This year's circus is undoubtedly the best ever seen at the Hippodrome and is made up of twelve big feature acts, including performing elephants, bears, lions, equilibrists and equestrians.

ALL PLEADED GUILTY IN THE COUNTY COURT.

In the Union County Court of Special Sessions Wednesday five prisoners were arraigned before Judge Atwater and all pleaded guilty. Harry Walker, who was caught October 19 with burglar tools in his possession, confessed that only a few days previously he had been released from Trenton State prison, where he served eighteen months for a burglary committed in Hudson county.

Carrie Hall, a colored servant, stole $65 worth of jewelry and clothing from Marcia P. Furman, of Westfield; William Pierson embezzled $20 from Eldemora Lawrence, of Westfield Clarence Clark, formerly of Newark, stole money and goods valued at $20 from Joseph Miller, of Westfield. J. F. Carr, on June 21, stole goods valued at $21.50 from Mary Brown, of Elizabeth.

All will be sentenced November 2.

$10,000 OFFER FOR COW BY MORRISTOWN WOMAN.

W. W. Marsh, of Waterloo, Ia., owner of Dairy Maid of Pinehurst, the champion cow of the World, on exhibition at dairy show in the Coliseum, Chicago, refused $10,000 for his pet yesterday. The offer was made by Mrs. Truman W. Brophy, who raised the champion and sold her to Mr. Marsh a year and a half ago for $5,000.

Mrs. Brophy maintains a dairy farm at Morristown, N. J., where she has one of the finest Guernsey herds in the country.

Dairy Maid in the last twelve months has produced 1,003 pounds of butter. The champion is just a month over three years.

DRUNKARDS OUTLIVE TEETOTALERS, HE SAYS.

Berne, Switzerland, Oct. 28.—That drunkards live longer than total abstainers is the startling statement made by Dr. Isenbart, a Swiss physician, who has issued a long list of statistics to prove his assertions.

The average drunkard, the statistics show, lives to an age of fifty-three; an immoderate drunkard to fifty-seven, and a moderate drinker to sixty-three, but the teetotaler has a hard time reaching the age of fifty his average, according to Dr. Isenbart, being fifty-one years.

Marshall Ward, of Fairview avenue, who has been in the Adirondacks for the past few months, has returned home.

Miss Elizabeth Hamman, of West Seventh street, has returned home after sperding several days with relatives in Philadelphia.

THE TRAINING OF CHILDREN.

"Now that my children are getting older," said a thoughtful mother, "I find myself reverting more and more to my own childhood, getting from my own experience valuable help in the matter of training my son and daughter. Of course, I don't mean that I have exactly the same problems to meet and do meet them in the same way my parents did, but their wisdom in dealing with me—headstrong child that I was—has helped me over many a rough place. I had a quick, yes, I might almost say, a violent temper, and my children have inherited it. You know a child with a fiery temper requires more judicious handling than one naturally placid.

"I was prone to get into trouble with my brothers and sisters, and oftentimes our war of words ended in actual blows. I recall one time my sister and I had had a very wordy discussion; I lost all control of myself and said and did things which were really disgraceful. My mother talked to us both and sent us off to school, saying that we were to come home directly from school and spend the remainder of the day in our rooms.

"When I went to my room that afternoon I found a card stuck in my mirror. On it were the words: 'He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city.'

"I have never forgotten that proverb nor its lesson to this day, and to me the impression of seeing that slip of paper with its silent message, over and over again, was more lasting than any other rebuke that could have been administered.

"Another lesson taught me, and this also by means of a quotation well worth while, had to do with my quarreling propensities. A favorite form of punishment of my father's was to place the one to be disciplined in a chair just outside the library door, where he, at his desk—for he spent much of his time at home writing—could see the guilty one. I was shown to the culprit's chair. In a few minutes father came from his desk to where I sat and pinned something on the wall before my eyes. This is what I read:

Birds in their little nests agree,
And 'tis a shameful sight
When children of one family
Fall out, and chide, and fight.

"Giving me a pencil and pad, father told me to copy those lines in my best handwriting, not once, or twice, but until he told me to stop.

"At first I rebelled, inwardly, but I knew only too well that that course of action would avail me nothing; I might better do as I was told. I am frank to say that it was a long, long time before I had occasion to sit in that chair again because of a quarrel with anyof my brothers and sisters.

"One more thing I must recall," said the mother, in conclusion. "When we children had any serious misunderstandings and felt that we were mistreated by others, we usually ran crying to father or mother, to tell our tale of woe. If it seemed to them we were quite as much to blame as the others, we were told to sit down and write out the whole story. In nine cases out of ten we became so absorbed in the telling of the tale on paper that we utterly forgot the original difficulty, and before we knew it the sun had dissipated the clouds which but a short time before had looked so black.

"These are a few of my childhood memories that come to me these days with fresh meaning because I am now able to appreciate as I never could when a child, just what was my parents' reasoning in choosing their rather individual methods of punishment or discipline.

A STORY OF BALZAC AND A VILLAGE TAILOR.

In a village in the heart of Touraine there lives an old man, whose pride it is that he once had the honor of making a pair of trousers for Balzac, says Harper's Weekly. The old tailor delights to tell of his meeting with the distinguished Frenchman.

When the tailor got to the chateau where Balzac was staying, he found him in the garden at work on a novel. He was so busy that the tailor waited in silence. Many sheets of paper, covered with fine writing, lay around him. He would write a spell, then stare wildly about, and then go at it again as if he knew that a world was waiting for his words.

After standing near and watching the great man a while, the tailor at last felt that he must interrupt Balzac in order to get his measure for the trousers. Balzac was extremely good natured; smiled as the tailor measured him, but spoke but once.

"No feet," said he as the tailor finished his measureemnts. Then he turned to his work.

The worthy tailor had no idea at all what this meant but for some reason he had not courage enough to interrupt the novelist again to ask. However, the tailor chanced to meet a servant on his way out, and of him inquired what M. Balzac meant by "No feet."

"Oh," responded the servant, "Monsieur Balzac wants his trousers made without any openings at the bottom, so that he can sit and write without having to put on slippers."

THE WHITE WASH.

Its Presence on the Hudson Bay Company's Boat Explained.

It is or was a rule of the Hudson Bay company that no woman be allowed passage on its boats. One day some years ago as a steamer of the company neared one of the northernmost ports a string of white garments was seen stretched across the deck. The watchers were amazed, for to them the wash line suggested only the presence of a woman aboard the boat.

Comment was freely made of the scandal that would ensue and the shakeup that would follow. When the boat docked the line of washing had disappeared—still another proof of the scandal.

Later one of the landsmen said to the captain:

"Why, how did it happen that you carried a woman passenger this trip?"

"There was never a woman along the whole voyage," was the indignant answer. "What do you mean?"

"If there was no woman aboard where did all that white wash come from?" was the triumphant reply.

The captain looked puzzled for a moment, and then he laughed.

"Oh," he said, "and didn't we have Lord Strathcona, the governor himself, along with us on this trip? And every day doesn't he insist on having his clean, white shirt, no matter how far north we are? That's the white wash you saw strung along deck. And, what's more, doesn't his lordship insist upon having his London paper laid beside his plate every morning, no matter if it is a year old?"—Pearson's.

A MASTER OF METAPHOR.

It Must Have Relieved Him to Get This Out of His System.

A water consumer in a certain city, whose supply had been turned off because he wouldn't pay, wrote to the department as follows:

"In the matter of shutting off the water on unpaid bills your company is fast becoming a regular crystallized Russian bureaucracy, running in a groove and deaf to the appeals of reform. There is no use of your trying to impugn the verity of this indictment by shaking your official heads in the teeth of your own deeds.

"If you will persist in this kind of thing a widespread conflagration of the populace will be so imminent that it will require only a spark to let loose the dogs of war in our midst. Will you persist in hurling the cornerstone of our personal liberty to your wolfish hounds of collectors thirsting for its blood? If you persist the first thing you know you will have the chariot of a justly indignant revolution rolling along in our midst and gnashing its teeth as it rolls.

"If your rascally collectors are permitted to continue coming to our doors with unblushing footsteps, with cloaks of hypocritical compunction in their mouths, and compel payment from your patrons this policy will result in cutting the wool off the sheep that lays the golden egg until you have pumped it dry, and then farewell, a long farewell, to our vaunted prosperity."—Everybody's.

When to Eat Fruit.

To obtain the most benefit from the succulent fruits they should be eaten at the end of the chief meal. Bananas are an exception and may be eaten with any meal. They are very acceptable cut in thin slices and eaten with bread and butter. Stewed fruits often have their virtues wasted through being eaten at the wrong time. Six or eight stewed prunes half an hour before breakfast are beneficial; so are stewed figs or stewed apples eaten before breakfast. Peeled oranges cut into thin slices so that the juice is set free, with sugar strewn over the slices, are not unlike pineapple and form a highly efficacious aid to digestion. Grapes should never be eaten except after the chief meal of the day. Taken when the stomach is comparatively empty, they are a specially harmful fruit.—Family Doctor.

Ruler of Russia's Title.

The general allusion to the ruler of Russia as the czar is, strictly speaking, incorrect. His official title is "emperor and autocrat." Czar is the old Russian word for lord or prince and was abandoned by Peter the Great on his triumphal return from Poltava, his crowning victory over Charles XII. of Sweden. Since then the Russian monarch has been officially entitled emperor, and at the congress of Vienna in 1815 his right to the imperial term was admitted by the powers, with the proviso that, though he was emperor, he had no precedence over the kings of western Europe.—St. James' Gazette.

The Modern Idea.

Roman Guide (impressively) — The ruins of the Coliseum! Seattle Man (astonished) — Well, what do you think of that! Why, I saw photographs of that heap twenty years ago. Roman Guide (loftily)—Quite likely, sir. Seattle Man—But why in thunder aren't those ruins cleared away and a modern Coliseum erected?—New Orleans Picayune.

Unless.

Townsend—Can a man live on $1 a day? Beers—Certainly, unless he's so prodigal as to lay something aside for a rainy day, keep up his insurance, eat when he's hungry, buy clothes and pay his bills.—Chicago News.

Flight.

"Would you take $10,000 to fly from Albany to New York?"

"Why not? Our cashier took only $1,000 to fly to Europe."

MAN'S WILL POWER.

Bismarck's Comment on Schopenhauer and His Theory.

In an entertaining account of a dinner party at Prince Bismarck's Berlin residence which is given in the recollections of the Livonian journalist Eckhardt the following, which was a part of the table talk, shows the host in a new light: The conversation had turned on Bismarck's early days at Frankfort, and Eckhardt asked whether at the table d'hote of the Hotel d'Angleterre his host had ever met Schopenhauer. "No," said Bismarck; "he had no use for me nor I for him. Moreover, I have never had time or desire to occupy myself with philosophy. While I was a student Schopenhauer was still unknown. I know absolutely nothing about his system."

Another guest, an admirer of Schopenhauer, then joined enthusiastically in the conversation and explained that the philosopher's great merit consisted in the discovery of the fact that will power was the indestructible essence of the mind of man and that intelligence was only of secondary importance. "That may very well be true," said Prince Bismarck, "at least as far as I am concerned, for I have often noticed that my will had already come to a decision while my mind had not yet finished thinking about the same subject."

VENETIAN WOMEN.

The Whims of Fashion Hold No Terrors For Them.

The women of Venice are absolutely free from the rule which Dame Fashion exercises over their sisters elsewhere. They care nothing for modes. With them the length of the skirt remains always the same, neither short nor long, and they always wear plainly made dark dresses, black stockings and the heelless slippers of the east. Hats are unknown.

The universal outdoor wrap for all ages and all sizes is the black shawl, with a deep silken fringe. It is folded with a short point above and a long one below, and sometimes it envelopes the figure from head to foot. It is never fastened at the throat, and when it slips off it is gathered up with one outstretched arm, which makes the spectator think of a big bird stretching its wing.

In their attire the women of Venice are independent, only wearing local clothing, but with feminine inconsistency they are thoroughly up to date in the matter of hairdressing, the style of their coiffures changing from time to time, according to the vogue of the moment in London and Paris.

Identified.

William M. Chase, the artist, was a picturesque figure, dressing in clothes that had a certain originality, though they conformed more or less to the prevailing fashions. On one occasion Chase on his way home stepped into a little wine shop and ordered a jug of claret of a special brand sent to his house. The lad who brought it came to the front door an hour afterward, when the artist had already arrived. "Some wine," he said curtly. The maid, knowing there was yet plenty in the cellar and believing the lad had made a mistake, said she was sure it was not for that house and did the boy remember the name of the man who ordered it. The boy didn't. "Then," said the servant, "you've come to the wrong place; we never ordered wine!" At this moment the boy spied Chase's famous hat on the hall table. "Say," he asked, "does that hat live here?" "Yes," said the amused maid. "Then," said the boy triumphantly "here's where the wine belongs!"—Argonaut.

Not For Fashion's Sake.

The criminal law of England was formerly marked by indiscriminating severity. Theft of an article valued above 10 shillings was punished with death. In writing about "Sweet Hampstead and Its Associations" Mrs. White records a pleasant thing of Lord Mansfield, who, as a rule, leaned to the side of mercy. It was Lord Mansfield who directed a jury to find a stolen trinket less in value than 10 shillings in order that the thief might escape capital punishment. To this the jeweler who prosecuted demurred, asserting that the fashion of the thing had cost him twice that money.

"Gentlemen," replied the judge, with grave solemnity, "we ourselves stand in need of mercy. Let us not hang a man for the fashion's sake!"

MacMahon's Epigram.

When Marshal MacMahon in the Crimean campaign took the Malakoff by storm and wrote his celebrated dispatch, "J'y suis; j'y reste" ("Here I am; here I stay"), these words made him famous all over the world. Yet his friends said that the worthy soldier had written them in the most matter of fact manner, with no thought of phrase making. The most surprised person over the success of this epigram was MacMahon himself.

ANGLO PERSIAN RUGS

Every one adores Oriental rugs, but Oriental rugs are far too costly for the average home. We have rugs that look like Oriental rugs—that will almost wear like Oriental rugs—but in reality they are nothing more or less than our own sturdy Wiltons—made right here on our own shores by our own workmen. The weavers have delved into the Orient, however, for ideas and color schemes, and they have succeeded in producing some of the most beautiful effects. Not harsh and garrish, mind you, but soft and subdued just like the genuine article. May we take you through the Orient tomorrow by means of these beautiful Wiltons—these "Anglo Persians"? Here are how the prices run:

22½x36 inch Anglo Persian Rugs	$4.00
27x54 inch Anglo Persian Rugs	5.75
36x63 inch Anglo Persian Rugs	8.50

A MAGIC CLUB.

Curious Decoy Used by the Native Fishermen of Hawaii.

"Lau melomelo" is the name of a decoy used by the native fishermen of Hawaii. It is made of the hardest wood to be found on the islands and is carved and rubbed till it assumes the shape of a club with a little knob at the smaller end, to which the line is tied.

The club is from one to three feet long. A village sorcerer performs certain rites over it over a sacred fire. After this is done the club is magic, and the fisherman must be extremely careful of it. If a woman should step over it or enter a canoe in which it lies the club would lose all its power and would be useless ever afterward.

After the club has been charmed the fisherman mixes candlenut and cocoanut meat, bakes it and ties the mixture in a wrapper of cocoanut fiber.

At the fishing grounds the club is covered with the oily juice of the stuff and is then lowered carefully to the bottom. The scent of the baked nut meat attracts certain kinds of fish, which soon gather and begin to nibble at the club. As soon as enough fish are around the decoy a small bag shaped net is lowered very gently until its mouth is just over the club. The latter is then pulled up carefully and cunningly till it is within the bag. The fish are so eager for the stuff with which the club is covered that they follow it into the net without fear. As soon as all the fish are in it a fisherman dives and closes the mouth of the net; whereupon the rest haul it up quickly.

THE MIDDLE AGED MAN.

Finding Happiness In a Life That to Youth Is Irksome.

"Younger people," said the middle aged man, "want variety. They want to be always on the go. Routine galls them. They hate to have to do the same thing over and over and over again day after day.

"They want to go somewhere or do something different all the time. Older people are happiest in a life of routine, most disturbed when variety is thrust upon them.

"For myself I welcome my daily task, endlessly repeated and always the same. I should be lost without it; disturbed if it were changed. A life of habit suits me best. I like the old scenes—familiar friendly surroundings. I don't want to change.

"Nor do I want much outside pleasure. In fact, I think I should be best suited with none. I like my groove. It fits me, and I fit it. I don't want change. I just want to be left alone to work in my accustomed ways. It is in my groove that I am most comfortable. I like a life of labor and routine.

"And could there come to one a greater blessing? Nature and the customs of men enforce routine upon us whether we like it or not. In youth this irks us, but in our maturer years in a life of routine, in the undisturbed enjoyment of familiar labor, we may find our greatest happiness."—New York Sun.

The One to Pay.

When she was Lady Randolph Churchill, Mrs. George Cornwallis-West consented to electioneer for Mr. Ashmead-Bartlett in his first parliamentary campaign. Mr. Ashmead-Bartlett was married to the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, a very rich woman, who was nearly forty years his senior. Lady Randolph, with her beauty and charms, did splendid work for the candidate.

To a group of farmers she said one day:

"Won't you promise me to vote for Mr. Ashmead-Bartlett?"

"My lady," said a red faced farmer, with a chuckle, "we'll all vote for him if every vote 'll be paid for with a kiss."

"Thank you very much," said Lady Randolph. "Your offer is accepted. I'll send for the Baroness Burdett-Coutts at once."

Deserted Their Towns.

So late as the end of the seventeenth century the inhabitants of Ceylon were in the habit of deserting their towns. Their customs are described in the narrative of Captain Robert Knox, who for nineteen years, from 1660 to 1679, was a captive among them. He speaks of several towns as lying desolate owing to the fact that their inhabitants had forsaken them. This they did if many of them fell sick, and two or three died soon after one another, thinking that it was a visitation of the evil one. Some of them came back when they thought the evil spirits had departed.

A Queer Creature.

Queer that while the male seal is a bull and the female a cow their youngster is not called a calf, but a pup.

Why "seal fisheries," too, when the seal is not a fish?.

And why should the seal's breeding place be styled a rookery?

It looks as if this strange creature is only a fish in common parlance while at sea. On land (or ice) he is classed popularly with animals or birds.—Exchange.

Gratitude.

Kind Lady—My poor man, what would you do with the money if I gave you a penny? Tired Hobo—Madam, I'd buy a picture postcard an' write yer a note o' thanks.—Cleveland Leader.

PLAINFIELD A. F. C. TO PLAY EUREKA A. A. TOMORROW.

The Plainfield Association Football Club will joruney to Kearney tomorrow to play the Eureka A. A., in a league game. This will be one of the most important fixtures in this league, as neither team has lost a game this season. The Eurekas have won four straight games and the opinion is that they will go clean through the schedule without a defeat.

However, the Plainfield team will go there tomorrow, and they intend to be the first team to make the Eurekas bite the dust. This game has been advertised broadcast throughout Newark and suburbs and a record-breaking attendance is expected to witness this contest between the aamteur league teams.

A HINT TO THE LAUNDRESS.

Cotton or linen laces, embroidered handkerchiefs, children's collars and others dainty articles, are nicely cleaned by the following method:

Make a suds of soft water and white soap. Rub the soap on the spots and put the articles into the suds to soak for an hour or two, then wash with as little rubbing as possible. When they are white and clean, rinse them through two or three lukewarm waters until not a trace of soap remains. In the last water put a very little blueing to make them a clear white. Do not wring them, but squeeze them in the hand. Place them in thin boiled starch, and when they are taken from this they are ready to dry.

Mount McKinley.

In mountain climbing the world over the climber usually arrives fresh and unfatigued at the base of the peak he wishes to storm, and as a rule begins his ascent at a high altitude. On Mount McKinley, as described by a writer in Outing, it is the opposite. There are 25 miles of rugged foothills and glaciers to be crossed—with heavy packs—before the base of the mountain is reached, and then the climber is confronted by 18,000 feet of rock and ice.

BURGLARS RAMPANT IN NEW MARKET SECTION

The Lehigh Valley Railroad station at New Market was entered by burglars last night and a small amount of booty secured. They decamped with $15 taken from the telephone pay station box and a coat belonging to Station Agent Harry Hull. Entrance was effected by smashing a window. The burglars made sure of escape through the surrounding country in case of detection by cutting all the telephone wires in the building. There are several lines entering it, leading to Plainfield, New Brunswick and the railroad's own equipment along the system.

Burglaries and holdups in the New Market section are getting to be quite common. There have been a half dozen homes entered in the past two weeks and Wednesday night a bold highway robbery was committed near the village. A man living in the outskirts was waylaid as he was going home and relieved of $82. There is no organized protection and the villagers are discussing some sort of patrol system.

Proctor's Great Show.

Lovers of good band music should take advantage of hearing Signor Creatore and his Royal Italian Band at Proctor's this week. There are fourteen soloists and Miss Clara May as soprano soloist. The program is popular and classical. "Christmas on the Island," is one of the best acts appearing at the playhouse in a long time, the jokes and singing being fine. Lamont's dog, cat and monkey circus makes a hit with young and old. The intoxicated dog who is "run in" by a monkey policeman in a patrol wagon is funny. Joe Hardman, monologuist, is the happy humorist who hammers hilarity into heavy hearts.

Andrew J. Linbarger.

Andrew J. Linbarger one of Bound Brook's best known citizens, died at his home in that place yesterday morning. He was born in Washington Valley seventy-six years ago, but had lived in Bound Brook nearly all his life. He was engaged in the butcher business for a long time, retiring about ten years ago. He was a brother to the late Joseph Ross Linbarger, of the borough, and leaves a number of local relatives. The funeral will be held at his late home, Monday afternoon, at 2:30. Burial will be in the family plot in the Bound Brook cemetery.

Freeholders Get Decision.

County Attorney W. R. Codington, representing the Board of Freeholders, got a decision this week from Vice-Chancellor Garrison, in the action of Rahway against the board on a rule to show cause why the Freeholders should not be restrained from raising the grade of a bridge over the Rahway river at Rahway. The vice-chancellor in his decision said he saw no reason why the Freeholders should not have the right to raise the bridge.

Will Give a Dinner for Dr. Wilson.

Gen. Denis F. Collins will give a dinner at the Elks Club, Elizabeth, tonight, in honor of Dr. Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic candidate for Governor. There will be a large gathering of prominent Democrats and among those who will be present is LeRoy J. Ellis, president of the Plainfield Democratic Club.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. George Staats, of New York city, have returned home after a visit with friends in this city.

Mrs. Florence Lederer and daughter, Miss Alberta Lederer, are visiting Mrs. H. B. Clarke, of East Ninth street.

Mrs. Florence V. Lederer, formerly of Plainfield, has taken a responsible position with a family in South Jersey.

James Ross, who is employed by the Union Beef Company, is still detained at his home on Muhlenberg place with rheumatism.

Mrs. Albert Jacoby and son, Albert Jacoby, Jr. who have been for the past two months the guests of Mr. Jacoby's sister, Mrs. John J. Shafer, of East Front street, left yesterday for St. Paul, Va.

Edwin J. Skinner, of Elmwood place, who because of ill health, had to give up his position with the Prudential Insurance Company, is much improved, but will not return to active work with the company again.

Charles Britland, of Irvington, chief petty officer on the battleship North Dakota, was the guest of H. S. Sanderson, of Proctor & Sanderson's theatre, yesterday. Mr. Britland has been in the navy eleven years and it has been a long while since he has visited his home or this vicinity.

P. H. S. NOTES.

At a meeting of the freshmen class of the High School yesterday the following officers were elected: President, William Smith; vice-president, Esther Phillips; secretary, Klaus Kubierschky, and treasurer, Warren Butler.

The prizes won in the recent tennis tournament were presented to the winners this morning by the principal, Lindsay Rest. Silver cups were given to Miss Clara Neuman, and Ludlow VanDeventer, who were the winners in the boys' and girls' singles, and bronze medals awarded to Miss Neuman and Miss Pauline Gates for the championship in the girls' doubles. John Uhler and Ludlow VanDeventer also earned bronze medals for winning boys' doubles. Miss Neuman and John Uhler received the medals for the mixed doubles.

Jack Zerega, president of the sophomore class, on behalf of the class, invited the freshmen to attend the annual reception on the evening of November 7. Arrangements for dancing, games and refreshments are being made. In making the position of the sophomores plain Mr. Zerega said: "It has always been customary to give the freshmen a reception. This year the event will take place on November 7 and will include all the things which go to make such an event a success. On behalf of the sophomores extend a cordial invitation to the freshmen to be our guests on that evening."

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company. Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

This second letter was even more difficult than the first for an uninitiated person to understand and it irritated Miss Moon to a high pitch of nervousness.

"It was partly a joke and partly earnest, but it had a good motive," wrote Betty. "I guessed the morning your really very conceited letter about the New York introductions came that Jim had something quaint up his sleeve to spring upon you when you'd arrived in America, but I didn't know what. To tell the truth, Val, I was even more disgusted than Jim by your cool way of assuming that you had only to show yourself to pick and choose among all the nicest as well as richest girls. I should have loved to box your ears, and I said, 'Of course we won't give him any letters, and I'll tell him just what we think of him; then maybe he won't go.' But Jim said: 'Yes, we will give him the letters, and he shall go. We may find another way of teaching him a lesson, a way that will do him good if he's worth being done good to.'

"That was all, and as Jim didn't refer to the subject again after we posted the letters of introduction the conversation slipped my mind. I didn't think any more about it until weird things began to be copied into London papers from New York ones and your mother wired Jim to ask what, if anything, could be done to punish Foxham. You see, she thought you were on the Baltic.

"Jim soothed all her worries, so you needn't be anxious about her, as of course you would if you thought she'd been alarmed. When I saw paragraphs in the papers I talked to Jim, and it was only then that he told me what he'd done, how it was all his fault really, and he was very sorry, because everything had turned out a lot worse for you than he'd ever dreamed of wanting it to be. 'Fate took a hand in the game and played it for all it was worth,' Jim said.

"It seems that Foxham, your man, asked Jim to cash a check signed by you one night not long ago. Don't you remember when he and I were at Battlemead and you came down for Saturday to Monday? Jim suspected something wrong, but wouldn't speak to you till he'd made sure, because that wouldn't have been fair, and Foxham was such an invaluable valet. A few days later, when Jim was making inquiries about the man, he found out that the horrid creature had actually impersonated you at two or three hotels and run up bills in your name. It was the very evening before your letter about America came that Jim got the first part of this information, and day by day more kept coming in up to the time when we heard Foxham had given you notice. All along Jim was thinking out the idea of that lesson for you—the joke that was to be half in earnest—and then when Mr. Vanderpot couldn't sail in the Mauretania the whole plan was mapped out without a word being said, even to me.

"Of course I want to assure you again, and Jim will write a postscript, that he meant nothing worse to happen to you than a disappointment and a blow to your conceit. He telegraphed to several of the people to whom you had letters, saying that if a person turned up calling himself by your name before the Baltic landed they'd better wait and make sure before being nice to you that you weren't your own absconding valet, sailing under false colors. He didn't say it wouldn't be you, and he supposed that his friends would simply hang back for a few days, making no sign, thus giving you to think that you weren't as important in America as you'd fancied. He imagined, too, that the heiress business wouldn't come off quite as easily as you expected and that altogether you might be a little sobered down. As for your trouble with the bank, we know now that this is what happened: It turns out that Henry van Cotter has lately become a partner in the bank which corresponds with yours in London, and, having got Jim's wire about the valet probably at the same time when instructions arrived from the London and Southern, naturally he told his people to be prepared and not to pay. How could Jim think of such a thing happening or that Mr. van Cotter and the others would run about gossiping of what he told them as a mere supposition? It must have been too dreadful for you at the hotel. And, as for that Mr. Milton, I'm sure he is a horror.

"Then it was another contretemps that neither Jim nor I saw the newspapers at first. Of course the minute Jim knew what had been going on he wired everywhere and wrote long letters of explanation, too (a little earlier than he'd originally meant), to put an end to the misunderstanding he'd set in motion. But meanwhile you'd disappeared from New York. Poor dear, my heart quite bleeds for you. And yet—and yet—I wonder if all that you've gone through is entirely a matter of regret?"

It was here, over the affectionate

Cousin Betty" signature, that the other handwriting began.

"I wonder too! I want to know what you think about it. Now it's all explained and you see just where and how much I'm to blame for what's past you may or may not be inclined to forgive me for trying to play Providence that good might come of evil. But if there is anything which you don't regret perhaps you'll partly understand—yourself and me. Anyhow, I apologize, having now done my best to atone, in case you want to go back to New York in a blaze of glory and be made a lion of. Meanwhile I await your verdict and am, as the writers of anonymous letters are supposed to sign themselves, 'your friend and well-wisher,' Jim."

Again fate had "taken' a hand in the game" and used Miss Moon as catspaw. Into the fire in her bedroom at Bonnerstown went all those elaborate explanations, and Loveland did not dream that he had only to communicate with the bank in New York to receive apologies and a sum of money which, after his vicissitudes, would have seemed a fortune. He had not even a prophetic "pricking in his thumbs" while his mother's post-office order for $300 (£60) gayly burned in a Bonnerstown stove. He had no suspicion that New York society or an important section of it was wearing sackcloth and ashes on his account; neither did he know that Lesley Dearmer, whether believing him a genuine article or not, had sent him an anonymous donation which lay unclaimed at the Waldorf-Astoria.

In the house he and Miss Dearmer had no intercouse, and he did not even know what the girl's daily occupations were or what visitors she saw. But at least three hours out of every twenty-four gave her to him as an intimate companion, near in mind and body. Therefore until the hateful Cremer should fall out of a clear sky Val was not eager for home news which would leave no excuse for lingering at this old homestead in the blue grass country.

It seemed to Val that Lesley was always happy, and because she was happy herself she could not bear to see others sad or unfortunate. Though she asked no questions about her chauffeur's English past, she showed frank interest in his American experiences. She led him on as they spun through the country side by side to talk of Bill Willing, of Lillie de Lisle, of Ed Binney and even of Isidora, the almond eyed.

Too delicate minded to put her suspicions into words, Lesley contrived tactfully to pluck from Loveland some scanty information concerning Miss Alexander's semi-engagement to the Jewish commercial traveler.

"She'll nevery marry him," the girl announced authoritatively.

"I wish I could think you were right," said Loveland. "Poor Isidora has a warm, generous heart, and it would be a beastly shame to waste her on the oily creature."

"When I first knew you it wouldn't have occurred to you that the affairs of a common little person like that might be worth bothering about," exclaimed Lesley. "But now I believe you're really interested."

"I really am," admitted Val. "I hope that doesn't disgust you?"

"Exactly the other way," Lesley assured him. "But Isidora won't marry the Cohen man after all that's happened. She won't marry any one for a good long time."

"What makes you think so?" asked Loveland.

"Oh, because I'm a woman myself." And then she would say no more on that subject, but she talked eagerly of Bill Willing and his star.

"BUT MY LANE IS BLOCKED."

Sidney Cremer would play fairy godfather to the two, she said, speaking with that happy certainty of her lover's mind which invariably depressed and irritated Loveland.

There were numerous country companies "on the road" touring with Sidney's pieces in very good towns. Sidney would take "Mr. Gordon's" word for Lillie de Lisle's ability as a soubrette and would offer her a part shortly to be open owing to the marriage of the girl now playing it. As for "that perfect lamb of a Bill," a place should be found for him in the same company—that Lesley would promise—and they could marry at once.

"You had better wait and hear what Mr. Cremer says," suggested Loveland, almost bitterly, when Lesley had instructed him to write the good news at once to Lillie and Bill. Ed Binney was also to be provided for, sent to a convalescent home and given hope for a chance as "property man" with one of Sidney's plays when he should be strong enough to go on tour again.

"Oh, Sidney and I always think alike. Haven't I told you that before?" was Lesley's answer. "There's no need to wait. I know all about Sidney's business. And I thought it would be a pleasure to you to write and be the means of making your friends happy."

"So it would if I were the means," muttered Loveland. "But I'm not. It's Mr. Sidney Cremer. Everything is Sidney Cremer, and he is everything!"

"Some day I may remind you of that speech," said Lesley. Then she laughed in a mysterious little way she has. But she was determined that Loveland should write the letters she desired written, and, learning the lesson of unselfishness, he tried to rejoice in his friend's good luck.

"It's a long lane that has no turning," he said to himself as he sealed letters which would change the face of the world for three persons. "Their turning has come at last, and I'm glad. But my lane is blocked. Whatever happens, that brute Sidney Cremer will always stand at the end and bar my way out."

CHAPTER XXVI.

IN THE CAR TOGETHER.

IT was the day after Val had sent off the joyous tidings to his friends in the big world beyond the Hill Farm that tidings from the big world came to him.

Thanks to Miss Moon, the letters from home were lost. But, greatly as that lady would have delighted in so sweeping a measure, it was impossible to keep P. Gordon forever in the dark by destroying whole issues of New York journals.

Uncle Wally was in the habit of bringing the gentleman chauffeur his breakfast and with that meal, which consisted of delicious southern dishes, the morning paper.

Loveland did not find American news particularly exciting and as a rule merely glanced through the paper as he ate. But the New York Light had a special interest for him.

Val laid aside the Louisville Monday paper and began to read the New York Light.

Suddenly he cried out an excited "By Jove!" and forgot that he had not finished his breakfast, but as by this time Uncle Wally had gone there was nobody to be surprised by his emotion.

Yes, it had come at last, his justification, and even his triumph for the story as told by Tony Kidd made it seem almost a triumph. Indeed, he had hardly realized himself how dramatic it all was until he saw the printed account of what he had gone through. Bill Willing had been interviewed at the Bat hotel, of which a graphic sketch and description were given. Alexander the Great had been interviewed and thus secured another free advertisement for the red restaurant. Isidora had been interviewed and photographed in her best hat. And last, though far from least, Mr. Henry van Cotter had been interviewed. From him, it seemed, Tony Kidd had got on the trail of the truth. Mr. van Cotter's friend Jim Harborough had wired from London that it was all a mistake about the valet impersonating the Marquis of Loveland, a mistake which had partly arisen through the sailing of Lord Loveland on the Mauretania instead of the Baltic, as expected. The valet had sailed for Australia, but would be arrested at the first port, and it was the Marquis of Loveland himself whom fate and society had hounded out of New York.

"Where Is Lord Loveland?" was one of the several sensational headlines with which Tony had ornamented his two column article, for, though Bill Willing had told of the barnstorming episode, he did not yet know and therefore could not tell, even if he would, his "swell" friends's present address.

Now that he had come into his own Loveland could no doubt somehow get money almost at once on that unlucky letter of credit, pay back the advance Miss Dearmer had made him, cease to be a gentleman chauffeur, leave the Hill Farm and return to New York to be a gentleman at large.

But there was no joy in the thought of ceasing to be a chauffeur and still less in that of leaving the Hill Farm.

The play was played out, and the adventure was over, but life could not be as it had been for Loveland. He could not take up the old life or the old self where he had dropped both one year in Central park. He was a different man in these days, caring for different things and unfortunately the thing he cared for most was the one thing he could not have—Lesley Dearmer's love. Being once more Lord Loveland and having a repentant New York at his feet would not give him Lesley Dearmer. While he was thinking how good it would have been were fate a better stage manager to justify himself to Lesley, Lesley sent for him by Uncle Wally.

To her he was still the chauffeur, and the darky who politely delivered the message announced that "young miss would be obliged to Massah Gordon if he would take her out in the car as quick as possible."

As Loveland looked over the Gloria, making her purr pleasantly in preparation for the run, he tried to decide definitely what to do next. Face to face with the certainty of separation and her marriage with another man, every hour spent with the loved one became a priceless treasure. He resolved not only to be silent about the article in the New York Light, but to go back to his room and carefully hide the newspaper.

This he did, delighted to find the big budget lying on the floor where he had left it.

When Cremer was in the house he would be glad to go and glad to prove to Lesley before going that he was all he had once claimed to be.

When the car was ready he drove to the front door and found Lesley tying on her motor veil, a charming picture set in a rustic frame.

Loveland's spirits rose when he saw that she was alone. Auntie in the limousine was the least obtrusive of chaperons. Still, there was joy in having the girl to himself.

"For a wonder I couldn't sleep last night," said Lesley, "and I thought an early spin in the car would clear my brain of cobwebs."

(To be continued.)

FUN IN THE HOME.

Make Life There Joyous and Bar Out Business Worries.

Whatever your lot in life, keep joy with you, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. It is a great healer. Sorrow, worry, jealousy, envy, bad temper, create friction and grind away the delicate human machinery so that the brain loses its cunning.

Half the misery in the world would be avoided if the people would make a business of having plenty of fun at home instead of running everywhere else in search of it.

"Now For Rest and Fun." "No Business Troubles Allowed Here." These are good home building mottoes.

When you have had a perplexing day, when things have gone wrong with you and you go home at night exhausted, discouraged, blue, instead of making your home miserable by going over your troubles and trials just bury them. Instead of dragging them home and making yourself and your family unhappy with them and spoiling the whole evenning, just lock everything that is disagreeable in your office.

Just resolve that your home shall be a place for bright pictures and pleasant memories, kindly feelings toward everybody and "a corking good time" generally. If you do this you will be surprised to see how your vocation or business wrinkles will be ironed out in the morning and how the crooked things will be straightened.

THE COTTON GIN.

Whitney Got the Idea From the Work of an Old Negro.

Eli Whitney, the inventor of the cotton gin, got the germ of his great idea from seeing through the interstices of a hut an old negro work a hand saw among the freshly picked cotton stored within.

The teeth of the saw tore the lint from the seed easily and quickly, and young Whitney (he was barely thirteen at the time) realized at once that a machine working a number of similar saws simultaneously would revolutionize the cotton growing industry.

He said nothing to anybody, but set to work building models and experimenting. His difficulties were enormous, for he not only had to make his own wheels, cogs, etc., but he had also first to forge his own tools and even to manufacture the paint wherewith to color his many plans and drawings.

But he succeeded in the end, and, though the outbreak of war and other hindrances prevented the invention from being actually placed upon the market until many years afterward, the first complete cotton gin ever constructed was built from those very models and plans and with scarcely a single alteration.

The Springbok.

A peculiarity of that most beautiful of South African antelopes the springbok is that it always leaps over human tracks. It is at once exceedingly shy and marvelously active, and the reason for this strange antic is its intense suspicion of any possible enemies, among whom it has come to recognize man as the most dangerous. It is not only with human tracks that the springbok goes through this performance, for it does the same with the tracks of lions or even when it gets wind of a lion. The leap is exceedingly graceful, and the animal covers from twelve to fifteen feet at each bound. It drops on all four feet at once and immediately rises again, making a clear spring without any run. Its usual gait when not pursued is a light springy trot. The springbok usually travels with its nose to the ground, as if constantly on the lookout for the scent of enemies.

A Mole's Nest.

Among common animals few have been less studied in their life history than the mole. Mr. Lionel E. Adams says that under the "fortress" which the mole constructs above the surface of the ground will always be found a series of tunnels running out beneath the adjacent field. A curious feature almost invariably found is a perpendicular run penetrating about a foot below the bottom of the nest and then turning upward to meet another run. A mole is never found in his nest, although it may yet be warm from his body when opened. Guided by smell and hearing, a mole frequently locates the nest of a partridge or pheasant above his run and, penetrating it from below, eats the eggs. The adult mole is practically blind, but there are embryonic indications that the power of sight in the race has deteriorated.

A Japanese Peculiarity.

"When a Japanese servant is rebuked or scolded," says a traveler, "he must smile like a Cheshire cat. The etiquette in smiles is very misleading at first. I often used to think that Taki, my riksha 'boy,' meant to be impertinent when he insisted on smiling when I was angry at him. But when he told me of the death of his little child with a burst of laughter I knew that this was only one of the curious details of etiquette in this topsy turvy land."

One Definition.

"Papa," asked a little boy, "what is a legal blank?"

"A legal blank, Johnny," replied his father, "is a lawyer who never gets a case."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Useless Question.

"They have named the baby after Uncle Belshazzar."

"Has Uncle Belshazzar money?"

"Do you suppose they liked the name?"—Pittsburg Post.

Robbed of Her Happiness.

"You are not looking well, Mrs. Willington."

"No; I haven't slept well lately."

"What's the trouble? Has the weather affected you?"

"Oh, no, it isn't that."

"I'll tell you what it is. You ought to give up the practice of drinking coffee at night. I know a lot of people who toss awake all night after they have been out to a late dinner and finished with coffee. I had to quit it myself."

"I'm sure that isn't the cause of my trouble."

"Have you seen a doctor?"

"No. A doctor couldn't help me any."

"But how can you tell until you go to one and let him examine you?"

"Well, if you must know, I'm worrying about my husband. He hasn't kicked at the size of the bills lately, and he's been so kind and even tempered right along for a month or two that I feel almost sure he must be leading a double life. Ah, if he would only get to grumbling and making it disagreeable around the house again!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Waiter With Two Cars.

A Cleveland party recently sojourning in a Toronto hotel decided to take an automobile ride about the city. They approached the extremely self conscious clerk and asked him where they could secure a car.

"Our head waitah has two, don't y' know," he replied.

It took some little time to recover from this shock, but presently one of the party ventured to ask the price.

"Three an hour," was the answer.

That was voted satisfactory, and at luncheon one of the Clevelanders turned to the nearest waiter.

"Who is the chap that owns two automobiles?" he asked.

"I am the chap," the waiter replied, and he threw such a freezing emphasis into the word "chap" that it was fairly frost cracked.

They finished their luncheon before they had enough courage to ask the price.

"Four dollars an hour," the waiter replied with haughty indifference.

Then they went uptown and hired a very good car for $3 an hour.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Gaelic A B C.

Every letter in the Gaelic alphabet is represented by a tree. The alphabet of today consists of eighteen letters—in ancient Gaelic seventeen—and now, as of old, all the letters with the exception of g, t and u, which stand for ivy, furze and heather, are called after trees.

The Gaelic A B C of today runs: Ailm, beith, coll, dur, eagh, fearn, gath, huath, iogh, luis, muin, nuin, oir, peith, ruis, suil, teine, ur, which is equivalent to saying elm, birch, hazel, oak, aspen, alder, ivy, whitethorn, yew, rowan or quicken, vine, ash, spindle tree, pine, elder, willow, furze, heath.

In the ancient Gaelic alphabet the letter h (the heath or whitethorn) does not exist. The alphabet is called the beth-luis-nuin, because b l n and not a b c are its first three letters.

How the Natives Treat Gorillas.

Natives in the countries inhabited by great apes regard them always as human beings of inferior types, and it is for this reason that for a long time it was found impossible to get hold of an entire gorilla skin, because the savages considered it religiously necessary to cut off the hands and feet of the animals when they killed them, just as they do with their enemies, possibly for the purpose of rendering them harmless in case they should by any chance come to life again.

Perhaps.

Mr. Clubman—I see by the papers that a poor young man who lost both his legs while saving the life of a beautiful heiress at a railway crossing is to marry the girl. She dismissed all suitors and offered herself to him. Mrs. C. (meaningly)—Very sensible girl. She'll know where her husband is nights anyway.

Badly Balanced.

A witty Frenchman wrote at the commencement of this century a very interesting and amusing book bearing the title, "Les Agremens et les Chagrins des Mariages." In this work the first four pages are devoted to the "agremens" (joys) and the remaining 350 to the "chagrins" (sorrows).

A Comparison.

Several times had little Mary looked wonderingly out of the window, watching the full moon rise. Then a thought seemed to strike her.

"Mamma," she remarked ingenuously, "doesn't it look just like dad's head when you see it over the top of his easy chair back?"

Aiding the Mind.

First Tourist—What are you writing down?

Second Tourist—I'm making a note of a few things that have made an indelible impression on my memory, so that I shan't forget them.—Lord's Idea.

Promptness Unappreciated.

George—What's de matter, Willie? Willie—It's dis way, Goodboy. De boss told me to be prompt about everything, an' now he's fired me because I was too prompt about goin' home.—Chicago News.

All the Worse.

Willie S. Skinner's mind is home broke you? I thought you got hit the ground door? Cliff—I did. That the reason I was buried so deep when it fell in.—Puck.

Beneath Your Fat A Graceful Figure Dwells

Heredity, natural tendency, inaction, high living, and inability of the system to dispose of fatty foods are responsible for the pads and rolls of fat which gather on chest, hips, waist, chin, cheeks, and neck, covering up and distorting the lithe, graceful figure beneath. To remove or prevent these unwelcome deposits—control their quantity and location without paying the price of violent exercise, dieting, self-denials or impairment of health; in short, to find one's own slim self beneath the fatty sheath—has been made possible by a noted physician, whose Marmola Prescription helped thousands of over-fat men and women to reduce safely and surely from 10 to 16 ounces per day, until the natural health of the system is restored and slimness results. Marmola Prescription Tablets, the new form of this great remedy, each contain an exact dose of the famous Marmola Prescription. Like the original prescription, they are absolutely sure and harmless. Nearly every druggist keeps these wonderful little tablets, or they may be secured direct by mail from the Marmola Co., 988 Monroe Ave., Detroit, Mich. 75c for a large case is the uniform price.

The Boynton Square Fire Pot Never Clogs With Ashes

The square pot of the BOYNTON furnace clears free each time the grate is turned. That keeps the fire lively and gives all the available heat in the coal.

House owners who use the "BOYNTON" call it "an economical furnace." It is. It saves money in reduced fuel bills, lessened labor and in longer years of usefulness than other furnaces.

BOYNTON

"Square Pot" Furnaces

ADAM'S PEAK.

A Shrine Sacred to Three Conflicting Religious Sects.

Throughout Asia "holy places" are almost as numerous as leaves on a tree, but in Ceylon is a mountain which enjoys the unique distinction of being a very holy place to the devotees of three absolutely distinct and conflicting religious sects. This is Adam's Peak, or Samanala.

According to the Mohammedan belief, Adam, after the fall, was taken by an angel to the top of Samanala, and a panorama of all the ills that through sin should afflict mankind was spread out before him. His foot left an impression on the solid rock, and his tears formed the lake from which pilgrims still drink. The Buddhists contend that it was not Adam, but Buddha himself that made the footprint in the rock, that being the last spot where he touched the earth before ascending to heaven, while the Brahmins have still another legend. All, however, Brahmins, Mohammedans and Chinese, agree that Samanala is a very holy place, and to perform a pilgrimage to the spot is to the Buddhist what a visit to Mecca is to a Mohammedan. In mixed crowds the worshipers come, each pitying the ignorance of the other, who is so far from the "true way."

It requires no little faith and some imagination to trace in the depression in the rock the likeness of a human footprint. It is 5¼ feet long by 2½ feet wide, on the top of a huge bowlder. The natives, however, insist that it is the footprint of Adam.—Emmett Campbell Hall in Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

MINIATURE GARDENS.

Tiny Lakes, Trees and Houses In Diminutive Japanese Parks.

The Japanese have the art of dwarfing trees to mere shrubs and of cultivating plants in a similar way. The people take great delight in their miniature gardens, which require a special gardener to keep them down to desired limits. A Japanese garden is generally about ten yards square, and in this small space is found a park and demesne, with lake, summer houses, temples, trees, all complete and in keeping with the dimensions available.

One such garden shows a lake four feet long and full of goldfish. On the border stands a pine tree exactly eighteen inches high and fifty years old. Beneath its shade is a temple carved out of one piece of stone the size of a brick. On a lofty crag of some two and a half feet stands a fine maple tree, perfect in form and shape, fifteen years old and twelve inches high.

One household in Japan boasts of a complete garden contained in a shallow two dozen wine case. Everything is complete down to the fish in the lake, a sheet of water only a few inch square, and the footbridges over the water courses. Tea houses there are and numerous trees of various kinds, each about six inches in height. Old as the hills are these diminutive trees, but full of vitality, and yet never growing bigger.—New York Press.

One Consolation.

During the time he acted as United States consul in Glasgow Bret Harte occasionally indulged in a day's sport with the gun, and it was during one of his shooting excursions that the humorist met with an accident which might have disfigured him for the remainder of his life, his face being badly cut through the recoil of an overloaded gun. Fortunately the doctor's skill prevented him from being permanently marked.

Writing about the occurrence to his friend, T. Edgar Pemberton, who quotes the letter in his "Tribute to Bret Harte," the novelist concludes his letter by telling of an amusing effort which was made to console him on account of the accident.

"When the surgeon was stitching me together," he wrote, "the son of the house, a boy of twelve, came timidly to the door of my room.

"'Tell Mr. Bret Harte it's all right,' he said. 'He killed the bare.'"

Artificial Flowers.

It was in Italy that a demand for artificial flowers first arose. This was due primarily to a caprice of fashion which demanded that during festivals blossoms in and out of their seasons should be worn and also to the fact that their color and freshness were stable. Later on, in the middle ages, the artificial so far superseded the natural that both men and women decked their heads with imitation flowers of cambric, paper, glass and metal.

Spiteful.

At a local picture show a painter hung a notice under his highly prized landscape, "Do not touch with canes or umbrellas." Some one who was not an admirer of his works added to the notice, "Take an ax!"

Disagreeable Economy.

Husband—You are not economical! Wife—Well, if you don't call a woman economical who saves her wedding dress for a possible second marriage I'd like to know what you think economy is like.

An Inside Outing.

Wigg—The best outing a man can take is an ocean trip. Wagg—Yes, an outing for the inner man as well.—Philadelphia Record.

There is no well doing, no godlike doing, that is not patient doing.—Timothy Titcomb.

OFFICIAL MINUTES OF THE BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS.

The regular meeting of the Board of Freeholders of Union county was held on Thursday, October 6, at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. Hall, of Fanwood, presented his credentials was sworn in as a new member, and took his seat with the board.

Roll call showed all members present with the exception of Freeholder Haviland.

On motion of Freeholder Wilbur it was ordered that the minutes of the meeting of September 1 be approved as per printed copies on members' desks.

Communications.

A communication was received from the State Tuberculosis Society, asking that a committee be appointed to attend the conference at Newark on November 17.

On motion of Freeholder Doane the communication was received and the invitation accepted. The Director appointed as said committee Freeholders Doane, Krouse and Haviland.

From the Town of Westfield was received a copy of a resolution adopting certain roads as town roads.

On motion of Freeholder Smith received and placed on file.

A communication was received from the chief of police of Elizabeth, inviting members of the board to the annual inspection October 15.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and invitation accepted.

A communication from the Township of Springfield asked the board to take action in regard to having gates placed on Westfield avenue, Springfield, at railroad crossing.

On motion of Freeholder Gruener received and referred to Mr. Meisel and County Attorney.

Committee Reports.

Auditor's report:

Gentlemen—Your Auditor respectfully reports: I have examined the books and vouchers of the Surrogate, Sheriff, Registrar and County Clerk, and find the same correct.

The net receipts are: Surrogate, $783.72; Sheriff, $669.54; Registrar, $1,799.73; County Clerk, $315.25, which amount has been turned over to the County Collector.

Yours repsectfully,
BENJAMIN KING,
Auditor.

On motion of Freeholder Wilbur received and placed on file.

Report of Committee on Raritan Road Bridge, Roselle:

Gentlemen—Your committee on the above-named bridge, would respectfully report that bids were received for the work on October 3, 1910, and the contract was awarded to Alexander Kerr & Son, they being the lowest bidders at $447.

Signed by the committee,
HENRY KROUSE,
S. P. T. WILBUR.

On motion of Freeholder Darby received and placed on file.

Report of Committee on Removal of Goodman's Crossing:

Gentlemen—Your committee, appointed to consider the practicability of moving the discarded iron bridge over Robinson Branch, at Goodman's Crossing, and placing the same over Pumpkin Patch Brook, on Bowne's Lane, would respectfully report that after taking the measurements of both bridges it finds that the alterations necessary to be made at the Pumpkin Patch Brook would necessitate an expense that would be unwarrantable at the present time, as the old bridge over said Pumpkin Patch Brook can be replaced by a more suitable bridge at a later date at less cost.

W. J. THOMPSON,
JOSEPH PERRY.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and placed on file.

Report of Committee on Bridges at Garwood:

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Garwood Bridges would report that it has examined the site and that it is of the opinion that several new bridges should be built.

The New York Suburban Land Company, which own the lands there has stated that it will be willing to pay to the County of Union the sum of $250 for each one of three bridges as the same are completed, providing all three bridges that have been asked for shall be built by July 1, 1911.

Your committee would therefore recommend that an agreement be entered into with the said company on the above named conditions, and that upon the execution of such an agreement, the county proceed to build at this time two of the bridges desired, namely, one on East street, and one on Willow avenue, the cost of the two bridges to be built now to be not more than $1,200 for each bridge.

E. K. ADAMS,
W. J. THOMPSON,
C. A. SMITH.

Freeholder Wilbur moved the report be received and the recommendation be adopted, which on roll call was so ordered by an unanimous vote.

Report on Colfax avenue bridge.

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Colfax Avenue Bridge, Roselle Park, respectfully reports that it received bids for the redecking of same on October 5, and has awarded the contract to T. Foster Callahan for the sum of three hundred and eighty-nine dollars and twenty-eight cents ($389.28), he being the lowest bidder.

Respectfully submitted,
AARON CRANE,
E. K. ADAMS,
J. H. DOANE.

On motion of Freeholder Smith received and placed on file.

Report on Grant avenue and Union road culvert.

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Grant Avenue and Union Road Culvert, Roselle Park, respectfully reports that it received bids for the construction of said culvert on September 6 and awarded the contract to Wilfred A. Cole for the sum of five hundred and seventy-five dollars ($575) he being the lowest bidder.

Respectfully submitted,
A. D. CRANE,
JOSEPH PERRY,
ELSTON DARBY.

On motion received and placed on file.

Report of Jail Committee:

Report of County Road Committee.

Gentlemen—Your Committee on County Roads would report that a meeting of the committee was held on Friday, September 22, 1910, at which meeting appeared a delegation from the First Street Merchants Association, by invitation of the committee.

The road to Carteret as proposed by the merchants' association, was discussed at length.

Maps were presented by the association, showing the route of the proposed roadway, beginning at First street and Elizabeth avenue, in the city of Elizabeth, and running thence southwesterly along South First street, and along Amboy avenue to Linden Township; thence by a new route through Linden Township to the old Tremley Point Hotel, at the bank of the Rahway River. At this place a new bridge would have to be constructed across the Rahway River, jointly by the counties of Union and Middlesex. The route runs thence through the Borough of Roosevelt to the town of Carteret, in Middlesex county.

Messrs J. A. Laurie, Walter McManus, John P. Weber, Charles D. Doctor, and Edward S. Hersh, members and officers of the association, spoke in favor of the construction of this roadway by the county of Union.

It was pointed out that at present the shortest wagonway to Carteret was by way of Rahway, a distance of about eleven miles. If the new roadway was constructed the distance from Elizabethport to Carteret would be about five miles, or less than one-half the present distance by road.

The members of the County Road Committee were very favorably impressed with the project, as presented by the First Street Association, it being considered that the roadway if built, would be of great benefit to the city of Elizabeth, the township of Linden and the county of Union.

It was stated by the speakers that the officials of the Borough of Roosevelt had been consulted as to the roadway several times, and had expressed themselves as strongly in favor of the work.

Your committee instructed County Engineer Bauer to consult with the officials of the borough of Roosevelt, and of the County of Middlesex, with a view to concerted action in planning the route of the roadway.

THOMAS HAVILAND,

On motion of Freeholder Jensen received and placed on file.

New Business.

Freeholder Gruener addressed the board, asking for information in regard to poor patients sent to hospitals, stating that a man from Rahway was refused attendance at one of the Elizabeth hospitals. Mr. Krouse moved that a committee of three be appointed to investigate the case. The Director appointed Freeholders Krouse, Gruener and Swain as said committee.

The Directors appointed Mr. Hall as a member of committees on Publication and Discharge of Prisoners.

By Mr. Jones:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed with power to meet with a committee from the Morris County Board of Freeholders for the purpose of considering the advisability of replanking the iron bride at Osborne place, in the Borough of New Providence.

Freeholder Gruener moved the adoption of the resolution, which on roll call was so ordered by an unanimous vote.

The Director appointed on said committee Freeholders Jones, Meisel and Swain.

By Freeholder Krouse:

Resolved, That when this board adjourns it adjourns to meet again on the eleventh day of October, 1910, at 3 P. M.

Freeholder Wilbur moved the adoption of the resolution, which was so ordered.

By Freeholder Crane:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to look into the advisability of roceevring the present bridge on Grant avenue, near Union road, Roselle Park, with steel beams and concrete top, and also lowering the present stone covering on culvert on Union road to conform with the street grade crossing and new macadam road now being put down by the Borough of Roselle Park, the committee to report to the board at its next meeting the probable cost of same.

Freeholder Krouse moved the adoption of the resolution, which was so ordered. The Director appointed as said committee Freeholders Crane, Darby and ePrry.

By Freeholder Perry:

Resolved, That the bill of A. W. Stiles for three hundred and fifty dollars ($350) for work on the Prospect street bridge, Westfield, be paid when properly audited by the committee, said payment being on account of work done to date in accordance with contract for the construction of said bridge.

Freeholder Smith moved the adoption of the resolution which on roll call was so ordered.

By Freeholder Smith:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine into the need for, and the probable cost of, two culverts, one on Myrtle avenue and one on Boynton avenue, Westfield, and report at the next meeting.

Freeholder Adams moved the adoption of the resolution, which was so ordered. The Director appointed as said committee Freeholders Smith, Thompson and Martin.

By Committee on County Roads:

Resolved, That the Committee on County Raods and County Engineer Bauer be empowered to make an examination of the new road building methods in progress in the State of New York, and other nearby States with a view to improving methods in this county in future.

Freeholder Wilbur moved the adoption of the resolution which on roll call was so ordered by an unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Adams:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine the culverts and pipes along Cranford avenue, Central avenue, Elizabeth avenue and Lincoln avenue, Cranford, the committee to report at the next meeting of this board as to the advisability, necessity and probable cost of such alterations to the said culverts and pipes, arising out of the present grading and macadamizing work going on over the said streets.

Freeholder Crane moved the adoption of the resolution, which was so ordered and the Director appointed as said committee Freeholders Adams, Haviland and Doane.

By Freeholder Wilbur:

Resolved, That the County Attorney be and hereby is authorized and instructed to take such proceedings as may be necessary to lay out, open and if necessary condemn lands of Foster heirs and others for the purpose of building and constructing the road known as the Shunpike road in the Township of Springfield, and city of Summit, proposed to be constructed under an act entitled "An act to provide for the permanent improvement of public roads in this State (revision of 1905) and the supplements and amendments thereto.

Freeholder Gruener moved the adoption of the resolution, which on roll call was so, ordered by an unanimous vote.

Individual Efficiency

is, in the long run, the test of a man's earning capacity—his wealth earning power. The man who renders himself free from the immediate bread and butter problem is free to perfect his individual efficiency.

Confidence makes success—fear destroys it.

The object of saving money is not merely that you may have it ready to spend at some future time—but to make you free to put forth your best efforts in your work—to eliminate fear and worry. A savings account helps to bring a man to this point—it makes a better workman—a better clerk—a better citizen.

TO SING MASTERPIECES

Miss Anna Case Will be Heard in Classical Numbers at Concert.

KARL KLEIN, THE VIOLINIST.

Selections From Verdi, Bellini and Massenet on the Program To Be Rendered Tonight.

The concert to be given at the Plainfield High School auditorium tonight by Miss Anna Case, assisted by Karl Klein, violinist, promises to be one of the social musical events of the season. Miss Case needs no introduction to a Plainfield audience having been well and favorably known as a soprano soloist in the First Presbyterian church. Lately Miss Case has been singing with the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York and has scored success after success in her parts. Mr. Klein is an unusually sympathetic player of the violin, and owing to his absolute purity of intonation, which in these days is seldom met with, his brilliant technique combined with beautiful and noble tone, great maturity of interpretation and other attributes, puts him in the front ranks of the younger generation of violinists who are at present appearing in public. Professor August Wilhelmj, has given his approbation of Mr. Klein in the above words and there is no more deeply sensible musician than Professor Wilhelmj.

Miss Case will be heard in some of the operagoers favorite airs including such composers as Verdi, Bellini and Massenet. Mr. Klein will play some difficult numbers. The program is as follows:

Part I.—Aria, Caro Nome, Rigoletto, Verdi, Anna Case; (a), Ich mochte schweben uber Thal and Hugel, Sjogren; (b), Silver Ring, C. Chaminade; (c), Ilv'e na a laddie but ane, Old Scotch, Anna Case; (a), Prize song from the eMistersinger, Wagner-Wilhelmj; Mazurka, Zarzycki, Karl Klein; (a), Caro mio ben, Giordani; (b), The Nightingale Has a Lyre of Gold, Whelply; (c), Aus meinen grossen Schmerzen, Franz; (d), Cradel Song, Tschaikowsky, Anna Case.

Part II.—Aria, Casta Diva, Norma, Bellini, Anna Case; (a), Nocturne, B. O. Klein; (b), Souvenir, Drdla; (c), Scherzo, Tarantelle, Karl Klein; (a), Vergebliches Standchen, Brahms; (b), Slumber Song, MacDowell, Anna Case; Aria Ah, fors e lui—La Traviata (by request), Verdi, Anna Case; Elegre, Massenet, Anna Case.

MUSICAL SERVICE AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The first musical service of the season will be given in the First Presbyterian church tomorrow evening, when the quartet choir, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist, will render a special program as follows:

Piano and organ, "Invocation," Ganne; anthem, "More Love to Thee," Harker; soprano and contralto duet, "Quis est Homo," from "Stabat Mater"; anthem, "Out of the Deep," Lansing; soprano solo, "Hither Shall I Fly," Gilchrist; anthem, "Abide with Me," Cruikshank; organ and piano, "Silhoutten," Elert.

The quartet is comprised of Miss Elizabeth P. DeCant, soprano; Miss Jessamine Burd, contralto; Aleck McGowan, tenor; Charles P. Titsworth, baritone. The quartet will be assisted by Mrs. Charles E. Herring at the piano.

Minister Inherits Fortune.

Rev. Albert E. Finn, former pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church who now has a charge at Rochester, Pa., has gone to England for a short trip. Mr. Finn's sudden determination to go abroad was brought about by the notification received three weeks ago that an uncle in the western section of the tight little isle had died and left him an estate of great value. It is to settle up this estate and receive his inheritance that has taken Mr. Finn abroad.

Guests of Jonas Lie.

The delegates of the twentieth annual convention of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, which will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, are anticiaptnig with much pleasure the afternoon of November 2, when they are to be the guests of Jonas Lie at his studio. Tea will be served and Mr. Lie has kindly consented to sing a number of Norwegian folk songs.

MASQUERADE PARTY GIVEN BY MRS. MAGUE

A masquerade Hallowe'en party was given to William McInnes at the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Mague, of 332 East Third street, last evening. The rooms were tastefully decorated with autumn leaves and pumpkins. The evening was spent playing games and enjoying a musical program. The prize for the most attractive costume was awarded to Miss Helen Thompson and for the different games by Miss Helen Thompson, Harold Miller and Arthur Compton.

Those present were the Misses Marion Thompson, Japanese; Edith Mundy, nurse; Maude Edele, fairy; Helen Thompson, goddess of liberty; Florence Waglow, fairy and Edna Mague, Arthur Compton, hobble gowns; Harold Miller, Alice in Wonderland; Joseph and James Anguerbaur, beggars; Leslie Compton, tramp; David McInnes, clown; Arthur Lenorie, ghost; William McInnes, clown; and from Elizabeth the host's sister, Mrs. Edward Smith, with her two-months' old son, Emil James, dressed as a little clown which afforded much amusement among the children. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

REVIVAL NEXT WEEK AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH

The revival services which have been held at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church the past week, will continue tomorrow and all of next week at Grace M. E. church, under the direction of Rev. M. V. Williams, of Athens, Pa. Tomorrow at 9:30 o'clock there will be an old-fashioned love feast and at 10:30 o'clock, Mr. Williams will preach on the subject, "The Unrest of God." At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon he will speak to the children of the Sunday school and at 4 o'clock will conduct a men's meeting at the church.

In the veening at 7 o'clock the three Epworth Leagues will unite in a service, led by Miss Nettie J. Beeching and at 7:45, Mr. Williams will conduct an evangelistic meeting, to which the public is invited. Services will be held at this church every night next week.

There will be another meeting this evening at the Monroe Avenue church, the congregation having voted to be present.

WOMAN MEETS DEATH AT FARM HOUSE FIRE

Miss Mary Goodsell, a middle-aged woman, who resided with her brother on what was known as the Carr farm on the canal road, South Bound Brook, was burned to death at her home about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternon, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Goodsell, was also burned severely about the hands and face, while all the hair was burned from her head.

The fatality was due to the upsetting of an oil stove in the farmhouse, where all the goods were stored and where the family was living temporarily while the residence was being extensively repaired. Miss Goodsell was engaged in working about the farmhouse, looking for some things, when she upset the oil stove. Her dress caught fire and in an instant her whole body was in a blaze. Mrs. Goodsell tried to save her sister-in-law and was severely burned.

The Bound Brook fire department was summoned, but arrived too late to render any assistance. It was largely through the efforts of Alexander and Bruce Morecraft, the carpenters employed on the place, that Mrs. Goodsell was saved from the fate of her sister-in-law. Miss Goodsell's body was entirely consumed, there being nothing left but her bones. The family has been living at South Bound Brook about a year.

"Tableaux Vivants" at P. H. S.

In the tableauv at the Plainfield High School auditorium on Thursday evening of next week, about twenty very attractive young women will appear in various costumes and pose under the direction of a remarkably competent and experienced person, and alternating with the tableaux will be songs by talented soloists from New York. The scenes will represent Shakespearean tragedy and comedy and early New Jersey history. Those who are fortunate to be present will find that their time and money have been well spent.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS WED

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pearson Celebrate Anniversary of Their Marriage.

GIFTS FOR THE COUPLE.

On Eve of Their Removal From City, They Entertain Many Friends at Prescott Place Residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pearson, of 223 Prescott place celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding at their home last night, entertaining a large number of friends from Firstcliffe, N. Y., Philadelphia and Plainfield. Thomas Douglas in the name of the guests presented Mr. and Mrs. Pearson with a silver fruit stand, berry bowl and shaving set.

Mr. Pearson made an appropriate response, thanking his friends for their kindness. The Plainfield Association Football Club, of which Mr. Pearson is one of the oldest members, was also present and showed its appreciation and regret upon his leaving Plainfield to take an important position in Philadelphia. The organization entertained Mr. Pearson at its clubrooms, where Mr. Douglas, after a few remarks presented Mr. and Mrs. Pearson with a beautiful tea set, as a token of esteem in which they are held by the members.

Mr. Pearson replied, thanking his fellow-members for the beautiful present, and wished the club every success. The members entertained the visitors for about an hour, after which they returned to the home of Mr. Pearson and enjoyed a fine supper. The evening was then spent in singing and playing, and the happy crowd dispersed about 2 o'clock this moring, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Pearson many happy returns of the day. They also received a number of gifts from relatives and friends.

BARN NARROWLY ESCAPES DESTRUCTION BY FIRE.

The barn belonging to F. H. Firstbrook and located in the rear of his grocery on Liberty street narrowly escaped destruction by fire Thursday night. When an employe entered the place this morning, he found that an incipient blaze had been smoldering for several hours, and had burned a hole in one side of the structure twice the size of a barrel-head. A piece of board had been burned loose, but with the same good luck it fell outside instead of inside, and on a lot of loose straw.

It is a mystery as to how the fire started and also puzzling why it did not spread to larger proportions.

FAREWELL OF STOCK CO.

Their Curtain to be Rung Down at Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

TO RESUME OLD POLICY.

Proctor and Sanderson Will Make Important Announcement Within a Few Days.

The last performances of the Plainfield stock company will take place this afternoon and night at The Plainfield theatre, the management having decided upon a change of policy. All those who have neglected th opportunity to see this very superior dramatic organization, should avail themselves at the matinee today or the final performance this evening, as it will be the last time the company will be seen in Plainfield.

The former policy of the theatre, that of playing the dramatic traveling productions will be resumed and an early announcement of the same will be made by the management.

Proctor & Sanderson opened the playhouse on Labor Day with a stock company, presenting "The Three of Us," and in succession such plays as "Are You a Mason?" "Prince Karl," "Girls," "The Lion and the Mouse," "The Great Divide," "When We Were Twenty-one," "Lost Twenty-four Hours," and other well known plays. The task imposed upon the company that of presenting plays every afternoon and evening and at the same time rehearsing a new play every morning has been a difficult one, in the policy of playing two bills a week. The members of the stock company have made many friends here with patrons of the house and they will regret the above announcement which was made today following a conference held last night.

The members of the stock company have made no announcement of their plans, but they will doubtless join other productions within a short time. They will leave Plainfield within the next few days.

Col. Rheinhardsen to Speak.

The local corps of the Salavtion Army has secured an important speaker for the services tomorrow. Colonel Rheinhardsen the National financial secretary of the Army in the United States, will have charge of all services. The colonel is one of the old-time staff officers, having united with the army in its early days in this country, and has held many important appointments. He is an able speaker and well worth hearing. The service this evening will be conducted by a New York special and will be termed a "Come and see' meeting. A cordial invitation to all services.

Register on Tuesday!

Do not forget to see that your name is on the registry list. Next Tuesday will be your last chance to do so. If you are not registered you cannot vote. If you do not vote you are not a good citizen.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD LOSES HIGHLY VALUED CITIZEN

Since the announcement that Peter J. McDonough, of South Plainfield, with his family intended to move to Plainfield the residents of that village have expressed themselves as having experienced a distinct loss which they believe they cannot replace. Mr. McDonough was practically the first citizen of the village. Prominent in all the activities of the place, always alive to its necessities and progressive to the last word, he is said to have done more to upbuild the village than any other individual.

Mr. McDonough has built a number or houses, opened streets and changed the waste places to habitable neighborhoods. He was always to the fore in matters of public improvements and was liberal in his contributions to the Catholic church. His time and money were always freely given for public improvements.

The vested interests of Mr. McDonough will remain unchanged, but his genial and happy personality as well as those of his family will be missed from the community. But then Plainfield will be so much the gainer.

JUDGE HOUSTON TALKS HERE ON MONDAY NIGHT

Judge Henry Houston, of Sussex county, will tell the voters why they should elect Vivian M. Lewis governor at the Republican mass meeting to be held at Reform Hall on Monday night. The judge is a brilliant speaker and possesses an exceptional knowledge of the State's affairs.

Another speaker will be former Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, formerly of Union and now of Hudson county. He promises to give some "inside" facts as to the Democratic regime, particularly when the Democrats were last in control of the House. It was then that the Legislature uproariously adjourned, leaving a batch of important unfinished business and State Chairman "Jim" Nugent was the man who used the whip to force an adjournment.

The chairman for the meeting will be announced on Monday and at that time also the list of vice-presidents will be given out. All the local candidates will be present.

YOUTHFUL VANDALS TO PAY FOR DAMAGE

Five small boys, ranging in ages from ten to fourteen years, were arraigned in the borough court this morning, charged with breaking into the house on Duer street recently vacated by P. K. Dilts and damaging the property and contents to the extent of $30. The defendants admitted ruining the wall paper in two rooms so that it will have to be replaced and destroying several articles left behind by Mr. Dilts to be removed later. Among them were a magic lantern and a post card album filled with rare views the property of his daughter. Recorded Dolliver directed the boys to pay for the damage and report to him in two weeks for final disposition of the case.

The culprits and their ages are Morris LaVere, 13; Francis Barry, 13; Wilbur Warneck, 14; Lester Johns, 13, and John Calder, 12.

P. H. S. SENIORS HOLD HALLOWE'EN MASQUERADE.

The senior class of the Plainfield High School enjoyed a Hallowe'en masquerade party at the High School last evening, at which there were about 75 present. The gymnasium of the school was handsomely decorated for the affair, autumn leaves, boughs, corn stalks and weeping willows predominating in the foliage.

Dancing occupied the earlier part of the evening. Preceding the dance a grand march was executed in the auditorium of the school at which some pretty figures were evolved by the fancy dressed young people. An opportunity was given before unmasking for a vote to be taken for the best costumed couple as well as to the best individual costume. The winners in these contests were presented with blue ribbons. The costumes represented Toreadors, farmers, sailors, military cadets, navy officials, soldiers, dudes and other characters, all of which were interesting as well as funny.

Following the games refreshments were served in the gymnasium.

ACCUSED AS EMBEZZLER

Harry Wolte, Jr. Arrested for Alleged Appropriation of Tea Co's Money.

HEARING THIS AFTERNOON.

It is Said that He was Living Beyond His Means—The Prisoner Makes Statement—Claimed He Took $140.29.

Harry Wolf, Jr., clerk in the Van Dyke Tea Company's store on West Front street, was arrested last night on complaint of S. E. Wortman, general manager of the concern, on a charge of embezzling $140.29. He will be given a hearing by Mayor Fisk this afternoon at 4 o'clock. William G. DeMeza has been retained to advise Wolf.

It is said that Wolf's salary was not equal to the demands made upon it and that in order to keep up with the social set in which he moved he appropriated money from the firm until he was in too deep to be able to extricat himself. The sudden examination of his accounts yesterday revealed the alleged shortage and his arrest followed.

No time or chance was given him to make restitution, Wolf says, and the fact that he could have made good the amount in a couple of days failed to make any impression upon his employers.

ALLEGE TROLLEY CO. VIOLATES ORDINANCES

For some time past the police department has been keeping tabs on the main line trolley cars passing through the city at night. Many complaints have been made of the use of search lights on the cars within the proscribed limits and a formidable list of the cars which have infracted the ordinance has been secured.

Several people were plunged into the mud at a crosswalk on Richmond street on Thursday evening owing to the blinding glare cast by one of these headlights. On that car the light was not extinguished until the car had reached the corner of East Third street and Richmond.

MISS PEDDLE HEARD IN CLASSICAL NUMBERS

Miss Mary Peddle, the well known contralto soloist, gave a charming concert at the Hartridge School auditorium, last night, assisted by Miss Carolyn Beebe, pianist, and Edouard Dethier, violinist with Joseph McIntyre as the accompanist for Miss Peddle. The program, a delightful one, was enjoyed by an appreciative audience. Miss Peddle is well-known in England, and this is the first time that she has sung in America. She has an unusual contralto voice of wide range, and she charmed all by her singing.

The selections by Miss Peddle include compositions by Schubert, Brahms, Schumann, Grieg, and a feature of her work was the singing of several ballads which she collected at Somersetshire, England, and which were sung here for the first time.

The violin selections by Mr. Dethier and the piano numbers by Miss Beebe were equally delightful a enjoyed by the audience. An especially interesting number was a sonata by Grieg, which was heartily applauded by the audience. The work of Mr. McIntyre as accompanist added greatly to the enjoyment of the recital.

Miss Elizabeth Jeannette Mathews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Mathews, was married Thursday at the home of her parents on West Cliff street, to Ethan Wood Judd, of Olean, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Sidney E. Sweet, of Jersey City, assisted by Rev. M. R. Church, of this place. The bridal party consisted of three bridesmaids, Misses Anna Van Fleet, of this place; Nan Giles, of Nyack, N. Y., and Pelle Shafer, of Newark. The maid of honor was Miss Juanita Day, of St. Paul, Minn. The best man was Douglass Swift, of New York city. After a wedding trip through Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. Judd will sail for Porto Rico, where the bridegroom is engaged in business.

Mr. and Mrs. David John Scott have returned from their wedding trip and are making their home with their mother, Mrs. George Anderson, on Hillcrest avenue.

Charles W. Moore, of West End avenue, left Thursday for New Orleans and other points in the South. Mr. Moore expects to be absent about two weeks.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The increase in Dunellen's population of about 700 in the last ten years, as announced in yesterday's Daily Press, is very gratifying to the borough residents. It verifies the predictions that the place is gaining steadily and daily becoming more popular as a residential town. It is asserted that when the State census is taken in 1915 Dunellen will have a population of at least 2,500.

The general committee of the Dunellen Baseball club fair will hold a meeting tonight to complete all arrangements. It will be held in Junior Hall next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, and dancing will be a feature each evening. There are to be several novelties in the general attractions.

The Summit Y. M. C. A. sent word to the borough yesterday, cancelling its game with the Dunellen Football club for this afternoon. The local management immediately made arrangements for a game with the Junior eleven of Caldwell.

Mrs. H. C. Apgar, of Philadelphia, left for home yesterday, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Apgar, of Front street. She was accompanied by Russell Runyon, who will remain at her home until Monday.

The Holy Name Society of St. John's church will attend holy communion in a body tomorrow.

A fine new cross-walk is being laid at the northern side of North and Washington avenues.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Reports from Wilson Day, the Oak Tree ticket agent who mysteriously disappeared some weeks ago, say in a letter to a friend that he has bought a farm at Lambertville and is living with his wife and is employed on the Pennsylvania railroad. Why he left so suddenly has never been explained.

The Hallowe'en party, given by the Baracca class in the church parlors last night, was a great success and enjoyed by a large number, who decided that the coffee and crullers and pumpkin, all for ten cents, was the best value they had ever received for so small a sum.

The many friends of A. C. T. Atlee were grieved to hear of his sudden illness of hemorrhage of the nose, and hope he will soon recover sufficiently to leave the hospital, where he was taken for an operation.

Mrs. Armstrong, of Avon, is enjoying her visit here among her many friends. After a month's stay she will leave for Philadelphia, where she expects to spend the winter.

John Linaberry, wife and baby are stopping for the present at Thornton's Hotel on Front street.

Peter VanFleet, of this city, has been visiting his brother, Adrian VanFleet, of Centreville.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bermisky, of Philadelphia, have returned home after a visit with friends here.

The Misses Anna D. Cunningham, Ethel M. Chamberlain and Agnes H. McWilliams, of Raritan, have been visiting Miss May G. Hickey, of Mt. St. Mary College.

Mrs. Pitt, wife of George W. Pitt treasurer of the Plainfield theatre, will arrive here today from Cumberland, Md., where she has been staying for several weeks.

F. T. Dickerson, of East Second street, accompanied by Charles Moore, of Somerville, has gone to New Orleans on a pleasure trip. They will be gone several weeks.

HERE AND THERE.

Mrs. Estelle Shaw, of Brooklyn, daughter of the late John Roselle, a prominent resident of this city many years ago, and who will be remembered by many Plainfielders, has written a letter to a friend here telling of a recent visit to this city. This was her second visit in fourteen years and in her letter she says that she thinks Plainfield is the finest and cleanest city she has had the pleasure of visiting. "We think we go ahead," continues Mrs. Shaw, "but we do not compare with Plainfield. I live in Dyker Heights, a suburb of Brookyn, and it is a growing and thriving little place. But Plainfield can give the New York people points on forging ahead—and its dwellings and stores are so fine. I am proud I was born in Plainfield and hope I will some day be a resident again. I left there when a little child and its growth and changes are wonderful. I had my daughter with me and she unites with me in calling it an ideal city. I called at the fire department and saw my father's picture. I have great reverence for his memory, although a very little girl when he died, March 1, 1874."

BABY FELL IN WATER TUB AND WAS DROWNED.

With her grandfather standing so close to her that he could have put out his hand and touched her, Clara Clark, twenty-month-old daughter of Charles Clark, of Mountainside, was drowned in a butter tub half filled with rain water Thursday. The grandfather of the child, Charles H. Roff, who is the mail-carrier at Mountainside and Westfield, was standing at the door of the house mending his bicycle, while the little girl was playing near him. A step away at the corner of the house stood the butter tub partly filled with rain water.

Finishing the repairs to his bicycle the grandfather looked around, and not seeing the child, supposed that she had gone into the house. Shortly after the child was missed by its mother, who went to a neighbor's thinking the little one had wandered there, as she frequently did.

When the child was not found a search was started in the wodos near the house. Returning from a fruitless search there one of the neighbors discovered the child's head down in the half-filled butter tub at the corner of the house. As the baby toppled over into the tub, it is thought, it must have been stunned.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Senator Smith's Power.

The interest of James Smith, Jr., in the campaign needs little comment. For years he has been the representative of Wall Street in the managment and control of the Democratic party in this State. That he is still the dominating power in that party was demonstrated in his manipulation of the State convention for Wilson in the face of the popular demand for the nomination of one of the young Democrats who had been fighting their party's battles for years. Silzer, Wittpenn and Katzenbach were given no consideration by the Smith forces and the Harrigan delegates were not even permitted to cast their votes. Richard V. Lindabury, who presided at the Wilson mass meeting in Somerville, boasted of the fact that he was one of the men who negotiated the nomination of Wilson long before the professor was ever thought of by the Democrats of his own State. Mr. Lindabury, as a lawyer, represents large corporation interests in this State. He has appeared as counsel for the beef trust, etc. In this statement at Somerville, Mr. Lindabury described the men who induced Dr. Wilson to run as "gentlemen Democrats." Everybody knows that no man could get the Democratic nomination for Governor of New Jersey unless James Smith, Jr., gave his consent to the selection. Thus we have three of the "gentlemen Democrats" whose arguments prevailed upon Dr. Wilson. That Col. Harvey was one, Dr. Wilson admitted himself when he told his artist friends at Lyme, Conn., that Harvey was the man who telephoned to him that the "gentlemen Democrats" were waiting for the professor in a downtown club in New York that Sunday afternoon when the deal was practically consummated. That Harvey and Smith were the leading forces in the convention that nominated Dr. Wilson was made known to the public by the newspapers.—Elizabeth Journal.

HAPPY RESULTS.

Have Made Many Plainfield Residents Enthusiastic.

No wonder scores of Plainfield citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Plainfield by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. J. C. Manchester, 120 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder trouble for a long time. I doctored a great deal but failed to find a cure until I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and made up my mind to giv them a trial. Good results followed their use and my kidneys were soon restored to a normal condition. I believe my cure is a permanent one and I will always give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement when an opportunity occurs."

STATE FIREMEN TO HOLD CONVENTION

The annual State convention of the Firemen's Mutual Benefit Association will be held Monday in St. Michael's Parish Hall, Elizabeth. This meeting promises to be the largest the organization ever held. Preceding the convention there will be a parade of all the visiting associations.

The representatives from Jersey City will bring a delegation of over a hundred, accompanied by a band. The other associations will also be largely represented. Delegates and members of the State Association will come from Newark, Jersey City, Bayonne, Orange, East Orange, Montclair, Trenton, Camden, Atlantic City, Plainfield, Paterson, Hoboken, Passaic and Elizabeth.

Upon the arrival of the visitors they will proceed at once to the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Hall, in East Grand street, where the parade will form. As yet the line of march has not been dfinitely decided. However, all the engine houses in the city will be passed. The local association requests the people of the city, and especially those along the line of march to decorate their homes and places of business.

The first session of the convention will begin promptly at 11 a. m. As very important business is to be discussed, it is imperative that all the delegates be present. Following the convention a banquet will be served in the evening.

The committee of arrangements is: James O'Rourke, chairman; Frank Johnson, Fred Bowerman, Harry Pester, George Huff, Bart Kirk and August Schulties.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

William Dougherty of Paulsboro, has a peach tree in full bloom.

So far, $870 has been received for the Moorestown Y. M. C. A. building fund.

The corner-stone of the new Episcopal church at Paulsboro will be laid Monday afternoon by Bishop Scarborough.

Wilson B. Kellingbeck, the Socialist candidate for Governor, will address a mass meeting in Millville on Tuesday evening

Morrison N. Stiles, of Moorestown, has been elected vice-president of the class of 1911 of the University of Pennsylvania.

Samuel K. Robbins was the first Moorestown man to take out a gunning license this season. About fifty have been issued so far.

Since the revocation of the license the hotel at Glassboro has been closed, and it is impossible for the traveling public to find accommodations.

Edward Burt, who was charged with firing houses at the flood gates, near Repaupo, was acquitted in the Gloucester county courts Thursday.

The Williamstown schools, which were closed on Tuesday morning owing to diphtheria, were reopened on Thursday, after a thorough fumigation of all the rooms.

By the will of the late George Recklecomb, the Glassboro Methodist church will get the balance of the estate after all claims are paid, amounting to about $300.

At the meeting of the Salem Common Council, Wednesday evening, Prosecutor Sinnickson presented a petition, signed by 271 residents of the city, praying for the passage of a curfew ordinance.

Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey members of the Knights Templar gathered at Atlantic City Wednesday night to attend the banquet of the local commandery. The presentation of a handsome silver libation service, a trophy captured by the Atlantic City Knights in a competitive drill at Trenton, last May, featured the occasion.

Constant Dordoni, a Paterson silk dyer, who was committed to jail Wednesday on a bench warrant, issued by Judge Scott, was arraigned Thursday. He denied having written any libelous letters about officers of the German-American Building and Loan Association to the department of banking and insurance at Trenton, for which he was arrested on the bench warrant. Dordoni is now under conviction on former charges of libel. He was paroled in the custody of his counsel, Wood McKee.

Burning Leaves Set House Afire.

A small house, belonging to P. H. Chevantner, on North avenue, Westfield, was totally destroyed by fire Thursday. There was no one in the house at the time, and it is supposed that the house caught fire from burning leaves, set on fire by a spark from an engine. The house was only a few feet from the railroad. The house of Thomas Hyslip, adjoining the Chevantner house, was slightly damaged. The loss on the Chevantner house is about $500. There was no insurance on the property.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will celebrate its twentieth anniversary tomorrow night with special exercises and an address by the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek.

BASEBALL.

"I shall fight to the last ditch to carry out the deal between the Cincinnati and Philadelphia National League baseball clubs. The very principles of organized baseball are at stake in this affair, and if President Fogel, of the Philadelphia club, can call off a trade after it has been signed up and witnessed, then the foundation upon which organized baseball stands is taken away."

This was the statement made by President August Herrmann, of the Cincinnati club, when shown a telefram from Manager Charles S. Dooin, of Philadelphia, which read:

"Fogel blocked deal and called it off."

President Herrmann and Manager Griffith, of Cincinnati, have for five days regarded the deal as consummated, for it was on October 21 that the papers agreeing to the trade were signed in Chicago by Managers Griffith and Dooin, says President Herrmann. The story of the trade is told by President Herrmann in this fashion:

"This deal has been pending for several months. Numerous letters have been exchanged between our club and the Philadelphia club, and President Fogel was thoroughly posted, for he engaged in the correspondence and I have letters from him. Dooin assured us that he had authority to act and last Friday noon the whole matter was consummated by the signing of the agreement by Managers Griffith and Dooin. I was the witness.

"I have notified the players involved on our side that they are members of the Philadelphia Baseball club, and I have also notified President Lynch, of the National League, concerning the trade.

"I do not see how Fogel has any chance to back out now. I shall fight to a finish to enforce the terms we have agreed upon. I do not know whether it will be necessary to go before the National Commission, but whatever is necessary, you may know it will be done."

Clark Griffith, manager of the Cincinnati National League Club, declares that the Philadelphia-Coincinnati deal in players is as good as settled.

"The deal has been made and this talk about President Fogel is nonsense," said Griffith. "He can't back out. Mr. Dooin and I have made the trade, it's in writing, and it suits both of us."

"But aren't you getting about 100 per cent. the better of the deal?" a listener suggested.

"Not at all. I'm getting some good men, but so is Dooin. Patrons of the game want to see changes in the teams of both cities. New men is their cry. It will help both teams."

HOPE CHAPEL FAIR WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

The Hope chapel industrial fair came to a close last night after three nights of successful operation, the proceeds having exceeded greatly the most sanguine expectations of the committee of the chapel who arranged for the event. Donald MacInnes to whose efforts the affair was due, says that upward of $400 dollars will be the net result of the fair.

The attendance last evening was much larger than on any of the previous evenings and the patrons were more liberal in their purchases of the various wares exposed for sale. At 10 o'clock Robert Murray, the auctioneer, began the sale of articles which had remained on the tables, the major portion of which were satisfactorily disposed of.

It was an evening of presentations. First, Mrs. L. R. Howard, wife of the former pastor, received two beautiful pictures by Charles Vincent which were present to her in behalf of the members of the chapel, a rare picture frame of ed the gift in a short speech of appreciation. Mrs. Howard also received a quilt made by the women of the chapel which was presented by Mrs. Donald McInnes.

James Penney, president of the Men's Club, presented to G. Herbert Condict, superintendent of the chapel, a rare picture frame made of art blacksmith work which is the handiwork of James Cran, master blacksmith in the Pond Machine Tool Works. This picture frame was Mr. Cran's contribution to the fair. Mr. Condict is justly proud of the gift. Benjamin Evans was the recipient of a handsomely bound volume of the Bible. The Runyon class program last night included songs by William Anderson, piano selections by Miss Josephine Snyder; violin solos by Willard Coombs and humorous recitations by Harry Kartscher. Mr. McInnes and his associates were heartily congratulated upon the success of the affair.

ANOTHER BIG BUILDING FOR WEST FRONT ST.

Morris Abrams, the West Front street shoe dealer, took title Thursday to the building he occupies and will prepare plans at once to replace the present frame structure with one of the finest business buildings in the city. The property was secured from the Walter Angland estate through its executor, Robert Gray, and Walter England, of Brooklyn. It has been leased by Mr. Abrams for the past twenty years and he made several previous attempts to secure it without success. It is in the centre of the business district and has frequently been sought after by investors.

The building Mr. Abrams proposes to erect is to be thirty-two feet wide and 120 feet long. It will be three stories in height, the materials being fire-proof in every respect. Mr. Abrams will reserve the first floor for himself and the second is to be arranged for business purposes having regulation show windows. The third floor has been arranged as a lodge and meeting room and will be equipped to suit the needs of any organization making application for it. In this way it can secure a home after its own designs.

The work of construction will go on without interfering with Mr. Abrams' business as the walls will be built around the present store. He will make as much room as possible, however, and for that reason will begin a clearance sale at once. It will also be in the nature of a twentieth anniversary sale and will be sure to attract attention.

Miss Anna Doyle Entertains.

Miss Anna Doyle, of East Fifth street, entertained about thirty friends at a Hallowe'en party, last evening. All the games were appropriate to the occasion, prizes being awarded to Earl Moran and Miss Helen Lynch. Supper was served afterward and this was followed by dancing. During the evening Miss Eleanor Vollmer gave vocal selections.

The Inexhaustible Charms of Music

The Hallet & Davis Player-Piano

The greatest pleasure derived from music is playing it yourself. Not studying—putting in long, weary hours of technique, to master certain passages—but sitting down to a good player piano and playing your favorites one after the other—learning (without drudgery) the world's music—venturing in fields of music generally unknown, Macdowell, for example.

Many people have been led to believe that the cost of a satisfactory player-piano is beyond their means. Yet consider the prices quoted below, and you will readily see that there is no reason why you should not have one. Easy terms may be arranged, and we will make a right allowance for uprights taken in exchange.

$750-$800 buys the newest improved, patented, 88-note Hallet & Davis player, no amount of money will secure a better instrument.

$625 Probably no other player as good as the Conway can be bought within $100 of this price. Investigate this.

$495 At this price we have a very good player. Far better than one would think possible at so low a figure. Reliable make.

AMATEURS IN A COMEDY

One-Act Play "Browne With an E" Seen at Park Club Reception.

The annual reception at the Park Club, last night, marking the resumption of social activities for the season, was the most successful in the history of the club. There was a large attendance of members and friends, the clubhouse being thronged throughout the evening. The club house was artistically decorated with autumn boughs and leaves, willow streamers and potted flowers, while the stage was specially decorated for the one-act play, "Browne with an E," which was the feature of the evening.

The patronesses for the reception comprised Mrs. Stuart H. Patterson, Mrs. A. W. Kleinecke, Mrs. William Barlow, Jr., Mrs. H. C. Krebs Mrs. Wayland E. Benjamin, Mrs. Alson M. Abbott, Mrs. Hugh F. Fox and Mrs. Donald A. McGee.

The one-act farce comedy, "Browne with an E," was given by the dramatic committee of the entertainment committee of the club, under the direction of John P. Myers, the coach who also staged the play. It was given in an admirable manner and each member of the cast won merited applause. The cast:

"Graf Von Donerwetter-Ueberunterhinterberg," H. L. McGee; "Mr. Robert Brown," John Percy Watson; "Mrs. Gushington Nervsby," Miss Elizabeth McGee; "M. Vinfran Parjour," W. D. Flanders; "Mrs. Robert Browne," Miss Gladys Peck; "Miss Excelsiora O. Peak," Miss Frances L. VanDeventer.

The scene of the play was laid in an Alpine village in Switzerland, where a widow lady is chaperoning a ward from America. The part of the widow was taken by Miss Elizabeth McGee, and that of the ward by Miss VanDeventer. While at a hotel Mrs. Nervsby receives word that her daughter has suddenly been married and accompanied by her husband is on her way. Her husband is "Robert Brwone," the man with an "E," and the bridal couple are expected any minute.

Presently the horn of the coach is heard and two persons arrive, a young Englishman, "Robert Brown," accompanied by a German count, the parts being taken by John Percy Watson and H. L. McGee. The former is mistaken by Mrs. Nervsy and her ward for the bridegroom and both speak to him as such. Complications arise. Mr. Brown is dumfounded at the two women and they are reserved and perplexed over his actions. The matter is finally explained and all ends well.

The characters were all spendidly taken and the audience was kept in a continual uproar of laughter by the amusing situations. After the play dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by Muller's orchestra of Brooklyn.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Perrine, of Martinsville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lizzie Perrine, to William Zimmerman, also of Martinsville. Mr. Zimmerman is bookkeeper for the J. D. Lojzeaux Lumber Co., and Miss Perrine is a former local resident.

THREE CIVIC BODIES TO CONSIDER MERGER

William Jeffery, as president of the Board of Trade, and the executive committee, comprising Herman Schwed, J. Fred MacDonald, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, F. A. Duttenhofer and George M. Christian, have issued a circular letter to the members of the board, calling a meeting to be held at the Plainfield Business College, on East Front street Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the advisability of forming a Chamber of Commerce to include all the civic bodies of the city.

The joint committees from the Board of Trade, Merchants' Association and other civic bodies will meet Monday afternoon and consider this matter. The circular letter states that "the present sentiment is wholly and seems to be unanimously in favor of the Chamber of Commerce, the proper organization of which must result in direct and concentrated civic effort and promotion of the welfare of all the interests of the city and borough.

Y. W. C. A. HAS A HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

Members of the Y. W. C. A. enjoyed an informal but delightful Hallowe'en social in the association rooms last night. Forty young women were in attendance and had quantities of fun ducking for apples, cutting the magic cake and similar diversions. Hallowe'en refreshments were served in conclusion.

The reception hall and assembly room where the party was held was prettily decorated with white chrysanthemums and autumn foliage. A weird effect was produced by dimming the electric bulbs with orange and black crepe paper and exposing grinning Jack-o'-lanterns in dark corners.

Return from Delightful Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick and daughter, Miss Edith Mellick, of East Seventh street, returned home yesterday from an 8,500-mile trip through lower Colorado and the Rocky Mountains. They were gone about four weeks. The trip also included California, where Mr. Mellick attended the bankers' convention held at Los Angeles. The Plainfielders traveled on what was known as the "Bankers' Special."

K. G. E. Fair Closes Tonight.

The fair of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, which has been running in Company K armory all week, will draw to a close tonight. The committee assures everyone an enjoyable evening and an opportunity to secure bargains by being present at the finish. Dancing will be continued until midnight.

Snow.

Malone, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Northern New York and the Adirondacks were covered with six inches of snow this morning. The hunters are jubilant and happy.

Rev. C. S. Kemble, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, will preach tomorrow morning on the topic, "Being a Christian," and in the evening the congregation will combine in the evangelistic service at Grace M. E. church.

"Mrs. Gabber fell downstairs and hit her tongle in two."

"I feel sorry for her husband. She was a terror when she had only one tongue."

N. Y AMUSEMENTS.

The suggestion by one or two critics that conservative theatregoers might find something to catch their highly-mora' eye in "The Little Damozel," at the Nazimova, because of the comedy, has aroused Leslie's Weekly to this protest: "This is deliciously funny when we consider that New York audiences have not only survived a vast army of Salomes, but that they have also made prosperous the managers who produced 'The Easiest Way,' 'The Lily,' and other plays too numerous to mention, each of which discussed certain phases of life with a frankness which, in comparison, renders 'The Little Damozel' a Sunday-school story."

A significant feature of the overwhelming success in New York of the new musical production "Madame Sherry," at the New Amsterdam theatre, is the lavish praise the production elicited from the town's theatrical reviewers, excerpts from which follow: Herald—"Welcomed with laughter and applause. It rivals 'The Merry Widow,' and is one of the best musical shows seen in New York in oh! ever so long!" World—"Easily the brightest and most diverting musical production New York has seen in many a day, or is likely to see in as many more. At last a musical show that's novel." American—"A new 'Merry Widow.'" Sun—"Audience applauded every musical number and laughed at everything the comedians plainly labeled as a merry jest." Tribune—"All the restaurants will be playing the score in a week."

Thus far the season at the New York theatres has been marked by three distinct successes. Of these three, one of them, and possibly the greatest, is that of Marie Cahill, generally acclaimed as the funniest woman on the stage, in her new musical comedy, "Judy Forgot." The book and lyrics were written by Avery Hopwood, author of "Seven Days," the greatest comedy success of the last decade, and the music by Silvio Hein, composer of all but one of Miss Cahill's several great hits. The big Broadway Theatre is filled every evening with a laughing throng. Marie Cahill, always refined and even delicate, never loud in either voice, manner or dress, keeps her audiences in a continuous flow of good humor. Her company is very large. She has sixty real beauties in the most talented singing and dancing chorus that has been seen and heard in New York. The critics have all remarked the extreme elegance of the production in all its aspects, tone of entertainment, costumes, scenery and mountings. Matinees Saturday only.

TALK OF PAROLE FOR MORSE.

Under New Law He Could Be Liberated in 1915.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Friends of Charles W. Morse believe they have found a way for President Taft to let the convicted New York banker out of the Atlanta penitentiary, without actually pardoning him. In effect, it would be to parole Morse, but that end would be accomplished by issuing a "conditional pardon."

While the plans of Morse's friends are not known at the Department of Justice, it was said that there is nothing to prevent the President from issuing a "conditional pardon," and that in such an event the federal Board of Pardons would be charged with the responsibility of looking after Morse.

Any proposition to parole Morse under the terms of the law passed at the last session of Congress, as has been suggested, is out of the question, say the attorneys. The law says a federal prisoner may be paroled after having served one-third of his sentence. Morse was sentenced to fifteen years, and would not be eligible for pardon under that statute, therefore, until January, 1915.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

Loveland said he was sorry to hear Miss Dearmer had not slept. "Uncle Wally told me," he added, "that you'd been writing late last night."

"Not exactly writing," explained Lesley, finishing the chiffon bow under her chin with dainty elaboration. "I was looking over an act of a new play which Sidney has begun. Perhaps that excited me. And then I was waked at 7 by a telegram and could not sleep again."

Something in her eyes, gleaming like fairy jewels under an enchanted lake as they shone through the filmy veil, made Val miserably sure that Cremer had sent the telegram.

But he was becoming outwardly quite a well trained servant, and only under the greatest provocation could he be goaded into asking impertinent questions.

"You've heard nothing from your people yet?" asked Lesley after a few minutes' silence while they flew along a road smooth as if it had been made for generations.

"Not yet," replied Val. "But I dare say something will be forwarded from Bonnerstown theater in a day or two. I told you I'd written to the manager there, giving this address, for Bill would have sent on to Bonnerstown anything that came for me to his care in New York."

"Yes, you told me," said Lesley. "But I was wondering if you'd had good news, because"—

"Because of something in your telegram?" Loveland could not resist breaking into the slight pause she made.

"Yes, indirectly. Dear me, Mr. Gordon, don't you think you went round that corner too fast?"

"Did I?" asked Loveland. "I'm sorry. I didn't notice."

"What an alarming confession from one's chauffeur! Oh, and that chicken—you nearly ran over it! I believe your nerves must be a little 'jumpy' too. I think I could drive almost as well as that myself."

"I deserve to be scolded," said Loveland. "I'm afraid I was absentminded for an instant, though the chicken didn't seem worried about itself."

"Kentucky chickens never are. They're so high spirited. Take care of that baby pig, Mr. Gordon! I think I will drive for awhile after all, if you don't mind."

"Delighted," said Loveland in a mood to rejoice if the girl upset the car and killed them both, because it would be so much more agreeable to go out of the world with her than to remain in it while she became lost to him as Mrs. Cremer.

She began cautiously, but in a few moments put the forty horsepower Gloria on fourth speed, throttling her down to a pace within reason.

"There! Aren't you proud of your pupil?" the girl asked gayly.

"Very proud," answered Loveland.

"And do you think I should be able to get on without much more teaching from a real expert?"

"Oh, yes. With a decent sort of chauffeur to do your repairs you can drive the car through country like this without danger."—

"Unless I get absentminded."

"Yes, unless you get absentminded. But why should you be absentminded when so soon you'll have the person you care for most sitting beside you where I sit now? Oh, I ought to beg your pardon for saying such things, Miss Dearmer! But, you see, you and I were once friends, not employer and servant, so I forget myself sometimes. And, besides, I can't help thinking this morning that you're leading up to saying something which perhaps you find it a little difficult to say. Yet why should it be difficult for you to tell me if you've heard that Mr. Cremer is coming at once and bringing another chauffeur."

"My telegram didn't say that, but it made me feel that I shan't be able to keep you very long at the Hill Farm," said Lesley.

Gone was the elaborate scheme for staying on at any cost. She wanted him to go. She was hinting for him to go.

"I can leave whenever you like to get rid of me," returned Val, his tone roughened, made almost brutal, by his effort to hide the sharp pain he suffered.

"Oh, don't think I feel like that!" exclaimed Lesley eagerly—so eagerly that in her excitement she did the very thing she had reproached Loveland for doing. She forgot that a person controlling a powerful motorcar is ill advised to be in earnest about anything except the business in hand.

They were approaching a somewhat abrupt turn in the road at the bottom. Lesley chose to assume Loveland knew she didn't mean to hurt his feelings. Being genuinely sorry for the effect her words produced, she did not realize until too late that the corner was. expect her to slow down before taking it. She tried to make [illegible] mistake [illegible]

CHAPTER XXVII.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE MOON.

THE next thing that Loveland knew he was sitting in a bog, which felt quite soft and comfortable—so comfortable that he at first believed himself to be in bed, waking out of a bad dream. Then with a flash he remembered all that had happened and scrambled up in a cold sweat of fear for Lesley.

A cataract of sparks which showered before his eyes dimmed his sight at first, but in a moment he saw a slight gray clad figure lying on the ground not far away.

"Lesley!" he cried. "Lesley!"

But she neither stirred nor answered.

Down he dropped on both knees beside her and raised her upon his arm. Her eyes were closed, and through the chiffon veil he could see the long lashes dark on the pallor of her cheeks.

The ground where she lay was spongy after a day of heavy rain, which had soaked through the thick carpet of dead grass deeply into the earth. The girl's position was easy, giving Loveland the hope that no bones were broken, and there was no stain of blood on the white face or the soft brown hair. But she lay very still. There was no flutter of the eyelashes, no faint gasping for breath.

Sick with fear that she might be dead, Loveland's memory refused the barrier between them. He was conscious only of his love for her.

"Dearest—precious one—darling!" he called her. "For God's sake, wake up! Speak to me—only speak to me! I love you so!"

Instantly she opened her eyes wide, shivering a little in his arms, and looked up at him, half dazedly at first, then smiling as a woman might who has dreamed of a distant lover and wakes to find him near.

"Thank God you're not dead!" he stammered.

"And that you're not!" she answered faintly. "You—you're not much hurt?"

"Not at all, and if I were it wouldn't matter," Loveland assured her fervently. "If only I hadn't let you drive or if I hadn't talked to you! It's all my fault. What shall I do if you're injured?"

"I—I'm all right and—and rather happy," whispered Lesley. "I don't think anything's the matter at all, except a little shock."

"Let me lift you up for a minute, so that we can make sure whether you are hurt," said Val. "I'll do it so gently"—

"No. I'd rather lie still, just as I am," the girl answered.

"Would you be more comfortable if I laid your head on the ground?"

"No; keep it on your arm, please. I like it there. I feel as if I'd been dreaming," she murmured on. "I dreamed that you—that you called me your darling; that you said you loved me."

"Forgive me!" exclaimed Loveland. "I couldn't help it. I was half mad."

"Then it wasn't a dream?"

"No; it wasn't a dream," he confessed. "Even though you think me an impostor you can't believe me a wholly unredeemed villain or you wouldn't have taken me into your house, for charity's sake though it was. So you must know now that you've nothing to fear from my love."

"SPEAK TO ME—ONLY SPEAK TO ME!"

"Is it real love—tell me?" she asked, her head nestling comfortably against his arm.

"It's the realest thing about me—it's grown to be the whole of me," Loveland broke out. "Nothing else matters. That's why I should have had to kill myself if you'd been hurt—or—but I can't speak of it. Thank God, you're alive and not injured. Yes, that's enough for me—it's got to be enough, and I ought to be happy though you're going to belong to another man."

"You wouldn't have wanted to marry me, anyway," said Lesley.

"I wouldn't have wanted to—when it's the thing I'd give all but one year of my life for—the one year I'd keep to be happy in with you."

"Just a poor little humble story writer, and you would really like to marry her?"

"Don't torture me," said Loveland. "I've had about all I can stand. If I were the impostor you think me"—

"I don't think you an impostor," replied Lesley, beginning to speak in quite a natural tone of voice again, though she kept the support of Loveland's arm. "I never said I did. I only asked you once why I should have more faith in you than others had. But I'd be ready to take you on faith if you were ready to take me without a fortune."

The blood rushed to Loveland's face, which had been pale and drawn. "Is it true—do you mean it?" he stammered. "Do you care for me a little?"

"A great deal," said Lesley, "too much, I used to think on the ship, but I don't think so now, because you're different. It's the real you I loved all the time. The miracle's happened, you know. I'm seeing the other side of the moon. But wouldn't it be doing you an injury to marry you when you and your family counted on a great heiress?"

"It was the other me who hadn't the sense to see what a beastly, caddish thing it would be to marry a girl just because she was rich—a girl I didn't love," Val hurried on. "Oh, Lesley, you're not playing with me, are you? I couldn't marry any other woman but you."

"What about the old family home that's tumbling to ruin?"

"It will have to tumble."

"And your family?"

"There's only my mother, and what she wants most is my happiness. My love for you has somehow shown me how to appreciate her more. But, Lesley, what about Sidney Cremer? Do you care enough for me—a man you say you're 'taking on faith'—to give up all Cremer's money and to throw him over for my sake?"

"I can't throw him over."

"Then how can we be married?"

"And I can't give up his money," she added.

"Lesley, have you raised me up only to let me fall deeper into the pit than ever?"

"We both fell into the pit together, didn't we?" she said, laughing a little. "If you go deeper I'll go deeper too, for we're going to stand or fall together now."

"Then what do you mean?" asked Val. "You'll have to send one of us away—me or Sidney Cremer."

"Let me sit up and we'll talk it over," said Lesley, with a quaint cheerfulness and matter-of-fact-ness that utterly bewildered Loveland. "I feel so well and so happy now that I believe I can find my way out of any entanglement so long as we go hand in hand."

Val, resting on one knee, took the little gray mitten that she held out to him and pressed the hand in it. But there was bitterness in his voice as he answered: "This is an entanglement that you'll find no way out of. You can't keep us both."

(To be continued.)

UNION COUNTY ORPHAN'S COURT.

IN MATTER OF THE APPLICATION of Louis Morel, Administrator of Louis Morel, Deceased, for Sale of Land to Pay Debts. Order to Show Cause.

Louis Morel, Administrator of Louis Morel, deceased, having exhibited to this Court under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay his debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises: It is, on this twenty-first day of September, nineteen hundred and ten, ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, and real estate of said Louis Morel, deceased, appear before the Court, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, on the twenty-third day of November, next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause why so much of the said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of the said Louis Morel, deceased, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts, or the residue thereof, as the case may require. And it is further ordered, that this order be set up and published in one of the newspapers of this State, as by the statute directed.

Prudential Policies Are NOT Expensive

Many men believe Life Insurance to be so expensive that they can not afford to carry it. This is an erroneous idea. Judged from any angle, few things give returns so great and so sure as life insurance. So far as cost is concerned, the rates of The Prudential are so low that they will probably surprise you. ETERNAL LIFE IS SURE, SAYS REV. M. V. WILLIAMS

The revival services at Monroe Avenue M. E. church last night were attended by a large congregation, including the ministers of the three Methodist churches of the city. Announcement was made that the services were to be continued all next week in Grace M. E. church. North Plainfield, and on Sunday afternoon there will be a service for men at this church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Williams. This service will begin at 4 o'clock. In all the Methodist churches the regular morning services will be as usual, but in the evening they will all combine in one big service at Grace M. E.

Rev. M. V. Williams preached last night with his usual earnest message, taking a verse from the 90th Psalm as a text. He said that some men were so oblivious to the real meaning of life that they became obsessed with a single purpose, whether it was horses, dogs, money or any other thing, they became so absorbed in that that that they had no time nor inclination for anything else."

"But the time will come," he said, "when they will have to take serious thought for their souls. They cannot take their animals nor their money to heaven with them. In eternity there will be no counting of hoarded money. And I tell you that there is another life beyond this. There are those who scoff at it, men of learning, who say that the future life is chimerical, but there is nothing so real as the belief in future existence which comes to the Christian.

"There is no place on this great earth where Godliness does not pay bigger dividends than they do in the stock market. There is joy and happiness and contentment both here and hereafter to those who are truly converted. With God back of you and leading you there is no such thing as failure in this life and a glorious eternity awaits the true believer."

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson read the Scripture and Dr. H. K. Carroll offered the opening prayer. Mrs. Gilbert sang for an offertory, "Would You Believe."

Organ Recital at Grace.

The thirty-second of the series of Sunday afternoon organ recitals will be given at Grace P. E. church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock by S. Frederick Smith, organist and choirmaster. The program will include: Fugue in D major, Bach; In Springtims, Hol'ins; Tocatta in F, Faulkes; Cantilene, Salome.

TRINITY'S JR. C. E. AFFAIR

Twentieth Anniversary Exercises of the Society of Trinity Reformed Church.

PROGRAM WAS LENGTHY.

Rev. John Y. Broek Addressed the Youngest—Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck Sent a Message.

The twentieth anniversary exercises of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, were held at the church, last night, and enjoyed by a large congregation. The figures, "1890-1910," were prominently displayed over the pulpit platform. Arthur L. Titsworth, organist, rendered a prelude, as the members of the society marched from the Sunday school room into the church, led by Mrs. R. V. Kenney, superintendent, and Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl, assistant. They took seats in the front of the church reserved for them.

A feature of the exercises was the singing of an "Anniversary Song," in which special reference was made to Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, who organized the Juniors and Pastor Broek. Marion Woolley presented the secretary's report and Maude McAfee read a very interesting historical sketch of the society.

After the society marched into the church, singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," the boys and girls formed a cross and took part in a cross drill, led by the president, Miss Jennie Sears. This program was then followed:

Prayer, Helen Thompson; response, society; responsive reading, leader, Elmer French; recitation, "Little Ones Like Me," Carman Trembath; Apostles' Creed, society; recitation, "The Beginning of C. E.," Alfred Willett; chorus, "Send the Light," society; Bible Keepsakes, Carman Trembath, Adolph Dealaman, Harry Dealaman, Edwin Addis, Albert Baker, Donald Willett, Alfred Zepp, Harold Woolley, George McDonald, Cecil McAfee; "What Jesus is Able to Do," Helen Foster, Ethel Doty, Dorothy Ross, Alva Hansen Dorothy Seader, Helen Willett, Sylvia Givens, Anna Stuart, Dorothy VanWinkle, Willetta Ord. Anniversary song:

Do you know the thing that happened
Just twenty years ago?
Why the starting of this Junior band
And you have watched it grow,
To Dr. Schenck we owe our thanks
And on him our love bestow
As we still onward go.

Chorus.

Glory, glory, hallelujah,
Glory, glory, hallelujah,
Glory, glory, hallelujah,
As we still onward go.

Mr. Broek is now our pastor
In this year of nineteen-ten
His smiling fase we love to see
And welcome him as when
He comes into our meetings
With encouragement and then
We still shall onward go.

Chorus.

Pastor Broek then made a short address in which he congratulated the members of the society upon their achievements during the past twenty years. He said that during the next twenty years some of them might become elders and deacons, and he also hoped that some might become ministers of the gospel. He said that at present two members of the Consistory were former members of the society. Mr. Broek then gave a brief explanation of the meaning of Hallowe'en, adding that it is a Pagan custom, as was also the tolling of a church bell for funerals, and the belief that Friday is an unlucky day to start anything. He then gave the Juniors a text, which he hoped they would remember: "Behold, I Stand at the Door and Knock." He urged the Juniors to let Christ open the doors of their hearts and to become soldiers of the cross.

Mr. Broek also called attention to the fact that the society this year won the State banner, which was held last year by the society in his brother's church in Newark, and he hoped that it would remain here in the future, in fact he felt sure of it for he knew that the society could beat its best of this year. On the reverse side of the banner are badges of State Junior C. E. Societies.

Then followed the rest of the program:

Exercise, "Junior C. E.," Charles Wakefield, Howard Willett, Malcolm Shepherd, Raymond Vail, Eva Tainer, Marjory Storr, Harriett Higgins, Theodosia Vail; reading, "Nellie's Gift," Helen McAfee; offering song, "Now Our Pennies Bringing," society; chant, "Our Pledge," Maude McAfee, Nellie McAfee, Jennie Sears, Adelaide Cole, Ella VanArsdale; exercise, "Mizpah," Vera McCrady.

MISS GRACE A. TEN EYCK WINS CUP AT P. G. C.

The cool bracing weather attracted a large field of golfers to the Park Golf Club Saturday, where the sport was greatly enjoyed throughout the day. There was the weekly competition for the President's, golf club and Oakmont cups; also the final play for the Ladies' Autumn cup, nine holes. This was won by Miss Grace A. TenEyck with a total of 13 points. Previous to Saturday's play she was a half-point behind in the standing for points, but finishing first in the day's play, gave her the necessary points to win the trophy.

These scores were returned in the weekly competition:

U. G. Tingley, 96, 22-74; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 100, 16-84; W. V. Pyatt, 108, 21-87; R. B. Titsworth, 109, 22-87.

These scores were posted for the Ladies' Autumn cup:

Miss Grace A. TenEyck, 60, 11-49; Miss Bess R. TenEyck, 78, 27-51; Miss Mildred M. Parker, 85, 30-55.

The active play will be continued at the club until Election Day, and the course will be kept open as long as the weather remains at all favorable.

MISSIONARY TO MEXICO DELIVERS LECTURE

Rev. James D. Eaton, a missionary pastor of Trinity Congregational church at Chihuahua, Mexico, gave an interesting account of his work in that country to a large congregation yesterday morning at the Congregational church, and in the evening delivered a lecture, illustrated with stereopticon views, on the same topic. Incidentally the offering at both the services netted some $340 for the Mexican missions. The amount asked for by pastor Goodrich was $300.

The lecture in the evening began with views of paintings by Mexican artists, and ended with a photograph of the new Congregational church at Chihuahua. Among the notable views were those of the big Cathedral in Mexico City, carved historical stones, supposedly done by the Aztec Indians, a residence formerly occupied by the Emporer Maximilian and Empress Carlota, the tomb of Juarez, the man to whom Mexico owes her Republic, pictures of Popocatepetl, the snow covered volcano, the pyramid of Chululu, surrounded by the military academy, where only a couple a months ago President Porfirio Diaz at 74 climbed hand over hand up a rope.

Some of the pictures were not exactly of a religious character, for instance, there were depicted on the screen, a bull ring with a troop of banderilleros, matadors and other performers entertaining the amphitheatre, a cock pit with a battle in progress, captive Indian women and children and other interesting scenes.

Dr. Eaton told of the progress of the Protestant church in Mexico and exhibited groups of workers in that field. He said that the Protestant church of which he is pastor had cresses let into the bell tower and in the stained glass windows back of the altar as well as embroidered on the Bible mark, so as to show the natives that the cross was not ridiculed. The bell in the new church was at first intended for St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York, but it got to Chihuahua and is a fine specimen. The views were highly interetsing.

JONAS LIE EXHIBITING PAINTINGS IN NEW YORK.

An exhibition of selected paintings by a group of American artists of which Jonas Lie is one, will open tomorrow at the Madison Avenue Gallery, 305 Madison avenue, between 41st and 42nd streets, New York.

From Nov. 15 until Nov. 30 Mr. Lie will exhibit about twenty-five of his latest works in the same galleries. Both exhibitions are open every day to the public.

Later these paintings will be shown at the Biennial Exhibition of Contemporary American art in the Corcoran Gallery, Washington. ***

Entertained the Little Folks.

A social for the cradle roll and primary department of the Congregational Sunday school and their mothers was held in the parlors of the church last Friday afternoon, which was arranged by an attractive post card invitation. A piano duet by the Misses Martine Weeks and Elizabeth Martin; a vocal solo by Miss Eastman and a delightfully told story by Miss Myra Emmons entertained those present. Refreshments were served at a specially built low table.

MISS CASE'S SUCCESS

An Artistic Triumph for Talented Young Singer in P. H. S. Auditorium.

AUDIENCE OF FIVE HUNDRED.

Karl Klein, Violinist, Shares Honors With Lyric Soprano—Mr. Depew an Admirable Accompanist.

On Saturday evening in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School Miss Anna Case won the approbation and praise of a distinguished audience and at the close of her concert, in which she was admirably assisted by Karl Klein, violinist, and Arthur Depew, pianist, this talented singer received an ovation. The rendition of Miss Case's selections bore out the anticipated pleasure and led many to express a deside for more. Mr. Klein's performance established him permanently as a favorite and Mr. Depew's work at the piano was faultless.

The more pretentious of Miss Case's selections, "Caro Nome," from Rigoletto; "Casta Diva," from Norma, and "Ah, fors e lui," from Verdi's Traviata, showed her wonderful control and power, together with an undisputably sweet voice of remarkable range. She was especially charming in her rendition of the aria "Ah, fors e lui" and received her meed of praise for the splendid singing of a difficult part.

And then Miss Case shows her versatility by singing with pretty nonchalance and absolute confidence songs requiring imagination, and knowledge of languages. Her stage presence is captivating and one can confidently predict for her a brilliant future. From singing secondary roles in grand opera she is sure to become a rival to the accepted prima donnas of the operatic stage.

As has been said, Mr. Klein is master of his instrument and later will no doubt be found in the front ranks of the virtuosi. The assemblage at the concert numbered probably 500.

The patronesses were:

Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Miss Isabel Arnold, Mrs. J. Whitney Baker, Mrs. Frederic Butler, Mrs. Edward Booth, Mrs. Charles Brooks, Mrs. Howard W. Passion Play Colored Views.

The lecture, showing 100 beautiful views of the Passion Play, to be given Thursday evening, November 15th, in the High School Auditorium is in behalf of the Benevolent Band of King's Daughters (proceeds for local charitable purposes). Tickets may be had at Armstrong's drug store or of members of the Band; price only fifty cents. Prof. Scudder, of Rutgers College, the lecturer, has been told by lantern-slide authorities in New York city that a comparison of twenty different sets of views with his shows his selection and the colorings to be superior to all the others. The evening promises to be one of rare enjoyment and instruction, and no one should miss these views who can possibly attend. ***

AUTO WRECKS A WAGON

Endress Company's Delivery Rig Struck by Wm. P. Foote's Car.

FRED TODD CUT AND BRUISED.

Willie Miller Escaped Injury and Gets Number of Car—Driver Refused to Give Name but Police Are After Him.

The Endress Company, butchers, of West Front street are minus a delivery wagon and Fred Todd, the driver, is nursing several bumps and cuts the result of being run down by an automobile this morning at the corner of West Seventh street and Central avenue. Willie Miller, a boy who accompanied Mr. Todd escaped with a shaking up.

The accident occurred shortly before 9 o'clock and while it may have been purely an accident it looks to the police like gross carelessness on the part of the automobile driver. Mr. Todd was driving down Central avenue on the right side of the road and was about to turn into Central avenue when he was struck from behind by the automobile. The wagon was completely wrecked and Mr. Todd was thrown out striking violently on his side and head. Neither one of the occupants had time to jump. The horse was knocked down but not injured.

Mr. Foote would not give his name to either of the occupants of the wagon, but Miller had the foresight to get the number of the car which made the identification easy. In the automobile with Mr. Foote were his wife and a child.

The police will take up the case and it is likely that Mr. Foote will have a chance to explain his actions in the police court within a short time.

FINE MUSIC SUNG AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

The first musical service of the season at the First Presbyterian church attracted a large audience last night, who were well repaid for their attendance. Under the careful guidance of Clifford E. Braider, organist and choirmaster, and with the assistance of Mrs. Charles E. Herring at the piano, a program of church music was beautifully sung by the quartet choir.

Especially noteworthy was the rendition of "Quis Est Homo," from "Stabat Mater," a duet for soprano and contralto, sung by Miss De Cant and Miss Burd. Another pleasing feature and one which will remain in memory was James Cruikshank's "Abide With Me," for which special permission was obtained from the composer's widow for its first presentation here. It is a remarkably sympathetic arrangement of the beautiful hymn. The incidental solos were well sung and the entire program was a treat. Both Mr. Braider and Mrs. Herring deserve praise for their performances of the instrumental parts.

VARIETY SHOWER FOR MISS SCHENCK AND FIANCEE.

Miss Alice Schenck and her affianced, Charles Winham, who are to be married on Thursday November 10, were given a surprise variety shower on Saturday night at the home of Mrs. J. O. Cranston, 64 Grandview avenue, by about twenty-five friends of the young couple. The gifts were both handsome and useful.

The evening was spent in playing games and with vocal and instrumental music. Refreshments were served and a general good time was enjoyed.

Musical Service at Hope Chapel.

A special musical program was given in conjunction with the regular church service last night at Hope chapel. Mrs. L. R. Howard, the organist, was assisted by Martin A. Korff and George Speer. It was Mrs. Howard's last Sunday as organist at the chapel, as she left today for Glencoe, Ill. Kenneth Miller, a student at the Union Theological Seminary, preached yesterday morning and evening.

Register on Tuesday!

Do not forget to see that your name is on the registry list. Next Tuesday will be your last chance to do so. If you are not registered you cannot vote. If you do not vote you are not a good citizen.

Rasores to Meet.

The Rasores club will meet tomorrow at the home of the president, Mrs. I. C. Pierson, Watchung avenue. The subject will be "Longfellow."

PRAYERS FOR THE DEAD

Members of the Local Catholic Churches Observe the Annual Custom.

AT ST. MARY'S CEMETERY.

Sermon of the Day Delivered by Rev. Father Bogan, in Presence of One Thousand People.

Members of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches, together with Catholics from surrounding towns made their annual visitation to St. Mary's cemetery, yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of offering prayers for the dead. The ceremony was participated in and witnessed by fully 1,000 people in all Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, preached the customary sermon, while Rev. Father Miller was celebrant of the service. Rev. Father Hogan acted as deacon and Rev. Father Sciolla sub-deacon.

The men of St. Mary's church assembled at 1:30 to the number of 250. They marched through West Seventh street to Watchung avenue and thence to East Fifth street, where they were met by the delegation from St. Joseph's. The march was then continued on East Fifth street South avenue and Berckman street to the cemetery, a large crowd of women and children who had preceded in special trolley cars being in waiting.

The clergymen invested themselves in their robes at the cemetery house, and then proceeded to the priests' mound, where the bodies of Father Kiernon and Father Connolly, former local rectors, are buried. They were led by a cross bearer, two acolytes and forty altar boys. The priests were followed by 250 men all reciting the rosary of the blessed mother of God. The prayer was concluded as the central plot was reached. The official prayers of the Catholic church were read by Father Miller, after which the choirs of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches sang a quartet rendition of the "Benediction." At its conclusion Father Bogan preached the sermon, taking for his text, "It is a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead that they may be loosened from their sin." In the course of his remarks he said that death does not entirely separate us from our departed friends.

"It has ever been a teaching of the Catholic church," he continued, "that through the prayers of the faithful the souls of friends who have left their earthly cares and being repentant for their sins are not condemned to eternal punishment from Hell, but may not be worthy of immediate entrance into heaven. It is for souls thus delivered on the threshold of their eternal home that the prayers of their friends on earth arise in supplication to the throne of eternal justice."

Father Bogan's conclusion was an appeal to the effect that for every thought, word and action done with deliberation we must render a final accounting. It behooves us so to alter our living that this responsibility should be manifest, conscious always that when the day of our summons shall come and that our efforts for preparation shall be supplemented by the frequent prayers for memory of our friends yet on earth.

The service was concluded by the singing of "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name" by the entire gathering. The main body left the cemetery, but many groups lingered over the graves of departed friends until far in the evening.

JOHN ARMSTRONG, DETROIT, IS GIVEN THIRTY DAYS.

John Armstrong a Detroit, Mich., colored man did not feel quite so pert this morning when he was taken to Elizabeth to become a guest of the county for a period of thirty days. Armstrong was picked up on Saturday on Watchung avenue for panhandling and being unable to give a satisfactory account of himself; the technical charge being vagrancy.

When arraigned before Mayor Fisk in the city court this morning Armstrong said he was not a vagrant nor was he a panhandler, but the evidence of Detective-Sergeant Flynn, who arrested him was enough to convict him. The negro declared that his conviction was unjust and became impudent, but his volubility availed him nothing, the Mayor cutting him short with the thirty day sentence.

COMPLAINED ABOUT SHOES; REVEALED SPEAK-EASY

The withholding of a pair of shoes brought to light another speak-easy in town yesterday for running which Demetrio Giovanni contributed $20 to the city treasury by order of Mayor Charles J. Fisk.

It happened this way: Carmelio Rizzo complained to the police that Demelio had confiscated a pair of his shoes and had refused to give them up. When brought to police headquarters Demelio inadvertently announced that he was keeping the other man's shoes to insure the payment of $1.75 which he claimed Rizzo owed him for beer. How it happened that Demelio was selling beer to his compatriots without the formality of a license appeared to his Honor as queer and after it was found that there was one full keg and another empty one on the premises on East Fourth street, the fine was imposed.

Demelio said that he didn't sell the stuff, but that he kept it there for his friends for whom he had a monumental love. He even bought them meat and potatoes, he loved them so. But Mayor Fisk was not to be fooled. Demelio paid the fine.

FISK TELLS THE STORY OF STRAW VOTE CANVASS

That the secret straw vote canvass conducted by the Courier-News was not secret inasmuch as there were private marks on the return postal cards distributed under the direction of that newspaper has been made clear. Mayor Charles J. Fisk met President R. Henry Depew, of the Bi-partisan Municipal League, and G. W. V. Moy, the league's mayoralty nominee, at the mayor's request yesterday and told the story. Freeholder Samuel P. T. Wilbur was with the mayor at the meeting but became indignant when the conversation got to the "lie" stage and left. The mayor stated that the Courier-News had conducted the canvass at his request and that he and not the Courier-News or any one else, put up the money. The manager of the newspaper in question he claimed had no knowledge of the private marks which he said were put on by his stenographer, Mr. Burke. These marks were according to a code and the mayor stated that it was to identify the districts and wards and not the particular voter.

When Mr. Moy asked Mr. Frost who was responsible for the private marking, he promised to let him know if he could find out, and later Mr. Fisk asked Mr. Depew to meet him and the story would be told. During the conversation it appears Mr. Fisk said that no comparisons had been made after the cards were returned because he had the lists in his pocket, afterwards stating that they were in a drawer of his desk. Today he explained that he spoke only figuratively when he first said they were in his pocket and what he meant was that they were in his possession. Mr. Frost is exonerated from blame by the Mayor but both Depew and Moy say that some of his statements when Mr. Moy met him were rather peculiar. Neither made an accusation against either the mayor or Mr. Frost they say, but that they had no difficulty in finding out what they wanted.

Today Mayor Fisk sent this letter to Mr. Frost, manager of the Courier-News:

"In reply to your inquiry regarding the postals which were addressed to the voters of Plainfield from lists of names furnished by me, said cards asking voters to indicate their choice for Governor, Congressman and Mayor, in other words a straw vote—Yes, the cards were marked to indicate the ward and election district—I do not know the code. This marking was done without your knowledge in the room furnished by you before cards were mailed and cards were mailed or sent to the postoffice from this room. After tabulating the vote from the return cards the cards were thrown in a basket and retained with the object of later having them sorted and listed by districts. But considering your request made last Monday or Tuesday this part of the program was not carried out and the cards were burned. The lists were in my possession until after the cards were destroyed so I am sure there could have been no opportunity for comparisons."

Mayor Fisk says the marking by districts and wards was merely to ascertain how the sentiment was politically in given section of the city.

COMPARES CANDIDATES

Ernest R. Ackerman Explains Why Vivian Lewis is Better Nominee.

AN IMPARTIAL CRITICISM.

Dr. Wilson Not Trained in State Craft—Lewis Experienced and Able to Handle the Big Problems.

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman today made a comparison between Vivian M. Lewis and Dr. Woodrow Wilson, the gubernatorial nominees of the Republican and Democratic parties, respectively. Mr. Ackerman said:

"Dr. Wilson and Mr. Lewis are both men of sterling character, high ideals and unquestioned ability. One has achieved fame from the Atlantic to the Pacific as a charming writer, instructive historian, and broad minded educator. The other, as an accomplished legislator, efficient court officer and master of the details of the business of the State.

"Both men are absolutely honest and can be implicitly trusted in positions of responsibility.

"It is a tribute to the high standards fixed by the Republicans in New Jersey that the Democratic leaders were forced to nominate a man of the highest grade in order to receive serious consideration by the voters.

"It seems to me that the position of Governor may be fairly compared to that of the head of an extensive business corporation placed there by the stockholders who are the voters. The head of a business concern in order to successfully administer the affairs of the corporation must have an intimate knowledge of its different departments and the men who are charged with securing favorable results.

"The Governor of a State should be more of an executive than an advocate. In order to give full value to the people and to properly handle the affairs of the State, a Governor must have a knowledge of the workings of the different departments of the State government. There are between twenty and thirty of these departments, not including the many important State institutions, with which the Governor should also be familiar. There are also the many commissions, the members of which are appointed by the Governor, with which he also should be familiar. One does not acquire a grasp of the underlying principles and practical workings of these great elements of government from a mere course of reading or thinking. It requires years of practical knowledge of personnel and details and systems.

"The State government is essentially a business enterprise. It is the people's business house. It must be celar to everyone that the man at the head of hte house should have a dealed knowledge of its affairs in order to besuccessful. That knowledge must be gained either before or after he takes office. If after, how long will it take him to learn? If he possesses these qualifications before entering the office he is equipped for efficient service immediately. If it takes an Assemblyman or a Senator a year before he is of much value to his constituents, how long would it take a Governor, not familiar with business affairs, to be useful to the people?

"A Governor to be a safe pilot should have at least some knowledge of the breakers ahead and of the shoals to be avoided. Even experienced jurists with long and successful years of usefulness on the bench have initially likened the occupancy of the executive chair to a saddle in which for some time they could not sit comfortably.

"Our Constitution wisely requires that the judges of our Supreme Court who sit in seclusion, as it were, at Trenton should mingle with the people and preside at jury trials at the several county seats. Here we find a distinct constitutional recognition of the principle that mere book learning, theories and knowledge of legal principles do not fit a man to be the right kind of a judge. How much more does a like principal require practical experience in the affairs of State as an equivalent to qualify one to be a competent Governor?

"The Governor makes many appointments to positions of great responsibility, including appointments of the judiciary. It is necessary that he should have a wide and intimate knowledge of the available men of the State as well as of the various departmental needs so that the appointments shall prove satisfactory.

"It is no injustice to Dr. Wilson to affirm that he has, as far as proclaimed, no training along these lines, for he has never been known as a business man. Mr. Lewis, on the other hand, has spent his life in practical matters and has shown himself to be unusually efficient and attentive in everything which he has

"The White Store" Saves You Money. We Give You S.H. Green Trading Stamps.

Have you ever noticed that in every city there's always a dependable store, a store that stands out conspicuously for fair pricing and fair dealing, the kind of treatemnt that wins and holds the trade of a discriminating public? This the "White Store" has most earnestly endeavored to attain, and the people having learned that such being our object, have come here with the assurance that they would be served right. At the present time we are in a position to supply your every want with the largest, best and most complete stocks in our history.

Housefurnishing Department

Our Basement salesroom is a complete store in itself. Everything that your kitchen needs will be found here in abundance. The fact is that within the past year we were obliged to double the capacity of this growing salesroom. When you are in need of household furnishings come here and we will supply your wants at money-saving prices.

Ladies' Neckwear

A superb stock confronts you in this department. Everything in the neckwear line that is worth having will be found here in profusion. When a new idea in neckwear comes out, if it's worth having you will find it here at a saving price.

Outing Flannel and Flannelettes

Complte stocks of these lines in the good styles are here for your inspection. Large variety of styles and grades at prices that are absolutely correct. Prices range from 8c to 15c.

Pyrography

Burnt wood and supplies are here in such a variety that you will find it a difficult matter to name an article in this line that we cannot give you. Buy a burning set, and burn your own articles for Christmas gifts.

The Ladies' Cloak and Suit Department

Is filled to its utmost capacity with a complete line of all that is good, stylish and dependable. The fact that we were compelled to double our original space is proof of what we are doing. We carry a full line of Ladies' Tailored Suits and Coats of the very best grades at moderate prices, making alterations free of cost, which in itself is an item worth considering: Then we have a splendid assortment of Misses' and Children's coats and dresses at prices within the reach of all.

Coats---Strictly man tailored. all kinds materials.from $7.50 to $30
Suits---Of fine all-wool materials. from - - - $12 to $35

MILLINERY—Ladies who are particular as to the kind and style of headwear they wish will be more than compensated if they make this department a visit. We have specialists in millinery who can recommend the kind of hat that will be most suited to your particular case, making you feel that you have been served properly, intelligently, with a desire to return at some future time.

LADIES' GLOVES—Full stocks in both kid and fabric, and both unequalled in their respective kinds. No matter what your wants, we can supply them, at prices within the reach of the slimmest pocketbook.

BLANKETS & COMFORTS—The season is here when we begin to think of heavier bed covering and naturally we ask ourselves where shall I go to buy? We ask, have you ever been here to see our stock? If not, we respectfully ask you to pay this department a visit. We can supply you with any grade from the medium priced to the finest grade made.

CARPETS AND DRAPERIES—Perhaps you have never given it a thought, that we can save you money on carpets and draperies. There is no better selected stock in this section of New Jersey; every good style and pattern is here represented at prices we know that cannot be beaten. We also make a specialty of making any kind of shades to order. Expert workmen only employed.

The Men's Furnishings

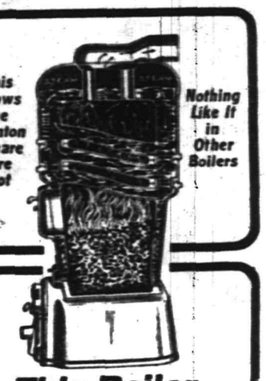
Shirts, neckties, gloves, underwear, hosiery and sweaters comprise a large part of our men's furnishing department. You can be supplied here at a less price for similar goods than you can get them at the average specialty store. If you do not feel as though you are getting the proper goods or proper treatment elsewhere, come here and we will serve you right in quality, price and correct attention.

Ladies' Hosiery

At the outset we started in with the right brands of Ladies' Hosiery and your appreciation of this has been so generous and substantial that it meant a larger department. We now have every good kind of stocking for Ladies, Misses and Children; the kinds that seem to be appreciated and that gives positive satisfaction.

Corsets

You may not be aware of the fact that we carry the greatest and most complete line of corsets between Newark and Trenton. It's a fact, however, and we can prove it. Ladies who know of our stock and the various lines we carry will tell you. Come here for your next corset and we can assure you of absolute satisfaction. We fit corsets and can fit you.



This Boiler is a Coal Saver

Why? Because it is a BOYNTON and has the BOYNTON square fire pot, which increases fire surface about 25% over other boilers of like diameter.

The BOYNTON "square pot" is the greatest improvement yet devised in heating systems. It is square at the corners, hence clears free of cinders and ash each time the grate is turned. That means a live fire, always, and plenty of draft. See your dealer about the

The Board of Freeholders has decided to bulid no more bridges this season.

The engagement of Miss Maud N. Terry, daughter of Lewis T. Terry, of Springfield, and Albert Bishop, of Westfield, has been announced.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The funeral of Mrs. John H. Mundy, who died Thursday last after a long illness, was held at her late home on Jefferson avenue, yesterday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. W. A. Knox, pastor of the Dunellen Methodist church, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Interment was at Bound Brook, the pall bearers being six nephews, the Messrs. Alvin B., Fred B. and William Matthews, of South Bound Brook; LeRoy Matthews, of Roselle; Edgar W. Matthews, of Newark, and Elijah Matthews, of Plainfield.

The Dunellen football team was defeated in a well-played game at Caldwell, Saturday afternoon. The score was 6 to 0. The locals played in good form but were outweighed by their opponents.

Tonight is Hallowe'en and the usual observances will take place in Dunellen and vicinity. Beside the depredations the small boys have in mind there will be quite a number of house parties.

During the absence of Charles Tinsman in North Jersey as demonstrator for a phonograph company, his real estate business will be in charge of Dr. P. W. Berkeley.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The last meeting of the Registry Board before the election will be held tomorrow in the town rooms from 1 to 9 p. m. This is the last opportunity to register. If your name is not on the list, better get busy.

The dance of the Jolly Four which was postponed Saturday night, week on account of the weather, was held at Scott's hall, Saturday night. A stage load of young people from here attended.

Tonight is Hallowe'en. If you neglect to take care of your gate or any other portable property, don't wonder what has become of it when you find it gone Tuesday morning.

Mrs. William Hull, of Westfield avenue, has returned from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Orbie Price, at Forty Forts, Pa.

A well attended weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

The members of the B. Y. P. U. held an enjoyable meeting last night in the parlors of the church.

Supervising Principal S. Dana Townsend spent the week end with relatives at Orange.

ANDERSON'S COMMENTS AT TOWNSHIP MEETING

Under the auspices of the Republicans of North Plainfield township, an enthusiastic mass meeting was held Friday night at Texier's Mills, the large room being filled to overflowing with interested voters. Charles C. C. Wheeler presided and made a few preliminary remarks, setting forth the important issues of the campaign, locally and in the county. The speakers of the evening were W. deLaR. Anderson, candidate for town committeeman; Robert Kay, candidate for sheriff; Assemblyman W. W. Smalley and Prosecutor Frederick Pope, of Somerville.

Each one of the speakers urged the members of the party to stand by the straight ticket and to let nothing swerve them from voting for every candidate named thereon, thereby helping to roll up a big majority on November 8. W. deLaR. Anderson, the only local candidate, said that he was a property owner, possessing about thirty acres, and was therefore interested in taxing matters. Mr. Anderson commented on the present system of bookkeeping used by the township as not being satisfactory, for it does not give a taxpayer a clear idea of how the money is expended.

The speaker said that he believed that the township instead of being run in three sections, should be conducted as a place of the whole, with all the committeemen acting together and all three as a body keeping in touch with conditions all over the township. He said he believed this to be the most economical way of running the township and the only way to facilitate matters. Mr. Anderson spoke in favor of police protection, a reduction of the dog tax and a plan for lessening the burdens of taxpayers.

Irwin Cooley of Westervelt avenue has about recovered from a recent illness.

Mrs. J. Harry Wade, of Watchung, has returned from a visit with friends at Trenton.

Mrs. Harry J. Stewart, of Bayonne, has returned after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Francis E. Bodine, of Watchung.

Miss Henrietta Winn, of Grandview avenue, a student at the Normal School, Trenton, has been visiting her home.

Geroge MacKenzie preached the gospel in the hall, 209 East Front street, last night at 7:30 o'clock.

REPORT VIVIAN LEWIS AS MAKING GAINS

That a big change in sentiment, favoring Lewis for Governor, had taken place in Essex county within the last two weeks, was the assertion of many ward chairmen at a meeting of the county Republican committee, in Newark Saturday night.

It was also reported that the Republican registration this year was far greater than last year, and that practically every voter was listed.

Reply was made by George H. Austin, who was the Progressive choice for the Congressional nomination in the Eighth District, to recent criticisms of him by Edward W. Townsend, the Democratic Congressional nominee in the Seventh District.

"I have been criticized by Mr. Townsend, who says I am inconsistent in supporting the Republican party," said Mr. Austin. "Now, understand, I don't wish to enter into a discussion with Mr. Townsend, but if he will give me one good reason for supporting the Democratic party I should be pleased. I am a Republican, and fight my battles within the party. Every good law upon the statute books within the last fifty years has been placed there by the Republican party. The Democrats have had their chances, but failed to improve them.

"Gentlemen, I am sure that our candidate for Governor, Mr. Lewis, is going to win. I am not going to say anything against Mr. Wilson personally, but in God's name does he know what's behind him! If perchance elected, he'll know what's before him, I am sure."

Mr. Austin's remarks were warmly received, especially when he said that a big change in feeling had taken place within the last week among the commuters in the Oranges.

Another speaker termed the inroad upon the Republican vote as "Wilsonitis," and said that proper treatment had almost entirely removed the ailment.

The meeting had been called, said Chairman Dalrymple, for the purpose of getting reports on registration. The county chairman, Mr. Dalrymple, declared that after an inspection of the registry lists he was sure a heavy Republican vote would be polled.

BOROUGH DEMOCRATS PLAN LAST BIG RALLY.

The North Plainfield Democrats will have their last mass meeting in Saengerbund Hall next Wednesday night. Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer will preside and several prominent speakers have been secured. Among them are Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City; Judge Moore, of Englewood; Colonel Alexander Bacon, of New York, and Colonel William Libby, candidate for congress.

The county and borough candidates will also be present and brief addresses will be made by each. The meeting will be called to order at 8:15 and seats will be reserved for women.

Will Deport Boyish Joker.

Amelia Bassi, son of a wealthy family in Italy, was placed in charge of Probation Officer Edmunds by Judge Gnichtel in Mercer court Saturday in order that he may be sent back to his native land. Judge Gnichtel told him that America was not large enough to hold one of his kind. Bassi was before the court charged with putting arsenic in food that was being prepared for members of the family with whom he lived in Princeton. Bassi assured the court that the attempted poisoning was merely a boyish joke, but Judge Gnichtel said such jokes don't go in this country.

Plainfield, N. J., October 31, 1910.

BEFORE AND AFTER.

We have brought to the notice of the local voters how Dr. Woodrow Wilson has changed his base in his attitude towards organized labor since he has become the Democratic gubernatorial nominee. And now we wish to direct their attention for a moment to his changed position regarding political bossism. It is highly interesting since it cannot be denied that Jim Smith, whose ambition appears to be to go back to the United States Senate, is the arch-boss of the Democratic party and is more largely responsible for Wilson's candidacy than any man or set of men.

In his reply to George L. Record, Dr. Wilson said: "Do you admit that the boss system exists as I have described it? If so, how do you propose to abolish it? Of course, I admit it. It's existence is notorious. I have made it my business for many years to observe and understand that system, and I hate it as thoroughly as I understand it. You are quite right in saying that the ssytem is bipartisan; that it constitutes 'the most dangerous condition in the public life of our state and nation today;' and that it has virtually, for the time being, 'destroyed representative government and in its place set up a government of privilege.' I would propose to abolish it by the above reforms, by the election to office of men who will refuse to submit to it and bend all their energies to break it up, and by pitiless publicity."

But what was Dr. Wilson's attitude before he was thought of as a candidate for Governor? On page 696 of the North American Review for May, 1908, the distinguished Democrat said:

"It is impossible for the voters of any busy community actually to pick out or in any real sense choose the very large number of persons we call upon them under our present State constitution to elect. They have neither the time nor the quick and easy means of co-operation which would enable them to make up the long list of candidates for offices, local and national, upon which they are expected to act. They must of necessity leave the selection to a few persons who, from one motive or another, volunteer to make a business of it. These are the political bosses and managers whom the people obey and affect to despise. It is unjust to despise them. Under a system of innumerable nominations they are indispensable. A system of so-called popular elections like ours could not be operated successfully without them."

COLLECTOR G. F. BROWN NAILS A FAKE REPORT.

Tax Collector George F. Brown, of the borough, is a candidate for re-election this year and it is predicted that he will receive the usual big vote. Mr. Brown has always been a careful, painstaking official and conducted the business of his office in a way that has met the approbation of the borough taxpayers. A card has been circulated in the borough bearing the following:

"Don't be fooled by the report of my being 'down and out.' Health much better; on the job, and have been for over four months. Come in and look me over." On the reverse side of the card is the following: "If my record as collector of taxes has met with your approval, I will appreciate your vote on next Tuesday." The card is signed by Mr. Brown.

Wedded at Home Ceremony.

Miss Bertha Florence Wychoff and Bernard Edward Livingston, both of Orange, were quietly married yesterday afternoon at 1:30 at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. D. E. Flammer, of Somerset street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ora Jerome Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church. The attending witnesses were Mrs. Flammer and Thos. Brokaw, Jr. The young couple will reside at Orange.

Park Avenue Missionary Society.

The Foreign Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the church. A book, "The Study of Work and Women in Eastern Lands," will be used, and the leader will be Mrs. M. B. Tennant. Mrs. Maguire will deliver an address having for her topic "What is in Thy Hand?" All the women of the church are invited to be present.

Sent to County Jail.

On complaint of Charles Kofoet, of 187 Wylie avenue, Nagel Sandas, an Italian of Westfield was arraigned before Mayor Fisk this morning charged with being drunk and disorderly and making a nuisance of himself near East Second street and Wylie avenue. Sandas was given twenty days in the county jail.

Henry Wolfe Discharged.

MRS. NELLIE CHANDLER, AGED 75 YEARS, DEAD.

Mrs. Nellie Jeanette Chandler, widow of Sydney Chandler of West Somerville, Mass., died yesterday at the home of her son, George W. Chandler, 728 Carlton avenue, aged seventy-five years. She was born and lived near Boston the greater part of her life, coming to Plainfield five years ago to make her home with her son. She had been ill for several years.

Mrs. Chandler was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John Wyman Cookson. The body was taken today to Everett, Mass., where the funeral and burial will take place on Wednesday.

Social Three Elect Officers.

The Social Three met last night at the home of F. E. Conshay on Summit avenue and elected these officers for the coming year: President, F. E. Conshay; secretary; J. P. Connolly; treasurer; H. T. Skinner. During the business session a schedule of dances was arranged for the winter, the first of which will be a Hallowe'en affair to be held at Debele's Hall, tonight. Music will be furnished by Charles Suhr's orchestra, and admission will be by invitation. At midnight there will be a "Pumpkin Dance," after which refreshments will be served.

Removed the Old Corner Stone.

Simple, but interesting exercises were held at St. Joseph's church in the borough, this morning, when the corner stone from the old church was removed and transferred to a place in the foundation of the new church. Father Miller had charge of he exercises, which were attended by a large number of the parishioners. The old stone is dated September 24, 1882, and was laid while Father O'Hanlon was pastor of the church. The new corner-stone, which recently arrived from Ireland, will be laid on Thanksgiving Day with imposing services.

Capt. Cameron to Speak.

There will be a special meeting at the Salvation Army tomorrow evening, conducted by Captain Stella Cameron and Captain Lena Jackson, from the No. 1 New York corps. Both these young women are capable leaders and good singers, and hold the responsible position of commanding New York's leading corps. This will be the first time Captain Cameron has spoken in this city, and a good audience with a profitable time is expected.

Raise Church Debt.

At the Shiloh Baptist church yesterday morning there was a rally to raise money to pay off the church indebtedness. Rev. E. W. Roberts, pastor, preached on the subject, "Systematic Giving." At 3 o'clock, Rev. M. W. Vaughan, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church preached and his choir sang. At 8 o'clock there was a sacred concert under the leadership of J. H. Bolling, choirmaster.

Violated Health Ordinance.

Diodo Dominits, an Italian, living on Howard street, was arraigned in the borough court Saturday morning charged with a violation of the health ordinance in allowing refuse to remain in his back yard. As he had ignored warnings to better conditions he was fined $3. The borough Board of Health has instituted a crusade against yards being allowed to remain in an unsanitary condition and Dominick is the second offender to be haled to court.

Splendid Music at Grace P. E.

Magnificent instrumentation marked the thirty-second organ recital in Grace P. E. church yesterday afternoon. S. Frederick Smith, the organist, was at his best and rendered his selections in a most pleasing and masterful manner. Especially good was Bach's Fugue in D major. Mr. Smith handled this difficult composition with consummate ability, as he did the other numbers.

John Harper Surprised.

John Harper, of South avenue, was given a surprise party at his home on Friday evening. The affair was arranged by his mother. There were about twenty-five guests. Mr. Harper received a number of gifts, including a gold watch and a birthday cake from his mother. A flashlight picture of the assemblage was taken during the evening.

TRINITY'S JR. C. E. AFFAIR

Ruth Freeman, Hazel McCrady, Alma Allegar, Grace Sowden, Gladys Bye; benediction, "Mizpah," congregation; doxology, benediction, Pastor Broek. In connection with these exercises two interesting reports were presented, one by Marion Wooley, secretary, and the other by Maude McAfee, which was a history of the society.

The secretary's report showed that meetings to the number of forty were held during the past year; that the membership reached eighty with an average attendance of fifty-eight. About fifty-four members received badges for 75 or more percentage of attendance. Eight were present at every meeting and seven united with the church. It was shown that the committees all worked faithfully and with enthusiasm.

The financial records for the fiscal year, which won the State banner, showed that the society gave $115.74 for missions, of which $101 was disbursed for missions as follows: After fulfilling the pledge of $15 for the support of Dr. Paul W. Harrison, the church missionary, the remainder was equally divided among the following objects: Miss Winn's work in Japan, Children's Home, Amoy, China; American Indians and the Kentucy Mountain Whites. Two entertainments were given during the year which netted over $30 each. The sale of postcards of Rev. Mr. Broek and Dr. Schenck and Dr. Harrison together with the offerings received from the Log Cabin and Indian banks, completed the amount stated.

In connection with this report there was a loving message to the society from Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck offering words of encouragement to the children for their fidelity and faithfulness. This was the first Junior C. E. Society organized in this city and it was done through the efforts of Dr. Schenck.

The historical sketch, presented by Miss McAfee showed that in 1890 the society was organized by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck. The first meeting of the society was held in October, 1890. Fifty-three members were enrolled and the society has continued to grow ever since and proved to be a great blessing. The first superintendent was Miss Alice O. Smith and George Reynolds was the first secretary.

The society has borne evidence to the value of religious training in early youth by the abundant service it has given the church. Many of the present Sunday school teachers were led to give their first testimony of love to Christ in the Junior society meetings. Two members of the present Consistory were trained in the society. In the year 1902, 120 members were reported on the roll with an average attendance of 40. In 1906 the society gave $88 for benevolences.

These persons have served the society as its superintendents: Miss Alice O. Smith, Miss Mary Berg, Mrs. Robert A. Meeker, Mrs. J. M. Tier, Miss Mary Brokaw, Mrs. William Kriney Mrs. William Tunison, Mrs. George Reighton, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mrs. R. V. Kinney, Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl, Miss Edna Dilts, Miss Mabel Wilson.

Among the visiting superintendents present last night were Mrs. J. M. Tier, Miss Mabel Wilson, Mrs. William Kriney, Miss Edna Dilts and Mrs. George Reighton. Mrs. C. E. Platt and a delegation of Juniors from the West End Tabernacle; also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Langworthy, of the Seventh-Day Baptist society were present.

MANY FRIENDS AT MRS. J. H. MUNDY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Terissa Mundy, wife of John H. Mundy, who died last Thursday after a long illness, was held at her late home on Jefferson avenue yesterday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. William A. Knox, pastor of the Dunellen Methodist church, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. There were numerous floral tributes, among them a handsome pillow from the family, and a large mounted wreath of flowers and foliage from McGregor and Co., of Newark, where Fred B. Mundy, a son, is employed.

Burial was made in the Bound Brook cemetery, six nephews acting as pall-bearers. They were Oliver B. Mathews, Fred B. Mathews and William Mathews, of South Bound Brook; LeRoy Mathews, of Roselle; Edgar Mathews, of Newark, and Elijah Mathews, of Plainfield.

undertaken, particularly in the various public positions he has occupied. Everyone who knows the man concedes that there is solid metal in Vivian M. Lewis. He has the robust and elastic vitality so desirable in a Governor. He has the self-poise that comes to a man who has tried his powers in handling affairs of State and has demonstrated his capacity.

"Mr. Lewis has a clean record; his rise in the public service from one position to another by the sheer force of personal worth and ability inspires confidence.

"No fault is found with Dr. Wilson because of theory, neither is undue praise intended for Mr. Lewis because of practice.

"The truth is often found between the theoretical and the the practical, therefore we owe tribute to gentlemen of both schools. When we find, however, a man who unites both theory and practice it is well to pause and study that character. Such a man, I believe, will be found in Vivian M. Lewis. From education he gained his theories and from contact with men and affairs—the great school of experience—he has gained his practical knowledge of business matters, the qualifications so necessary for an executive of the State.

"Does anyone suppose that either Dr. Wilson or Mr. Lewis will ignore the organizations of their respective parties when making appointments? Let it be assumed that both gentlemen shall demand absolute fitness for the positions to be filled, whether a judiciary appointment or a commissionership.

"Some of the positions to be filled by the next Governor include Judges of the Court of Appeals, the Supreme and Circuit Courts, State Commissioner of Roads, members of the Boards of Assessors and Equalization of Taxation, a Secretary of State, members of the Public Utility and Civil Service Commissions—in short, about 500 official positions are to be filled by the successor to Governor Fort.

"Who is then better qualified? Dr. Wilson, who has a limited knowledge of the public men of the State, or Mr. Lewis, who has a wide acquaintanceship.

"The glamour naturally surrounding a man distinguished for scholarship, especially one so long the head of a great University, induced many who would hesitate from turning the government back in the control of the Democratic party to at first yield to that sentiment and favor Dr. Wilson. Sober second thought, however, may bring a realizing sense of the danger of following that casual impulse and trying the experiment of returning the Democratic party to power.

"It is my opinion, from a knowledge of the business of the State, that Mr. Lewis will give the people, if elected Governor, one of the best, cleanest and most economical administrations that the State has ever experienced. Republicans in voting for Mr. Lewis are properly rewarding and promoting one who has for years been an honest and faithful public servant, who has been weighed in the balance and not found wanting. His nomination epitomizes the principle of civil service reform which has long been the slogan of reformers and is now, through Republican initiative, the law in New Jersey. Why not extend that principle in electing Vivian M. Lewis Governor of New Jersey?"

ALL SAINTS DAY TO BE CELEBRATED TOMORROW.

Tomorrow being All Saints Day, there will be services in the Episcopal churches in the city and borough. At Grace church there will be three services—in the morning at 7 and 10 o'clock communion, and at 8 o'clock in the evening a choral service with the full choir and address by the rector, Rev. E. Vears Stephenson.

At the Church of the Heavenly Rest there will be a celebration of the Holy Eucharist at 10 o'clock in the morning. Rev. C. H. Mallery, the rector, preached upon the communion of the saints yesterday morning, so there will be no address at this time.

Rev. George A. Warner will conduct the services at the Church of the Holy Cross, celebrating communion and giving an address at 11 o'clock in the morning. There will be no service at St. Stephens.

Plainfield in .... The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

May 29, 1873.

We are glad to hear that our old friend, J. W. King, who has been confined to his bed by severe illness for some weeks past, is convalescing rapidly.

A Warning.—On Tuesday last, a young lad named Flannigan caught on the back step of one of our City Ice Wagons on Somerset street, to get a piece of ice, and in attempting to jump off caught his leg on the ice tongs hanging behind, and was dragged some distance before he was rescued from his perilous position. When released it was found that the sharp point of the tongs had severely lacerated the flesh of one of his legs. He was taken into Boice's Drug Store and his wound dressed. This habit of boys jumping up behind ice wagons is a dangerous one and should be stopped.

Catfish.—A gentleman from New Hampshire this (Wednesday) morning shipped for California two barrels of live catfish taken from the Raritan River, near Bound Brook. It is the intention to ship them by Pacific Railroad to their desination, which will take nine days to accomplish, when the fish will be let free into the streams to be stocked by them.

The Lake House.—This favorite summer resort, situated on the edge of the beautiful lake at Bank place, near Front street, J. H. Tier, proprietor, will be open to the public in a few days. The reputation of this place for the excellent manner in which it is conducted, and the delicious ice cream and water ices to be found there, is well known. Announcement will be given through our columns when the opening night occurs.

Rutgers' College—The commencement exercises of the class of '73 will take place on the eighth of June. Owing to the large size of the class, only twenty-one will have the privilege of speaking. The "Masters Oration" will be delivered by C. K. Jones, '70. In the graduating class we find the names of Charles F. and Thomas B. Stillmen, of this city. In the sophomore class ('70) we find Arthur L. Titsworth, Robert Meeker, and Samuel Burr, and during the commencement week we understand that Masters E. Hart, Craig Marsh and M. M. Stillman will enter as students.

June 12, 1873.

On Thursday evening last two ladies, whose names we did not learn, came near meeting with a serious accident opposite Comptons' Confecticnery Store. They had visited that establishment and had just seated themselves in their buggy preparatory to starting away, when the horse suddenly turned short around, overturning the buggy and precipitating the occupants to the ground. Fortunately they were not injured, and the horse did not run away.

Installation.—The Rev. Theo. S. Brown will be installed pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Dunellen, on Tuesday, June 17th, at 3 o'clock p. m. Sermon by Dr. Van Dyke, of Brooklyn. Charge to the pastor by Rev. W. C. Roberts, of Elizabeth. Charge to the people by Rev. K. P. Ketcham, of this city.

Fire.—Messrs. Spicer & Hubbard's Steam Moulding Mill, corner of Madison avenue and Third street, was found to be on fire in the roof this (Wednesday) morning, but by prompt action of the employees the flames were soon subdued. The fire was caused by sparks from the furnace chimney.

Missing.—Johnnie Thorn, aged 12 years, son of G. Thorn, of this city, left his home on Wednesday, June 4th, and his whereabouts are at present unknown. Had on when he left, a light suit of clothes, brown velveteen cap. Has fair skin and is of slight build. When he left his home he took a small black and tan dog with him. Any information as to his whereabouts will be thankfully reecived b yhis father, G. Thorn.

Union Cemetery Company.—The Union Cemetery Company, of Plainfield having accepted the act of incorporation granted by the last Legislature, on Thursday evening, 5th inst., completed organization by selecting the following officers: President, Job Male; vice-president, Wm. B. Stewart; secretary, J. B. Coward; treasurer, R. Van Sickler; standing committee, Joseph W. Yates, William White, E. W. Runyon, Alfred Berry, Isaac W. Rushmore.

Here is a bit of conversation that is as clear-sighted as it is witty:

"So Erna is engaged," said Eleanor, with a curl of her lip. "Well, I'm sorry for the man, that's all. She doesn't know the first thing about keeping house."

"Oh, yes, she does though," was Fannie's assuring reply.

"Well, I'd like to know what it is," was the doubting response.

"The very first thing, which is to get a man to keep house for."—Judge.

LITERARY

One of the "biggest" short stories of the month so far as its human interest is concerned, is "Father," which Anna E. S. Finn contributes to The Red Book Magazine for November.

With the November number The Century celebrates the close of its fortieth year laying emphasis upon its relation to American art. From the first this magazine has paid special attention to the development of its art features. Thus it happens that a file of this magazine gives an accurate view of the progress of the illustrator's art in this country. The Century was a pioneer in this department, and the interesting series of pictures culled from its files and reproduced in the November number bears eloquent testimony to what this magazine has done toward securing the pre-eminence in art enjoyed by American periodicals today.

The second instalment of "The Life Story of J. Pierpont Morgan," which is featured in the November Metropolitan, describes Mr. Morgan's entrance into the financial life of New York and relates his dramatic encounter with Jim Fiske over the old Susquehanna Railroad. A new and interesting angle on the tariff question is furnished by Robert Sloss in "The Tariff Extravaganza," an account of the foolish blunders made by Congress in wording schedules that have cost the Treasury millions.

"Success Magazine" for November contains an important feature in an article by Edward E. Higgins, forecasting the result of the coming Congressional election. The article is based on confidential information as to political conditions in each of the three hundred and ninety-one districts, received from fifteen thousand subscribers to the magazine, and shows that the next Congress will be almost equally divided between nthe two parties.

"The Lady of the Spur," David Potter's brilliant new novel, has met with so many encomiums that is safe to say that "An Accidental Honeymoon," a complete novelette by this author, in the November Lippincott's, will find a host of eager readers. Mr. Potter's latest story is of modern times, and the scenes are laid in Maryland. His plot is refreshingly novel and delightfully handled. The heroine is one of the "fetchingest" little persons in the realm of fiction.

The Ridgway Company publishers of Everybody's, this month enter the field with a second magazine. Its name, Adventure, is a good index of its contents, for from first to last it is devoted to stories of action and adventure of al' kinds, in all kinds of places and among all kinds of people. All those who like stories with back-bones and red-blood in them and like them told by people who know how will probably take up Adventure with a good deal of interest.

SLEEP BEST AID TO BEAUTY.

The best aid to beauty is sleep. One should sleep from eight to nine hours out of the twenty-four, if possible. If this is so, then thought should be given to the room where so much of our time is spent. The average bedroom is not only too crowded for good taste, but for health. It should first be large and airy, with windows on two walls is possible. For sunlight is one of the best purifiers we possess. The bedroom should always be fitted with a fireplace, whether one uses it for a fire or not, as it helps enormously to ventilate a room.

Given this sort of room a woman should certainly be able to furnish it along lines of health and good taste. But generally she does not. She fills it with all sorts of absolutely unnecessary things, which soon develop into regular germ traps. But the woman of taste will furnish her bedroom with Spartan simplicity. She will avoid all nicknacks and bric-abrac.

The metal bed is generally conceded to be the cleanest and most healthful. A mattress of woven wire with one of hair on top is the best. The bed should be so placed that it is not in a draft, and where the light will not shine directly in one's eyes. Many people think it is more hygienis to place it in the centre of the room.

The care of the bedroom is also of the greatest importance. A good general rule is that the windows should never be entirely closed, either night or day. The very least amount of window opening that one can do on is about six inches at the top, but it is better to have some of the sash open, too. This brings in plenty of fresh air, and the fireplace takes out the old and vitiated air. If one finds that this gives more ventilation than is entirely comfortable then one should use a hot water bottle or more bed covering. But there is no excuse for a badly ventialted bedroom, not even in severe weather.

During the day the windows should be open to allow as much sunlight and fgresh air to stream in as possible.

Then at night when we retire we will have a pure, wind-swept chamber to seek slumber in, and the "great restorer" will come to us all the more quickly and refreshingly because of the purified atmosphere.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

"You don't trust me," Lesley reproached him. "Just wait before deciding to give me up until we've thoroughly thrashed things out, beginning at the beginning and going right on to the end."

"I shan't decide to give you up. Nothing can make me do that now," Loveland said. "It's Cremer who'll have to go to the wall."

Lesley laughed. "Like his motor. Poor, poor car! I'm sorry for it, but it hasn't sacrificed itself in vain. I was beginning to wonder how on earth to bring all this about. That was what kept me awake last night, if I'm to tell the whole truth. It had to come some way, and it had to come soon. Well, Sidney's motorcar has solved the difficulty, and Sidney will be glad, for my happiness is the same to him as his own. And now I've gone so far I may as well confess that from the very minute I saw you play Lord Bob in that dingy little hall at Ashville I hoped—oh, but hoped more than anything that you would ask me to marry you! Please, please, don't be shocked, but I invited you to come here just for that."

"Yet you were engaged to Sidney Cremer," he said, half to himself.

"I was bound to Sidney just as I am now and just as I have been for the last three years. And I wasn't tired of him then, not a bit, and I'm not even at this minute. But I love you—the real you."

"Darling!" exclaimed Loveland. Yet he marveled at her. This was a phase of the girl's character—her true and noble character—which he was at a loss to understand.

"You were very cold to me that night at Ashville," he ventured to say.

"I was trying you. I wasn't quite sure, you see, which side of the moon I was looking at, and if, after all, it was only the same old side I didn't want to let myself be dazzled by it, as I couldn't help being at first. I was in love with you on the boat, even when I laughed at your talk of love. I felt more like crying than laughing, though, because the sort of love you gave me in return for mine wasn't worth my having."

"Heaven knows it," Val admitted humbly.

"But I'm delighted that Sidney's motor jumped over conventionalities instead of my having to take the leap myself. Instead I just leaped with the car, and you leaped, too, and everything is going to be heavenly for all the rest of our lives."

"I don't quite see how if you're not tired of Cremer," said Loveland.

"Don't be jealous of Sidney any more. I liked making you a little jealous of him at first—after I saw how you felt. It was fun for me, and I thought it was good for you. But now it's different. I'm sure—sure—about the other side of the moon, and I want you to be as happy as I am. Oh, don't speak yet! I must go on a little further. You know, I told you I had a telegram this morning?"

"Yes, yes."

"Well, you thought it was from Sidney Cremer, and I didn't contradict. Lots of things you've thought lately I let you go on thinking without contradicting. The telegram was from little Fanny Milton—about you."

"About me?"

"She knew from a journalist who is a friend of hers that you'd come to this part of the country with a theatrical troupe, and they'd found out that the actors were playing pieces of Sidney Cremer's at Ashville. They talked it over together—Fanny and this Mr. Kidd. He wanted to know for his paper's sake where you'd disappeared to when the company broke up. Last evening he suggested that she should telegraph to me. They both thought I might have heard about you. So that's why I felt that you wouldn't be stopping on as my chauffeur very long."

"Did Miss Milton say in the telegram that New York had discovered its mistake about me?"

"No; she didn't say that, though it was a long telegram. I expect she thought I would have seen the newspapers. Well, I haven't. But I can put two and two together quite nicely, and I was sure that you'd come into your own again with the great American public, perhaps partly through Fanny Milton's Mr. Kidd. I'd be willing to wager all the profits of Sidney Cremer's next play or novel, if I had them, that you can now go back, if you like, and get without any difficulty the heiress you came across the water for."

"I'm sick of the very word heiress," protested Loveland with considerable asperity.

"That's the new you. And what a very new you it is when one comes to think of it—ugly a few weeks old! But it's the only real one. The other was a shell which has broken."

"You broke it," said Val.

"I cracked it a little maybe on the boat, but it took a big hammer to smash it, and now I've swept all the fragments away. There's just the real you and the real me in the world, with the wonderful light from the other side of the moon shining on us two—and Sidney Cremer."

"Oh, Sidney Cremer!" cried Loveland. "He still stands between us."

"No, he doesn't. If you love me you'll have to love Sidney, too, because Sidney Cremer and I are one, and his money is mine, because I earn it. And don't I enjoy it too! Have I not enjoyed it for three whole years, since all of a sudden from being a poor girl, dependent on Aunt Barbara, I waked up to find myself a rich one—oh, not rich in your meaning of the word, not rich enough to line castle walls with gold and diamonds, but rich enough to do nice little things for an old Kentucky farmhouse and perhaps even to help restore ancient British strongholds if the lord of them and of my heart will give me so much happiness."

"YOU—YOU ARE SIDNEY CREMER?"

"You—you are Sidney Cremer?" Loveland could only stammer the words stupidly.

"Yes. Are you so surprised that I'm clever enough to make a success with my brain and my pen? I often wondered when you'd begin to suspect, but you never did. And I was wondering, too, whether Sidney Cremer would have to propose to you in the end. It's been great fun keeping my secret from the world, never letting any one know the real truth except auntie and the Ashville cousins, though Fanny Milton and lots of other acquaintances thought I was a friend of Sidney Cremer—perhaps even a poor relation of his. But the most fun of all has been keeping the secret from you till the time was ripe to tell. Do you remember saying the other day, 'Sidney Cremer is everything?' I told you I'd remind you of that some time and ask if you could say it again. Can you now?"

"Sidney Cremer is everything," repeated Loveland, whereupon Lesley gave one of her little soft, cooing sighs and let him take her into his arms.

Quite possibly a boggy field with no shelter save a motorcar lying rakishly on one side was a queer place for an engagement between a young English marquis and a celebrated American novelist-playwright. But for Lesley and Loveland it was perfect. Sidney Cremer's vivid fancy had never created a more enchanting scene for the lovemaking of hero and heroine. And, though, if there had been an audience, it would have seen the stage lit up only with pale rays of wintry sunshine, for the girl and the man it was illumined with ineffable light from the other side of the moon.

THREE CARLOADS MORE OF "ARTS AND CRAFTS" PIECES READY TODAY

Fully 500 Pieces in This Latest Shipment---All to Go at Half Price

There were more than ten carloads—some 3,000 pieces—of the Stickley Bros. Co. Arts and Crafts Furniture shipped to us for last week's sale—and almost every stick of it was sold to people eagor to take such splendidly constructed, artistically designed furniture at half its usual cost.

Shipments have been made daily from the factory and three more carloads have been dumped into our showrooms and were ready for inspection and sale this morning, about 500 pieces.

The beautiful Tudor style is one of the most recent and most notable developments in the furniture art. It is based upon the English Arts and Crafts, the variation having been secured through the adaptation of certain excellent and characteristic details from the best furniture made during the reigns of the English Tudor sovereigns (1485-1603).

In quality this furniture is not equaled, in our judgment, by any competing make. We submit the following points of excellence:

The furniture involved is the famed "Arts and Crafts" products of the Stickley Bros. Co. Grand Rapids Factories.

This is the largest purchase of furniture of one class that any house that we know of has ever made.

It is well known that the "Arts and Crafts" furniture produced by the Stickley Bros. Co. is the most artistically designed, most perfectly made and most beautifully finished of any furniture produced in the class popularly known as mission.

The woods are carefully selected, quarter-sawed Indiana White Oak, fumed a rich brown shade—different from almost any mission furniture you know of, a color that will harmonize readily with almost any decorative scheme. Solid woods are used thruout in every piece—there are positively no veneers.

In construction the best methods of cabinet work are employed. All joints are mortised and tenoned. Only the most skilled labor is employed in the Stickley Factories. We have never known a joint to open in any of this furniture.

The finish is with wax, that makes a hard surface that is not easily scratched and improves in looks with age, maintaining the beautiful nut-brown shade which distinguishes the "Arts and Crafts" furniture.

The leather used in the upholstering and cushions in genuine Spanish Morocco, tanned and finished in the Stickley Bros.' Factory; fully guaranteed to be the highest standard of leather it is possible to obtain for upholstering. The color is of a shade that harmonizes perfectly with the warm browns of the wood itself.

You may pick any piece you like from this remarkable collection of the finest mission pieces we will have ready for you today—list of which is here appended—and pay us

Presented Purse of Gold.

After the service in Hope Chapel yesterday evening, as she was leaving for the last time, Mrs. L. R. Howard, wife of the former pastor, was handed a purse of gold which was tendered as a fitting testimonial of the cordial feelings between the pastor and his congregation. The purse was handed to Mrs. Howard by Donald McInnes, unostentatiously and without any formal speech. Mrs. Howard was much affected by the token of love. She left this morning to rejoin her husband at Glencoe Illinois.

Miss Edith Schenck, of Jackson avenue, a student at the Trenton Normal School, has returned to Trenton after a visit at her home.

NOTED TENOR ENGAGED FOR CHAMBER CONCERT.

The assisting artist at the first McIntyre Chamber Music Concert, Thursday evening, November 10, will be Albert Quesnel, tenor, formerly with the Metropolitan Opera Company, and of the Opera Comique in Paris. He expects to return to New York at that time after finishing his tour in Canada with Melba and her company.

The violinist, William Grafin King, will also be heard in solo numbers. David Bispham, who scored such a tremendous success yesterday with his recital at Carnegie Hall, will give the third concert of this series on January 12. Mr. Bispham inaugurated yesterday a fashion of recitals giving what may revolutionize the song recitals in this country. He sang every song in English and from the large audience and enthusiasm displayed, it is evidently a successful innovation. No singer is better known or better liked in the United States than Bispham and his popularity and success seems on the increase notwithstanding his long experience before the public.

Hallowe'en Party.

Among the pleasant Hallowe'en parties held Saturday evening, was the one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Douglas, 135 Grove street, in which her daughters, Mabel and Lucy Douglas, took part. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Robert Stewart, of Grove street. The children, dressed in costume, met at the home of Mrs. Stewart and then visited the home of each girl invited to the party, finally reaching the home of Mr. Douglas, where all sorts of Hallowe'en games were played and dancing enjoyed. Later refreshments were served. Those in the party were the Misses Rose Andrews, Dorothy Neal, Madeline and Marion Blair, Dorothy Martin, Henrietta Stewart, Charlotte Wadhams, Mabel and Lucy Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Harden, of South Branch, have returned home after a visit with their son, Russel Harden, of the borough.

EVANGELIST WILLIAMS IS DOING GOOD WORK

Marked interest was manifested yesterday at the beginning of the second week of revival services among the Methodists, Grace M. E. church being well filled at all the meetings. Rev. M. V. Williams, of Athens, Pa., as the evangelist, obtained lasting results, many young people signifying their intention of leading a Christian life.

Mr. Williams preached in the morning at 10:30 on the "Unrest of God," showing that God has been dissatisfied with man ever since his first sin and has been out on a mission of recovery, always anxious that man might give Him rest by his obedience and trust. A number responded to his pressing invitation to renew their consecration to God.

At the Sunday-school session in the afternoon, at 2:30, more than thirty-five young people decided, after Mr. Williams' earnest appeal, to accept Christ as leader. It was an inspiring scene at the closing of the service when the entire altar was filled and all the front chairs taken by these earnest young people.

The men's meeting at 4 o'clock was largely attended by the men of the three churches and community, and Mr. Williams' address was directed to the strengthening of Christian lives.

The three local Epworth Leagues met in the church at 7 o'clock. Miss Nettie Beeching was leader. Many responded with encouraging words of Christian helpfulness. But the climax came in the evening service, when every seat in the church, including the gallery and camp stools that were brought in, were filled. The large concourse was encouraged in the singing by Charles L. Lewis and a chorus choir.

Mr. Williams was at his best and preached on "I Thought on My Ways." After the sermon five or six young men and one young woman came down to the front of the church at the invitation of Mr. Williams, thus signifying their intention of taking up the Chrstan life. To encourage them a large number of the Christian young men came down and stood with them.

Mr. Williams will continue the meetings every evening this week in the Grace church.

Will Give Famous Lecture.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton has returned from Atlantic City, where he made an address at a banquet given in connection with the Baptist anniversary meetings held at that place, and his address attracted widespread attention. On Thursday night, at the First Baptist church, Dr. Eaton will deliver his famous lecture, "Widening Horizons in American Life," for the building fund of the Temple Baptist church. This will be the first of a series of four entertainments at popular prices, and there is a large sale of tickets for the series.

PLAINFIELD'S SOCCERS WALLOPED BY EUREKA

The Plainfield Association Football Club met defeat on Saturday at Kearney, the invincible Eureka A. A. winning the game by a score of 3 to 2. The game was played before a large and enthusiastic crowd at Riverside Oval. During the first half the Eurekas played with the wind, and succeeded in getting a lead of three goals.

During the second half the Plainfielders settled down and played great ball, only letting their opponents get over mid-field about three times. However, they were very unlucky in their shooting, missing several good trys. They managed to get two goals through, however, and time was called with a score of three goals to two. The Eurekas have won five straight games in the league series, giving them ten points.

CALDWELL DEFEATS DUNELLEN IN A HARD FOUGHT GAME

In a hard fought game played at Caldwell Saturday the Caldwell Field Club defeated the fast Dunellen Athletic Club by a score of 6-0. The game was featured by the playing of Babcock, who repeatedly circiled Dunellen's right end for long gains.

Norris made Caldwell's lone tally in the third quarter by breaking through Dunellen's line for twelve yards on the third down. Caldwell has not been scored on this season. The lineup:

Caldwell	F. C.	Dunellen
Olds, Smith,	left end	Monahan
Palmer	left tackle	Logan
Hopwood, Schwartz	left guard	Hurti
Mathews	center	Kratzel
Van Orden	right guard	Reinhart
Graham	right tackle	Benson
Hernig, Miller	right end	Nonamaker
Fairchild	quarterback	Lake
Babcock	right halfback	Bawlby
R. Mathews	left halfback	Margin
Norris	fullback	Smith

BOWLING.

Competition in the fraternal bowling tourney will get under way tomorrow night at Campbell's alleys with teams representing Plainfield and Somerville lodges of Elks rolling the opening series.

The Somerville Elks will be represented by a strong five and will extend the local quintette to the limit for the odd game.

On Thursday night the Red Men and Westfield Casino will come together and on Friday night the Knights of Columbus and Loyal Order of Moose are carded to meet.

FOOTBALL.

Wilson Academy football team came to Plainfield on Saturday and won a hair raising game from the local High School eleven. The Wilson boys outweighed the locals and were victors by sheer force of averdupois, but only scored one goal during the game.

After the first period P. H. S. took a brace and the young fellows from Finderne could not cross Plainfield's line. VanZandt, Hanrahan, Nash and Karr again starred for the home team, while most of Wilson's energy seemed all boiled down and held by their captain. The score was 6 to 0.

Final Show by Stock Co.

The final performance by the members of the stock company at The Plainfield theatre, Saturday night, was witnessed by a large audience which frequently applauded the fine work of the company. There were not a few regrets that it was the last performance and many expressions of regret were heard throughout the evening. The members of the company also regretted leaving here, where many pleasant acquaintances were made. It is reported that the company will go to Troy, N. Y., where a stock organization is to be used in one of the theatres in that city.

Dinner for Bride-to-be.

A dinner was given by Miss Dolly Bolsterle at her home in the borough last week in honor of Miss Nora Schenck, whose marriage to Charles Windham takes place November 10. Covers were laid for eight and the favors were unique.

TWO SPILLS IN HUNT CLUB'S WEEKLY CHASE

The weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club after the hounds, on Saturday, proved to be one of the best of the season. There was a large field out and the weather was ideal for the exciting sport. There were only two spills Harry L. Finch and C. Wesley Holland going off. They were not seriously injured and were able to remount and finish among the leaders.

The hounds were thrown in at Dog Tavern and they then circles around a distance of about seven miles back of Westfield. The check was taken on the Nelson farm, where the scent was again picked up and the run continued on to Fanwood over very stiff country. The finish was on the Coriell farm at Fanwood. There were several riders who finished well in the lead. Among those who followed the hounds were the following:

Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H.; Lewis E. Waring, Harry A. Bourne, Paul Dietrich, Fred Hollis, George Ross, James Sweiger, Ruppert Anderson, Harry L. Finch, Miss Gertrude Noe, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Holland Miss Holland, Charles F. Wildey Jr., C. E. S. Bellows and Huntsman Henry Watkins.

PERSONAL.

Miss Edith Demarest, of Craig place, has recovered from an attack of pleurisy.

Miss Agnes DeCamp, of Franklin avenue, the borough, has returned from a visit in Brooklyn.

Mrs. C. A. Eaton, of Watchung, is visiting her parents, Captain and Mrs. William D. Parlin, of Cleveland.

Mrs. Frederick W. Hose, of Newark, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Samuel J. Kutz, of Watchung.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stewart, of Hackettstown, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Wheeler, of Watchung.

John Morton, of this city, who is now in Scotland, writes to a friend here that he is in good health in bonnie Scotland.

John W. Adams, of Yonkers, has returned home after a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Pryor, of West Third street.

Master Reynold Adams, of West Third street, has returned home after spending three weeks with relatives in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clauson, of Ringoes, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Higgins, of West Fourth street. They are now on their honeymoon, having been married a week ago.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Martin A. Korff will be the leader of the regular prayer meeting on Thursday evening. Mr. Korff will also play several violin solos.

The regular meeting of the choir will be held as usual on Friday evening under the leadership of Miss Bertha Jones, the new organist. A full attendance is desired.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will make pastoral calls during the week as follows: Tuesday, Lincoln place and Manning avenue; Thursday, Park place and Jackson avenue; Friday, Fairview avenue, Verdon street and Almont place.

The following classes at Trinity Reformed church have contributed to the building fund during the past week: Home department, $65; class No. 12, George L. VanEmburgh teacher, $11; class No. 23, Mrs. Frank F Woodruff teacher, $7; class No. 7, Mrs. Virginia Chickering teacher $6.

The monthly meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church will be held in the church parlor, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The subjects for several meetings will be, "The Aliens," or "The Stranger within our Gates." Anyone interested in this great home mission problem is cordially welcome.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church is preparing a box of clothing for the Rev. Mr. Messler's mission school at McKee, Ky. This work is among the mountain whites who are very poor. A barrel of second-hand clothing will be sent at the same time to a colored school at Aitken, S. C. Anyone wishing to contribute to either box or barrel will kindly send all articles to the lecture room on Thursday, November 10.

Proctor's New Show.

DeHaven & Whitney will present a comedy sketch, "Last Room, Third Floor," at Proctor's theatre, today. The famous Black Prince organization, the "Alabama Comedy Four," is one great laugh. The Standish Sisters, a duo of classy singers and dancers, are clever, while Ronell and DeReno, refined musicians, complete the program.

J. C. Heath Buried Here.

John C. Heath, aged 52 years, who died at his home in Newark, last week, was buried this morning in the North Plainfield cemetery. Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, was in charge of the commital service.
